Those pining for pizza will have to be satisfied with a pizza bagel — a new bagel bakery is set to move into the former downtown Pizza Hut location this fall.

Chesapeake Bagel Bakery & Café is scheduled to move into the former downtown Pizza Hut location at 127 Iowa Avenue in September. The bakery, which will serve breakfast through dinner, will initially seat 85 people with a possible sidewalk cafe in

When it opens, the bakery will be the second bagel franchise in downtown Iowa City, after Bruegger's, 225 Iowa Ave. Franchise owner Lee Staak said the bakery fills its own niche in Iowa City.

We have some of the same products that they have, but a lot of new products as well," Staak said.

The bakery will serve sandwiches, salads, soup, baked goods and bagel breads — all in addition to bagels. Staak said the bakery's specialties are bagel knots and bagel bites with cream cheese icing.

They're just addictive," he said.

The menu also features localized sandwiches, such as "The Iowan" (ham and cheese) and "The Des Moines Club" (ham, turkey and cheese). Coffee drinks are also on the menu, putting the bakery up against Iowa City's numerous downtown coffee shops.

Although the bakery will target breakfast and lunch customers, businesses aren't too worried about the competition. Lora, owner of the Cottage, 14 S. Linn St., said she's Mayflies gather on a store window Sunday. The bugs live only long enough

Multitude of mayflies

Mayflies hit Iowa City this weekend in a mating frenzy that killed almost all of them.

By Jenn Snyder

Mayflies made every minute count in Iowa City this weekend.

The insects, which mature in the water and emerge only to mate, have a six- to eight-month life cycle culminating in a one-day mating frenzy. Iowa City was covered with the insects this weekend during their mass maturation. UI senior Shannon Loftin said she saw the mayflies during their brief visit. "They're all over," Loftin said. "It seems like they hit the streetlights and die, then they're laying all over." With only 24 hours to live out their adulthood and mate, these insects don't even stop to eat.

But that's because they can't, said Suresh Prabhakaran, UI termite control program coordinator. Prabhakaran said adult mayflies have no mouths and are unable to eat, so once the brief mating season begins, it's "Their only purpose is to come out and mate and die," Prabhakaran said. Prabhakaran said barely one percent survive the mating day, but that one percent is enough to sustain the population for the following year.

He said mayflies' life cycle begins when an adult mayfly lays eggs on the surface of an underwater plant. The nymphs feed on algae, and when they are strong enough, emerge from the water to mate.

Because mayflies' wings are so weak,

The cyclic whims of the middle class

hey are doing it again. That tax cut the Republicans say we need so desperately will go almost exclusively to the likes of Bill Gates and Donald Trump, if they get their way. The richest one-percent will get a tax cut sixty times larger than the lower 60 percent of wageearning Americans combined. This statistic is furnished by the Center on Budget and Policy Priorities. If you voted for Republican candidates because you wanted a tax cut, you just got shafted.

Never mind that taxes shouldn't be cut until the budget deficit is in the black, President Clinton is proposing his own tax cut. He wants to give the middle and working classes a tax cut ten times larger than the richest one percent get. Not only would this help a far larger number of people, but those who need a break the most would get it. People like me. And you. Trump and Gates don't need a break from anyone. They can buy their own countries if they want to. But Republicans always do this, so it should come as no surorise. They always have an excuse for it, too. In the early 1980s, they said if they gave a fat tax cut to corporations and those with concentrated wealth, revenues would actually Michael Totten increase and the tax cut would pay for itself. Oops. Say hello to the budget deficit. Although they now claim they never really said that, unfortunately for them, their wild claims are a part of the public record. Then they turned around and tried to sell us on the "trickle down" theory, which states that giving benefits to rich people would help everyone because it would all trickle down in the form of wage increases. Oops again. Since Reagan came into power, wages have plunged, the rich have become richer, the poor have become poorer and according to I.R.S. records, ten percent of the middle class has tumbled into the underclass

Since no one revolted, the Republicans just figure they can get away with it. Now, when they want to give a boost to their wealthy donors at the expense of the rest of us, they just do it. Hardly anyone calls them on it. But, to paraphrase former Democratic president Harry Truman, how many times do you have to get hit on the head before you figure out who is hitting you on the head?

Historian Arthur Schlesinger answered that one Every twenty years or so, the middle class shifts its allegiance from the rich (whom they want to emulate), to the poor (whom they feel generous toward or are afraid of joining). This mood shift is not triggered by economic factors. Generational change spurs it along, as does the public's growing weariness with either liberal reform or conservative retrenchment. Surely the Great Depression helped Franklin Roosevelt and the New Deal, but conservatives had already had the helm for twenty years anyway and it was time for liberalism's turn. In the 1960s, the middle class was richer than it had ever been, but it shifted its allegiance to the working class anyway and turned into the left lane for Lyndon Johnson's Great Society.

