Bombs tear apart Jerusalem

lowa City's Morning Newspaper

Seven people were killed when three bombs went off in a crowded pedestrian mall.

By Hilary Appelman Associated Press

JERUSALEM — Three suicide bombs exploded within a few deadly seconds in the heart of Jerusalem on Thursday, spraying rusty nails into a crowd of shoppers and late-summer tourists on the city's main pedestrian mall. The blasts, claimed by the Islamic mil-itant group Hamas, killed seven people

At least 192 people, including sever- themselves outside three stores, close al American tourists, were wounded in enough to make eye contact, and blew the attack, which turned the bustling Ben Yehuda Street walkway of cafes and shops into a chaotic nightmare of broken glass and blood. The dead included a 12-year-old girl. The bombers apparently positioned ting at a cafe when the attack began.

Hawkeye fans are ready to kick-off a new season of allday tailgating before the Iowa-UNI game this Saturday.

Gary King has been waiting to return to the parking lot at Hancher Auditorium since January.

The 45 year-old Eldridge, Iowa resident who's been coming to Hawkeye football games since 1973, said he's been waiting all year for the new season.

"I've been waiting for this since the Alamo Bowl," King said. "I'll do this until I can't get someone to push my wheelchair.'

UI football fans will make a triumphant return to Kinnick Stadium in two days when the Hawkeyes take on the UNI Panthers. This weekend's beer-crazed barbecue bash kicks off a long-running UI tailgating tradition.

Petty theft is one of the most common crimes in Iowa City, and according to Donald Strand, a member of the police and community service force for 37 years, some burglars are more talented than others.

"Once when I was on patrol, I saw an individual hanging out of the Salvation Army box by one foot," he said. "Apparently he was stealing stuff out of there. We caught him just because he trapped himself and couldn't get out."

Captain Tom Widmer, a member of the ICPD since 1978, recalled another crook who was a little too sloppy with his heist.

"I remember one time," he said, "I did an investigation of a burglary. We found this piece of paper on the floor that was an application for insurance on an automobile. It Widmer described a couple he stumbled upon one weekend night. They were "relieved" when he found them.

"I arrested a couple for public urination," he said. "They were having a contest to see who could squirt the farthest."

Many UI students will be issued tickets this weekend but they won't be the green-colored passes to football games.

Violations, issued to UI students for possession of alcohol under the legal age, are running at a high level during the fall semester with the increased population and number of students downtown.

Lieutenant Matthew Johnson said the beginning of the year is definitely a common time for alcohol-related tickets although he didn't cite a change in enforcement procedures as the cause.

"I can't imagine this is a direct result of targeted enforcement," he said. "There are just more people in town, some are adjusting to being away from home and there are many establishments who aren't as strict on checking IDs."

In August, 146 underage drinkers were ticketed for possession of alcohol, including 40 charged last Friday and Saturday. Johnson said the number of tickets issued is up to the fficers' discretion.

"In terms of policy, there is no written policy," he said. "Officers check as many bars as they can."

UI junior Josh Miller said he has seen this strict enforcement before, especially at the beginning of the fall semester. Staying away from the ars while the arrest rates remain Modems will soon be a thing of the past for UI students living in residence halls.

A new service being installed in Quadrangle Residence Hall this week is the wave of the future for residence hall dwellers. Users may subscribe to receive a high-speed data connection to the Internet that doesn't use telephone lines or modems.

Before now, students could only connect to the University computer systems through dial-up modem access or by using labs on campus.

The service, called ResNet, requires separate wiring of buildings for the data connection that can transmit digital data at almost 350 times as fast as a 28.8 bps modem and plugs right into a special port in a user's PC.

Quadrangle is the first residence hall to be completely wired for the new connectivity. Students there can now sign up for the super-fast unlimited Internet. access for a $25 installation fee and a $20 monthly charge to their U-bills, ITS spokesperson Pete Trotter said.

Trotter said Quadrangle is considered a pilot program for the service, which is scheduled to be available in Burge, Hillcrest, and Mayflower as early as September 1998 when further wiring is complete.

Right now, 24 Quadrangle dwellers subscribe to ResNet, and every room in Quad can be connect-

Dennis Perslicka said. UI junior Jake Morgan said he subscribed to the service for the speed it offers. "It's a lot faster than a modem, for downloads," he said. "It's the main reason I moved back to the residence halls.

Preslicka said once the project is complete, every occupant of every dorm room will be able to access the service

ITS expects to wire three more residence halls each year until they are all complete sometime around the year 2000, Preslicka said.

The UI started the project in response to anticipated growth in demand for reliable, fast Internet access, Trotter said.

'Electronic communications use, including web browsing and e-mail, are rising dramatically on campus." he said.

Trotter said the project is being funded by UI Residence Services, and the new access will not affect room rates.

What will cost users are installaed to the system, ResNet facilitator tion, the monthly access fee, and possible setup costs like additions that may be necessary to PCs to be able to use the digital connection:

Most students using IBM-compatible machines will need to buy and and you don't have to wait as long install an Ethernet port in their computer to handle the service's special stream of digital data, Preslicka said. The cards are available at the Weeg Personal Computing Support Center for under $100.

Installation typically costs about $30, but current subscribers got free installations by ITS employees, Trotter said.

Apple Computer Student Representative Jeremy Johnson said most Macintosh Power PCs come with built-in Ethernet ports, so no further installations would be required to use ResNet.

For PCs he recommends professional installation, he said.

"It's easy if you know what you" are doing, but if you don't, you could fry your computer," Johnson said.

ResNet provides help for users who may be confused by the technical issues involved in driving the Internet fast lane.

Since the grant is intended to run over five years, Miller said she doesn't believe the effects will be felt immediately.

"We might not see, in the time that I'm on this committee, any changes in the social part of the drinking problem here," she said.

But the grant alone won't help, she said, students have to watch each other.

"The grant doesn't look out for you, we have to look out for each other," she said. "$700,000 doesn't sit there and say 'hey, are you OK?

Associated Press WASHINGTON - E. coli, the bacteria family that prompted the nation's largest hamburger recall, has been genetically decoded by researchers, who say the discovery could lead to new drugs or even vaccines against certain food poisonings

A team led by Frederick Blattner, a University of Wisconsin, Madison, geneticist, has sequenced and mapped the 4,288 genes contained in the 4.6 million base pairs of DNA in a common laboratory strain of E.

Experts said the new map is good news for public health and will be of great benefit in the laboratory, where scientists have used E. coli as a workhorse of experimentation and biological discovery The University of Wisconsin group beat a Japanese science team by just a few days in a years-long race to sequence all the E. coli DNA. ## Nuns admit to destruction of fund-raiser records

Gore's attendance at a Buddhist fund-raiser confounded by the destructions of records from the event.

> By James Rowley Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Buddhist nuns acknowledged Thursday that their temple illegally reimbursed donors after a fund-raiser attended by Vice President Al Gore and later destroyed or altered records to avoid embarrassment.

The testimony by a trio of nuns, opening a new round of Senate hearings, intensified the focus on Gore, whose own 2000 presidential ambitions could be hindered by questions over his 1996 role. President Clinton defended Gore anew, saying the vice president had followed the law in raising money last year.

Tyson Foods buys Hudson Foods after E. coli scare

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. - Tyson Foods, the nation's largest poultry producer, is buying Hudson Foods for $642 million just weeks after Hudson recalled a record million lbs. of hamburger in a contamination scare.

The deal, which is subject to regulatory approval, comes a week after Hudson id it expected its quarterly earnings to be down by at least 30 percent because of the E. coli scare, which cost Hudson its biggest customer, Burger King.

USDA officials are still investigating but have said the contamination is believed to have come from slaughterhouses that supplied the plant. Hudson said last week it will sell the plant to IBP Inc. of Dakota City, Neb.

Hudson and Tyson have headquarters about 10 miles apart in Arkansas. Tyson, one of the state's largest employers with 7,500 workers, is in Springdale. Hudson, employing 1,400, is in Rogers.

ettes as a drug, according to a memo read to the jury in a $5 billion smoking case Thursday.

