today in HISTORY

Today is Monday, Sept. 15, the 258th day of 1997. There are 107 days left in the year.

On this date:
Ten years ago: On the opening day of his confirmation hearing, Supreme Court nominee Robert Bork told the Senate Judiciary Committee his philosophy was "neither liberal nor conservative."
Five years ago: FBI Director William S. Sessions promised a new national campaign to stem a recent wave of carjackings. Washington state Sen. Patty Murray defeated former Congressman Don Bonker to win the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated by Brock Adams.
One year ago: Defense Secretary William Perry was making the rounds among American allies in the Persian Gulf region, seeking additional support for the U.S. stance against Iraq. Bahrain agreed to play host to 26 American F-16 jet fighters.

In 1776, British forces occupied New York City during the American Revolution.
In 1935, the Nuremberg Laws deprived German Jews of their citizenship and made the swastika the official symbol of Nazi Germany.
On Sept. 15, 1963, four children were killed when a bomb went off during Sunday services at a black Baptist church in Birmingham, Alabama.
In 1965, the science-fiction series "Lost in Space" (set in the year 1997) premiered on CBS.

Tales from the dating darkside

Dates can be disastrous and unforgettable, if proper precautions aren't taken.

By Kelley Chorley
 The Daily Iowan

With her foot caught in the steering wheel for 15 minutes, UI freshman Kim O'Dell realized the entanglement was a definite dating disaster.

"I went parking with my boyfriend, and my foot got caught in the steering wheel," she said. "My boyfriend was in the driver's seat and I don't know how it got caught, but it took him 15 minutes to wiggle it out."

From juggling dates to improper positioning, UI students remember some of their worst dating disasters.

Never date or proposition a friend's ex-boyfriend or girlfriend — it leads to dating disasters, said UI seniors Racheal Easley and Michele Papadopoulos.

"I was together with this guy, and his friend was hitting on me. It got so bad I had to leave his apartment in the middle of the night," Easley said. "The next morning the guy I was together with was asking me all of these questions about what happened the night before and wanted me to admit it was my fault. His friend was hitting on me. After we talked he believed me, but we aren't together anymore."

Papadopoulos went home to Chicago, leaving her ex-boyfriend and her best friend in Iowa City during the summer.

Little did she know that her ex-boyfriend was trying to take her best friend home from the bars, she said.

"He knew that she was my best friend even though we broke up last December," Papadopoulos said. "There are boundaries you just don't cross."

Crossing over boundaries was a "huge" disaster for UI senior Bill Stafford.

While at a party, Stafford bragged about the beautiful girl that accompanied him to the party to a muscular Marine.

However, Stafford said he immediately found out the Marine was his date's boyfriend.

"I didn't know the girl who picked me up to go to a party was together with anyone, let alone a pretty good-size guy," Stafford said. "I noticed he changed his attitude, but I didn't think anything of it."

"He must have thought I was pretty cool because he didn't touch me."

Dating two women at one time is asking for a disaster, as UI senior Justin Roney found out after he was caught in the act of cheating.

"I went to a movie with one girl because the other one was staying in," Roney said. "When we were at the movie theater, I was caught single-handedly, because the other girl decided to see a movie instead of staying in. Otherwise, I usually try to play it safe."

He said he thought the relationship was lost, but fortunately for him, one girlfriend thought it was sweet he gave up his evening with the other to spend it with her.

However, Roney said he learned his lesson and has never dated two women at the same time since his last dating disaster.

"I didn't know the girl who picked me up to go to a party was together with anyone, let alone a pretty good-size guy. I noticed he changed his attitude, but I didn't think anything of it. He must have thought I was pretty cool because he didn't touch me."

'There she is' Miss America

Miss Illinois crowned Miss America 1998 as pageant sheds traditions.

By John Curran
 Associated Press

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — Miss Illinois Katherine Shindle, an aspiring actress who works as a janitor at a dance studio in exchange for lessons, was crowned Miss America 1998 in her native state on Saturday night.

The 20-year-old theater and sociology major in her senior year at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., said she would be an advocate for AIDS issues.

Shindle was among three of five finalists who chose to wear two-piece swimsuits, one of several changes intended to lure TV viewers back to the ratings-starved pageant. Two-piece suits had not been allowed in 50 years.

The first runner-up was Miss North Carolina Michelle Warren and the second runner-up was Miss Mississippi Myra Barginear. Miss Arizona Stacey Momeyer and Miss California Rebekah Ann Keller rounded out the top five.

Shindle, a 5-foot-11 brunette, hugged Warren and broke into tears when host John Callahan announced her name at the end of the nationally televised 77th annual pageant.

Miss America 1997 Tara Dawn Holland put the rhinestone crown on her head, and she was off on her walk down the runway as Holland sang "There She Is."

PASADENA, Calif. — Michael Richards, the manic neighbor on NBC's "Seinfeld," was best supporting actor in a comedy series at Sunday's 49th annual Primetime Emmy Awards.

"To Jerry and Julia and Jason what a pleasure to be working with such a sound ensemble," Richards said, complimenting co-stars Jerry Seinfeld, Julia Louis-Dreyfus and Jason Alexander as he claimed the night's first honor.

The night's early awards were spread among networks and shows with no single program dominating.

Kristen Johnston, who plays alien visitor to Earth in NBC's "Rock from the Sun," was honored best supporting actress in a comedy series.

"I knew I should have prepared something," said Johnston, a winner on her first nomination, struggling with an impromptu acceptance speech.

The Daily Iowan

The flag on top of the Old Capitol will be flown at half-staff to honor UI senior Shane M. Weber, 22, who died Sept. 1.

Weber, a Cedar Rapids native, died in his sleep from a massive coronary due to an enlarged heart, said his mother, Marlene Weber.

Her son had shown no previous signs of illness due to his condition,

“He was not a bargoer. He was not socially outgoing but more outgoing in the outdoors. He was rather quiet and shy, but once you got to know him, he would have done anything for you.”

Earl Nelson
Fourth-year UI pharmacy major which no one knew he had, his mother said.

“We didn’t know he had an enlarged heart,” she said. “It was a real shock, but he had no pain.”

Described by his mother and roommate of three years as a quiet and dedicated student, Weber was a history and sociology major at the UI.

Weber planned to attend graduate school at the UI and then work as a history teacher, his mother said.

“He was a very good student,” she said. “He was a member of the Junior Honor Society at his high school. He wasn’t a drinker and didn’t do drugs.”

Earl Nelson, a fourth-year UI pharmacy major, said Weber was a very faithful friend.

“He was not a bargoer,” he said. “He was not socially outgoing but more outgoing in the outdoors. He was rather quiet and shy, but once you got to know him, he would have done anything for you.”

Weber’s mother said her son, an Eagle Scout, had many hobbies. He loved to fish, to find collectors’ items like Star Wars figures and baseball cards and to watch sports.

Fishing, a favorite pastime for Weber, would take up much of his free time, Nelson said.

“He would get up to fish in the early morning and stay all day,” he said.

The Dallas Cowboys, Chicago Bulls and the Chicago Cubs were three of Weber’s favorite teams, which he followed devoutly, Nelson said.

“He was into sports, and he played different sports through school,” his mother said. “But he really loved to watch them on TV.”

Dairy Queen Robbery

The Sycamore Mall Dairy Queen was robbed around 8:55 p.m. Friday by an unidentified man who is still at large.

About $300 was stolen, said Ashley Weuve, a Dairy Queen employee.

Weuve, an 18-year-old student at Kirkwood Community College in Iowa City who was working at the time, said the perpetrator originally entered the store asking for change.

“I was doing my nightly cleaning, and the man asked me for change for a quarter,” Weuve said. “I opened the register, and he asked for the rest of the money — I thought he was joking.”

The man then proceeded behind the counter and told Weuve she wouldn’t get hurt if she “shut up.”

“He was really careful about everything he touched,” she said. “He didn’t take all the money out of the register, but he did take about $300.”

Since the incident, Dairy Queen has hired a security guard to watch the store until closing each night, Weuve said.

The suspect is described as a white, heavy set male, 5 feet 10 inches to 6 feet in height, with black hair and a full mustache. During the robbery he was wearing glasses, a navy-and-white horizontally striped shirt and dark jeans.

He fled the scene in a dark-colored hatchback — possibly a Honda — displaying Iowa license plates.

Anyone with information about the robbery, suspect, or suspect vehicle should contact the Iowa City Police Department at 356-5275.

NBC dominates Emmy’s with 92 nominations

■ NBC holds edge at 49th Annual Primetime Emmy Awards.

By Lynn Elber
Associated Press

PASADENA, Calif. — Michael Richards, the manic neighbor Kramer on NBC’s “Seinfeld,” won best supporting actor in a comedy series at Sunday’s 49th annual Primetime Emmy Awards.

“To Jerry and Julia and Jason, what a pleasure to be working with such a sound ensemble,” Richards said, complimenting co-stars Jerry Seinfeld, Julia Louis-Dreyfus and Jason Alexander as he claimed the night’s first honor.

The night’s early awards were spread among networks and shows, with no single program dominating.

Kristen Johnston, who plays an alien visitor to Earth in NBC’s “3rd Rock from the Sun,” was honored as best supporting actress in a comedy series.

“I knew I should have prepared something,” said Johnston, a winner on her first nomination, struggling with an impromptu acceptance speech.

Awards for supporting actor and actress in a drama series went to Kim Delaney of “NYPD Blue” and Hector Elizondo of “Chicago Hope.”

“As my twisted character might say right now, ‘I’d love a tequila shooter,’” said Delaney, who plays a recovering alcoholic police detective.

Elizondo captured his first Emmy after four nominations.

“Thanks to West 177th Street in New York for raising me right,” said Elizondo, who also thanked his parents for teaching him “that having bad manners is much worse than being poor.”

The trophy for best variety, music or comedy series went to “Tracey Takes On...,” which stars Tracey Ullman in offbeat skits. Jay Leno, David Letterman, Bill Maher and Dennis Miller were losers in the category.

“As the Spice Girls would say: Girl Power! I beat the boys,” Ullman declared.

Ellen DeGeneres’ comedy “Ellen,” which provoked controversy this year as the character came to terms with her lesbianism, was an early winner. The series won outstanding writing for a comedy series.

DeGeneres dedicated the award to gay and lesbian teen-agers, telling them: “There’s nothing wrong with you. Don’t ever let anybody make you feel ashamed of who you are.”

The award for best performance in a variety or music program went to Bette Midler for her HBO special “Bette Midler: Diva Las Vegas.” The performer was her usual sassy self as she accepted the trophy.

“I’m really, really surprised. Last time I came I didn’t win a thing. I had a new dress for it so I was extremely pissed,” she said.

The President’s Award, a special tribute for socially worthwhile programming, went to “Miss Evers’ Boys,” an HBO film about the infamous Tuskegee medical experiments on unsuspecting black men.

Emmys in 28 categories were presented by the Academy of Television Arts & Sciences at a three-hour CBS broadcast emceed by Bryant Gumbel, who quickly confessed to being “as surprised as anyone to be your host this evening.”

He proved quick with some one-liners. When stiff accountants from Ernst and Young attempted to dance on stage, Gumbel quipped of their bad dancing, “Goes beyond (White Men) Can’t Jump.”

NBC headed into the night with the edge, holding the most nominations and 15 trophies presented previously for technical honors.

NBC’s “ER” was the leading nominee with 22 bids, followed by HBO’s “The Larry Sanders Show” with 16 nominations, “The X-Files” with 12 and “NYPD Blue” with 11.

NBC was the most-nominated network with 92. HBO was close behind with 90, while CBS had 60 nominations and ABC with 44. Fox earned 19 bids and 18 went to PBS.

NBC’s “ER” and “3rd Rock from the Sun” topped the list of programs honored earlier, each holding three technical Emmys.

Sunday’s show was expected to be seen in 90 foreign countries by an estimated overseas audience of more than a half-billion viewers, the academy said.

In a non-televised ceremony held Sept. 7, awards in craft categories were announced, including outstanding choreography, editing and makeup.

Besides 15 craft trophies presented to NBC, CBS and HBO won 10 each. ABC received five awards, while Fox and PBS each had four.

Four acting awards for guest roles also were given last weekend. They went to Dianne Wiest for “Avonlea,” Mel Brooks and Carol Burnett for “Mad About You,” and Pruitt Taylor Vince for “Murder One.”

The academy also bestowed the first Emmy on a television commercial — an HBO promotional spot that featured chimps apparently mimicking scenes from classic movies.

NEW YORK (AP) — Former White House Deputy Chief of Staff Harold Ickes had to "bug" President Clinton to make fund-raising phone calls from the Oval Office during year's campaign, according to a deposition given by Ickes to lawyers investigating campaign finance abuses.

In the deposition, obtained by New York Times and reported Sunday, Ickes depicts himself as the "tom line guy" who was the White House official behind a strong push for contributions to the president's re-election effort.

Ickes described leaving lists of fund-raising phone calls on Clinton's desk, where they often remained untouched for weeks.

"Then I would bug him in a very low-keyed way as to whether made or was intending to make phone calls," Ickes told lawyers for the Senate committee investigating campaign finance abuses during two-day June deposition. "He intended to make the phone calls."

Ickes said occasionally he was "fortunate enough to find out that had, in fact, made a phone call."

In the deposition, Ickes claimed knowledge of John Huang, Yale Tri and Johnny Chung, three men whose alleged fund-raising excesses have plagued the White House and the Democratic National Committee since the end of last year's campaign.

Of Chung, Ickes said, "I would like to know him if he came in here right

Plane crashes during air show

Stealth fighter crashes into houses, six injured

By Raju Chebium
Associated Press

MIDDLE RIVER, Md. — An F-117A stealth fighter broke apart during an air show performance and crashed into two houses Sunday, setting both on fire and causing six minor injuries on the ground. The pilot ejected safely.

The crash happened about 3 p.m. as the jet was making its final passes during the Chesapeake Air Show at the Glen Martin State Airport.

Several witnesses said they saw parts of the plane break off just before it went down. Home video of the crash showed a piece of the aircraft, which appeared to be from the tail section, flying off the jet before it went into a slow, flat spin and crashed.

"Some people were saying it was part of the show," said Rudy Medina, who was at the air show. "But I knew it wasn't part of the show. No aircraft of that caliber disintegrates in midair like that."

The plane, carrying 11,000 pounds of fuel, went down about a mile from the airport, into two houses and two cars at a condominium complex on Chesapeake Bay in this suburb northeast of Baltimore.

Baltimore County Fire Capt. Steve Gisriel said six people at the complex suffered only minor injuries and were not hospitalized. Among them was an elderly woman who managed to escape her home seconds after the plane slammed into her garage.