The middle and working classes are faring worse on the Reagan, Bush and Gingrich clock than they have since the Depression. But it is conservatism's turn. The middle class hasn't been beaten long enough yet. This should not be surprising, however. The response to President Calvin Coolidge was the same in the 1920s. Coolidge helped the wealthy at everyone else's expense, but hardly a peep of protest was uttered. Liberals just had to sit the 1920s out.

We have been ruled by conservatism for 16 years now, and the next shift is approaching. Not only can the historical clock call that one in advance, but the presentday dynamics show the middle class is already beginning to shift. A CNN poll found 61 percent of Americans believe the Republicans are out of touch, and the very same number gave Clinton a high approval rating. Middle class clout is shrinking anyway (since the middle class is getting smaller) and the new poor are shifting leftward. A study by the Economic Policy Institute shows that in the 1990s more Americans refer to themselves as 'working class" than as "middle class," an abrupt reversal from the "middle class" majority of the 1980s.

When liberalism rules again, it will not return to what is was in the 1960s. Great Society programs were enacted because the middle class was feeling generous. This time around, the left turn will be triggered not only by a weariness with conservatism, but by fear and the need to survive. More and more of us are losing ground and feeling rawly vulnerable to harsh market verdicts atop an unraveling safety net. It is only a matter of time before the sharp dangers of social Darwinism rise to the surface, jagged and exposed.

Bikers need to obey laws too

To the Editor:

After reading Valica Boudry's article about the bicycle signs posted throughout the City, I felt compelled to

First of all it is absurd for signs to suggest sharing the road with bicycles. Only a few bicyclists should be allowed in the roadways. The vast majority should be on the residential sidewalks with training wheels on. About 1 out of 10 obey the laws that have to do with operating in the street. The majority of these bicyclists are arrogant, non-caring, uncooperative human beings that supposedly learned how to read in school prior to coming here, who just plain do not want bicy-

A good example is the numerous overkill of signs in the downtown that tell you to keep bicycling off the sidewalks. When was the last time you saw anyone walk their bike? Oh, there's a few, just as there are a few that stop for stop signs or stop and go lights. Everything that we taught in school in Bicycle Safety and Education is all ancient history.

I spent many of my 23 years in Law Enforcement in Iowa City performing this task of educating, and issuing citations to those that would not conform. I remember one person that refused to obey the laws that was fined $152 all in one event on North Dubuque Street. Since I have been away from the Iowa City Police Department for 7 years now, I have no idea why they are not enforcing the laws, since the same laws and fines are still on the books. All I can say is, the streets and sidewalks, espe cially in the downtown area, are not as safe as they were in years past. And it is nothing for Iowa City to be proud of. It only is an accident waiting to

For one thing, the plane had taken off from an international airport. For another, it was a Boeing 747 with a safe history, exploding without warning in midair after a seemingly flawless takeoff for Paris. Numerous witnesses also reported "streaks of light," suggesting the possibility of a missile. And security in many quarters was already tighter than usual because the Olympics were being held in

By Bob Baum Associated Press

NORTH PLAINS, Ore. - On a day of high drama in the Oregon sun, Alison Nicholas held off the emotion-packed challenge of Nancy Lopez on Sunday for a one-stroke victory in the U.S. Women's Lopez's bid for the only major championship that has eluded her in her Hall of Fame career ended when her 15-foot birdie putt on No. 18 slipped an inch off to the right.

Nicholas, the 5-foot British dynamo who lost most of a fourshot lead over her final six holes, played it safe on 18, leaving a 25foot approach putt from the fringe a foot short, then tapping it in for the victory after Lopez's miss.

Nicholas, 35, shot an even-par 71 Sunday for a 72-hole total of 10under 274, the farthest under par England, throws her arm into the of any competitor in the 52-year air in victory after sinking a par history of the premier event of putt on the par-5 18th hole to win women's golf.

The old record was 9-under by Pat Bradley in the 1981 Open at La Grange, Ill. Nicholas missed the low-scoring record of 272, set last year by Annika Sorenstam, who missed the cut this year in her attempt to become the first woman to win three straight Opens.

Lopez, with a final-round 2under 69, became the first golfer to shoot in the 60s in all four rounds of the U.S. Women's Open, and it still wasn't enough. It was the fourth time in 21 U.S. Opens that she finished second.