In the memo, first disclosed two years ago, Claude Teague proposed a "futuristic approach" to marketing focusing on cigarettes as "attractive dosage forms of nicotine

"A tobacco product is in essence a vehicle for the delivery of nicotine,' Teague wrote, calling nicotine "a potent drug with a variety of physiological effects.

The industry is now fighting regulation of nicotine as a drug.

The memo was read in a class-action lawsuit against five cigarette makers by 60,000 flight attendants who say smoke in airplane cabins endangered their health

Andrew Schindler, Reynolds' president and chief executive, dismissed the memo as "bizarre" in a sworn statement read to the jury last month.

The jury Thursday also heard excerpts from a host of news releases issued by the industry-funded Council for Tobacco Research from 1954 to 1995, most of them disputing links between smoking and disease.

CANTIL, Calif. (AP) - Severe thunderstorms unleashed 12-foot walls of water that pushed cars off roads in the Southern California desert, stranding dozens of motorists in the heavy downpour.

At least two storms struck Wednesday night in Kern County, about 90 miles north of Los Angeles. The rain filled normally dry stream beds and canyons in the rural area

Dozens of people were rescued from their cars and several minor injuries were reported, Capt. Harvey Merrell of the Kern County Fire Department said today. The Kern County Sheriff's Department activated more than 100 search and res-

The rain tapered off about late Wednesday night, but the National Weather Service said the storms could reform this afternoon from monsoonal moisture pouring into Southern Califor-

Barely an hour and a half to the south, Los Angeles broke a 70-year record today for the longest period with no rain. The National Weather Service said that as of today the city's civic center has not recorded any precipitation in 198 days, topping the record set in 1927.

hen I was 5 years old, I saw my father for the first time. We were visiting my great uncle in Louisiana, where he had a small rabbit farm in the middle of a swamp. It was early morning, and humidity was rising out of the swamp waters the way warm air steams from manholes in the cold Iowa winter. Desolate and tired, reminding us of what we have lost. It was as though the ghosts of confederate soldiers had risen around me to tell their stories of rage and unpeaceful burials. Theirs was an old, stale sorrow covered like cheap perfume by the heavy scent of flowers in the air.

This place was frightening in its beauty. Uncle Dorr was rolling a cigarette with his right hand, holding a rabbit by the ears in the other. A half-empty bottle of gin sat on a chair next to him. With his right foot perched on a tree stump, he looked like one of those soldiers. I pictured him march-ing across a field strewn with bodies, his gray uniform burned and torn. He handed the rabbit to my dad. "It'll be like the old farm," he said, "You were always the real man To the editor: among your broth-shadowed against the sun. He laid the rabbit on the stump, grabbed an axe from the ground nearby and held it frozen mid-swing "Dad!" I screamed. "Don't kill it."

I remembered the deer killed two years before, bleeding in the back of Dad's Chevy. Father pulled into the driveway after a weekend hunting trip, revved his truck engine and screamed for my sister and I to come look in the cab. We didn't know the blood would smell so strong, that the eyes would still be open. My mother made sausages from the meat, but I never ate any.

Uncle Dorr laughed, spilling gin from his glass as he

A broader handgun law is needed

A recent U.S. Supreme Court decision struck down a portion of the socalled Brady law that required local law enforcement to conduct a background check of prospective handgun purchasers but left intact the portion of the law mandating a 5-day waiting period. tall totem

Fortunately, the court's ruling has no effect in Iowa, because state law, not federal law, requires a background check for handgun purchasers in Iowa. But it's bad news for 23 states, which do not have state laws mandating background checks. During the approximately three years of Brady, an estimated 250,000 felons and other prohibited purchasers were stopped from buying a handgun at federally licensed gun stores.

street to persons prohibited by Brady from buying guns legally.

One effective way to reduce illegal gun trafficking would be to pass a federal one-gun-a-month law - a law that would limit handgun sales to one per month per individual. This wouldn't put traffickers out of business, but it would severely limit their operations.

Gun makers can only sell to federally licensed gun dealers. Thus, all guns enter the general population through licensed gun stores. This first public sale is where the first line of defense against illegal gun use must be placed.

UIHC union's action shouldn't be a surprise Local 12 hall involving this "restructuring". On June 30 the executive board and on July 3 the general membership voted and approved a statement to Michele Fairchild stating the union's position on this matter: "AFSCME Local 12 would like to express our opposition to the 'restructuring' taking place within patient services ..." This was signed by the union president and the executive board and presented to Fairchild and Leventry at the next labor/management meeting on July 11. It was also posted on the union bulletin boards. This statement is unambiguous. Opposition was also verbally stated to this "restructuring" at these meetings.

Another point, I was informed by a Press Citizen reporter that Dean Borg, the public relations person for the UIHC, had stated that only two positions in patient services were being reassigned. Initially only two are being moved to retail, but eventually five hame on all of you who are pooh-poohing the recent "Girls of the Big Ten" issue of Playboy. As a female reader of Playboy for the past seven years, I was thrilled by its visit and shocked at the massive outpouring of misguided feminism that greeted the magazine here.

Playboy and other forms of pornography have been unnecessarily criticized and blamed for many of society's ills.

My personal experience with pornography, however, has always been positive. One of the main reasons I enjoy pornography is that looking at it is one of the ways I became more comfortable with my sexuality and my body.

This may seem confusing to some, because one of the most-common complaints filed against Playboy is the often expressed but seldom scientifically backed charge that Playboy's representation of women encourages poor body image, low self-esteem and eating disorders. My personal relationship with Playboy was exactly the opposite. As a late adolescent reader I was captivated by the beautiful women pictured so comfortable and at home in their bodies. This helped me become used to and appreciative of my own newly adult body. It also seems strange to me that this negative body image Jade Robertson complaint is directed at Playboy more often than at other magazines. Playboy has, over the years, represented a very wide range of body sizes and types from the most slender petite women to the very beau to the Editor: tiful queen-sized Anna Nicole Smith, one of my lifound Kriston Beardsley's edito favorite bunnies. slapped his knees. It's as moral said.

And father brought the axe down.

I ran to the trailer, not so much disgusted as shocked. Or maybe amazed. I had seen my father as a farmer for the first time, witnessed the childhood that made him the man he is. He spent his youth bailing hay, feeding pigs and cows and decapitating chickens on tree stumps outside the coop. It was the rough work of his farm which made it possible for him to be on his own at the age of 13. To enlist in the Navy during the Korean War, to wake every morning before dawn to work 12 hours at ADM Corn Sweeteners, where some chemicals will freeze a man's lungs if breathed in only shallowly.

I felt the hugeness of my father at that moment, as if his body had opened and his soul escaped.

Years later, I drew a portrait of my father from memory, charcoaling my newsprint with mad fury. Halfway through, I realized I wasn't drawing him, but the shadows that make his face his. The wrinkles that make his smooth skin smooth. Cheekbones that make his cheeks catch the light.

I thought of Louisiana again, how I hadn't really known my father until I knew the person he no longer was. And it was like this drawing. Exploring the negative spaces of my father revealed to me the person who filled that space. "Maybe this," I thought, "is what it means to know someone." Not who we are, but who we were. Who we aren't and never will be.

When I visited my mother last week, I felt this again. She had been preparing the house for sale, and the basement no longer smelled of mildew, unwanted mattresses and stuffed animals. The poems scribbled on my bedroom walls were painted over, my closet empty.

I knew my house like never before, knew it because I was longing for it. Longing for things I had never before noticed. Vinyl tablecloths and shelves filled with my mother's ceramic cats. The terror of the basement.

And my longing defined what it was I longed for.

Perhaps now I will wander in the negative space of my friends and family, this town. Push beyond the bor-ders of all I know until the streets are no longer streets and faces no longer faces.

I will wander until it doesn't feel like wandering. Until my shadow leads and I follow. Until I know what the Java House is not. What Prairie Lights is not. What the pedestrian mall is not.

And my wandering will lead me home again, to the self I never was and never will be.

The gun lobby argues that background checks are ineffective, because 'smart" criminals don't buy guns at federally licensed gun stores. They buy them on the illegal black market. While I wouldn't call denying handguns to 250,000 convicted felons ineffective, there is some truth to the gun lobby's argument.