The pilot, identified as Capt. Bryan Knight, was taken to Andrews Air Force Base for evaluation of minor back and neck injuries.

Witness Kimberly Chaapel said she noticed that "part of the wing fell off" before the plane went down and the pilot ejected.

"He started rolling head over tail and (the pilot) ejected probably 500 feet before the ground," she told CNN. "He was very, very lucky."

Andy Kunkowski said he was watching the show from a small boat near the shoreline, and immediately went to the scene of the crash and spoke to the pilot after he parachuted to the ground.

Gisriel said the fire was under control about an hour after the crash and a three-block area of the neighborhood was evacuated for military officials to conduct their investigation into the cause of the crash. Military police were brought in to help guard the area.

BART's return eases Bay jam

Bart employees return to work following strike.

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The San Francisco Bay area's commuter rail system was ready to roll again today after a week-long strike by union workers idled trains and created traffic nightmares for commuters.

Bay Area Rapid Transit trains haven't run since Sept. 6, the day before 2,600 transit workers walked off the job in a wage dispute. Management and the unions reached a tentative agreement on a four-year contract early Saturday.

Commuters endured monumental traffic jams and packed buses last week, when commute times doubled and tripled for many as riders tried to find other ways of getting to San Francisco. BART handles about 275,000 riders a day during the work week.

"I wish I could say, 'The hell with you, BART,' but it wouldn't make

Noah Berger/Associated Press

The BART strike caused a major delay for morning commuters waiting to cross the Bay Bridge, left background, on Monday.

any sense to complicate my life with anger at a system that doesn't care about me anyway," said Carol Webb, a nurse who works in San Francisco.

Margaret Pryor, president of the BART board of directors, said, "We know the strike was a terrible inconvenience to the people and businesses of the Bay area."

Mechanics and technicians went back to work Saturday checking stations, fare machines and 93 miles of track. Trains were scheduled to begin running at 4:30 a.m. today.

Under the tentative agreement, employees would receive a $3,000 lump sum payment in the first year of the four-year contract. They would then receive 4 percent raises in the second, third and fourth years.

Clinton was asked to do fund-raising calls

Ickes admitted that he bothered the President to make key fund-raising calls.

NEW YORK (AP) — Former White House Deputy Chief of Staff Harold Ickes had to "bug" President Clinton to make fund-raising phone calls from the Oval Office during last year's campaign, according to a deposition given by Ickes to lawyers investigating campaign finance abuses.

In the deposition, obtained by The New York Times and reported Sunday, Ickes depicts himself as the "bottom line guy" who was the White House official behind a strong push for contributions to the president's re-election effort.

Ickes described leaving lists of fund-raising phone calls on Clinton's desk, where they often sat untouched for weeks.

"Then I would bug him in a very low-keyed way as to whether he made or was intending to make the phone calls," Ickes told lawyers from the Senate committee investigating campaign finance abuses during a two-day June deposition. "He always intended to make the phone calls."

Ickes said occasionally he was "fortunate enough to find out that he had, in fact, made a phone call."

In the deposition, Ickes claimed no knowledge of John Huang, Yah Lin Trie and Johnny Chung, three men whose alleged fund-raising excesses have plagued the White House and the Democratic National Committee since the end of last year's campaign.

Of Chung, Ickes said, "I would not know him if he came in here right now and sat on my lap."

And Ickes rejected suggestions that he was to blame, even indirectly, for campaign fund-raising excesses. He told the Republican lawyers that if he had known that fund-raisers were selling admissions to White House coffees, seats on Air Force One and overnight stays in the Lincoln Bedroom, "I would have not only disapproved of it, I would have told them to stop doing it."

The Times said it obtained a copy of the deposition, which was given June 26 and 27 in the Hart Senate Office Building, from a Republican staff member in the Senate.

Attorney General Janet Reno currently is investigating whether 46 phone calls Vice President Al Gore made from his White House office violated federal election law. Reno is expected to decide within several weeks whether to appoint an independent counsel.

Ickes said he was told by the White House counsel at the time, Jack Quinn, that Clinton could make calls from the Oval Office. He said he left the legality of Gore's calls to the vice president's staff to research.

"I did not deal in that regard with the vice president," Ickes said. "He had his own counsel and his own political staff. I left that up to them."

Some participants in the ongoing Senate campaign finance hearings, which began in July, have suggested that Ickes holds the secrets to many of the mysteries in the inquiry. If so, the Times said, Ickes did not reveal any to the Republicans during the deposition.

"I've used my Mac to write every paper assignment I've had in the last four years"

"I like my Macintosh® because it's one of the few things at school I can depend on. No matter how hectic my schedule may be I'm never worried about my Mac giving me problems. My Mac has produced polished papers for all my classes the past four years and has convinced my instructors that I actually have my act together! I chose a Mac because of its affordable price and its compatibility with the majority of the computers on campus."

14,000 bid adieu to Diana in New York

The Big Apple give Diana a big farewell.

By Timothy Williams
Associated Press

NEW YORK — On foot, on bicycles, some with dogs on leashes, about 14,000 people converged on Central Park for a memorial service Sunday to honor Princess Diana.

It was the first such event in the park's sprawling, wooded North Meadow since a memorial in 1980 for another British icon, John Lennon.

"More than anything, I came to say goodbye to someone who cared about the poor and needy, who was rich and privileged enough not to have to," said Richard Thomson, 47, a Scottish-born New Yorker.

Mayor Rudolph Giuliani and Britain's Consul General in New York, Jeffrey Ling, headed the all-faith program that honored Diana for both her charity work and her sense of style.

"She disarmed us with her humility," Giuliani said, mistakenly referring to the Princess of Wales as the Princess of York before the crowd's murmuring led him to correct himself. "We were drawn to her ultimately because of her heart, not her nobility."

Operatic divas Jessye Norman and Denyce Graves and the Metropolitan Opera chorus and orchestra performed music by Bach, Verdi and Berlioz.

"This is a nice sendoff for her," said Beth Anderson, 26, who had two fluffy white poodles in tow. "I didn't go to her funeral in London, obviously, so it's nice to have something in the city that people can go to."

White Madonna lilies, hydrangeas, magnolia blossoms and blue larkspur framed the outdoor stage, a temporary structure with a stretched fabric canopy overhead that is regularly used in the park.

Californians flee fires north of Los Angeles

Fire fighters battle fire that started Saturday.

RUNNING SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — A fire blazed out of control Sunday in the San Gabriel Mountains after destroying 13 homes and cabins and causing hundreds of people to flee.

The blaze was only 5 percent contained Sunday, a day after it broke out, and it was threatening Running Springs, a community about 70 miles northeast of Los Angeles.

"We have no estimation of when we'll have control or total containment," said Karen McKinley, a U.S. Forest Service spokesperson.

Flames had burned across more than 1,200 acres.

Authorities evacuated an unknown number of people in an area containing hundreds of homes and weekend cabins in the neighboring communities of Fredalba, Live Oak and Smiley Park.

Seventeen aircraft, 88 fire trucks and 885 firefighters fought the blaze.

Authorities said the fire was started Saturday by a bullet fired in a legal shooting area. It wasn't immediately clear whether the heat of a bullet striking dry brush or the spark of one hitting a rock ignited the fire.

There was no immediate word how many of the 13 buildings burned were permanent homes and how many were weekend cabins, said Bill Peters, a California Department of Forestry spokesperson.

Air tankers trying to drop fire retardant were hampered by heavy smoke, said Forest Service spokesperson Pat Boss.

Wind began rising Sunday, with gusts expected to reach 20 to 30 mph, but temperatures were only in the 70s. There was a 50 percent chance of rain today, the National Weather Service said.

Highway 330, the main route into the nearby Lake Arrowhead-Big Bear Lake resort areas, was closed in both directions. Highway 18 also was closed just east of the Lake Arrowhead area and at Big Bear dam.

World famous diamond takes a hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surrounded by proud curators and nervous security men, the famed Hope Diamond traveled 75 paces to its new home on Sunday.

"Isn't it great? Isn't it great?" enthused curator Jeffrey Post, who is in charge of the Smithsonian Institution's world-famous gem collection. "I think it's the first time it's been displayed to look as good as it can look."

"They're going to really go nuts in here," added Robert Sullivan, anticipating public reaction when the Smithsonian opens its new display of gems and minerals on Sept. 20.

Post and Sullivan removed the diamond from its wall safe early Sunday morning, carefully placed it in a black security case, took it to a back room for cleaning, then placed it in the new display.

Displayed for decades in a wall safe with one side open, the blue-white Hope Diamond, about the size of a walnut, will be housed in a glass cylinder, "almost a shrine," said Sullivan, the museum's associate director for public programs. Its setting is surrounded by 16 white diamonds and suspended from a platinum chain bearing 46 additional diamonds.

Chelsea assimilates to college life

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — The first daughter is turning into the first freshman, determined to have a normal student life.

For the first time, Chelsea Clinton will be out of the zone of privacy her parents have zealously maintained around her at the White House. But she shows every intention of keeping her courteous but steadfast distance from the news media while attending Stanford University.

The 17-year-old, who wants to become a doctor, is not granting interviews. The White House isn't talking about her plans. And neither is Stanford, citing its policy of safeguarding the privacy of every student and its determination to treat the president's daughter like anyone else.

Even the student newspaper says it won't cover Chelsea as a celebrity after the first day of school when she joins her 1,660 classmates on the private, sprawling campus.

Stanford students are expected to take the whole thing in stride.

"They'll probably treat her like anyone else ... I don't think they will judge her based on the fact she's the president's daughter," said sophomore Wayan Garvey.

Chelsea's new life starts Friday, the first day of orientation; classes start Sept. 24.

Military planes missing off African coast

Missing German and American planes may have collided.

WINDHOEK, Namibia (AP) — U.S. and German military planes with 33 people on board were reported missing off the coast of southern Africa on Sunday amid indications they had collided and crashed into the Atlantic.

The South African air force said a signal received from a life jacket emergency beacon was evidence there might be survivors.

German Defense Minister Volker Ruehe said the German plane, a Soviet-made model inherited from the former East German army, was last heard from at 4 p.m. Saturday German time (10 a.m. EDT). He said it apparently crashed into the Atlantic off the coast of Angola.

The German Defense Ministry later said a U.S. military C-141 cargo plane with nine crew members was missing in the same area and presumed crashed.

"We have no information that they collided," a ministry spokesman in Bonn said on condition of anonymity. "But we have information that they went missing at the same time and in the same area. When you add one and one together ... a crash is very probable."

The exact location of the apparent crash was not immediately known.

A South African air force spokesman said a flash picked up by satellite and reported by officials Saturday night at Johannesburg airport indicated a possible midair collision.

The spokesperson, Lt. Col. Lavorne Machine, said a cargo plane was in the same airspace at the same time as the missing German plane, but declined to comment further other than to say that both the German and U.S. governments had asked South Africa for assistance.

A spokesperson for Air Mobility Command, headquartered at Scott Air Force Base in Illinois, said a U.S. Air Force C-141 Starlifter cargo plane en route from Namibia, in southern Africa, to Ascension Island in the south Atlantic was overdue, "and we are presuming it went down in the Atlantic Ocean."

"We don't have confirmation of that right now, but we are assuming that," Sgt. Ellen Schirmer said.

She said officials also were investigating any connection with the German plane, which she noted went missing "about the same time and about the same place that we lost contact" with the C-141.

The C-141, assigned to the 305th

Air Mobility wing at McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey, had just flown cargo from Ascension Island, a British territory, to Namibia and was returning to the island Saturday, Schirmer said.

The names of the crew members were not released. They "come from Rhode Island to California so it is difficult to notify their families," Schirmer said.

The plane left Namibia at 4:11 p.m. Saturday local time and was due at 7:51 p.m. Rescue efforts were being coordinated through the Atlantic Command out of Norfolk, Va., Schirmer said.

The Soviet-made German air force plane was en route from Germany to Cape Town, South Africa, where soldiers were to have participated in a boat race marking the 75th anniversary of the South African navy.

Bosnians stream to polls in crucial vote

Voters welcome the first local elections since the civil war.

By Aida Cerkez
Associated Press

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina — Overcoming fears of violence, Bosnians flooded polling stations Sunday to vote in local elections that could alter the divided country's ethnic map.

The unexpectedly high turnout during weekend voting forced election organizers to open additional polling stations and drew praise from international officials.

"It proves the hunger for democracy in this country," said Carlos Westendorp, the top international envoy in Bosnia.

The results of the voting — the first local elections in Bosnia since the end of its 3 1/2-year civil war — are not expected for days. But the number of refugees who crossed former front lines to cast ballots in their prewar hometowns suggest the outcome may change Bosnia's political and ethnic landscape.

A spokesperson for the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe, David Foley, estimated Sunday that 89 percent of those eligible to vote registered in their prewar hometowns.

That could have serious repercussions in areas now controlled by other ethnic groups — if, as expected, refugees elect municipal officials from their own ethnic groups. Such a result would reverse losses suffered during the 1992-1995 civil war.

The elections were one more step in a strategy by Western nations to force Bosnians of all ethnic backgrounds to coexist. Organizers have said they won't certify the elections as free and fair unless local councils abide by the voters' wishes by the end of the year. Sanctions could be imposed to isolate communities that insist on continued separatism.

That prospect clearly preoccupied Serb officials over the weekend as they watched buses full of Muslims pull up to vote and absentee ballots pour in from abroad.

Observers said it would be difficult for Serbs and Muslims to work together on town councils.

"It will be very, very hard," said Dragan Coric, a Serb judge who heads the Rogatica electoral commission.

Many refugees, fearing ethnic confrontations if they tried to return to their hometowns to vote, cast absentee ballots. Some 400,000 people voted outside Bosnia.

About 35,000 voters were expected to cross the line separating the Serb and Muslim-Croat halves of Bosnia.

Ethnic Serb refugees showed up en masse in the Croat-controlled western town of Drvar.

Thousands pay tribute to Mother Teresa

In the wake of Mother Teresa's funeral, her followers continue the work she started.

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — In the end, the strains of military music faded and the flowers were quick to wilt in Calcutta's tropical heat. The daily lasting tribute to Mother Teresa can be her work, which her followers pledged to continue as they buried her Saturday.

Thousands lined the streets in 90-degree temperatures and intermittent heavy rain to watch the Roman Catholic nun, her body in an open white casket resting on a gun carriage, make her final journey through the city where she began her worldwide mission to the poor.

Thousands more watched solemnly as 10 archbishops and cardinals said Mass in an indoor sports stadium. Mother Teresa's burial last year was private — or as private as it could be with crowds of mourners and journalists peering into the windows of her convent, where a few hundred nuns prayed as her body was lowered into its grave.

