Budget Act may ax UIHC funds

Teaching hospitals, including the UIHC, could face cuts under the Balanced Budget Act.

> By Chad Graham The Daily Iowan

The money UI Hospitals and Clinics receive under Medicare to train doctors is set to be cut by Congress — potentially costing the hospital millions of dollars.

Senate and House committees will start hammering out their differences over the Balanced Budget Act of 1997 this week. The 800-page document includes a provision reducing the amount of money teaching hospitals receive to help pay for residents and interns. The UIHC won't speculate on how the decrease in funds will affect the teaching hospital until Congress votes on the final measure.

"We're following it carefully," hospital information director Dean Borg said. "It has the potential for the effect of (costing UIHC) several million dollars."

Currently, hospitals are reimbursed by Medicare for training future doctors using a ratio of interns to beds. On average, hospitals get a reimbursement of 7.7 percent of their base payments. The more residents and interns there are, the more Medicare pays hospitals.

However, both bills change the formula that decides how teaching hospitals are reimbursed for the costs of training those residents. The new plan would cut reimbursement to 5.5 percent.

This leaves hospitals with less money to train doctors and provide care, said Jeff Sanders, a legislative analyst > for the Washington D.C.-based Association of American Medical Colleges, whose clients include the UIHC.

> "There's going to be less money going to Iowa," he said. "It could be as much as a 28 percent reduction in the program."

> The difference between the Senate and House plans lies in the provision's timing. The House version calls for the cuts to be phased in by 1999, while the Senate will make the cuts two years later.

> A greater number of teaching hospitals support the Senate's version, Sanders said.

> There is more support for the Senate's plan because they won't achieve the level of cuts until 2001," he said.

"Hospitals can reduce residents, reduce costs or you can cut services or staff."

The office of Rep. Jim Leach, R-Iowa, released a statement Monday saying Leach is attentive to education at the UIHC, but he is also concerned about reforming Medicare.

"While not all provisions of the budget reconciliation bill are attractive, the potential insolvency facing an unreformed Medicare system is even ss so," the statement said.

Jennifer Frost, the deputy press secretary for Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, said the White House is supporting the Senate's version of the bill, but said it is hard to speculate which plan will come out of the conference committees.

The committee is expected to reach a compromise on the balanced budget deal before the August congressional Hawkeye Court parents plan to be active in the upcoming election.

After more than a year of struggles over the redistricting of elementary schools, several Hawkeye Court parents say they plan to use the Sept. 6 school board election to gain better representation.

Several parents from the neighbor-hood, which is largely made up of UI students and their families, don't believe their low-income section is being adequately represented on the board.

"In general, I would want a fairminded person that would believe in treating all parts of the community fairly and equally," said Agnes Houck, feline at the West Branch library, is dead after 18 years of warming up to visitors.

WEST BRANCH (AP) - Herbie, the cat who greeted visitors to the Herbert Hoover Presidential Library for more than 18 years, has died. The likable tabby was weak and ill when he was put to sleep last week, according to library director Tim Walch. Walch said Herbie's remains will be cremated, but no other decisions have been made. "He was a prairie cat and perhaps returning him to the prairie is the best thing we could do," Walch told the West Branch Times newspaper. Herbie first came to the presidential library in November 1978 as a stray in need of food. Museum guard Floyd Christensen found the kitten and warmed a bowl of milk for him.

Museum staff adopted him and he has been a popular fixture ever since.

Never bashful, Herbie for many years sought attention from people entering the museum. He would meow at them as he

The replica, built by Christensen with handmade shingles and an extended front porch, sits at the library's entrance to provide Herbie with all the comforts a cat could crave. In the winter, a heating pad even kept it toasty.

He developed a following among regular visitors, and was the subject of several newspaper and television stories.

"You'd be surprised," Christensen said in an interview earlier this year. "One of the first questions people ask is, 'Is the cat here? Is he still alive?"

But Herbie didn't much care for children who came to visit, especially after a carload of children tried to take him with them several years ago. Herbie escaped by jumping out of a car window.