The Brady law has spawned a new industry — the illegal gun trafficking industry. Gun traffickers hire people with no previous criminal history to buy guns, hundreds of them, from willing federally licensed gun dealers. They then sell them illegally on the

To the editor:

The action (petition) on July 31 by UIHC food workers was the culmination of months of frustration by these workers. This action came as a breath of fresh air to them and also probably to many of the managers, who also are overworked and caught between the dictates of the department director and the union's fight to defend the rights of the workers.

I am "surprised and puzzled" that the UIHC administration were shocked by this petition. On July 2, a meeting of the workers was held at

One of the other ways that pornography was a positive influence on my life was that it helped me get over the silly notions that nudity is shameful and that sex is somehow dirty and unnatural. Both are undeniable parts of being human that we all must deal with in one way or another.

Seeing positive representations of nudity and sexual behavior was a very important part of my personal growth into a somewhat normal, fully functional adult.

I credit my exposure to pornography with helping me grow sexually and develop healthy attitudes toward sex and relationships. The view that pornography somehow oppresses women certainly does not hold true in my case, and it seems suspect in the world at large. Historically, societies that oppress women the most are also the ones that require women to be fully clothed at all costs and deny women the right to sexual knowledge and expression.

Even in a relatively open America, positive representations of sex and nudity are rare. Playboy often adds the missing elements of beauty and art to mainstream representations of sex. It is a shame that this body of work is so limited and one sided. Perhaps in the future, despite the efforts of many, we will be lucky enough to have access to a greater variety of positive sexual images.

Playboy is a start, though. While looking at the new issue, keep an open mind. Try to see a celebration of the beauty and power of women and a positive force encouraging body acceptance and freedom from sexual shame.

Photographers role in crash questioned

French officials have questioned three more photographers about their involvement in the crash.

By Jeffrey Ulbrich Associated Press

PARIS - Three photographers sought in the investigation of the car crash that killed Princess Diana turned themselves in Thursday. Another photographer who was at the scene insisted the paparazzi did the right thing summoning help for the victims.

But photographer Laszlo Veres acknowledged not all were intent on helping.

"There were one or two who opened the door of the car, quickly took some frames, and disappeared," he said.

The three photographers who surrendered - their identities were not disclosed - had been sought by investigators since Sunday, when Diana, her millionaire boyfriend, Dodi Fayed, and driver Henri Paul died in a high-speed car crash in a tunnel alongside the Seine River in central Paris. A bodyguard was gravely injured.

Witnesses had reported earlier that some photographers took pictures of the wreck and then left the scene before police and rescue personnel arrived.

after the accident and were freed Tuesday after being put under formal investigation for possible charges of manslaughter and failure to come to the aid of a person in danger, a crime in France.

The Fayed family contends the photographers' pursuit caused the accident. But photographer Jacques Langevin, one of those first detained, said colleagues told him the Mercedes sedan "zigzagged dangerously and its driver didn't seem to be in control of it" as it roared through the Place de la Concorde toward the highway along the Seine, the newspaper Liberation reported.

What the investigators want to determine, according to sources close to the investigation, is how closely - and possibly how dangerously - the photographers were pursuing Diana's fleeing Mercedes.

The sources said police are particularly interested in how one photographer's car came to be parked in front of the wrecked Mercedes. From the outset, investigators have asked questions about a car in front of the Mercedes that might have played a role in the accident. A police source, who spoke on condition he not be identified, also reported that the 3-year-old Mercedes was once stolen and dismantled for parts, and was later repaired by a Mercedes mechanic.

He did not say, however, whether PHNOM PENH, Cambodia - Looters may have made away with a crucial flight recorder in the course of pillaging the wreckage of a deadly Vietnam Airlines crash, investigators said Thursday.

At least 65 people died Wednesday when the airliner went down while approaching Phnom Penh's airport in a fierce rainstorm. The jet exploded in flames in a rice paddy about a half-mile south of the run-

Seventeen bodies were recovered from the wreckage Thursday, joining 48 other corpses at Phnom Pehn's main hospital, where relatives gathered to identify the dead.

It was still unclear how many of the dead were people on the plane, most of whom were from Taiwan and South Korea. Authorities said the crash may have killed some people on the ground.

Friday -

Saturday

At least one passenger survived died in the crash. The boy, who suffered a broken leg, was released from the hospital Thursday and returned to Thailand with his father.

Another boy hospitalized with head injuries may also have been a passenger. Believed to be about 4 years old, he was found Wednesday wandering about 100 yards from the crash site. Doctors said he had spoken a few words of Vietnamese and Khmer, but they still didn't know his name

Investigators recovered one of the plane's black boxes but were unable to say whether it was the voice or the data recorder. The other box was still missing Thursday, and authorities feared it had been stolen.

The crash site was sealed off several hours after the crash, but not before hundreds of onlookers went on a looting spree, picking the pockets of the dead and stealing their luggage.

Villagers were also seen carting off baskets of metal from the plane hull

American to finish space stay with a walk

MOSCOW (AP) - An American astronaut who endured the worst crash in the history of space exploration ---and lots of other cosmic headaches — got long-awaited good news Thursday: He gets to cap his thrill-a-minute stay on Mir with a spacewalk.

NASA approved Michael Foale's participation in Saturday's mission barely a day before he is to float out of the Russian space station. Foale will assist Anatoly Solovyov on what the agency described as a sixhour reconnaissance mission.

Making only the second Russian-U.S. spacewalk, the two men are to look for punctures in the damaged Spektr module, pierced by a cargo ship in a une 25 collision with Mir.

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) - Iraq has received about 80 percent of the food and other aid it sought under the first phase of the United Nation's oil-for-food deal, and most of that has been distributed, a U.N. spokesperson said Thursday.

Iraq has contracted for 2.4 million tons of aid under the first of the program's two phases. While some agricultural and educational goods have just started to arrive, nearly 1.9 million tons of food and other items have been received and 75 percent of those have been distributed, U.N. spokesperson Eric Falt said.

This includes about 81 percent of the wheat that has come in and 33 percent of the sugar.

Iowa coach Hayden Fry (above) will kick off his 19th season as head coach at Iowa on Saturday.

The skinny on the 1997 season

By now you've had your fill of the hype. If every optimistic Hawkeye football fan has been speaking the truth in the last month, Iowa is going to win the Rose Bowl, Tim Dwight will win the Heisman trophy and Tavian Banks is on his way to a 2,000-yard sea-

Alas, it won't happen. Not all of it, anyway.

But good things are coming. And I'm here to sort you through all that may have misled you: • Tim Dwight will not win the Heisman trophy Dwight is one of the most exciting players in the nation. Dwight is everyone's favorite Hawkeye. Dwight is the top offensive threat and the top special teams threat. But he doesn't throw five touchdowns a game, his team isn't in the national title hunt and he simply won't put up big enough receiving numbers to warrant serious consideration. He is still the top player to watch on this Hawkeye team, though.

• Tavian Banks will live up to expectations

Banks is deadly. On an average day, Banks is likely to gain about 100 yards on 20-or-so carries. But he's never had an average day. Probably never will.

Banks will bust loose for a 50-yard run 1 out of Triplett every 6 times he gets his hands on the ball. Even if he plows headfirst into the defense the other five times, he'll be in the end zone on that sixth try.

Mike

expectations

On a senior-laden Iowa football team, this junior easily has accomplished the most in his early years. DeVries has 25 sacks in two seasons, and he's only going to get better.

DeVries is, quite frankly, the best player on an extremely talented Iowa football team. And he may well be the best defensive lineman in college football.

• Matt Sherman will not be booed He's 19-7 as a starter. He's thrown 32 touchdown passes in a Hawkeye uniform. He's already proven he can play.

couldn't be more accurate. The Panthers are not even expected to stay close to Iowa, and their only concern is to avoid injuries.

The Hawkeyes have a lot to lose, and not much to gain. Fry

Hawks open season at home

The Iowa volleyball team begins the 1997 season tonight and Saturday when it hosts the Hawkeye Classic.

By Megan Manfull The Daily Iowan

After more than a month of practice, the Iowa volleyball team is ready to take its talent to center court.