On Sunday, nuns sang at her flower-covered tomb and a few reporters and dignitaries, including the wife of French President Jacques Chirac, Bernadette, were allowed a brief visit.

Mother Teresa, known as the saint of the gutters, died of a heart attack Sept. 5 at age 87.

"God loved the world so much that he sent to us Jesus Christ. And Jesus loved us so much that he sent to us Mother Teresa," Sister Nirmala, who took over as head of the Missionaries of Charity order in March after Mother Teresa retired, said during services Saturday.

"We should pledge ourselves to continue what God has begun through her so beautifully. We pray that we may be faithful and truthful to the spirit that God has given to our Mother."

Sister Nirmala's shy manner seemed to touch onlookers, who responded to her eulogy with loud, prolonged applause. She and the 4,000 other nuns of the Missionaries of Charity will need such support to continue raising orphan children in Calcutta, feeding hungry street people in Rome, and caring for babies with AIDS in Washington.

Crazy things can happen in dorms

I have long thought that if anyone wanted to do a serious psychological experiment on what causes psychotic behavior, they need to look no further than the college-dorm scene. Dorms are where innocent little guinea pigs — freshmen, as well as students from all walks and ages — are trapped in a room the size of a small car. These guinea pigs often are forced to leave these car-sized rooms to get food, supplies and occasionally attend classes, among other outside activities.

I think that college dorms could be great sites for studies, because they usually wind up matching two or more people who don't know each other. Strangers who try to live together do one of two things: They learn to be friends and get along, or they fight like mad until one of them runs away, flunks out or is hospitalized.

This year more than 5,500 freshmen are embarking on the psychological roller coaster we call "getting acquainted," and most of them will probably get along. They'll have those disputes, as every roommate pair does. For example, I once told my freshman roommate that I wanted his life-sized Shaquille O'Neal cutout. Actually I just called it "mine." He disagreed.

Todd Hefferman

He was right. Everyone has little lapses in judgment, so everyone living in dorms will eventually fight.

I believe that dorms, because of their cramped living space and openness to criminal behavior, eventually cause psychotic behavior in some individuals. Basically, I think that dorms are scientifically engineered to develop psychopathic behavior in young men and women, and I have three examples to prove my theory, all of which originated here at the UI.

Example No. 1: A friend of mine who lived in Mayflower Residence Hall told me that a woman in her hall went completely berserk after months of quietly coexisting. My friend said that the two rarely fought, if at all, but one day the psychopathic spirit of an abusive warrior of yesteryear seemed to possess one of them.

While her roommate was gone, she wrote BITCH on her wall and decided to spew liquids all over her roommate's side of the room. So if your roommate is quite quiet, you may want to ask whether he or she is going to write abusive words on your wall when you're not home. If your roommate is not quiet, ask anyway.

Example No. 2: A young man whom I was talking to in a spring class early this year told me another story of psychopathic behavior. Alcohol was involved in (and some would say the cause of) this young man's behavior. But nonetheless, I still say it's somewhat psychotic. It's damn funny as well.

In Currier Residence Hall last year, a UI student skilled in the ways of taekwon do decided to test his skills against aluminum. After returning from infusing alcohol into his veins, he tied his beloved taekwon do belt around his head and promptly displaced the hall drinking fountain with one kick and an ear-piercing scream. Kicking aluminum objects should automatically qualify as psychopathic behavior, even if it's alcohol-induced. Perhaps out of fear of another incident, Currier didn't replace that drinking fountain for the rest of the year.

Example No. 3: My brother returned from playing basketball one day and found a note on his pillow, handwritten by his roommate, that asked him to become more compatible with someone else. "I think you should move out and let one of my friends move in, because you and I are not compatible, my friend and I are," it said. My brother left later that semester and hasn't been back to college since. I continue to believe that he is socially scarred.

I even had my own dorm-induced psychotic episode. I only lived in Hillcrest Residence Hall for a year, and I flipped out. After drinking at the downtown bars, I finally made it home to my third-floor room, where I opened the door and flipped the lights on. I stumbled in and realized that there was a 7-foot stranger in my room, smiling and holding a basketball.

I quickly went on the defensive, and, in the process, hit my head on the very solid sink underneath my mirror. I lost three gallons of blood that evening, and promptly asked my roommate to remove the Shaquille O'Neal cutout from the center of the room to avoid future incidents.

Even now, I develop a headache every time the Los Angeles Lakers are on television.

Garofalo suit is not a simple matter

Two years have passed since UI sophomore Matthew Garofalo died at a Lambda Chi Alpha party, but the process of discovering who is to blame has just begun.

Edward and Monica Garofalo filed a lawsuit for an undisclosed amount of money on Nov. 14, 1996. The wrongful-death suit alleges that the Lambda Chi Alpha National Chapter, the UI chapter and three former members are responsible for the "willful, wanton, malicious and intentional death" of their son. A trial date was set for last Monday, though time will pass before the courtroom phase begins.

Although the Garofalos are looking for someone to blame for their son's death, they should take heart in knowing that steps have been taken to prevent another pointless, alcohol-related death. Whether those initiatives are coincidence or a result of Garofalo's death is unclear.

Those steps — more alcohol-awareness programs and plans to turn the Greek system dry — will, unfortunately and unfairly, become the focus of the trial.

While attorneys for the Garofalo family have been interviewing potential witnesses for a year before they filed suit, it is the numerous alcohol-related programs that emerged in the past 24 months that, unknowingly, will help strengthen the Garofalo's claims that not enough was done to prevent their son's death.

In the aftermath of the Lambda Chi Alpha party, the UI Greek system has implemented several alcohol-awareness programs. However, UI Panhellenic president Nicole Hoch said these programs did not have any relation to Garofalo's death.

"Alcohol is a huge issue on college campuses," Hoch said in last Monday's Daily Iowan. "We set up policies to create a safer environment and educate our members."

UI officials share a similar response to the questions that have been asked after their announcement that the Greek system will be dry in 20 months. They claim their decision wasn't as much in response to the death of Garofalo, but to a biannual study of the Greeks conducted last fall.

Other occurrences included a town meeting held last January in which UI President Mary Sue Coleman said the entire community has a stake in controlling alcohol abuse, a national teleconference on student responsibility with alcohol at the Union and a Student Legal Services sponsored demonstration on alcohol awareness and the affects alcohol has on judgment.

Whether the claims that each or any of these events are purely coincidental and in no way related to Matthew Garofalo are indeed true, they will be used in the trial to help the Garofalos prove blame in their son's death.

The defendants — the UI, Lambda Chi Alpha, and the named members of that fraternity — are simply backed into a corner.

If alcohol-awareness programs had not emerged all over campus, the Garofalos could claim their son's death meant nothing to the UI or the Greek system. However, since the reactions have been just the opposite, rigorously implementing alcohol restrictions and awareness programs everywhere, the Garofalos can say their son's death was caused by a lack of awareness. It is a messy situation.

The accusations voiced against the UI, the Greek system and underage drinking will someday be proven justifiable or erroneous. But in the meantime and for ever more, hopefully another senseless tragedy will not be needed to bring attention to this important issue.

Another victim of Coke's dominance

The traditional taste of 7-Up will soon be a thing of the past, as the marketer for the beverage has decided to revamp the product in an attempt to rekindle its popularity.

Although the "Uncola" still boasts 40 percent of all sales in the lemon-lime drink category, sales over the past few years have steadily become commandeered by rival refreshment, the Coca-Cola owned Sprite.

7-Up would do well to learn from the example set by Coca-Cola back in 1985, when it tried to change over to a new Coke, and thoroughly failed. The secret doesn't lie in dismissing what you have, it lies in working with what you've got.

Many components contribute to the success of a product, but far and away, publicity remains the most potent.

After all, the drink in front of the population will be most consumed, and in turn, favored for its familiarity. 7-Up would do better to focus on changing its tactics rather than its beverage.

If the product won't sell, by all means dump it. Are we treating the symptoms or the disease?

Although Dr. Pepper/7-Up has poured money into product promotion, it has still watched sales dwindle in the past decade, prompting the decision to "freshen" the flavor of the drinks: the lemon-lime flavor will be increased, and the sugar content lowered, just like Sprite. Whom better to model a product after than the leading competitor?

Sprite has also had both the ability and the means to launch an advertising campaign, yet its has wisely centered on famous athletes and actors and has utilized street-wise vernacular. The Coca-Cola Corp. has been able to capture the attention of the average consumer, and experienced a subsequent rise in sales.

This determination to throw over the current product for a "modern" taste reflects the most common trend of the 1990s: intolerance. There's no allowance for anything less than complete market dominance, absolute success and total perfection.

Everyone struggles and scrambles to reach the highest echelon, and if by some combination of effort and luck one actually makes it there, letting go of it is failure to the highest degree. Clinging with bloodless hands, they crow the victory.

For those in the periphery, choices are limited. If the marriage is failing, divorce. If the body is imperfect, cosmetic surgery for all. If the product won't sell, by all means dump it. Are we treating the symptoms or the disease?

It seems a bit ironic and quite sad that 7-Up, the soft drink originally touted for its leap from the ordinary, is now stepping back to walk the well-beaten path.

Science should be about more than money

The UI has triumphantly announced that it collected more than $200,000,000 in the fiscal year which ended June 30, setting a new record. Heartening news, isn't it? Yet the pie chart that shows how the moneys are allocated, and remarks by David Skorton, vice president for research, evoke disquieting reservations.

Compare the slices in the chart. The purple one takes up three-fourths of it, representing $162 million for research. The blue sliver represents $13.6 million for "academic support and miscellaneous." That's about one-twelfth of what goes for research.

Add in support for other academic needs: $16 million for fellowships and scholarships and $12 million for student financial aid, for a total of $42 million. That's about a quarter the amount for research.

The article that reported these figures informed readers that "Some of the research, such as Donald Gurnett's work with the Cassini spacecraft, which will explore Saturn, brings both money and high exposure."

Skorton observed approvingly that the record-breaking sum was thanks to faculty and staff who focused on obtaining grants, gifts and contracts.

Do we conclude, then, that research is 12 times as important at UI as teaching? That would oversimplify, and funds for teaching come from sources that those for research don't.

However, in view of steeply escalating tuition fees, it's evident that the funding is inadequate.

According to Skorton, the emphasis on research enhances teaching. "The very best teachers are the ones doing something creative," he asserted. "The teaching is better ... you have to have faculty, like we do, that will go out and get funds."

That's debatable. Aren't the best teachers doing creative things in their classrooms? Doesn't the drudgery of preparation and paperwork involved in applying for money detract from research and, even more, teaching? And what kinds of projects bring in the bucks? Big and visible and prestigious, and very expensive, like the Cassini spacecraft.

Meanwhile, smaller projects with at least equal value to humans are hurting. Is bigger necessarily better? As huge sums swell the coffers of big science, biological science is ever more parsimoniously supported. Three or four years ago, for instance, an expedition to identify plants with curative powers of tremendous benefit to humans received a paltry $2 million. Time was of the essence here, as the rain forests where the plants grow are dwindling alarmingly and their flora becoming irretrievably lost. Grants for anthropological field work among the few remaining hunter-gatherer societies, our best source for clues to what we are and how we got that way, are scarce and small. Botany, which explores the wondrous life forms which made our own existence possible, is dying on the vine.

Remember the great Superconducting Supercollider, which was expected to cost $10 to $15 billion and which Congress canceled in 1993 after $2 billion had already been spent on it? A UI physicist was especially disappointed by its demise, because 11 Iowa physicists would have been included in the project and "would have been on the receiving end of major grants for years to come."

Big science devours big bucks. As one Leon Lederman told a New York Times interviewer when the collider was doomed, "Bigness is an inevitable component of the evolution in science and we must learn to live with it." He predicted dauntingly that big science in the 1990s would require $60 billion for equipment and another $100 billion for the armies of technicians needed to minister to it.

Thirty years ago, Robert Graves, seeing the handwriting on the wall, warned:

"Scientific research has become so complicated and demands such enormous apparatus that only the state or immensely rich patrons can pay for it, which in practice means that a disinterested search for knowledge is cramped by the demand for results that will justify the expense."

Revealingly, when Lederman cited six revolutions in scientific thinking, he omitted the two that most dramatically overturned traditional thinking and forced us to reassess our place in the cosmos and in nature: those that followed discoveries by Copernicus and Galileo in astronomy and Darwin in biology, men who employed minimal technology and few aides and relied on their own observations and deductions.

Big science is no more likely to improve on them and Empedocles and Newton and Einstein than big religion is to improve on Buddha and Zoroaster, Moses and Jesus, or big publishing on Shakespeare, or big music on Mozart.

And, though the prospect of photos from Mars is beyond dispute mind-boggling, some of us would agree with Alexander Pope that, "The proper study of mankind is man," an enduring sentiment that he produced without a typewriter, without a computer and without a grant.

Middle East this past weekend, there is a growing sense among Israelis and Palestinians that the peace process may be beyond saving.

Israeli security officials, however, warned that the two sides are close to an armed confrontation.

Kushner said that the peace process will be in jeopardy as long as land is one of the major sticking points in the negotiations.

UI law professor Adrian Wing, a noted Middle East expert, said the land conflict is more of an issue of Israeli stubbornness.

"The Israelis don't listen to anyone," Wing said. "The U.S. tells them that these settlements are illegal, but they don't care. They think it is their God-given right to expand these settlements. So I really don't see what is going to solve the current impasse."

Wing said she sees Arafat as a political victim of the continuous cycle of violence and crackdown in the developing relationship between Palestine and Israel.

"The more crackdown and pressure you have from the government the more they will rebel and attack," Wing said.

Wing, like Kushner, is not optimistic that a peace can be solidified soon.

"After Secretary of State Albright's talk, it doesn't look like there has been a breakthrough," Wing said. "I didn't expect a breakthrough. I don't see where it can get better in the foreseeable future.

UI senior and Israeli citizen Ephrat Most said Netanyahu is a capable leader.

"He does whatever he has to do," Most said. "He's capable of doing a lot for the negotiations, even if his views are a little extreme."

Taher Abualrub, a UI graduate student whose family was among the refugees to flee when Israel began to occupy Palestinian territory in 1967, said it is Netanyahu who doesn't want peace.

"Netanyahu doesn't want to give land, and this is the Palestinians' land so it's not like he's doing anybody a favor," he said. "If he was with the peace, he would honor the Oslo agreement and pull out of Palestinian territory."

graduate students in a similar way.

"It does affect the grad students the most," Boyle said. "When a professor who has directed a specific student throughout their education leaves or is replaced, the specialties of the new person may not help that particular student's needs."