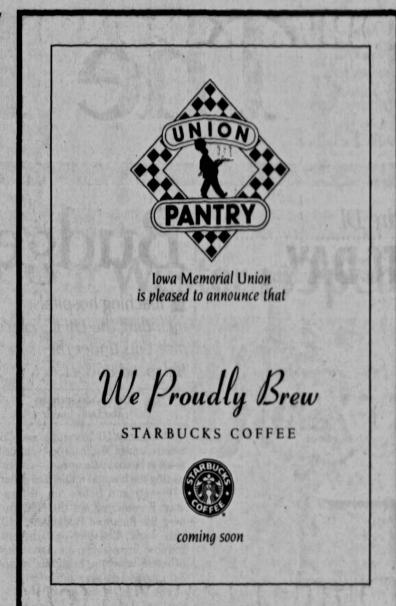

"He was deaf and he couldn't get around, but when the yellow school buses came in - he sure as heck wasn't colorblind. He took off," Christensen said.

will always remember 1997 as the year that science fiction came alive. Every time I turn around it's 'space aliens this' or 'Mars that.' And this isn't something brought by Hale-Bopp or even Will Smith. Hollywood is only a small contributor in this grand conspiracy. Space, spaceships, aliens, crashes, planets, little rocks named Yogi - all these things are in the newspaper, for crying out loud. This isn't normal, is it?

Don't get me wrong, I'm a huge SF fan (so huge, in fact, that I know not to call it Sci-Fi). I've got a page from The New York Times detailing the "Roswell Incident" hanging next to my desk. If I miss The "X-Files," there's hell to pay; I've just got to know what hap-pened to Fox and Scully each week. And I've got to find a 12-step program to kick that annoying addiction to SF books. My bank account can't afford another book, nor can my book-

So my next thought is this: Why is this Roswell stuff news? I recently watched the press question an air force officer about the Roswell report. I was amused and horrified at the same time. Many health, education, and government reporters laughed aloud after questions of gray alien in the state of Iowa. extraterrestrial. The real news in this story was elsewhere. The whole situation is interesting, for one. Who wouldn't want to check this out? But beyond that, it's newsworthy that people believe in alien visits to Roswell and elsewhere. It's also newsworthy that the U.S. military finds it important enough to devote time and money examining this non-event.

ot long after the "Roswell Incident" revisited. we were confronted with another science fiction event in the news. This time, it was July 4, and humans were invading. NASA successfully placed an unmanned spacecraft on the surface of Mars for the first time in 20 years, and inside that craft was Sojourner, the Martian rover Again, I watched the press interrogate officials. In this case it was a panel of NASA scientists that were even more thrilled than I was they had reached Mars. One scientist was so tired from lack of sleep that he had difficulty answering every question.

Now this is a news story with substance. There is plenty of evidence to support humanity's presence on Mars. This event marks the first in a series of explorations that could ultimately lead to men and women on Mars. More importantly, it could lead to the discovery of life beyond the earth, the implications of which are overwhelming. They certainly will affect how we think about our role in

Of course, I'm talking about aliens, but chances are good that if life is discovered on Mars, it will be a microbe - an evolutionary toddler. There certainly won't be any gray humanoids with big black eyes who communicate telepathically. But if it happens, it will be scientifically proven that this alien life existed. That's truth, not a myth, that I could and would believe, and one that would keep me awake at night.

The truth is out there, and it's certainly stranger than science fiction.

To the Editor:

I read with interest in today's DI the sad story that Central States Theaters lost money on its recent showing of the Academy Award winning Czech film, "Koyla." #### Marijuana is medicine, not a toy

To the Editor:

In a ruthless attempt to subvert the will of the voters in California and Arizona, Drug Czar Barry McCaffrey has issued a plan detailing the federal government's efforts to deny patients access to medicinal marijuana.

For example, the Drug Enforcement Administration plans to take actions to revoke the registration of physicians who recommend marijuana. McCaffrey claims that such recommendations are not consistent with the "public interest." This is preposterous. The "public interest" has been established by 56 percent of the voters in California and 65 percent in Arizona.

Harassing doctors for voicing their medical opinions is a violation of First Amendment-protected free speech. The courts will likely stop this federal meddling into the doctor-patient rela-

McCaffrey's plan also purports to "protect children from increased marijuana availability and use" by telling the public that "there is no medical use for smoked marijuana."