Iowa makes its season debut tonight at 7 p.m. against Cal State-Sacramento when it hosts the two-day Hawkeye Classic. Competition will continue Saturday when Iowa faces Tennessee Tech and Kentucky at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m., respectively.

Seeing the depth the Hawkeyes possess at every position, co-head coaches Linda Schoenstedt and Matt Sonnichsen have had trouble choosing six starters because they say Iowa is literally 12-deep.

"I know every single one of our athletes is going to get a lot of playing time this year," Sonnichsen said. "I would be very surprised if every single one of our athletes didn't see the court this weekend and see it for a long time. Our philosophy is pretty straight forward - the best six are going to start and then after that, it's whoever can help the team the most."

During the last month of practice, talent in every player has emerged and the team is anxious to start preseason competition to see if everything will fall into place.

"It'll be interesting to see how we do this weekend, because practice can go great but getting out there and doing it is what really matters," sopho-more Julie Williams said.

While teammates aren't focusing on the outcome of the Hawkeye Classic to set the pace for the rest of the season, they do agree that wins would help get them prepared for regular-season play. "Wins are what we just need the most;" Williams said. "If we can get some wins in during the preseason, that will always help and carry us over to a positive start in the Big Ten where confidence can do a lot.

"But if something does go wrong, I don't think anything's going to hurt us right now because we're young, we have nothing to lose and nobody's really looking for us to finish in the top. So we're just out to do our best and surprise a lot of people, and gain some needed experience this weekend."

Because tonight will mark the Hawkeyes first test on the court, the players said they know there are certain things they'll have to learn to

Howe is at it again. The 69-year-old hockey great wants to play one game with a minor league team, allowing him to have competed professionally in six decades. Howe will skate one shift with the Detroit

Vipers in their Oct. 3 International Hockey League home opener. Howe said the cameo appearance would fulfill a longtime dream of his wife, Colleen, who accompanied him Thursday at a news conference at The Palace.

"This not a comeback," said Howe, wearing a Vipers' sweater - with his familiar No. 9 — over a white shirt and tie. "I want to make it clear this is only for one shift. Colleen wanted this, and I do, too." Howe tried to accomplish the feat last sea-

"When some negative responses from the league came in, we called Syracuse and said, 'This is not a good time, this is not for us," Howe said. "We've found this (Vipers) organization to be a win-win thing. They've done everything we wanted here.

The Vipers, who won the Turner Cup championship last season, will open camp Sept. 12, but Howe won't be there. He said he would train at a rink near his home in Traverse City, Mich., and skate with the Vipers perhaps a time or two, just to meet the players.

"This is not going to be the Gordie Howe of old," Howe said. "I am not going to run the beach or roller blade through downtown. All I want is one shift, to realize a dream."

Jeffrey Hammonds hit a tiebreaking sacrifice fly in the seventh and a solo homer in the ninth as the Orioles, 5-0 against the Yankees, ended a five-game losing streak. New York has lost four in a row and seven of eight, but still leads Anaheim by six games for the wild-card spot. Krivda (3-0), who started the night with a

Rangers 6, Blue Jays 2 TORONTO — Rick Helling struck out a career-high 12 in 81-3 innings as Texas sent Toronto to its seventh straight loss. Helling (2-1) allowed seven hits and walked one in sending Toronto to its longest losing streak since a eight-gamer in 1995. Benito Santiago chased him with a ninth-inning homer, and Scott Bailes finished up. Rusty Greer drove in three runs and Tom Goodwin went 3-for-4 with four runs scored as Texas won its third consecutive game.

Mariners 9, Twins 6 MINNEAPOLIS — Ken Griffey Jr. homered twice to raise his season total to 48 and narrowly missed two more, leading Seattle past Minnesota.

Griffey hit a two-run drive to the right-field upper deck in the fifth inning and a solo shot to center in the seventh. He needs 14 in the final 22 games to eclipse Roger Maris' 36-year-old record of 61 homers.

Paul Sorrento and Brent Gates also hit tworun homers as Seattle opened a three-game lead over Anaheim in the AL West. Ken Cloude (2-2) got the victory, and Heathcliff Slocumb finished for his 22nd save.

Paul Molitor hit a three-run homer for Minnesota and moved past George Brett into 12th place on the career hits list with 3,155.

CINCINNATI --- Joe Oliver hit a two-run homer and Willie Greene and Jon Nunnally added solo shots as Cincinnati sent Pittsburgh to its eighth loss in 10 games.

Shawon Dunston hit a two-run homer, his third since coming to Pittsburgh in a trade with the Chicago Cubs, but the Pirates wasted three other scoring threats in six innings by Mike Morgan (5-12). ## U.S. OPEN Chang moves past marathon match

By Steve Wilstein Associated Press

NEW YORK - Advantage, Chang.

Fifth set. No problem Three hours. No big deal. Never one to finish a match fast,

Michael Chang ran and ran Thursday night, leaving skid marks on the court, until he got into familiar territory, then upstart ran Marcelo Rios out of the U.S. US OPEN Open, 7-5, 6-2, A USTA EVENT 4-6, 4-6, 6-3.

Chang's second straight five-set victory sent him into Saturday's semifinals against Patrick Rafter, a 7-6 (7-4), 6-4, 6-2 winner over Magnus Larsson.

Though not as fatiguing as the 3hour, 41-minute marathon Chang won in the fourth round against Cedric Pioline, the second-seeded American waged a harder-hitting duel against the 10th-seeded Rios.

The end didn't come easily for Chang — he had to fend off two break points of his own - but he prevailed as he usually does in fivesetters, putting it away with a service winner at deuce and a forehand winner at match point.

"Oh man, I was so stressed," Chang said. "Marcelo was such a talented player. I knew it would be a tough match. It was an unbelievable match. It could have gone either way."

Chang, 19-9 in five-setters, had never lost a set against Rios in their four previous meetings.

"Records mean nothing," Chang said. "Everyone out here is fighting as hard as he can. I knew he was not going to give up.' Of the four men left standing, Chang is the only one who has won a Grand Slam title, the only one who has even been to a major final, and the only American.

No. 1 Penn State will meet Pitt for 104th time

Pittsburgh may be the underdog, but players say they will be ready to take on Penn State.

By Michael Raphael Associated Press

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. - Pittsburgh may be rebuilding, but emotions for Saturday's revival of the 104-year-old series against Penn State are still running high.

It doesn't hurt that the Nittany Lions sit atop The Associated Press poll.

"It'll be a game that they'll never forget because we are playing the No. 1-ranked team in the nation," said new coach Walt Harris. "It's our opportunity to play good and get our program rolling. If we can play good against them, then who knows what might happen?"

If the odds-makers are right, whatever happens probably will not be pretty for Pittsburgh.

Penn State has a Heisman Trophycontender at tailback, one of the top receivers in the nation last year at split end and a trio of nominees - all three starting linebackers - for the Butkus Award.

Meanwhile, Pittsburgh, which now prefers the full name to Pitt, the old standby, has a junior-college transfer who caught four passes for 63 yards and two touchdowns last Saturday during a 45-13 victory over Southwestern Louisiana.

Even Harris, who was an assistant coach with Ohio State last year, admitted that just three players could have made the Buckeye's twodeep depth chart last year.

All of which appears lost on Penn State coach Joe Paterno.

"I go into this understanding just how big a game this is," Paterno said, "as opposed to some of the kids on the squad not knowing how big a game it is, Pitt-Penn State. I go into the game not really understanding what we may play against, because of a new coach.

The last time the two teams met in 1992, Penn State ran over the Panthers with 374 rushing yards, led by Richie Anderson's 129 yards.

This time, the ball will be in Curtis Enis' hands. The preseason All-American gained 1,210 yards on 224 carries last season while scoring 13 touchdowns. Paterno said the Ohionative may be even more elusive this year after a productive preseason. Fifth-year senior Mike McQueary finally gets his chance after waiting in the wings behind Wally Richardson and Kerry Collins. He'll have big-time targets in Joe Jurevicius, who averaged 21.2 yards per catch last year, and Joe Nastasi.