Last year, half-time department Professor Helen Goldstein retired, and the department was not given permission to replace her.

With more and more professors considering retirement in the next few years and with the constant chance of resignation, some department members are worried about the progress of the School of Religion.

McCue, who said he will retire by the year 2000, said the stability of the Religion Department depends on the development of the UI's hiring policies in the next few years.

"When a member of the department retires or resigns, there is a possible chance that there may be a three to four-year delay on replacement," he said. "There is also a slight possibility that they may not be replaced at all."

Boyle said there are plans for a senior member in the department to take his place until a permanent replacement can be found.

"Whenever someone retires or resigns, the department must go to the College of Liberal Arts to ask for permission to find a replacement," he said. "It is not always guaranteed that permission will be granted based on the situations."

Student enrollment in the particular major and the amount that the department has available to them for hiring professors are two elements that factor in to the decision-making process.

The professor replacement policies have improved in the past few years, but they are still in need of extra improvement, religion professor George Nickelsburg said.

"What is really important for this department is the ongoing integrity of the graduate programs," Nickelsburg said. "When students' education is threatened by either retirement or resignation, it needs to be attended to promptly so graduate programs will be able to continue without delay in their education."

subject them to a series of hearings.

"We want to prosecute (Champ), but I also don't want to drag the victims to Nebraska every couple months for a hearing," she said.

Champ will hopefully go to Lincoln to stand trial there after Omaha is done, Retelsdorf said.

"I have my hooks in him first," she said. "Hopefully when I'm done with him he'll go to the Nebraska Penitentiary where Lincoln can take him out easier than any other places."

With Champ a suspect in several cases, Retelsdorf said he'll keep being prosecuted until either he's been tried on all of them, or until it's not worth prosecuting him any longer.

"My assumption is that the various prosecutors in all the other jurisdictions have the same goal, and that is to put this guy in jail for the rest of his life," she said. "My feeling is that if we can get him convicted and get him some pretty heavy sentences in two or three cases, he'll have one sentence heaped on top of the other and at some point in time hopefully we won't have to continue because he'll be in jail for a very very long time."

The Iowa City Police Department was unable to comment on the status of the case Sunday night.

At about 4 a.m. on Sept. 6 of last year, a sexual assault occurred in the 500 block of South Gilbert Street.

The assailant was described as a black male in his early 20s, 5-foot-10-inches, 150 lbs., with short, black curly hair.

According to statements made by the victim, the attacker came out of the bushes and pulled her into an alley. He then put a sock in her mouth and a t-shirt over her head and raped her, possibly at knife point.

In other Midwest attacks the suspect has been described as a light-skinned black male, 165 to 175 lbs., 6 feet tall.

In several of the assaults, the attacker forced the victim to lie on her back, then spit on her and questioned her sexual history.

Most of the rapes occurred in music rooms or computer labs where young women worked alone late at night.

MIDEAST/King Hussein praises Albright's efforts at peace

"Small steps are better than no steps," she said at a news conference here after meeting with King Hussein.

She said she hoped that would "reenergize the peace process and dig us out of this crisis of confidence."

The King praised her efforts. "There is something fresh in the air. There is something new in the air," he said. "Someone who speaks the truth, not diplomatically, but accurately."

"There seems to be willingness on both sides, but there is a gap where Israel would like to start and where Syria would like to start," she said in a speech to some 1,000 American, British and French troops at a Saudi air base from which jets patrol the skies over southern Iraq.

"You are the teeth that keep him in line," Albright said of Iraqi President Saddam Hussein. "When tested, you bite."

It was a fast-paced day in searing heat, beginning in Jiddah, the Saudi Red Sea port; moving on to Abha, a resort in the Saudi mountains near the Yemen border, where six Persian Gulf foreign ministers met; to the Prince Sultan air base; and then to Jordan for a meeting with King Hussein.

With the possibility of a short trip to strife-beset Lebanon still open, Albright was due to fly home to Washington on today. She will leave behind a stern warning that she would not come back just to "tread water" but only if Arab and Israeli leaders made hard decision on peacemaking.

Albright's appeal to Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, Oman, Qatar, Bahrain, and the United Arab Emirates to deny funds to Hamas and other militant Islamic groups was aimed at contributions raised in the countries.

"The Arab states have a responsibility, which you also have recognized to support the peace process and work against the enemies of peace," Albright said, "to do your utmost to ensure that no assistance of any kind reaches the practitioners of extremist violence such as Hamas."

The speech to the foreign ministers gathered at Abha was coupled with an appeal for help from the Palestinian Authority. State Department spokesman James Rubin said Saudi Arabia immediately pledged $10 million to Yasser Arafat's group.

"It is our belief these governments do not support Hamas with official funds," Rubin said. But the Clinton administration would like to dry up fund raising and improve intelligence exchanges with the Arab governments.

It was at the session with Arab foreign ministers that Albright raised the women's issue. The first woman to serve as secretary of state, she was received by the Saudi royal family correctly, even with some warmth.

Known for her outspoken style, Albright told the six foreign ministers, according to Rubin, "You all have noticed, I am not like previous secretaries of state, in one way obviously."

"I hope that in our future discussions in New York (at U.N. General Assembly meetings) and when we meet again, we can speak about the role of women in your societies and around the world."

The foreign ministers received the statement amiably, and one said: "Hopefully, it won't take long for there to be one (a woman) at this side of the table," according to a U.S. official.

Later, in Amman, she was asked to return to the subject.

"This has been an exceptionally good tour in terms of the hospitality with which I have been received," Albright said.

Receiving a woman secretary of state "is somewhat a novelty in some countries" she said without identifying them.

But "everyone seems to have taken it in stride."

Albright's peacemaking efforts were welcomed, said the chairperson, Qatar's Sheikh Hamed bin Jassem Al Thani.

The foreign minister said the stalemate was due to the policies of the Israeli government and its defiance of the land-for-peace process of peacemaking.

At the air base, wearing a tan baseball cap with "Secretary of State" printed on the front, Albright was given a tour of new security measures designed to prevent a recurrence of the terrorist attack on a base near Dahran last year that killed 19 U.S. airmen.

HELP! PEN PAL VOLUNTEERS WANTED!

Opportunity at Iowa seeks responsible faculty, staff, and students to serve as pen pals for 4th & 5th grade students at several eastern Iowa elementary schools. The commitment involves exchanging letters and attending three scheduled visits (one in the fall and two in the spring). The goals of the program include improving writing skills, bringing the elementary students into contact with people from diverse backgrounds, and inspiring them to think about higher education at an earlier age. For more information: call 335-0591, e-mail maria-flores-mills@uiowa.edu, drop by 224 Jessup Hall to fill out an information sheet, or come to an informational meeting on Thursday, September 18, 1997 at 5:00pm in the IMU Miller room (#259) (FREE FOOD). Contacts for this program are Maria or Karina.

Tensions run high in Israel and Lebanon

Continued problems between Israel and Lebanon leave two Israeli soldiers dead and a Lebanese official's son dead.

MARJAYOUN, Lebanon (AP) — Hezbollah fighters killed two Israeli soldiers Sunday in southern Lebanon, officials said, a day after the leader of the guerrillas said his son had died fighting Israeli forces.

One Israeli soldier was also wounded in Sunday's roadside bomb attack in Wadi Slouki, about 15 miles east of the port city of Tyre, the Israeli army said.

Lebanese security officials said the bomb, apparently detonated by remote control, was aimed at an Israeli foot patrol of about 15 men. The officials spoke on customary condition of anonymity.

The eldest son of Hezbollah Secretary-General Sheik Hassan Nasrallah died in a clash with Israelis in southern Lebanon on Friday.

Speaking at a rally Saturday night, Nasrallah said he was proud his 18-year-old son Hadi.

"I thank God and praise Him for His ultimate grace and kindness by choosing a martyr from my family," he told 2,000 supporters in south

Beirut.

Iranian-backed Hezbollah is the largest and the most powerful of the guerrilla groups trying to oust Israeli troops and allied militiamen from the zone they have occupied in southern Lebanon since 1985.

One of the four militants involved in Friday's violence said two of his comrades had been killed, including Hadi, and a third was still missing, the Hezbollah office in Beirut said.

Hadi had been identified from video tape of the bodies lying in a hospital in Marjayoun, the main town in the Israeli-occupied zone, Hezbollah said.

In Jerusalem, an Israeli army spokesperson declined to comment on the report.

Hezbollah also said it has the body parts of an Israeli soldier missing and presumed dead following a failed Israeli commando raid in southern Lebanon on Sept. 5. Eleven other Israeli soldiers were killed in the incursion.

The guerrilla group has said it is willing to turn over the remains if Israel releases Hezbollah fighters in its custody. An official with the International Committee of the Red Cross has begun talking to the parties about such a swap.

MOROCCO

Mobutu receives quiet memorial

RABAT, Morocco (AP) — Courted for years as a bulwark against communism and later shunned as a despot, one of Africa's last strongmen, Mobutu Sese Seko, was buried without fanfare Saturday outside the Moroccan capital.

Nearly 100 uniformed and plainclothes police kept journalists and onlookers 500 yards from the cemetery as mourners, many in traditional African dress, arrived for the funeral of the man who ruled Zaire for 31 years.

Mobutu, who was ousted from power in May and died Sept. 7 in exile after a long battle with prostate cancer, was buried in a Roman Catholic ceremony. The remains of the billionaire former leader were borne to the cemetery in a white ambulance.

Police later tried to track down film and television footage taken of the funeral and confiscated video cassettes belonging to a crew from the Belgian television network VTM.

Koun Herman, who worked with Mobutu for 26 years, criticized Western countries who backed the late leader during the Cold War but withdrew their support when he refused to ease his heavy-handed rule.

HAITI

U.S., Canadian troops aid sinking Haitian ferry

MONTROUIS, Haiti (AP) — U.S. and Canadian troops raced to stabilize a capsized Haitian ferry containing hundreds of bodies Saturday, struggling to prevent it from sinking deeper into the sea.

About 200 bodies are trapped inside the Pride of Gonave, which sank off this fishing village Sept. 8 after the hour trip from Haiti's Gonave Island.

U.N. officials said about 50 people survived. Approximately 100 bodies have been recovered, including 27 bloated and bleached corpses that floated to the surface Friday and two more that washed up Saturday. Most were identified by clothing or jewelry.

On Saturday morning, workers sprayed disinfectant on areas of the pebbled beach where bodies had washed up.

A U.S. ship from Panama was scheduled to arrive Saturday with additional recovery equipment after the vessel slipped farther down a steep shelf about 650 feet offshore.

While waiting for the ship, Navy divers tried to secure the ferry temporarily with a thick cable strung from the trunk of a mango tree to the stern of the ship, which is under 120 feet of water.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Protestant leader refuses to meet with I.R.A.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Several thousand Irish Republican Army supporters rallied in downtown Belfast on Sunday, challenging pro-British Protestant leaders to join them at the negotiating table this week.

But the leader of the main Protestant party, David Trimble, refused to say whether he would sit down with the IRA-allied Sinn Fein party today, when the British and Irish governments have invited 10 Northern Ireland parties to start talks on the British-ruled state's future.

Trimble, whose Ulster Unionist Party represents a critical third of Northern Ireland opinion, told the British Broadcasting Corp. there was "not much point entering a process where people listen to you — and then go on and try to impose an arrangement designed to appease terrorists."

Iowa jumps to No. 13 in AP Poll

Following its second decisive victory many weeks, the Iowa football team was 19 in last week's college football poll.

The Hawkeyes picked up 850 votes week's Associated Press college football poll moving to 2-0 following Saturday's 56-7 Tulsa.

In addition, there's a new No. 2 on the week, and it's the Washington Huskies. After a 36-3 win over San Diego State, Washington moved past idle Florida State to take the top spot in the Associated Press' Top 25 college football poll. Penn State (2-0), with a 52-10 rout was No. 1 again, receiving 25 first-place votes. The Huskies (2-0) collected 19 first- and 1,615 points, just 26 points behind Florida.

Florida (2-0), the defending national champion, dropped to No. 3 with 14 first-place votes and 1,598 points. Tennessee, which plays Saturday after an off week, remained No. 1 in first-place votes and 1,543 points.

Florida State (2-0), a 50-7 winner last week, was No. 5 with three first-place votes and 1,483 points. While North Carolina (2-0) moved to No. 6 and Nebraska (2-0) fell a 7 after a shaky 38-24 win over Central.

The Tar Heels, who beat Stanford 28-0 for a first-place vote and 1,379 points, while Cornhuskers had two first-place votes and 1,379 points.

The Huskies play host to the Huskers a few more changes near the top of the poll Saturday's games.

SOUND BITE

"With all respect for Sedrick Shaw — Tavian Banks is the best running back I've seen since Barry Sanders."

Dartmouth coach after Saturday's game in Iowa, in which Banks ran for 117 yards.

- direct or implied threats that submission to sexual advances will be a condition of employment, work status, promotion, grades, or letters of recommendation
- direct propositions of a sexual nature
- comments of a sexual nature or subtle pressure for sexual activity
- sexually explicit statements, questions, jokes, or anecdotes
- unnecessary touching, patting, hugging, or brushing against a person's body
- remarks of a sexual nature about a person's clothing, body, about sexual activity, or about previous sexual experience.

Sexual harassment is illegal. The University of Iowa is committed to maintaining an environment free of sexual harassment. The Office of Affirmative Action publishes sexual harassment prevention information annually in The Daily Iowan to inform members of the University community about the prohibitions against sexual harassment and the limitations on consensual relationships between faculty and students. Please cut out and keep this information for your future reference. Students, faculty, and staff can help by understanding and working to eliminate sexual harassment.

Susan Mask, Assistant to the President and Director, Office of Affirmative Action

Defining Sexual Harassment

Anyone can be targeted for sexual harassment, regardless of gender, age, race, or physical characteristics. Both women and men may experience sexual harassment; it can occur among peers or between people of unequal power and authority. It can occur between members of the opposite sex, and between people of the same sex.

Sexual harassment is defined as unwelcome advances, requests for sexual favors, or other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature when:

- submission is made an express or implied term or condition of employment or status in a class, program, or activity; or
- submission to or rejection of the behavior is used to make an employment or educational decision (such as hiring, promotion, or grading a course); and
- the conduct has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with a person's work or educational performance or creates an intimidating, hostile, or offensive environment for work or learning.

Sexual harassment may take many forms:

- physical assault
- a pattern of conduct that would discomfort or humiliate a reasonable person

About Consensual Relationships

The University prohibits amorous relationships between faculty (all instructional personnel at the University, including graduate students and instructional staff) and students enrolled in their classes or subject to their supervision. These amorous relationships are prohibited and viewed as unethical even when the relationship appears to be consensual (i.e., both parties have consented). Due to the power imbalance, the student's voluntary consent is questionable.