This blatant lie is certain to reduce the credibility of all drug education. The American people — including children - already know that marijuana is medically beneficial to some people. McCaffrey's propaganda campaign will contribute to the rising rates of teen drug use, as children subsequently reject anti-drug information.

During the Reagan and Bush administrations, the federal government ran a program to enable seriously ill people to receive marijuana - and teen marijuana usage rates dropped. After the program was closed to all new applicants in 1992, teen marijuana use began to rise. Kids will not respect or obey a government that lies to them and forces patients to suffer.

The humane, honest alternative to McCaffrey's approach is to stop arresting patients - and to tell kids that marijuana is a medicine, not a plaything for children.

Photographs from the Pathfinder mission have found a huge flood once swept across the Martian landscape.

PASADENA, Calif. - Three days after landing on Mars, the Pathfinder spacecraft has yielded what scientists said Monday is unmistakable photographic evidence that colossal floods scoured the planet's now-barren landscape more than a billion years ago.

"This was huge," Pathfinder scientist Michael Malin said. "The comparable flood on Earth would be the flood that filled the Mediterranean basin.'

Pathfinder's photographs show the rock, Sojourner was to snap the

The evidence that Mars was once inundated is important because liquid water is essential for life.

Geologists have known since the Viking missions, 21 years ago, that giant floods once swept the now-dry planet. But the Pathfinder pictures provide the most powerful evidence The water would have covered a swath of Mars hundreds of miles wide with hundreds or thousands of feet of churning water that reshaped the surface of the planet. Exactly how big the flood was is still being calculated.

summer of I.C. music

By Katharine Horowitz The Daily Iowan

Just because the fireworks of the jazz festival are over doesn't mean the music of Iowa City and Coralville has stopped.

Far from it.

The sounds of the town will still be flowing all around the Iowa City/Coralville area with performances from various groups in the Friday Night Concert Series on the Pedestrian Mall, to national acts in local bars. The following is a sam-pling of shows scheduled to play in the local area.

Matthew Sweet

Headlining these acts is alternapop artist Matthew Sweet, currently on tour to promote his latest album Blue Sky on Mars. Sweet is scheduled to play at the Union Bar, 121 E. College St., on July 17.

After breaking into mainstream airwaves everywhere with Girlfriend (1991), Sweet continued with Altered Beast (1993), Son of Altered Beast (1994) and 100% Fun (1995).

"I've always felt he's had a great Midwestern draw, and he's been a steady player in pop/alternative Actor Rupert Everett, who played Julia Roberts' gay friend in "My Best Friend's Wedding," revealed he "fell into" prositituion as a struggling actor in the August issue of US magazine.

"I didn't go out to hustle," Everett said. "But this guy offered me such a massive amount of money. Well, it was like a year and a half of pocket money."

After this first experience Everett said he had "all sorts of clients." Everett said his job as a prostitute supported him for almost two years.

"Kevin Burt and the Instigators was one of the first bands we booked many years ago, so they have a special place in our hearts,' organizer Gwen Sheeley said. "Now they have a great following and are known outside of the area. Everyone wants to hear them."

Shade of Blue

The gospel/R&B group that describes their sound as "funky soul" will play their final concert with lead singers and UI alumni Joan Ruffin by KRUI and SCOPE (bands to be and Simone Green as a part of KCCK's Jazz Under the Stars.

The concert is scheduled July 19, at 7:30 p.m. in Hubbard Park, and is

Sandy Alomar is at 30 and counting.

"I think it's actually helped me concentrate on every at-bat lately," he said. "Hopefully, going for the streak doesn't hurt the team.'

For at least a day or two, Alomar doesn't need to worry. The Cleveland catcher can focus on having fun, calling pitches for AL starter Randy Johnson and hitting against NL starter Greg Maddux.

The NL has won three straight, and leads the series 40-26-1. Thanks to interleague play,

Maddux has already pitched this season to five players in the AL starting lineup - Cal Ripken, Roberto Alomar and Brady Anderson of Baltimore and Tino Martinez and Paul O'Neill of the New York Yankees "I don't think that takes away from anything," the Atlanta ace said. Johnson, on the other hand, may finally get to face Walker. The Colorado slugger sat out when the Rockies recently played Johnson and the Seattle Mariners.