"We're tired of the summer thing and we're sick of all this preseason hype and this jazz about being No. 1 and No. 2 and having a good team," McQueary said. "We just want to go out there on the field and play. That's what we're here for.'

The defense will be lead by the three linebackers: Aaron Collins, Jim Collins and Brandon Short, who is making a move from the defensive line to middle linebacker.

Cyclones aim for first win at Wyoming

By Chuck Schoffner Assocaited Press

AMES, Iowa - Ed Williams had a busy night in Iowa State's season opener and hopes to see even more action in Saturday's game at Wyoming.

Dustin Avey, on the other hand, wouldn't mind seeing a little less.

Williams, a senior wide receiver, caught six passes for 116 yards and a touchdown in Iowa State's 21-14 loss to Oklahoma State last week. Always confident, Williams thinks he can have another big game this week.

In a 41-38 overtime loss to Wyoming last year, Williams had seven catches for 82 yards and a touchdown.

"I feel they have good corner-backs," Williams said. "The weakness they probably have is they're small. I remember last year I kind of had a good game against them, but they're kind of small, like 5-8,

"I'm not going to take anything from them. They're pretty good. They're playing Division I football. But I feel I can go out there and perform and hopefully do the same thing.

Avey, a redshirt freshman, had an impressive debut as the Cyclones' free safety against Oklahoma State. He led his team with 17 tackles, including 10 solo stops. The only problem is that ideally, brought down before he gets to the free safety. "It's not really the free safety's job to make all the tackles on defense," Avey said. "But when the defense needs someone to make tackles, like we did Saturday night, someone has to step up and do it.

'We've got to work on being a team defense, everybody contributing and making tackles.

> "Wyoming's known for their pass-ing attack," Avey said. "Of course, their new coach is from Kansas, State, so there's going to be a little more run mixed in with that, I assume "Recalling from last year, there's a lot of formations with four receivers, trying to spread the field on us. Of course, they had Marcus Harris. They lost him, but they've still got a good receiver corps.

That part about Harris being gone has to be a relief for Avey and nis teammates. In last year's game, Harris burned Iowa State with 16 catches for 223 yards and two touchdowns.

Williams said the Cyclones. have to forget about that game. and also about the Oklahoma State loss, which stung deeply, Iowa State blew a 14-7 halftime homa State. The 21 points were lead against a team that was missing 11 players, including five starters.

"I can't predict a victory. But I can tell you we can go out there and play hard," Williams said. "We're going to give it all we've got and try to win. I feel if we do that and we execute what we're coached in practice, execute the game plan, we'll win.'

At Illinois, Turner has said his offensive game plan will do its best to get the ball in the hands of Holcombe as much as possible.

With that kind of an opportunity, it's pretty obvious why No. 35 couldn't be happier that Turner and his offensive-minded philosophies have come to the Fighting Illini, where defense has dominated the game plan over the years. And the pro experience and

SANTA CLARA, Calif. - The San Francisco 49ers will start a rookie quarterback Sunday for the first time since 1979.

Then, it was Joe Montana. On Sunday, it will be Jim Druckenmiller.

"I've always been a little nervous before I start a game but it's always a good feeling," said Druckenmiller, who will start at St. Louis in place of injured Steve Young and his backup Jeff Brohm. "If I'm not nervous, I'd get worried."

Tampa Bay, a game that also saw Rice to a season-ending knee injury. We're all going to miss Steve.

We're all going to miss Jerry, a lot of things," said Druckenmiller, the team's first-round draft pick out of Virginia Tech. "But we've got a game to play and that's the main issue right now. We fill in some shoes and hopefully a lot of other players can pick it up around us.'

Coach Steve Mariucci said Young needs another week to rologist recommended he sit out stunts. San Francisco allowed seven recover from a concussion, his third this week's game, would be inactive sacks to Tampa Bay last week.

The 49ers expect the Rams to try to put as much pressure as possible on Druckenmiller, including coming Thursday that Young, whose neu- at him with an array of blitzes and

The Cincinnati Reds have given Deion Sanders permission to end his season after Friday night.

CINCINNATI - Deion Sanders is going back to the thing he does best - cover receivers - on a fulltime bases this weekend, unsure whether his latest fling with baseball will be his last.

The Cincinnati Reds have given Sanders permission to end his season after Friday night's game against Pittsburgh so he can be with the Dallas Cowboys full-time.

Sanders intended to play baseball during the week and football on weekends through the end of the month, but a bulging disc in his lower back made it impossible to do both effectively. The travel also was taking a toll.

"It gets tough emotionally more than physically, to tell you the truth," Sanders said Thursday.

Sanders, the outfielder, was in the starting lineup Thursday night against Pittsburgh, four days after Sanders, the defensive back, played against the Steelers at Three Rivers Stadium. Sanders returned a punt, got knocked on his head and aggravated his sore back during a 37-7 victory in the Cowboys' opener. Sanders turned 30 on Aug. 9 and has been limited since mid-August by the bulging disc, which required two cortisone injections. He sat out baseball last season but returned to the Reds this spring under an unusual contract once they were eliminated from contention. The club also could give Sanders permission to play football full-time if it was not in the middle of the race.

The Reds permitted him to leave

General manager Jim Bowden spoke to Sanders on Wednesday and gave Sanders the option. He chose football.

"We just let him know from the club's standpoint we would not stand in his way from going to play football full-time, given his situation and given our situation," Bowden said.

Sanders, who has a base salary of $1.2 million, will not be paid for the time he misses. There is a mutual option for next year at $2.5 million, but Sanders is not sure whether he will play baseball again.

Sanders is going through a divorce and is trying to get custody of his children, ages 6 and 3. Playing baseball during the summer 47 works against his chances.

"Right now, that's a factor," Sanders said. "I must be in a stable place. ... That carries a lot of eight."

Bowden is one of Sanders' biggest fans - he named one of his dogs "Prime Time" - and would love to have him back.

"I think he had a great year," Bowden said. "For not playing for a full year, I think he should be comeback player of the year in the National League."

Following a tremendous April, Sanders fell off dramatically and will end his season with numbers typical for his career - and belowaverage for a leadoff hitter. Sanders hit .383 and stole 19

Nov. 9, 1995 file photo. bases in April, when he took the club's advice and became more patient at the plate. He fell back into his free-swinging mode and his numbers plummeted. Since May 1, he has hit .243 and stolen 37 bases. His batting average has fallen to .275 - exactly hisNational League career average and his on-base percentage is a poor .332.

He leads the NL with 56 steals, but Pittsburgh's Tony Womack is likely to pass him now. Womack has Asked how he'd characterize his season, Sanders said, "I just had personal problems this year that prevented me from doing things. This year overall I think has been OK. It could have been better.'

He leaves the Reds with the same reputation he brought back last spring: a talented player with a lot of potential that won't be fully tapped until he plays baseball full-time

"If he would just devote himself entirely to baseball, I think he'd be a better hitter," Reds manager Jack McKeon said. "I think he'd become a better outfielder. We know he's an outstanding base runner. "I think he'd be an All-Star."

Kentucky are the battleground as EPA investigator Jack Taggart (Seagal) moonlights as a goodwill volunteer to find where incopious loads of toxic waste are being dumped. He gets in good with the townfolk - even making time to romance a right purty lady named Sarah (Marg Helgenberger) - but finds trouble with the local corporate

It is not in its tired plot that "Fire Down Below" makes its mark, but in its laid-back attitude and quirky asides, such as hilarious interplay between Seagal and Harry Dean Stanton and singer Marty Stuart (as he does later in the film) is something you can either treat with scorn or with a lighthearted laugh and a roll of the eyes. In empirical terms, "Fire Down Below" is a

What else is refreshing is the surprising lack of violence in "Fire Down Below." Sure, Jack Taggart is an aikido expert, and he breaks many-a-hillbilly's face, but compared to past Seagal bloodbaths, this one is cleaner guy almost makes it through alive. (Gee, I hope I'm not spoiling the suspense for you by saying that. Seagal films are such potboilers.)