Such relationships present a conflict of interest for the parties, which significantly impacts the learning environment.

Amorous relationships between students and faculty outside the instructional context are discouraged because they also present the potential for conflicts of interest.

Complaints on Campus

The University takes sexual harassment seriously. During the 1995/96 academic year, there were 38 complaints of sexual harassment reported to various University offices. Five of the complaints were filed in the Office of Affirmative Action; the remaining 33 complaints were handled by other university offices. Thirty-five were informal complaints and three were formal complaints. Twenty-seven complaints resulted in action being warranted. Actions taken may range from verbal warnings to termination. In some instances, more than one action is warranted. Examples of the types of actions taken in 1995/96 include: counseling and educational training (18), verbal and written apologies (11), verbal and written warnings (8), probation, suspensions and work interruptions (3), and resignations, terminations and reassignments (1). These examples are offered to demonstrate the seriousness with which the University regards sexual harassment.

If You Are Sexually Harassed

Remember: You have a right to a work or an educational environment free from sexual harassment.

Learn more about your rights and responsibilities: Request copies of the University's sexual harassment policy and complaint procedures, available from the Office of Affirmative Action or any one of the offices listed under the University Resources section which follows.

Seek information and support: You may feel a range of emotions from helplessness, to rage, to confusion, to fear. Talking with someone can help you develop strategies to remedy the situation and lessen isolation you may be feeling.

Explore your informal and formal options:

- Document the incidents.
- Talk with the accused directly or write a letter to the accused. Clearly recount the incidents in question and their impact on you, and demand that the behavior stop. Deliver the letter by certified mail or in person; keep a copy.
- Discuss your experience with a supervisor, the Office of Affirmative Action, or a resource person in an office listed under University Resources. We can further assist you in defining and remedying the situation.
- Contact the Office of Affirmative Action for an informal resolution or a formal investigation of the situation. Your concerns will be handled in a confidential manner.

Be Aware of Your Behavior

- Pay attention to how your words and actions affect the work/learning environment, performance, and self-esteem of others.
- Distinguish between behaviors which may be acceptable socially, but which may not be acceptable in the workplace or classroom.
- Stop when someone asks you to discontinue a behavior.
- Do not assume that your peers or supervisees enjoy comments about their appearance, sexually-oriented jokes or comments, being touched, stared at, or propositioned.
- Do not assume that what you consider to be welcome sexual invitations will be welcomed by others.
- Do not instruct co-workers and supervisors to put up with offensive behavior.

Preventing Sexual Harassment

Education is fundamental to the prevention of sexual harassment. The Office of Affirmative Action provides educational programs and materials on this topic to individuals and units throughout the campus.

Copies of the University of Iowa's Policy on Sexual Harassment and Consensual Relationships, the Sexual Harassment Complaint Procedures, and brochures on sexual harassment prevention are available from the Office of Affirmative Action. Materials will be made available in alternative formats. Questions about the policy, the complaint procedures, or educational programs on sexual harassment prevention should be directed to the Office of Affirmative Action.

Iowa jumps to No. 13 in AP Poll

Following its second decisive victory in as many weeks, the Iowa football team went from No. 18 in last week's college football poll to No. 13 this week.

The Hawkeyes picked up 850 votes in this week's Associated Press college football poll after moving to 2-0 following Saturday's 56-14 win over Tulsa.

In addition, there's a new No. 2 on the block this week, and it's the Washington Huskies.

After a 36-3 win over San Diego State on Saturday, Washington moved past idle Florida in The Associated Press' Top 25 college football poll.

Penn State (2-0), with a 52-10 rout of Temple, was No. 1 again, receiving 25 first-place votes and 1,641 points from the 70 sports writers and broadcasters who vote in the poll.

The Huskies (2-0) collected 19 first-place votes and 1,615 points, just 26 points behind the Nitany Lions.

Florida (2-0), the defending national champion, dropped to No. 3 with 14 first-place votes and 1,598 points. Tennessee, which plays at Florida on Saturday after an off week, remained No. 4 with six first-place votes and 1,543 points.

Florida State (2-0), a 50-7 winner over Maryland, was No. 5 with three first-place votes and 1,483 points, while North Carolina (2-0) moved a spot to No. 6 and Nebraska (2-0) fell a place to No. 7 after a shaky 38-24 win over Central Florida.

The Tar Heels, who beat Stanford 28-17, had the first-place vote and 1,379 points, while the Cornhuskers had two first-place votes and 1,364 points.

The Huskies play host to the Huskers, so expect a few more changes near the top of the rankings after Saturday's games.

What is the largest crowd the Iowa football team has ever played in front of?
Answer Page 2B

Simply the best

Iowa running back Tavian Banks set the school's single-game rushing record Saturday, running for 314 yards in a 54-16 win over Tulsa.

Tavian's RECORD

Iowa senior running back Tavian Banks' 314 yards rushing Saturday against Tulsa was the greatest day an Iowa back has ever seen. Here's the other top performers:

- Ed Podolak, 17 carries for 286 yards and two touchdowns, 11-6-98 against Northwestern.
- Sedrick Shaw, 42 carries for 250 yards and one touchdown, 10-7-95 against Michigan State.
- Phil Blatcher, 27 carries for 247 yards and two touchdowns, 11-12-81 against Michigan State.
- Dennis Mosley, 39 carries for 229 yards and two touchdowns, 9-29-79 against Iowa State.

By Mike Triplett
The Daily Iowan

Iowa senior running back Tavian Banks has started just four games in his college career, but already he is the Hawkeyes' eighth-leading rusher of all-time.

On Saturday, he was Iowa's best ever.

Banks broke a 29-year-old school record with 314 rushing yards Saturday, making him the nation's leading rusher with 517 on the season. On the strength of his effort, Iowa defeated Tulsa 54-16.

It was also an effort that helped Banks pay tribute to his uncle, Dino Banks, who passed away last Saturday due to complications caused by the HIV virus.

Banks said the two of them were very close, and he dedicated his superb performance to his uncle, who died at the age of 30.

Banks' rushing yards, along with his seven touchdowns in two games, move him into the national spotlight, a place where he seems cool and confident, albeit extremely humble.

"I'm just running behind my offensive line, the fullbacks and the wide receivers who take pride in blocking downfield for me," Banks said.

He's just doing his thing.

Banks seems extremely unfazed by being recognized as one of the top football players in the nation. The only time he gives a hint of excitement is when he talks about how happy he is to finally be in a starting role.

"It means a lot," Banks said. "I've been waiting a long time to get in this position, and things are just coming my way right now."

Banks waited for three years behind Sedrick Shaw, Iowa's all-time leading rusher who is now an NFL back.

Banks can't reach Shaw's career rushing total of 4,156 yards. But with 1,806 career yards, he stands only 760 yards from being No. 2 on Iowa's all-time list.

Saturday, he passed seven Iowa backs on the career rushing list, including former NFL standout Nick Bell and Hawkeye legend Ed Podolak, the man who used to hold Iowa's single game rushing mark of 286 yards.

Where's Tim?

Record day overshadows Heisman push for Hawkeyes Tim Dwight

By James Kramer
The Daily Iowan

With Iowa's Tavian Banks running rampant against Tulsa, it was easy to forget about Tim Dwight, the Hawkeyes' other big playmaker.

Dwight's Heisman Trophy hopes dwindled even further against the Hurricane after a slow game against Northern Iowa a week ago.

The senior wingback caught just three passes Saturday for 48 yards and did not have a punt return. Iowa won, 54-16.

After two games, Dwight has five catches for 90 yards.

Iowa quarterback Matt Sherman tried several times to hook up with Dwight early in the game, but had little success. Sherman threw four incompletions to Dwight in the first quarter alone.

"I was kind of frustrated with the way I was playing," Dwight said. "Being a senior and all that, I've got to play a lot better than I am."

Dwight, an Iowa City native, salvaged his meager first-half performance with a crowd-igniting 35-yard touchdown reception to end the half.

With eight seconds left, Iowa sent two receivers to the end zone while Dwight cut underneath at the 10-yard line.

After catching the ball, Dwight ran toward the left sideline, eluding tacklers and diving across the goal line with no time remaining.

"It felt good to get back in the end zone," he said.

In a game of many highlights, Iowa coach Hayden Fry was particularly impressed with Dwight's heroics.

"The Hail Mary pass at the end of the half was really a thing of beauty," Fry said. "We knew that if (Dwight) caught the ball, he could get it in the end zone."

Tulsa refused to test Dwight's all-American punt return skills. The Hurricane kept the ball away from Dwight and Tony Collins brought back all three of Tulsa's returnable punts for 39 yards.

Dwight understands that pattern is likely to continue.

"I'm getting frustrated (with the punting)," Dwight said. "But that's all right, Tony's got enough skill."

The third facet of Dwight's multi-purpose attack — running the football — was also used during the Hawkeyes' win over Tulsa. On a reverse play in the third quarter, Dwight took a hand-off from Rob Thein and moved 39 yards to the Tulsa 22-yard line.

The run set up Banks' touchdown on the very next play.

"We've got big-play potential,"

Brian Ray/
The Daily Iowan

Dwight said. "We were excited to play. This team constantly wants to get better and better."

Dwight seems content sitting back while Banks steals the show. Banks carried the ball 29 times for 314 yards. Iowa's athletic department touted Dwight as a Heisman candidate, but his chances now hang by a thread.

"I don't know what you can say about him," Dwight said. "He's definitely the best back in the country. He made guys out there just look silly."

With Fry focusing Iowa's offense around Banks, there are other Hawkeyes not being utilized. Iowa did not throw one ball to tight end Chris Knipper on Saturday. Knipper was an honorable mention all-Big Ten selection last season.

Against Northern Iowa a week ago, Knipper caught one pass for 10 yards.

"I don't need the passes right now," Knipper said. "We're scoring all these points and we're obviously getting the job done somehow."

O-Line the key to record day

Tulsa coach Dave Rader praised Iowa's Tavian Banks on Saturday, calling him the best college runner he's seen since Barry Sanders.

But what about those large bodies in front of Banks? Banks sure didn't forget them, using every available opportunity to applaud his blockers.

"I'm just running behind my blockers right now," is a common theme when talking to Banks. It's actually the only thing he talks about.

The overly modest Banks shovels all of his kudos onto his offensive line these days. Iowa's blockers were well deserving of any credit they received from the enormously talented tailback.

There were times Saturday when Banks could run to the line of scrimmage, stop for a cup of coffee, and still pick up 30 yards. The Hawkeyes' big bodies up front created gaping holes time after time for Banks, and he took full advantage.

All this from a "makeshift" line that includes a former guard at center and a former center at left tackle.

Chris Knipper's decision to stay at tight end forced Iowa coach Hayden Fry to move Chad Deal to left tackle. Deal saw very limited action last season.

College Football

Top teams fall out of title run

With key losses in college football's second week, programs such as Notre Dame, Colorado, and Miami now find themselves quickly out of the national title race.

By Richard Rosenblatt
Associated Press

Notre Dame's out. So is Colorado, Miami and Texas. Midway through September, some of college football's glamour teams already find themselves out of national title contention.

While they try and rebound from Saturday's unexpected losses, this weekend could be even wackier, starting at the top with No. 4 Tennessee at No. 3 Florida and No. 7 Nebraska at No. 2 Washington.

There's a top-notch undercard, too, with No. 5 Florida State at No. 16 Clemson, No. 12 Auburn at No. 10 LSU, No. 17 Michigan State at Notre Dame and Arizona at No. 9 Ohio State.

But most eyes will be on Huskers-Huskies and Vols-Gators. "They will be wild and ready for us," Washington wide receiver Jerome Parthou said of Nebraska, which had trouble putting away Central Florida 38-24.

The Huskies had no such problems, rolling past San Diego State 35-3.

"We didn't come out with the energy we needed to and the energy I know we will have next week," the Huskies' Brock Huard, who threw for 313 yards and four touchdowns, said.

When the Gators (2-0) and Vols (2-0) play in Gainesville, Fla., national title chances hang in the balance. Again. The past two years, the Gators beat Peyton Manning & Co. and ended up playing for the national championship, losing to Nebraska in the '96 Fiesta Bowl and beating Florida State in the '97 Sugar Bowl.

"It has turned into a big game," Gators coach Steve Spurrier said. "Usually, the top two teams in a division create one of the most important games."

After Saturday's games, no coaches were mortified more than Bob Davie of Notre Dame and John Mackovic of Texas. "There's no question right now we're embarrassed as a coaching staff and we're embarrassed as a football team," Davie said after Purdue outplayed the Irish in a 28-17 upset that dropped Notre Dame out of the Top 25. "But it certainly was no fluke."

After UCLA clobbered Texas — the Longhorns' second worst loss in 105 years of football — Mackovic said: "We didn't do anything like we know we can do ... and everyone's Arizona State's Courtney Jackson (23) lets an interception slip through his finger tips as he covers Miami's Magic Benton (8) Saturday.

No. 6 North Carolina 28, No. 21 Stanford 17

At Chapel Hill, N.C., Oscar Davenport (12-of-14, 116 yards) came to the rescue, replacing an ineffective Chris Keldorf and leading Carolina on two long TD marches.

The second drive was capped by a 15-yard scoring pass to Octavus Barnes that put the Tar Heels ahead 21-17 early in the fourth quarter.

Stanford's Chad Hutchinson was 16-of-34 for 191 yards, with one TD passing and another running. He also threw two interceptions.

No. 7 Nebraska 38, Central Florida 24

At Lincoln, Neb., the Cornhuskers overcame Daunte Culpepper (24 of 35 for 318 yards, with one TD passing, another running) to get past the Golden Knights (0-3), who led 17-14 at the half.

Scott Frost scored an insurance TD for Nebraska on a 5-yard run with 3:08 left.

No. 8 Michigan 27, No. 14 Colorado 3

At Ann Arbor, Mich., Brian Griese passed for 258 yards and two TDs and Michigan's defense harassed John Hessler all day. Griese completed 21 of 28 passes as Michigan became the last I-A team to open the season. Hessler threw four interceptions and was just 15 of 40 for 141 yards.

No. 9 Ohio State 44, Bowling Green 13

At Columbus, Ohio, Michael Wiley returned a kickoff 100 yards and ran 7 yards for another score as the Buckeyes (2-0) led only 24-13 at the half before pulling away.

The Buckeyes held Bowling Green (1-2) to 163 total yards.