Johnson provided an All-Star highlight in 1993 when he threw a fastball way over the head of John Kruk, prompting the Philadelphia hitter to pat his heart.

Walker and Johnson were once teammates in Montreal's minor league system. That friendship, though, may not spare Walker, whose 479-foot shot was the longest in Monday's home run derby.

"I don't remember receiving a Christmas card from him," John-

Roger Clemens and Pedro Martinez also are likely to pitch early in the game. When Albert Belle will bat, however, remains to be seen.

In the semifinals, Walker had hit three quick homers to eliminate McGwire, who hit two. The Rockies right fielder could have stopped then but with the crowd urging him on, he decided to complete his second-round swings.

"I kept going there because this is for the fans and not for us," said Walker, who outhomered Martinez 19-16 overall. "Some people wanted some more souvenir balls."

The AL, which had six players in the competition to the NL's four, won the event 30-29.

McGwire hit only two homers in Round 2, but his second shot was nearly worth $1 million. The A's slugger, who holds the record for the longest homer in Jacobs Field history, ripped a shot to deep left field that missed a "Hit It Here" sign by a few feet.

If McGwire had hit the banner which hung from a walkway adjacent to the left-field bleachers, a lucky fan would have won $1 million in a random drawing.

wouldn't it," McGwire said. "Too bad it didn't say 'Hit It Over' the sign." Griffey, the 1994 champion, didn't make it past the first round, hitting just three homers before making 10 "outs." Griffey, the leading vote-getter for this year's All-Star game, was in the competition for the first time since winning it in Pittsburgh three years ago.

With his Seattle Mariners cap on backwards, Griffey went to the plate with the crowd expecting the superstar to put on a show.

But after Griffey managed to hit just three, Walker finally charged up the crowd and his NL teammates by hitting nine homers.

Different methods, same result. Each is among the best at getting them out.

"Even though we're at two different extremes, I can still learn a lot from him by how he sets up hitters and his feel for the game," said Johnson, who will make his second start as an American League All-Star. # Woods' fame continues to swell

Tiger Woods has been told to expect a 'Beatles-like' reception when he travels to England next week for the British Open.

> By Mike Nadel Associated Press

LEMONT, Ill. - In terms of riches and acclaim, Tiger Woods already has left Jack Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer and Ben Hogan at the first tee.

The names now being used for comparison: Elvis and the Beatles

That's how big Woods has become. And at 21 years old, his fame can only swell.

"I thought I would achieve this much further down the road," Woods said Sunday after winning the Western Open, his sixth victory in 21 events since turning pro last August. "I thought that would happen after I won a lot of tournaments and got my name up there, but it's been kind of different.

"I guess a lot of it has to do with that the people are interested, therefore the media has to cover it, and then that keeps up the buzz."

The buzz might be deafening next week, when Woods takes his game to Royal Troon for the British Open. He was told to expect it to be reminiscent of the reception the Beatles got when they arrived in the United States in 1964. "I don't know what it's going to be like," Woods said. "And I wasn't around for the Beatles." Woods won the Western Open going away, finishing three strokes ahead of his nearest competitor, Frank Nobilo. In the process, he earned plaudits from fellow pros and fervent support from nearly 50,000 fans. With each hole, his gallery - and legend - grew. Old and young, rich and poor, white and black, men and women. Thousands of them joined him on his victory march up the 18th fairway, happy to bask in Tigermania for a

Woods has made more than $2.5 million on the PGA Tour, to go with endorsement deals approaching $100 million. He is recognized everywhere he goes. But he is determined not to change, even though he has become - as one member of the media put it Sunday -"Elvis reincarnated."

"I'm not going to be what some of the people in my position have become: a prisoner of their fame," he said.

"Occasionally, I want to deflect it. Yeah, it would be nice. But it's awfully flattering that the people think that highly of you. I could be an absolute nobody, and nobody would care what I do out on the golf course. But people come out, support me and root me on, and that means a lot to me.