Greg Kirschling MOVIE REVIEW

Araki finds his place in 'Now! A. is, like, nowhere, man!" With that keen observation, "Nowhere" opens on a guy named Dark rubbing soap all over himself in the shower, his eyes closed, his lips pursed. No prizes for guessing what he might be doing.

For help, he fantasizes: homosexual come-ons, lesbian kisses. plus a little heterosexual messing around to flesh it out. All in the first few minutes of the movie. Oh, brother.

Then, just as "Nowhere" seems set on launching itself into late night cable land, Dark's screeching, goo-faced, smoke-belching mother (Beverly D'Angelo, in the first of many winking cameos) bangs on the door, well aware of the mischief her kid is up to, again.

Voila! This sudden shift into ridiculousness turns the shower scene into a joke - looking back, a funny one. As a bonus, the goodnatured "Nowhere" is really only a little more explicit than an episode of "NYPD Blue," always making it easier to laugh along.

And, yes, the otherworld pre-sented in "Nowhere" stays funny, or at least daringly inventive, for the rest of its quick 82 minutes. Following Dark and dozens of characters, peripheral writer/director Gregg Araki ("The Doom Generation") gets busy subverting lots of other God-awful TV teen-ager clichés, too many to count.

For starters, look for a female character named Lucifer and "Married With Children"'s Christina Applegate in hideous braces. When kids like these aren't attending classes like History of Lethal Epidemics, they hang out, and they still "meet cute," in Araki's own maniacal

Try this hilarious example. Egg (Sarah Lassez) is introduced to the "Baywatch" hunk of her dreams (actual "Baywatch" star Jaason Simmons) when he walks in on her while she's going to the bathroom. Before he can excuse himself, they share "the look,' while the soundtrack shares with us the sound of someone going to

At least six Big Ten teams have a legitimate shot at winning the conference title. And yes, Hawkeye fans, your eam is one of them. Of course, nobody wants hear that six teams have a shot to win the Big Ten title. They want to hear which one team will do it. And no, Hawkeye fans, it's not yours.

If ever there was a year (at least since Chris Snider 1991, that is) when the Hawkeyes seemed to have all of the pieces to make it, this is the one. Unfortunately for Iowa, a few other schools have bigger pieces. Barring unforeseen injuries, Penn State will go to the Rose Bowl. And Sports Illustrated jinx aside, the Nittany Lions may even challenge for the national title.

Aside from pure talent, the Nittany Lions have one important thing going for them - a favorable schedule.

Ohio State, Northwestern and Michigan all play 11 straight games without a week off this season, but Penn State has two bye-weeks in the middle of its schedule. With the difficulty of playing an eight-game Big Ten schedule, that will make all the diference in the world.

The Hawkeye, on the other BIG TEN hand, must have lost a bet with the schedule Gods. Although Iowa OUTLOOK has the fortunate advantage of not laying Penn State, all of Iowa's 1. Penn State

"big" games are on the road. Iowa goes to Michigan, Ohio 1. Iowa State and Northwestern - all 4. Michigan schools that will challenge for the 5. Nor top spot in the conference. On top of that, the Hawkeyes play at Wisconsin. The Badgers have failed to beat Iowa in 18 straight games, so they're due. The Hawkeyes should be pleased if they win two of those four games. Any more should put them in a New Year's Day bowl game. Any less could mean a return to the Alamo Bowl or Sun Bowl.

On the offensive side of the ball, Iowa is stacked. Matt Sherman. Tavian Banks.

Tim Dwight. Enough said. But if the injury bug bites, the Hawkeyes may struggle. Iowa starters missed a total f five games last season. And the fact that the Hawkeyes didn't exactly blow too many teams out last year means there is not much experience among the second and third string players. Iowa is solid up the middle on defense with Jared DeVries, Aron Klein, Jon LaFleur, Vernon Rollins and Matt Hughes all back, but the secondary welcomes two new starters.

The defensive cornerback position has become of utmost importance in college football in recent years. With more teams running complex defenses dedicated to forcing action instead of reacting to it, cornerbacks need to play solid single coverage Iowa's two starting corners are both under 6-foot and may have

BY CHRIS SNIDER THE DAILY IOWAN

"They had a fourth and the world from the five-yard line and put Tim in the backfield, not to punt but to block. They snapped the ball to Tim and he ran 95 yards on a fake punt."

-Tim Dwight, Sr., father of lowa football player Tim Dwight on his son's first game in seventh grade hen 11- and 12-year-old kids start inflicting wounds on your eight-year-old son, the fatherly thing to do is intervene.

Unless, of course, your son is Tim Dwight, those wounds are coming in a pickup football game, and you know it won't be long before your kid starts giving more injuries than he gets.

"He could run so fast," said Tim Dwight, Sr., father of the Iowa football star of the same name. "They didn't intimidate him. He'd come home bruised and banged-up a little bit, but he enjoyed it."

It was only fitting Dwight started out competing against kids a few years his elder. That's where he would find himself years later, when sand lots were traded for full size fields and pads protected against at least some bruises.

As a freshman in high school, Dwight started for the sophomore team. And when he finally reached the varsity level late in the year, he made an instant impact.

The first time Dwight touched the ball at the varsity level, in a playoff game against Ottumwa his freshman year, he took a sweep 80 yards for a touchdown.

While that play announced Dwight's arrival on the Iowa high school football scene, University of Iowa football coach Hayden Fry actually already knew about the young pho

"When he was in junior high, Larry Brown, the head coach at City High came over to see me and said, 'We've got a kid whose in the ninth grade coming up who is really special,'" Fry said. So Fry and his coaching staff took a rare field trip to City High and saw Dwight play in person. Fry said it is "pretty unusual" for him to go watch a player as young as Dwight was, but that he wasn't disap-

"We saw him play in junior high and all the way through high school," Fry said. "He's a little guy, so he really stood out."

One of the few times Dwight actually got to compete against players his own age was in junior high. The elder Dwight remembers vividly his sons first shining moment in a seventh grade football game.

WILD AND CRAZY KID

The younger Dwight said he was pretty wild as a kid, always on the go and never just sitting around. "Kids nowadays always play Sega or Nintendo and that garbage," he said. "I was always on my bike riding around." around.

more, Dwight remembers one of his sisters and him climbing to the top of a cliff off to the right of the monument - much to the surprise of his mom, Nancy.

nehow we got up on this huge cliff," Dwight said. "My mom looked and goes, Whose crazy parents would let their kids go up on the cliff?" And it was us."

Dwight said he learned early in life the value of hard work from both of his parents. Dwight's dad, now a teacher at Iowa City High School, put himself through college and taught his son the value of doing everything one hundred percent. Dwight said his mom "did a heck of a job" raising four children. "She worked hard at being a mom and she's very proud of that," he said.

"At home, we stress that God gave him gifts and he has to work hard to develop them," Dwight's father said. "The way to be a great player is to take what God gave you and make it better."

On a family vacation to Mount Rush-nore, Dwight remembers one of his sisters player in all his years of coaching with the ne ability to control a game that Dwight has - Jerry Levias, who Fry coached at

"As long as he's in the game, we've always got a chance - regardless of the score," Fry said of Dwight. "He's the guy that gives our team faith and the belief that we can still pull it out."

He rushed the ball 479 times for 4,047 yards and 80 touchdowns in his prep foot-ball career. As a senior, Dwight rushed for 2,113 yards on 196 carries and 43 touchdowns, an Iowa high school record.

Years later, Dwight shows that same ded-ication to hard work both in practice and junior year of high school football, rumors began to circulate throughout the state as to how someone so young could dominate both on the football field and the track.

Dwight's dad said he used to sit in the stands at track meets and listen to athletes and parents talk about

"They would just make ridiculous statements," the elder Dwight said. "They said he was 21 years old when he was a junior, that we held him back, that he flunked classes. It was unbelievable the stuff you heard. Nobody was supposed to be that good that young." The younger Dwight said he heard a rumor that he was 22 years old when he was a freshman in high school. In reality, he ust turned 22 this past summer.

Iowa fullback Mike Burger, a native of Harlan, Iowa, said Dwight rumors reached as far as western Iowa. "I think I remember hearing that he was an old guy," Burger said, "That he was older than everyone else and that's why he was so good."