No. 10 LSU 24, Mississippi St. 9

At Starkville, Miss., LSU (2-0) "There's no question we are embarrassed as a coaching staff and we're embarrassed as a football team. But certainly it was no fluke."

No. 14 Arizona State 23, No. 22 Miami 12

At Miami, Ryan Kealy gave his best Jake Pummert imitation as he threw for 239 yards and a TD as the Sun Devils handed the Hurricanes their fourth loss in their last five games at the Orange Bowl.

Miami (1-1) had a 58-game winning streak at the OB from 1985-94, but are just 13-6 since.

No. 19 Washington State 28, USC 21

At Los Angeles, the Cougars beat

USC at the Coliseum for the first time in 40 years as Ryan Leaf threw for 355 yards and 3 TDs, including a 51-yard TD pass to Kevin McKenzie with 4:18 remaining.

The Cougars (2-0) led 21-6 at halftime, but USC came tied it on a 95-yard kickoff return, a 15-yard TD pass and a 2-point conversion.

With a season-opening win over UCLA, it was the first time the Cougars swept both Los Angeles schools. USC is 0-2 for the first time since it started 0-3 in 1960.

No. 24 UCLA 66, Texas 3

At Austin, Texas, Cade McNown threw for a school-record five touchdowns — in the first half — and Skip Hicks ran for two scores and caught a TD pass for the Bruins (1-2).

The Longhorns absorbed their their worst defeat since a 68-0 loss to Chicago 93 years ago. The Bruins, who led 38-0 at halftime, forced eight turnovers, six leading to TDs.

Purdue 28, Notre Dame 17

At West Lafayette, Ind., thousands of fans streamed onto the field and the Purdue band mockingly played the Irish victory march as the Boilermakers beat Notre Dame for the first time in 12 years.

Billy Dicken was 26 of 39 for 352 yards and rushed for another 22 yards and Edwin Watson had two TD runs.

"We hope we have a lot more of these at Purdue," new coach Joe Tiller said.

Other Notables:

—In Iowa's 54-16 rout of Tulsa, Tavian Banks set a school single-game rushing record with 314 yards, including TD runs of 71, 14, 14 and 23 yards. Banks ran for 203 yards last week.

—Langston beat Prairie View 19-10, extending the Panthers' record-setting streak to 70 games.

—Ron Dayne ran 80 yards for a TD on the first play from scrimmage and finished with 254 yards and three TDs in Wisconsin's 56-10 win over San Jose State.

—Randy Moss caught eight passes for 216 yards and three TDs in Marshall's 42-17 win over Kent. In three games, Moss has 20 catches for 487 yards and seven TDs.

BIG TEN FOOTBALL ROUNDUP

Best of both worlds in week two for Big Ten

The Associated Press

What did we learn from the weekend's games involving Big Ten football teams? Michigan won't always get buffaloed by Colorado in the final seconds. Purdue isn't a doormat any more. And, sometimes scheduling a patsy doesn't always guarantee a win as Illinois and Northwestern found out.

No. 8 Michigan crushed Colorado 27-3 after the last two games between the schools were determined on the final plays.

"I was expecting a close game," Michigan quarterback Brian Griese said. "We were just able to play well and we took advantage of some turnovers."

Purdue upset Notre Dame 28-17. "I'm going to tell you what, folks, sooner or later, that oblong, spherical sucker is going to bounce your way," Purdue coach Joe Tiller said.

Chafie Fields, who shifted from tailback to wideout this spring, had two touchdowns on reverses for Penn State at State College, Pa.

Fields had 90 yards rushing, nine more than Curtis Enis, who crossed the 2,000-yard career mark with 81 yards on the ground.

"We're such a balanced team," said Enis. "People are going to have to decide what they are going to stop."

Todd Schultz threw three touchdown passes in a 28-point first quarter for Michigan State at East Lansing, Mich.

"We're getting a feel for each other," Schultz said, referring to the receivers. "I feel real good with the protection."

Tavian Banks, breaking off one long run after another, set an Iowa single-game rushing mark with 314 yards to pace the Hawkeyes at Iowa City, Iowa.

"Just a word for the rest of the Big Ten: Tavian Banks is better than Sedrick Shaw," Tulsa coach Dave Radar said, referring to Green coach Gary Blackney has some advice for the next small college to play Ohio State.

"Take the money and forfeit," Blackney, whose team got $350,000 for its trouble.

Green Bay's Terry Mickens jumps up to grab an onside kick by Miami Sunday in Green Bay.

Packers suffer losses in win

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) - Even in victory, the Green Bay Packers find themselves dealing with big losses.

With five starters from their Super Bowl team already having missed at least one start, the champions sustained two more injuries on Sunday when they struggled to a 23-18 victory over the Miami Dolphins.

Gilbert Brown, the champions' 350-pound run stuffer, strained his right knee and All-Pro strong safety LeRoy Butler tore his right biceps. It's uncertain how many games they'll miss, if any.

The Packers were minus two starters on the offensive line, including center Frank Winters (foot), whose 82-game streak came to an end.

It's been like that all season for the Packers: struggle and pain.

"Toward the end of the game, I was telling myself that it's going to be this way every week," Packers quarterback Brett Favre said.

The Packers were sloppy once again, losing two fumbles and drawing four flags in a seven-play span in the fourth quarter.

"It was a great win for us," Packers coach Mike Holmgren said. "Now, if we can kind of clean up some of the stuff..."

Favre threw two touchdown passes, including one to wide-open fullback William Henderson from 10 yards out with 5:33 left as Green Bay (2-1) bounced back from a loss at Philadelphia.

Ryan Longwell, who missed a chip shot in the final seconds that would have beaten the Eagles, hit all three of his field goals to counter four from Miami's Olindo Mare.

Denver quarterback John Elway fires a pass during the third quarter against St. Louis Sunday at Mile High Stadium.

Ravens 24, Giants 23

Vinny Testaverde threw two touchdown passes as the Ravens rallied from a 23-14 deficit with 12:22 to play to hand the Giants (1-2) their second straight loss.

Testaverde, as backup Eric Zeier warmed up, then drove the Ravens 48 yards in eight plays. Testaverde, 22 of 35 for 223 yards, fumbled the snap on the first play of the drive, but the ball bounced up to him and he ran for 11 yards.

Barry buries the Bears, 32-7

CHICAGO (AP) - Barry Sanders dipped to the right, took the handoff and darted left. He stepped forward, stopped, and started again. He ducked into the line, bounded away, and swept around the end.

The Detroit Lions rediscovered their All-Pro runner just in time to unleash him on the winless Chicago Bears, who have plummeted to their lowest point in almost three decades.

Sanders, held to 53 yards in the season's first two games, rushed for 161 Sunday as the Lions rolled to a 32-7 victory.

"Up to this point, the problem was me," said first-year Detroit coach Bobby Ross, who had blamed himself for not giving Sanders enough carries. "Boy, it is nice to have him on your side when he is hot like that."

While Sanders and the Lions (2-1) excelled, Chicago looked awful after two decent but not-quite-good-enough efforts. The last time the Bears opened with three losses was 1969, when they went 1-13 in the team's worst season.

Chicago (0-3, all against NFC Central rivals) also lost former 1,000-yard rusher Rashaan Salaam for the season with a broken lower right leg. The Bears were repeatedly burned by Scott Mitchell's passing and got poor performances from starting quarterback Erik Kramer and backup Rick Mirer, who made his Bears debut.

Safety John Mangum, at eight years the longest-tenured Chicago player, called it the low point of his career.

Linebacker Bryan Cox said the team looked baffled but shouldn't have been because they knew the Lions were going to go with Sanders, Sanders and more Sanders.

"Number 20 dominated the game," Cox said. "He was simply Barry. He got us going the way he wanted us to go, and he cut back and made a lot of plays."

The Tampa Bay Buccaneers are the only unbeaten team in the NFC. They are.

Hoppe Copeland caught his first touchdown pass since 1995 and set up another score with a 49-yard grab as surprising Tampa Bay remained perfect with a 28-14 victory Sunday over the Minnesota Vikings, and kept the conference's only other unbeaten team after two weeks.

Rookie Warren Dorn scored on a 52-yard run in the fourth quarter, helping the Bucs (3-0) to their best start since the 1979 team won its first five games on the way to the NFC championship game.

Dorn, who had 130 yards and a TD in last week's win at Detroit, finished with 101 yards on 16 carries.

Trent Diller was 15-for-20 for 192 yards and two TDs for the Bucs. He now has four TD passes — matching his entire 1995 total — and no interceptions.

PASBRO caught two touchdowns, including a 64-yard, 40-yard grab 1:36 into overtime in the inaugural game at Jack Kent Cooke Stadium.

Westbrook, who caught only one pass in the first two games, had a demolition from the starting lineup for his attack on leathern Stephen Davis during a pregame practice.

The game-winner came after Redskins rookie Kenard Lang stopped Leinard McRoy of the ball on Arizona's first overtime possession. Another rookie, Derek Smith, recovered the fumble.

De La Hoya remains unbeaten

Oscar De La Hoya raised his record to 26-0 when he beat Hector Camacho Saturday night to retain the WBC welterweight championship.

By Ed Schuyler Jr.
Associated Press

LAS VEGAS — Oscar De La Hoya couldn't fulfill his prediction of knocking out Hector Camacho. Instead, he had to settle for beating him up Saturday night at the Thomas & Mack Center.

De La Hoya ripped Camacho with punishing left hooks to the body, wobbled him several times and knocked him down in the ninth round with thunderous head shots to retain the WBC welterweight championship on a unanimous decision.

A CompuBox punch analysis credited De La Hoya with landing 373 punches to 124 for Camacho. De La Hoya was credited with 340 power punches to just 54 for Camacho.

Judge Anek Hongtongkam of Thailand scored it 118-108, John Keane of England saw it 120-106 and Chuck Giampa of Las Vegas scored it 120-105 for De La Hoya.

The AP card favored De La Hoya 119-105.

"My goal is to take him out probably in the seventh round," De La Hoya said before the fight. "My goal is to become the first man ever to knock him out."

That goal went unfulfilled, but De La Hoya almost floored him 22 seconds into the fight, wobbled him on several occasions and knocked him down in the ninth round.

"He was very tricky but I thought he was just trying to survive," said the 24-year-old De La Hoya, who made the 35-year-old look like an old fighter. "He held on a lot, I thought I fought well."

In the ninth round, De La Hoya hurt the left-handed Camacho with a hook, a right to the head and a hook to the body at 1:28 of the round, then knocked him down with a left uppercut, a right and a left hook to the head.

Camacho bounced right up, took the mandatory eight count and survived the round.

In the 10th round, De La Hoya hurt Camacho with a right to the body and a right to the head and pursued him around the ring, scoring with savage punches to the head and body.

De La Hoya dished out more heavy punishment in the 11th round, and when he hurt Camacho with a right to the head, the challenger grabbed De La Hoya, pushed him and caused him to fall on his left shoulder.

The final round was another tough one for Camacho and De La Hoya tried desperately for a knockout. Camacho was penalized a point for holding, and was sent backward with a right to the head at the end of the fight.

"He did everything he said he would except knock me out," said Camacho, who lost for the fourth time against 64 victories and one draw.

De La Hoya boosted his record to 26-0 with 21 knockouts.

De La Hoya, who looked every bit deserving of his 6-1 favorite status, fought at the weight class limit of 147 pounds as he made his second defense of the WBC welterweight title. He also has held the WBO junior lightweight and light-heavyweight titles, the IBF lightweight title and the WBC super lightweight title.

Camacho also weighed 147, 13 pounds less than he weighed when he battered Sugar Ray Leonard into defeat March 1. Camacho also has held the WBC super featherweight and lightweight titles and the WBO junior lightweight title. The defeat snapped his unbeaten streak at 21.

De La Hoya earned $9 million while Camacho got $3 million.

The crowd was estimated at 14,100.

Clark carries Chicago past Pittsburgh, 3-2

Pitcher Mark Clark remained unbeaten with the Cubs.

By Alan Robinson
Associated Press

PITTSBURGH — The Pittsburgh Pirates continued a September slide that may soon drop them out of contention in the NL Central, losing 3-2 Sunday to Chicago as Mark Clark remained unbeaten with the Cubs.

While the Cubs won for the eighth time in 11 games, the Pirates have lost five of six and 14 of 19.

Clark (13-7), who had been 0-5 against the Pirates, gave up six hits, struck out eight and walked none in eight innings for his sixth consecutive victory. He is 5-0 in seven starts since being traded by the Mets.

Turner Ward hit a tying pinch-hit homer off Clark in the eighth, but the Cubs scored the go-ahead run in the ninth on pinch-hitter Lance Johnson's sacrifice fly off Rich Loiselle.

Pinch-hitter Miguel Cairo started the rally by lining a grounder past Freddy Garcia for a two-base error — the third of the game by a Pirates third baseman. Pinch-hitter Manny Alexander followed with an RBI single against Ricardo Rincon (4-8), and Johnson, the Cubs' third consecutive pinch-hitter, followed with fly to deep left off Loiselle.

The Pirates, who trailed Houston by only 1 1/2 games in the NL Central as late as Sept. 2, slipped to a season-low seven games below .500 (71-78) for the third time and are closer to third place than they are to first.

Pittsburgh began the day 4 1/2 games behind Houston and cannot retake the division lead even with a sweep of the Astros in a two-game series on Wednesday and Thursday in Three Rivers Stadium.

Once again, the Pirates' trouble was the lack of timely hitting. Trailing 2-1 in the fourth, they put runners on first and second with none out on Al Martin's leadoff double and third baseman Kevin Orie's error on Mark Smith's grounder, but Clark retired the next three hitters in order. Dale Sveum fied out before Clark struck out Shawn Dunston and Joe Randa.

Clark, trying to become the first Cubs pitcher to throw three consecutive complete games since Rick Sutcliffe in August 1988, was lifted for a pinch-hitter after giving up six hits, striking out eight and walking none.

Terry Adams pitched the ninth for his 17th save.

The Pirates were 3-for-19 with runners in scoring position while losing twice in the three games, stranding 12 runners Friday even while winning 3-1.

BASEBALL ROUNDUP

Dodgers 4, Astros 3
HOUSTON (AP) — Mike Piazza singled home the winning run in the 10th inning Sunday and the Los Angeles Dodgers moved back into a tie for first in the NL West, stopping a five-game losing streak.

Houston remained 4 1/2 games ahead of second-place Pittsburgh in the NL Central.

Billy Wagner (7-8) struck out three of his first four batters, then walked Otis Nixon and Eric Young with one out in the 10th. Piazza then singled to center off Jose Lima.