"I do understand that there are consequences when I go out in public. But I'm going to do the same things. And I'm going to enjoy life."

After failing to break par in 11 of 12 rounds, Woods decided to enjoy the simple life the week before the Western. He eschewed golf to fish, watch TV and "just be a couch potato," and didn't even run himself ragged shooting commercials and playing in bigmoney corporate outings.

Rested and ready, he snapped out of his mini-slump and displayed his many skills at Cog Hill's Dubsdread course: power, touch, creativity, mental toughness.

Bird pushing Hoiberg at Pacers camp

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - Larry Bird's aching back won't allow him to dash up and down the court much anymore. But that won't keep his Indiana Pacers from running hard. Just ask the players working out under coach Bird at the team's rookie and free agent

"It was a great workout, very intense," Fred Hoiberg, a third-year player out of Iowa State, said Monday. He's joining the others for two practices a day this week at Market Square Arena. "(Conditioning) is one thing we lacked a little bit last year.

"We led in way over half of our games, and then lost it down the stretch. So if we can get in shape, I think it's going to help - especially down the stretch.'

His words echoed those of Bird.

"We are going to work hard. We are going to be the best-conditioned team in the league, and we are going to start here," said Bird, who noted his back was sore after the first 2 1/2-hour practice Sunday night.

He isn't the only one hurting. He and his assistants have the group of 18 free agents and rookies running baseline to baseline sprints, timed full-court, fast-break drills, followed by scrimmage games in the evenings.

It's not going to end after this week. "Some of our veterans who are out there are going to get a good indication of what kind of shape they are going to have to stay in for the rest of the summer," Bird said. "I was pleased to see the veterans come in in pretty good shape. But we still have a long ways to go."

Along with Hoiberg, second-year players Erick Dampier and Darvin Ham are practicing this week.

"He wants to see us get up and down the floor a lot and see what kind of condition we're in," said Dampier, who came into camp healthy after working with a trainer during the offseason.

"A lot of the players are probably not in their best shape. Hopefully, they'll come in, give it all they've got and try to get in shape."
Teammates Jalen Rose and Travis Best, who has a sore hip, are expected to join the practices soon.

Bird expected to see Rose on Monday, but he was a no-show.

nhl Cashman hired as Flyers' coach PHILADELPHIA (AP) - Wayne Cashman, whose relationships with his players is expected to be much better than his predecessor, was hired today as coach of the Philadelphia Flyers.

Uneasy player relations probably cost Terry Murray his job. That's not expected to be a problem for Cashman, according to his old linemate.

"He's a special guy because he can handle any kind of situation with a player, whether that player likes him or not," said Phil Esposito, who skated alongside Cashman and Ken Hodge in the 1970s, helping the Boston Bruins to two Stanley Cups.

"It's hard to put a player in his place these days," said Esposito, general manager of the Tampa Bay Lightning. "I think you have to be a special person to do it. I don't have any doubt that Wayne is one of

Kipketer equals 800-meter world record

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) - The oldest record in track and field was equaled Monday when Kenya-born Wilson Kipketer of Denmark ran 800 meters in 1 minute, 41.73 seconds, at the DN Galan Grand Prix meet.

Britain's Sebastian Coe first set the record in Coe described Kipketer's run as "phenomenal" and predicted he would break the record this summer. "I thought he went into the third 200 metres a little sluggish, but he pulled it back dramatically from 600 to 800 metres," Coe said on BBC television.

Bird at the team's rookie and free agent camp. "It was a great workout, very intense," Fred Hoiberg, a third-year player out of Iowa State, said Monday. He's joining the others for two practices a day this week at Market Square Arena. "(Conditioning) is one thing we lacked a little bit last year. "We led in way over half of our games, and then lost it down the stretch. So if we can get in shape, I think it's going to help — especially down the stretch." His words echoed those of Bird. "We are going to work hard. We are going to be the best-conditioned team in the league, and we are going to start here," said Bird, who noted his back was sore after the first 2 1/2-hour practice

He isn't the only one hurting. He and his assistants have the group of 18 free agents and rookies running baseline to baseline sprints, timed full-court, fast-break drills, followed by scrimmage games in the evenings. See complete story, Page 8.