"It's a tough thing, because I've always wanted to win the U.S. Open, and this was really, I felt, my time to do it," Lopez said, choking back tears. "But I think this is the beginning of many more good U.S. Opens for me."

Toms gets first tour victory, former Hawkeyes finish in the money at Quad City Classic

COAL VALLEY, III. - David Toms struggled. He lost his PGA Tour card. He got it back. He struggled some more. The few times he contended, he folded down the stretch. Sometimes, he wondered if he was meant to be a pro golfer.

Toms ended nine years of frustration Sunday. riding a hot putter to a 5-under-par 65 and a three-stroke victory in the Quad City Classic. His win-ner's share, $243,000, was more than he had earned in any entire season.

Former Hawkeye Dave Rummells earned $42,075 for his 10-under-par seventh place finish. Sean McCarty, another former Hawkeye, earned $9,912 for coming in at seven-under

Gilbert wins Senior Players Championship

DEARBORN, Mich. - Larry Gilbert, a former club pro from Kentucky, played solid if unspectacular golf Sunday to outdistance crowd-favorite Jack Nicklaus and the rest of a strong field and win the Senior Players Championship.

The cigar-chomping Gilbert shot a 5-under-par 67 over the Tournament Players Championship course for a 14-under 274 and a three-stroke victory over two-time champion Dave Stockton, Japan's Isao Aoki, Jack Kiefer and Bob Dickson.

Aoki and Kiefer shot 68s, while Stockton and Dickson had 70s.

Nicklaus, who started the day one stroke off the lead — thanks to a string of three straight bogeys during the third round - never made a move. He shot a 72 for a 280 total, six strokes off the pace.

baseball

Cordova, Rincon evoke memories of Haddix

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Francisco Cordova and Ricardo Rincon had never heard of Harvey Haddix. They know all about him now.

For the rest of their careers — really, the rest of their lives — the three will be inexorably linked as the authors not only of the best-pitched games in Pittsburgh Pirates' history, but two of the best ever

Cordova and Rincon, who between them have less than two years' experience in the majors, pitched the first combined extra-innings no-hitter in major league history — a 3-0 victory in 10 innings over the Houston Astros on Saturday night.

It was the first extra-inning no-hitter in the majors since Jim Maloney pitched 10 hitless innings at Chicago on Aug. 19, 1965.

The right-handed Cordova, who looked unhit-table nearly from the start and proved to be exactly that, struck out 10 in nine innings but was lifted, and not necessarily with his assent, after throwing 121 pitches.

The left-handed Rincon, Cordova's closest friend on the team and former teammate with the Mexico City Reds, who, like Cordova, arrived in the majors as a non-roster player, came on for a hitless

For Cordova, it was no runs, no hits and nothing even close to one - and, ultimately, no decision. Rincon (3-4) got the victory when reserve outfielder Mark Smith hit a three-run pinch-hit homer in the 10th off John Hudek (0-1).

Rodman loses wrestling debut

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Chicago Bulls bad boy Dennis Rodman, who was suspended by the NBA for head-butting a referee and stomping a courtside photographer, put those moves to use Sunday in his debut as a professional wrestler.

However, Rodman and his tag-team partner, Hulk Hogan, lost to Lex Luger and Giant, who stands 7-foot-4 and 450 pounds, in the World Championship Wrestling match.
The 25-minute bout ended after Luger got

Hogan in a "torture rack" submission hold above his head.

"I feel great," Rodman said after the fight.
Rodman, wearing glitter, rouge and stripes on his face and black nail polish, posed for pictures with Hogan before the match.

"It ain't about being big or strong. It's about hav-ng it in the head," Rodman said. "I'm not one-

By Becky Gruhn The Daily Iowan

With an honor roll of awards longer than even the greediest child's Christmas wish list, Iowa wrestling coach Dan Gable has seemingly achieved everything possible in the sport of

His legendary work ethic and competitive drive has allowed him to gain respect in more than just wrestling arenas but rather in the entire sports

Television analyst Billy Packer once al borders shortly after he ended his collecalled Gable the single most successful giate career. He won a World Championship in Bulgaria in 1971, and months later captured a title in the highly-compet-itive Tbilisi Tournament in the Soviet coach of any sport in history.

That lofty compliment was in response to an unprecedented career that caught the nation's attention nearly 30 years ago.

Dan Gable was born Oct. 25, 1948, in Waterloo. He won three state titles at Waterloo West before competing at Iowa State University. There Gable added two NCAA titles to his championship collec-