ATLANTA — Colorado won for the 15th time in 17 games, completing a three-game sweep. The Rockies, 11 games out of first on Aug. 30, moved within five games of the NL West lead.

Atlanta's NL East lead was cut to 4 1/2 games over second-place Florida.

Andres Galarraga's eighth-inning hit broke up a scoreless duel between John Smoltz (14-12) and Pedro Astacio (11-9). Pinch-hitter John Vander Wal had a three-run homer in the ninth, his first home run since last Sept. 16.

Marlins 5, Giants 4

MIAMI — Kurt Abbott broke an eighth-inning tie with a swinging bunt in the eighth that rolled 10 feet for an RBI single. Pinch hitter Jim Eisenreich followed with a sacrifice fly for a 5-3 lead.

San Francisco scored once in the ninth and had runners at second and third with two outs. Third baseman Bobby Bonilla then made a game-ending catch of Barry Bonds' pop foul while tumbling into the first row of stands.

Mets 1, Expos 0

NEW YORK — A ninth-inning collision at home plate that led to three Montreal ejections overshadowed Dave Mlicki (8-11), who allowed seven hits in 8 2-3 shutout innings.

Luis Lopez homered off Carlos Perez (12-11), his first since May 28, 1996, helping the Mets remain 5 1/2 games behind Florida in the wild-card race.

Marlins' Craig Counsell goes up and over Giants' Stan Javier.

Cardinals 10, Padres 4

ST. LOUIS — Mark McGwire hit his 51st homer, and St. Louis Cardinals scored seven runs in the eighth.

McGwire, the first player with consecutive 50-homer seasons since Babe Ruth in 1927-28, connected off Joey Hamilton (11-6) in the sixth. He has 17 homers in 37 games since St. Louis acquired him from Oakland on July 31, and has 14 games remaining to chase Roger Maris' season record of 61.

Reds 6, Phillies 4

PHILADELPHIA — Jon Nunnally had three hits, scored two runs and came home on the front end of a double steal.

Rookie Brett Tomko (11-6) allowed three runs — two earned — and six hits in 7 1-3 innings, helping Cincinnati beat the Phillies for the eighth time in 11 games this season.

Jeff Shaw pitched a scoreless ninth to convert his 12th consecutive save chance, giving him 37 in 43 opportunities.

Mariners 3, Blue Jays 2

SEATTLE — Jay Buhner hit a two-run homer in the eighth inning as the Seattle Mariners rallied past the Toronto Blue Jays and held their 5 1/2-game lead in the AL West.

Ken Griffey Jr. failed to homer for the seventh straight game since reaching 50. Seattle cut the magic number for winning the AL West to eight over Anaheim.

Angels 3, Royals 2

ANAHEIM, Calif. — Garret Anderson broke up Tim Lincecum's no-hit bid with a seventh-inning double and drove in the winning run with a sacrifice fly in the eighth as Anaheim remained 5 1/2 games behind first-place Seattle.

Mike James (5-5) got the victory, with one strikeout in eighth. Troy Percival pitched the ninth for his 25th save. Scott Service (0-1) was the loser.

Indians 8, White Sox 3

CHICAGO — Sandy Alomar hit a bases-loaded single to key a bizarre seven-run eighth, and Cleveland increased its AL Central lead to 7 1/2 games over Chicago and Milwaukee. Jim Thome hit his 40th homer for the Indians.

Chicago tied a major league record by using nine pitchers in the nine-inning game.

Paul Shuey (4-1) pitched a scoreless seventh. Jeff Darwin (0-1) was the loser.

Red Sox 2, Brewers 1

MILWAUKEE — Rookie Nomar Garciaparra hit his 29th homer and Butch Henry (7-2) allowed six hits in seven innings. Milwaukee has lost five straight and seven of eight.

Tom Gordon got three outs for his eighth save.

Twins 11, Rangers 1

ARLINGTON, Texas — Todd Walker hit a three-run homer that highlighted a six-run first and Minnesota, which had lost nine of 11, stopped the Rangers' four-game winning streak.

Bobby Witt (11-11) retired only one batter, matching his shortest outing in a career spanning 336 starts. He allowed six runs and six hits.

Tigers 6, Athletics 5

OAKLAND, Calif. — Scott Sanders (6-12) won consecutive starts for the first time this season, and Bob Hamelin and Tony Clark homered.

Todd Jones pitched the ninth to convert his 21st consecutive save chance, giving him 29 in 33 opportunities this season. He allowed a two-out RBI single to Tilton Brito, then struck out Miguel Tejada.

GAME NOTES

Iowa defense is human

■ The Hawkeyes gave up 10 second-quarter points Saturday, ending a string of nine scoreless quarters.

By James Kramer and Mike Triplett
The Daily Iowan

At least now we know Iowa's defenders are human. Bob Elliott's defensive squad had its scoreless quarter streak stopped at nine Saturday, but the Hawkeyes' defensive coordinator kept his head held high.

Iowa's defense had not allowed since the team's last regular season game last year. In the second quarter Saturday, Tulsa quarterback John Fitzgerald threw a 13-yard touchdown pass to Charlie Higgins. The Hawkeyes defeated Tulsa, 54-16.

"It was generally a good effort," Elliott said. "We had two long drives with four plays each. We can not have big plays like that against us."

"But when the day comes when we can't be happy with a victory, it's time to quit playing football."

The last time a team scored against Iowa was Nov. 23, when the Hawkeyes defeated Minnesota, 43-24.

Iowa then tossed a shutout against Texas Tech in its 27-0 Alamo Bowl victory. Last weekend, the Hawkeyes defeated Northern Iowa, 66-0.

After playing two teams with pass-driven offenses, Iowa will face Iowa State next week. The Cyclones feature a more balanced attack.

"They're gonna test us in a lot of ways," Elliott said. "I'm looking forward to somebody trying to challenge us with the run."

Tulsa's offense offered no challenges on the ground for Iowa. The Golden Hurricane had just 89 rushing yards to go along with 128 via the pass.

That defensive effort was much stronger than the last time Iowa and Tulsa met. The Hurricane embarrassed the Hawkeyes' defense last year at Tulsa, as Iowa dropped a 27-20 decision. The Hurricane racked up 464 yards of total offense.

"When they spread out all over the field and try to throw it, that's when we're at our best because that's what we've been practicing against," Elliott said.

OFFENSIVE LINE EXCELS: Iowa coach Hayden Fry was extremely pleased with his offensive line, particularly the play of center Derek Rose.

The line opened up massive holes for Tavian Banks to run through. Banks ended up with 314 yards on the ground.

"Derek Rose really had an outstanding game at center," Fry said. "All the different defensive sets that they gave us, they ran practically every stunt in the world, he made the right calls time after time to pick those up."

The line was a question mark entering the season, with Rose moving from guard and left tackle Chad Deal in his first year as a starter.

PODOLAK'S PROPHECY: Former Hawkeye Ed Podolak watched

Jonathan Meester/The Daily Iowan

Iowa junior defensive lineman Jared DeVries gets a grip on Tulsa's Charlie Higgins Saturday during the Hawkeyes' 54-16 victory.

Tavian Banks erase his 29-year-old single-game rushing record Saturday, giving him a flashback to one of his crowning achievements. Podolak ran for 286 yards on just 17 carries against Northwestern on Nov. 9, 1968.

"I had just switched from quarterback to tailback," Podolak recalled.

"(Then-coach) Ray Nagel shifted me to tailback and said if it didn't work, then he would shift me back to quarterback."

"I realized after that game I wasn't going back to quarterback," Podolak, who does radio commentary for Iowa, never dreamed his record would hold up for so long. He also said he thought Banks would be the guy to break it sometime this season.

"I made a comment early in the broadcast that he would break my record sometime this year because of his skill," Podolak said.

"And play-by-play man Gary Dolphin said, 'Well, it could be today.' "He was very prophetic."

TIMMY D A NO-SHOW ON "D": Iowa's all-everything wingback Tim Dwight did not play defense for Elliott against Tulsa. Dwight played in the defensive secondary against UNI and is expected to play there again.

Tulsa's hurry-up style of offense made it difficult for Elliott to shuttle in new players between plays.

"That was the primary reason," Elliott said. "We couldn't get our substitutions in like we wanted to."

"Tim worked all week with us at nickelback and he'll play there again. We can go with Tim or without Tim."

Dwight didn't mind being on the sidelines during Iowa's defensive stands.

"I was getting a little tired and worn out," he said.

NO GOOD: Zach Bromert's string of 35 straight extra-points was snapped Saturday when the Iowa placekicker missed one in the second quarter.

Bromert was successful on his first two PATs of the game.

Rob Houghtlin holds the Iowa record with 42 consecutive PATs.

Greg McLaughlin handled most of Iowa's kickoff duties against Tulsa. Bromert also made two field goals, while Chad Johnson missed a 46-yard attempt.

KRAMER/O-line deserves respect

With the departure of Bill Reardon, last season's starting center, Derek Rose was asked to move into the position. Rose started 11 games last year at guard.

Now Banks is the best rusher in the nation and the Hawkeyes are the 13th-ranked team in the country. The thing is, a lot of runners could pick up major yardage with the offensive line playing the way it has through two games.

Knipper's receiving skills have not been used thus far, allowing the tight end to make holes even bigger. That trend will likely continue, as Iowa's deep wide receiver corps will see most of Matt Sherman's passes.

"It's kind of like, if (Banks) is gonna pound out 300 yards on the ground, we don't need to throw the ball," Knipper said. "Our ground attack was just on fire today."

Deal speaks with a satisfied tone when discussing he and his colleagues' work.

"Our line is really coming together," Deal said. "We're rotating more than we have in the past and our top seven guys are really doing the job. We're giving Tavian a crease to get through."

The Hawkeyes started Deal, Rose, guards Matt Reisch and Mike Goff and right tackle Jeremy McKinney. Shaker Pryor and Keith Rignup also saw plenty of action.

The line's dominance will continue for at least another week or two, as Iowa plays at Big 12 doormat Iowa State and Big Ten rival Illinois at home. Those teams will not challenge Iowa's running game.

But Iowa's line will find out how good it really is on Oct. 4. That's the day Iowa travels to Columbus to battle Ohio State. Two weeks later, the Hawkeyes play at Michigan.

Attention, Hawkeye blockers: The Wolverines held Colorado to just 49 rushing yards on Saturday. That statistic alone should be enough motivation to keep working.

The performance of Iowa's offensive line will determine the Hawkeyes' fate. If they keep digging canyons for Banks to run through, Iowa fans can order those Rose Bowl tickets.

But if they fail, it'll be a seventh straight Pasadena-less season. Banks is a great runner, even better with places to run. And Sherman needs all the protection he can get.

BANKS/Hawkeye makes history

"It wasn't broken by a flash in the pan, that's for sure," said Podolak, who does color commentary for Iowa football on the radio. "He's the best I've ever seen."

Banks may have said the same about Podolak, but Saturday was the first time Banks had even heard of him.

Though he's from Bettendorf, Iowa, Banks wasn't much of a Hawkeye fan before he moved to Iowa City. As a matter of fact, the high school all-American took some flack when he chose Iowa over such highly-touted schools as Notre Dame and Miami.

But now he's having the last laugh. Banks is the nation's leading rusher and his Hawkeyes are fast marching up the polls.

"We've been building on this," Banks said. "I came to Iowa because I wanted to better a team, or help better a team. And this is the team we've built, right here."

Iowa cruised past a Tulsa team with roughly the same make-up as last year's Hurricane squad which beat Iowa, 27-20. Saturday, the Hawkeyes showed their growth.

With 625 total yards, Iowa's offense passed the 600-yard mark for the second consecutive week.

Senior quarterback Matt Sherman threw for 186 yards and two touchdowns on 15-of-23 passing. And senior wideout Tim Dwight caught three passes for 48 yards and one touchdown.

Dwight's touchdown, which came on the final play of the first half, was the highlight of the day. Dwight caught a "Hail Mary" of sorts at the 10-yard line, and jukeed defenders as he ran in for the touchdown, which covered 35 yards.

FIRST QUARTER

Running back Tavian Banks (above) had touchdown runs of 71, 14 and 14 yards to get the Iowa offense started. Zach Bromert also kicked a field goal and two extra points.

Bromert missed his third PAT attempt of the period, ending his streak of 35 straight successful tries.

Banks had nine first-quarter carries for 155 yards. First-year punter Austin Wheatley had one attempt for 56 yards.

Tulsa hurt itself with four penalties totaling 41 yards. Iowa's kickoff coverage continued to struggle as Jason Jacoby returned three kicks for 118 yards.

Brian Ray/The Daily Iowan

SECOND QUARTER

Wheatley's first punt of the period had Iowa coach Hayden Fry shaking his head. Wheatley's punt traveled just 11 yards before finding a home out of bounds at the Tulsa 47.

Wheatley's poor punt led to the Hurricane's first points of the game. John Fitzgerald threw a 13-yard touchdown pass to Charlie Higgins to make the score 23-7.

With 17 seconds left in the half, Iowa freshman Chad Johnson missed a 46-yard field goal attempt. On Tulsa's first offensive play, defensive end Jeff Kramer forced Higgins to fumble and Iowa's Eric Thigpen recovered.

With eight seconds remaining, Matt Sherman threw a 35-yard touchdown pass to Tim Dwight (above), who had to dive into the end zone with now time on the clock. Iowa led, 30-10, at the half.

Brian Ray/The Daily Iowan

THIRD QUARTER

Iowa's first possession ended with Sherman throwing an interception into the hands of Adonis Peil. Tulsa then scored its second touchdown of the game, but missed a two-point conversion attempt. Iowa's lead was cut to 30-16.

Banks (above) came to the rescue with his fourth touchdown at the 4:28 mark. The tailback ran off left tackle 23 yards for the score and had 283 rushing yards in the period.

The Hawkeyes took a 37-16 lead into the fourth quarter.

Jonathan Meester/The Daily Iowan

FOURTH QUARTER

Iowa blew the game wide open in the final period, scoring 17 more points. Rob Then (above) started the offensive spree with a nine-yard TD reception 36 seconds into the quarter.

The Hawkeyes got a 34-yard field goal from Bromert on their next possession for a 47-16 lead.

Higgins tumbled once again with just over nine minutes remaining. The miscue led to another Iowa touchdown as backup quarterback Randy Reiners hit Richard Willock in the end zone for a 27-yard score. Bromert's extra point gave the Hawkeyes their final point, 54-16.

Banks broke Iowa's single-game rushing record in the fourth quarter, eclipsing Ed Podolak's 1968 record of 286 yards. Banks finished with 314.

Scoring five runners in the 20, Iowa took runners-up honors with 51 points. But the real story was how close it was to finishing first and who it was the Hawkeyes were chasing.