Jared DeVries, another homegrown Hawkeye, from Aplington lowa, remembers hearing a few rumors about Dwight. "I remem ber when I was getting recruited, people were like, 'How old is he? He's losing his hair already,' " DeVries said.

It wasn't long before the rumors started to circulate that Dwight was using steroids. Some people refused to believe his early hair loss was natural.

"Sports have gotten to a point where if you're successful there's got to be something wrong," Dwight said. "I'll piss in a cup anytime anyone wants me to. I don't care where it is - if it's in the mall, in my house - if that's what it's going to take."

HEISMAN HOPEFUL With all that Dwight, now a senior wide receiver and kick receiver for the Hawkeyes, has accomplished in an Iowa uniform, it seemed only fitting he be promoted for the Heisman tro-

Tennessee's Peyton Manning is the early eader for the Heisman and most people think it is his trophy to lose. Dwight said at the conclusion of last season that the award has pretty much lost its luster because Troy Davis rushed for 2,000 yards two years in a row and didn't win it.

While the promotion has started to take off across the state, Dwight makes light of whether or not it has taken off nationally. "They don't send me flow charts or anything - where it's reached or what cities," he said.

Although the Iowa offense traditionally doesn't feature one player, instead attempting to run 50 percent pass plays and 50 percent run plays, Fry said he feels Dwight deserves a shot at the Heisman and therefore is being promoted

"I wouldn't be able to go to sleep at night thinking that a kid with this much ability didn't get an honest shot at winning the Heisman," Fry said.

But Iowa is not going to sacrifice its team concept just to help Dwight win awards. "If he wins the Heisman or is all-Big Ten, it's going to be in the normal flow of the game," Fry Iowa quarterback Matt Sherman said the top priority for the team is to win games.

"We're going to do everything we can to help Tim win the Heisman, but it's more important to win games," Sherman said. "And if we don't win ball games, he's not going to have a chance

THE HEISMAN DOWNSIDE

Sedrick Shaw graduated last year as the leading rusher in Iowa football history. In fact, he entered his senior year as the leading rusher in Iowa football histor

But Shaw was never promoted for the Heisman trophy. After it was decided that Dwight would be pushed for the award, reports surfaced declaring it was racist to publicize Dwight, a white athlete, and not Shaw, who is black.

"That was kind of surprising," Dwight said after reading one article. "I was like, are you serious? I didn't think I'd ever be in a racial issue like that.'

Dwight said he wasn't sure his teammates even saw the article, but wasn't worried how they would react probably "They thought the same thing I thought, that it's garbage."

THE FUTURE

It won't be long before Dwight's Iowa career comes to an end. For the first time in his life, he'll likely move out of Iowa City, possibly to play for an NFL tea

"I hope he's playing pro football," Dwight's father said. "If he does, I don't know what the ticket policy is in the NFL, but we sure hope wherever he goes, we'll still be able to go watch him play a few times."

For Dwight, it appears to be NFL or bust at the moment. Draft analyst Mel Kiper Jr. ranks Dwight at the 40th best NFL prospect among senior college football players. Making an NFL team would mean that Dwight would be play-ing football outside of the state of Iowa for the first time in his life. "I'll miss the fans," Dwight said. "I love them here."

Dwight's only hope for playing professional football in Iowa would be to play Arena football for the Iowa Barnstormers, but at this point, he's not even considering that.

"If you're going to go out and be the best you can be, play with the best," Dwight said.

ONE FINAL SEASON

As a junior, Dwight was second in the nation in punt returns, averaging 18.3 yards per return. He caught 51 passes for 751 yards and four touchdowns. He also rushed nine times for 68 yards and three touchdowns.

But it wasn't until the final four games of the year that Dwight really took off. In those four games, he caught 29 passes for 508 yards. This season, Dwight will again play wide receiver, running back and return kicks, but he will add defensive duties to that list. Fry is not sure how much Dwight will be used as a defensive back, but has hinted that he will be used as an extra d-back in passing situation

"This is all new to us," Fry said of having an athlete play on both sides of the ball. "I don't know how much he is going to play on offense or defense at this point, but he definitely will play some on both sides of the ball."

Fry called Dwight the "most versatile athlete in college football," saying no matter what offense the Hawkeyes decided to run, Dwight could be a key part of it.

"I can't put into words Tim Dwight," Fry said. "My biggest thing is to keep him healthy. I can't let him do certain things from a physical standpoint because he's going to attack the biggest ugliest guy on the other team. In doing that, he takes a chance of hurting himself because he has no restraints from a physical standpoint.

Dwight said his tendency to take on the biggest guy he can find on the other team comes from playing against older players when he was a kid. "I think that's one of the reasons I go after big people," Dwight said, "Because they beat me when I was young." Don't worry, though. Dwight has paid them back.

With a new coach and an offense ready to throw, this may be Powlus' best shot at the Heisman. It certainly will be his last.

Five More to Watch

Randy Moss, WR, Marshall - Jerry Rice-type receiver moves into prime time now that Thundering Herd moves up to I-A. Caught national-best 28 TD passes as he led 15-0 Herd to I-AA title in '96.

Tim Dwight, WR-PR-DB, Iowa - At 5-9, 185 pounds he's a dynamic all-purpose threat: a fearless receiver, game-breaking punt returner and solid defensive back.

Charles Woodson, CB, Michigan — Perhaps the nation's most talented cornerback, the '96 All-American could also have major impact at wide receiver. Triples as a return man, too.

Dre' Bly, CB, North Carolina - May be the most athletic player in the country. Led nation with 11 interceptions as a freshman in '96 and added two more in Gator Bowl.

Kevin Faulk, RB-KR, LSU — A Heisman hopeful who can turn any run or reception into a big play; among the nation's top punt returners, too.

RULES, RULES, RULES: Time out to discuss several rule changes this season. First, the overtime rule.

Of the 26 overtime games played last season in I-A, five went past a second OT, including California's 56-55, four-overtime win against Arizona. Because of safety concerns, the NCAA nittee approved a change - after the second OT, teams are required to attempt a 2-point conversion if they score a touchdown. This will make coaches take a chance." said

Arizona coach Dick Tomey, who took that chance against Cal and lost. "It was either going to be that or a limit to the number of overtimes. which would result in tie games. Nobody really wanted that Other changes include starting the clock when the ball is kicked off - not when it is received except in the last two minutes of each half; and restarting the clock when the ball is ready for play following a forward fumble out of bounds.

Paterno paused

"I'm a coach - and sometimes not very good," he said. "I'm certainly not a prophet."

This week Paterno could use some psychic abilities. Maybe that way he would have an idea what to expect from Pittsburgh; The Panthers have refused to release game film from Saturday's defeat of Southwestern

"We're preparing for this football game as best as we can," Paterno said Tuesday during his weekly news conference. "You go out there and you put a lot of things together not knowing what you're expect and hoping you have enough flexibility and your game plans are proad eno adapt to what ever comes about."

Pittsburgh also asked Southwestern Louisiana. whom they beat 45-13, not to send their tapes to No. 1 Penn State either.

Paterno clearly didn't want to make too much of the situation. "I don't know what arrangements were made and I'm not about to get into that," he said.

Quarterback Mike McQueary acknowledged that without the film it was tougher to prepare - especially with Pittsburgh's new coach, Walt Harris.

"Usually before you have something to look at because a coach is still there, it's the same staff." said McQueary, who will start his first game Sat-done before at other places in his career and maybe look at some personnel from Pitt last year. But other than that, we don't have much to go on."

to expect from Hoosiers

INDIANAPOLIS - Cam Cameron is going

Born in Chapel Hill, N.C., Cameron makes his debut as Indiana's head coach Saturday when the Hoosiers visit No. 7 North Carolina. "You try to approach every game pretty much the same.

It's about the players more than the coach, but it is kind of ironic my first head coaching job is right where I was born," he said Tuesday. "But I don't think that's going to have anything to do with the outcome of the game.

Picked to finish last in the Big Ten, the Hoosiers going to expect, not sure of anything you can will start players with little experience at many of the skill positions, and Cameron said he's still not sure what to expect.

"In a normal situation, you'd go in really focusing on North Carolina. Not that we aren't, but we had so many things to address before we could even think about North Carolina," he said from Bloomington. "Our concern is what do we do? How hard are we going to play, regardless of what they do."

The Hoosiers were 3-8 last year. But even a victory in the final game against archrival Purdue couldn't save Bill Mallory from being fired. Cameron, a former football and basketball player at Indiana, was hired a week after the season ended after spending the past three years as the Washington Redskins' quarterbacks coach.

KCJJ to broadcast Iowa games from local bar

BY JAMES KRAMER THE DAILY IOWAN

f the radio combination of Gary Dolphin and Ed Podolak doesn't appeal to you, there is an alternative. And this alternative is anything but nainstream.

KCJJ-AM (1560), of Iowa City, will offer University of Iowa football fans broadcasts of Hawkeye games outside of the Learfield plan. The plan started as a protest to the new network's exclusive rights package.

from the action on the bar's big screen TV.

"It'll definitely be a party atmosphere."

KCJJ owner Steve Bridges

Anthony Weller will do play-by-play and Terry Muhlenbruch will supply analysis. Each week, a fan will be chosen for the station's third broadcast spot. Individuals interested can apply for such an opportunity. There have already been over 70 applicants.

"We want to have the 'common man KCJJ will send its broadcast team to Grizzly's Southside Pub to call the games owner of KCJJ. "It'll definitely be a party atmosphere."

Under the Learfield plan, only one station per city is allowed to carry the broadcasts. When KXIC became Iowa City's representative. KCJJ was left out.

"We first talked about it on the air when we got treated like crap from Learfield," said Bridges, adding that - in his eyes -KCJJ did not get a fair chance to vie for the Iowa City bid.

Bridges said his station's broadcasts will be competitive with those Learfield offers for two reasons - solid broadcasting skills and a better view.

Before Learfield came onto the scene, KCJJ was prominently involved in cover-ing Iowa athletics, including women's sports. "I would put Anthony Weller up against Gary Dolphin or anybody else out there," he said. "Learfield will poo-poo (the idea), but I'll say to them, You take your nine-inch monitor and your flask, and I'll take our tenfoot screen and our cold, frosty mug."

Rick Klatt, Iowa's Assistant Athletic Director for External Affairs, said KCJJ's plan does not comprise illegal activity. "We don't think what they plan to do violates the (Learfield) agreement," Klatt said. "It's not a cause to take action."

Klatt said the university is not concerned about the extra competition KCJJ signifies. "I don't see it as a serious threat," he

All the pieces are in place

BY MIKE TRIPLETT

THE DAILY IOWAN T's not what you know, but who you know. It's not how you look, but what's inside that really counts. And it doesn't matter how good your defense is, but you need a great quarterback.

Each is a sound piece of advice, but only the latter was said by Iowa football coach Hayden Fry this fall. And only the latter gets to the heart of the 1997 Iowa depth chart. Any time a team comes into the season with a new quarterback, be answered. Will he step up to the challenge? Can he deal with the pressure? Will he learn the system? But Iowa senior Matt Sherman is anything but a question mark. He's been there. He's done that. And he's ready to do it again.

The Big Ten Conference's top returning quarterback will be mak-ing his 27th start Saturday against Northern Iowa. His first touchdown pass will be the 33rd of his career. And should he throw an interception, it will be his 28th such faux pas.

Again, he's been there. He's done that.

The 6-foot-3, 210-pounder from St. Ansgar, Iowa, also says he's completely healthy for the first time in his career and he has a better grasp for Fry's system than ever before.

Another Haydenism, by the way, is that even if you have a Cadillac, it won't roll without a carburetor. And Matt "the carburetor" Sherman has Iowa sitting prettier than the No. 1 Cadillac in the nation, Penn State, which will be breaking in a new signal caller this week-end against Pittsburgh.

A Cadillac won't roll without wheels either, though, and the Hawkeyes have plenty of wheels in senior running back Tavian Banks senior receiver Tim Dwight.

Banks has only started twice in his career, but he's still shown what he can do. As a backup tailback, he led Iowa in scoring last season with 62 points, thanks in large part to three-touchdown

Running back

against Iowa State and Indiana

He's faster and quicker than Sedrick Shaw, last year's starter who now spends his weekends in the NFL. And Banks can break one loose. His 89-yard touchdown run against the Cyclones still has those Iowa State boys reeling.

But Banks can't outrun Dwight. Dwight likes to break them loose on punt returns - he did it twice last year, against Penn State and Ohio State. He #### also likes to Vide receivers sneak behind defenses. He had nine touchdown catches as a sophomore and four as a junior, including a 65-yarder against Penn

The rest of the Iowa receiving corps is solid: Senior Damon Gibson has breakaway speed, senior Richard Willock has a good pair of hands and senior Ricchard Carter has a knack for catching the sideline pass. And they all have experience.

Sherman also likes to throw to his tight ends, and this year, there are two of them atop the depth chart. Junior Tight end passes and scored three times a year ago. And while Knipper spent the spring playing some left tackle, sophomore Jed Dull got him self acquaint ed with the tight end spot.

Junior fullback Mike Burger is perhaps the most underrated player on the Iowa team. He had 50 carries a year ago and even broke open a 64yard run, but he's also the guy who blasted open holes for Shaw, Iowa's all-time leading rusher.

Also creating those holes was a talented offensive line. Gone is the NFL's Ross Verba, but junior guard Matt Reischl, junior enter Derek Rose, senior guard Mike Goff and Offensive line enior tackle Jeremy McKinney pile on 1,150 pounds of experience.

Rose started all 11 games at guard a year ago, but began his career as a backup center. McKinney and Goff are three-time lettermen. Sophomore Chad Deal will start at left tackle.

Also hoping to put points on the board is place kicker Zach Bromert. The junior has Kickers been nearly perfect on short yardage field goals and extra points, but this year he'll have to show off his leg since distance kicker Brion Hurley is gone Punter Nick Gallery also graduated, leaving a huge hole at that spot. Tight end Austin Wheatley, tailback Doug Miller and true freshman Jason Baker will battle for the job up until kickoff.

The defensive line has no such question marks. Junior tackle Jared DeVries heads a defense stacked with returning starters from last year's 31-0 blanking of Wisconsin and 27-0 stomping of Texas Tech.

DeVries led the Big Ten with 13 sacks and 22 tackles-for-loss as a sophomore. And his 25 career sacks speak for themselves.

The Sporting News dubbed DeVries the nation's best defensive lineman in its preseason preview. Next to DeVries in the 5-2 defense are senior end Jason House, senior tackle Jon LaFleur, junior guard Aron Klein and junior end Jeff Kramer, a transfer from Notre LaFleur, House and Klein have fallen into DeVries' shadow, but any one of them could have a breakthrough season

LaFleur had 61 tackles and five sacks as a unior, and he was selected as a 1997 defensive

Junior linebackers Vernon Rollins and Matt Hughes are a force in the Linebackers Rollins is already 30th on Iowa's all-time tackle list with 226, and Hughes' 136 tackles in '96 are more than any returning player in the Big Ten.

Rollins has started every game in his two sea-sons and has a pair of touchdowns — a fumble ecovery and an interception return.

The biggest breakthrough on defense this season could come from senior defensive back Plez Atkins. As a sophomore, Atkins had six interceptions and two touchdowns. This year he'll have to be that good or better to make up for the loss of first-round NFL draft pick Tom Knight

eensive backs

Knight's replacement, senior Ed Gibson, showed what he can do in his first career start at Iowa State in '95. He had 11 tackles, a pass break-up and returned a fumble 67 yards.

Senior safety Kerry Cooks is another defensive cap-tain who's been out of the headlines. But he started all 12 games last season, tallied 65 tackles and had one pick. Junior Eric Thigpen will fill in the free safety spot vacated by Damien Robinson

And finally there's Iowa's most experienced veteran, Coach Fry. The dean of Big Ten coaches has been a Hawkeye for 18 years, and he's ready to make No. 19 a memorable one.

To borrow from the old coach's logic, Fry is the driver. A Cadillac will certainly roll without a driver. But it won't have any idea where to go.