Pre-season favorite and two-time defending Big Ten champion Jason Consin took the ISU championship with 44 points, just six points better than their nemesis in the end.

Iowa junior Chad Switzer was the surprise of the field, finishing with 38 points.

With a depleted roster and a lack of runners who had yet to run in the season, the Iowa women's cross country team fell short at the Illinois State Invitational on Friday.

The Hawkeyes finished last of the four-team field, finishing behind champion Illinois State and Northern Iowa.

"We were a little disappointed with our team finish," coach Swails said. "But with two of our top four out we knew it was going to be a tough one. There was a lot of talent in Illinois and Illinois had these two teams had good individual talent."

The Iowa men's cross country team received an education at Friday's Illinois State Invitational. It learned that little separates them from the best in the Big Ten, and the hand it holds is definitely better than a pair of aces. Scoring five runners in the top-20, Iowa took runners-up honors with 51 points. But the real story was how close it was to finishing first and who it was the Hawkeyes were chasing. Pre-season favorite and two-time defending Big Ten champion Wisconsin took the ISU championship with 44 points, just six points better than their nemesis in the black and gold. Iowa junior Chad Schwitters was the surprise of the field, finishing fourth. Schwitters' time of 25 minutes, five seconds was just eight seconds off the winning pace set by Jason Vanderhoof of Wisconsin. The time also set a new personal best for the Rockford, Ill. native, as his previous best race time checked in at 25:29. "Schwitters is a feature story in itself," coach Larry Wiecezorek said. "Here is a guy that's a former walk-on that just keeps on getting better and better. He just went out and had a fabulous race." Stetson Steele also placed in the top-10, coming in seventh in 25:18. Paul Sarris, another walk-on, gave Wiecezorek yet another surprise with an 11th-place finish. Sarris blew away his previous best, lowering his time more than one minute with a 25:30. "He was sensational," Wiecezorek said. "That's really all you can say

"With Trent, it's one of those things that we knew we had a good recruit in him, but we just wanted to get him in there to see what he was capable of," Wiecezorek said. For Corey he was just happy with finishing. "It was a lot of fun," Corey said. "My mind was just set on finishing and running with the pack. Coach didn't put any pressure on me prior to the race and everything came out nicely. "With the guys on the team there is always someone with high ability level around me, so I can just sit in the pack and do my best." Iowa was originally scheduled to compete in the Iowa Open, the team's only home event, but it was canceled due to scheduling problems. The Hawkeyes will return to action in two weeks at the Illinois Invitational.

Former Iowa A.D. Brechler dies at 86

DENVER (AP) — Dr. Paul W. Brechler, the Western Athletic Conference's first commissioner, died Saturday at his Denver home. He was 86. Brechler, who wrote the WAC's original code of rules and regulations, served as commissioner from 1962 through 1969. He also presided over the Rocky Mountain Athletic Conference from 1976-90. Born July 17, 1911, in Curlew, Iowa, Brechler served as Lt. Sgt. Gen. in the U.S. Navy during World War II and later attained the rank of colonel while in the Army Reserve's Selective Service System.

Brechler became the youngest athletic director in Big Ten history when, at age 36, he was hired at the University of Iowa in 1947. He stayed in Iowa City until 1960 when he took over as commissioner of the Mountain States Athletic Conference. After his seven-year tenure with the WAC, Brechler served as athletic director at the University of California-Berkeley until 1972. Through the years, he served on several NCAA committees and chaired the first committee on the feasibility of a national college football championship system.

Injuries plague women's cross country team

by Chuck Blount
The Daily Iowan

With a depleted roster and a slew of runners who had yet to run a 5K race, the Iowa women's cross country team fell short at the Illinois State Invitational on Friday. The Hawkeyes finished last out of the four-team field, finishing behind meet champion Illinois, Illinois State and Northern Iowa. "We were a little disappointed with our team finish," coach Sara Swails said. "But with two of our top four out we knew it was going to be a tough one. There was a strong field in Illinois and Illinois State, these two teams had good individual talent."

Alienor Gilchrist and Maggie Griffin were out of the line-up due to separate injuries. Gilchrist was consistently one of the squad's top finishers a year ago, and is expected to be the feature performer this year. Griffin started the race, but pulled out early due to a leg injury. Junior transfer Mandy Vitense led Iowa, placing ninth in 18 minutes and 55 seconds. Vitense was 35 seconds off the pace set by meet champion Becky Slick of Northern Iowa, who tallied a 18:20 finish. Freshman Julie Wuorinen finished just four seconds behind Vitense for a 12th-place finish (18:59). Wuorinen and fellow freshmen Kristen Haeffe and Rachel Ballweg competed in their first-ever collegiate meet. "They did well for their first time at that distance," Swails said. "Kristen ran a really good, strong race (Haeffe finished 31st in 20:21). Actually, she was a real surprise, we didn't expect her to do as well as she did." Other finishers for Iowa included junior Jill Scheibel (33rd), Ballweg (20:58) and sophomore Julie Druis (36th). Iowa will return to action in two weeks, and Swails expects to compete with a full and healthy team. During the next two weeks, she plans on emphasizing on the final mile of the race. "We had a fast start out of the gun with four runners under six minutes at the first mile," Swails said. "A good final mile with make us a much better team and that is what we're going to focus on."

Mullen leads Hawkeyes to third-place

By Andy Hamilton
The Daily Iowan

Iowa women's golf coach Diane Thomson didn't know if sophomore M.C. Mullen would be able to play the entire Spartan Fall Invitational after recovering from mononucleosis. Mullen not only played all 54 holes on Saturday and Sunday in East Lansing, Mich., but only

Michigan State's Kasey Gant and Indiana's Erin Carney posted lower scores. "Not one time did she over-swing," Thomson said. "She only swung about 75 percent to conserve energy and she hit the ball great. The joke among the players is how do you get mono?" The Hawkeyes finished third despite a shaky first round 324. During Saturday's second round, Mullen, Stacey Bergman and freshman Katherine Mowat posted scores under 80 to push the Hawkeyes past Notre Dame into third place at the 15-team tournament. Iowa bettered its second round 312 with Sunday's final round 310, but the Hawkeyes didn't gain any ground on eventual champion Indiana or second-place Michigan State. "I'm really pleased with the way we played and particularly the last two rounds," Thomson said. "If we would've opened like that, we could've won the tournament." Bergman and fellow sophomore Kelli Carney tied for 14th individually at 25 over par. Freshman Meghan Spero finished two shots behind Bergman and Carney in 22nd place.

Soccer team suffers second defeat in a row

By Becky Gruhn
The Daily Iowan

The Iowa soccer team suffered its second straight defeat of the season, losing to the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee on Sunday, 1-0. The Hawkeyes and Panthers battled scoreless for 87 minutes until UW-M's Fanta Cooper connected on a shot from the right side at the 87:37 mark to put the Panthers on top 1-0. "It was disappointing to lose in the final minutes like that," Iowa coach Stephanie Gabbert said. "We were close to a sudden death overtime and that could have been an exciting finish for our team to gain experience. "We would have liked the victory but we were doing a good job of closing them down." UW-M attempted 27 shots, while Iowa only tried 9. Despite the lopsided number, Gabbert was not disappointed by her defense. "The only shots they got were from a long distance and were off-balance," the first-year Iowa coach said. "They weren't near our goal very often. Our defense played very well and Gabe Mauren made some great saves. The loss dropped Iowa's record to 3-2 overall. Even though the Hawkeyes suffered the defeat, Gabbert feels as if her team will walk away as the winner in the long run. "This will really build our confidence heading into the Big Ten season," Gabbert said. "Every game we play we do things better and better. It was encouraging how strong we played in terms of working the ball around such a good, experienced team. "We know we can play at a higher level. It's going to help us against Illinois." Iowa will open Big Ten play at home Fri., Sept. 19, against fellow first-year program Illinois.

Volleyball team collects three more wins

By Megan Manfull
The Daily Iowan

Two weeks into the season, comebacks seem to be the theme of the Iowa volleyball team. After an early loss to New Mexico University on Friday, the Hawkeyes regrouped at the Iowa State Invitational and came back to prevail over Central Michigan, Rutgers, and Iowa State. Never dropping a game in their last three matches, the Hawkeyes went on to share a 3-1 Invitational record with New Mexico University.

"We were upset that we lost to New Mexico University and that we played the way we did," setter Shannon Smith said. "But I think that loss pumped us up. After that we were ready to go out and beat someone." The Hawkeyes were ready to play when they hit the court against Central Michigan, winning 15-9, 15-10, 15-7. All-tournament selection Jennifer Bell took control of the court early and led the team with 13 kills. "We were most pleased with how our team responded to the loss," said co-head coach Matt Sonnich-

sen. "They stayed together and didn't get mad. Central Michigan was a very tall team that runs a very fast offense. Our athletes did a really, really nice job of blocking and adjusting our game to meet a challenge. We didn't stay down. We came right back to get a victory." Combining strong team communication and their hunger for wins, the Hawkeyes dominated their competition on Saturday beating Rutgers (15-13, 15-7, 15-8) and Iowa State (15-7, 16-14, 15-3). While every player saw considerable time and each contributed at the Invitational, Bell and Sharla Johnson received all-tournament team honors. With two strong tournament appearances behind them, the Hawkeyes take a 6-2 record into the week. "I think our record helps our mental attitude more than anything, just to prove to ourselves that we can do it," said Julie Williams, who led the Hawkeyes on Saturday with 23 kills. "It shows we can play together and compete with good teams; and I think it will help carry us over into the Big Ten."

Hawkeye field hockey team falls twice

Tony Wirt
The Daily Iowan

The University of Iowa's field hockey team took a strong defense to Philadelphia, but it left the goals at home and dropped two games at the Temple Invitational this weekend. The Hawkeyes fell to two-time defending national champion North Carolina 2-0 on Sat., then lost in the consolation game against Temple yesterday by the score of 2-0.

Iowa (1-3) played solid defense through the first 27 minutes against North Carolina (4-0), but UNC junior Nancy Pelligreen put a goal in the net with 8:32 left in the half to give the Tarheels a 1-0 lead. "Our defense played really well against North Carolina," coach Beth Beglin said. "They stuck to the game plan, and that's sometimes hard for younger players to do. We shut down some of their key players." The score remained the same until Pelligreen broke free and got her second goal with just 1:37 left in the game. "We played a great game against North Carolina," Beglin said. "We had a 1-0 game towards the end of the second half when we put a shot off the post, then North Carolina got the ball in transition and converted." In the second game, Iowa played steady first half defense once again, but failed to keep the Owls off the board. Temple senior Claudia Ovchinnikoff scored on a penalty stroke to open up the scoring with 13:51 remaining in the half. The Owls added another less than a minute into the second half on an unassisted goal by Cherifa Nouri. Despite being shutout, Iowa outshot Temple 14-6. "Field hockey can be a frustrating game," Beglin said. "Sometimes you can outplay a team and still end up on the losing end if you can't get the ball in the net."

SCOPE: big concerts soon

With renovations completed, SCOPE can now book shows in Carver-Hawkeye arena, but it will take awhile to re-establish a reputation, officials say.

By Mose Hayward
The Daily Iowan

With new rigging in Carver-Hawkeye Arena having been completed in June, SCOPE has the opportunity to book big performance once again.

Three years ago, the student organization was bringing stadium-filler shows such as Nine Inch Nails to Iowa City, but recently students have been treated only to smaller shows in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union, including They Might Be Giants, Fishbone, De La Soul and others.

Booking shows in Carver-Hawkeye had not been an option due to safety concerns with the stadium's rigging. Previously it was necessary to hang from ropes when installing lighting, which brought about concerns that have since been addressed with a new walkway.

The group of about 30 volunteers is managed by Bill Patterson, director of SCOPE and the talent buyer, and Jennifer Burke, the assistant director in charge of finances. Both are full-time students who say they put in 20 hours a week with no pay, in addition to holding part-time jobs. They spoke to the DI in the SCOPE office in the IMU.

DI: So what's coming up for SCOPE this year?

Patterson: We'd like to be booking as much quality, alcohol-free entertainment as possible. I know that's kind of the buzz-word these days, but it is what we do. None of our shows have alcohol. (...) As far as specifics, (...) I can't tell you. I would do that, but I can't because I don't

“Personally, I'm confident we'll get at least one show in (Carver-Hawkeye arena) this year.”

Bill Patterson
director of SCOPE

have contracts. We're working on it, we've been working on it since early summer.

DI: Are you planning on getting any acts in Carver-Hawkeye now that the new rigging has been completed?

Patterson: Personally — I mean, I can't say whether we have anything on the docket right now — but personally I'm confident we'll get at least one show in there this year.

Burke: It's going to take some time for us to reestablish being competitive in this area. It's going to take some time before the music industry realizes that “Wait a minute — that's the largest venue in Iowa. We should be going there.” So the next year or two will be kind of slow, but then hopefully Carver will be back in full swing.

Patterson: Right now, we're just coming off a major cold spell. We're just starting to get warmed up.

DI: Can you describe a little the process of putting together a show?

Patterson: We're just looking to bring in the most popular music we can for what we can negotiate. Iowa City is a secondary market and people need to take that into consideration. (...)

What we have to do is get our marketing research down. We can't afford to make a major research screw-up. We can't bet on a show and have it not do well or have it not be appropriate for this area, because then we're just losing money. We're not about giving away money in the least. We're not interested in profiting so much — we don't need to make a killing on the shows — but we're interested in toeing the line.

(Patterson went on to describe the process of using market research to select artists. SCOPE looks at trade publications such as Pollstar to determine how well artists are selling in venues of similar size to the Main Lounge or Carver-Hawkeye, and then looks for bookings already confirmed in the area for these artists.)

(Musicians touring in the Midwest are likely to pass through major markets such as Chicago and Minneapolis, and Patterson hopes to find a hole in their schedule when they can stop in Iowa City. He tries to contact them early in their booking phase, before other secondary markets such as Ames or Davenport get to them.)

DI: How far in advance do you book?

Patterson: For Carver shows, that can be years in advance. For the Main Lounge, that generally runs one to two months, upward of three months.

DI: So were you trying to book for Carver last year?

Patterson: We couldn't look for Carver shows until we actually saw the rigging. (...) If we had announced that we were back in the industry and for some reason we ended up not being on the market, we would've had to lose face and say “Hey, we're not open.” We would've been dead meat. But don't get me wrong, we've had shots at good tours this fall too. Things just haven't worked out.

But things can happen daily. For example, I have four bids out on the Main Lounge right now, and at any moment all four could call back and say we're gonna do it. It can change daily. Carver shows are the exact same thing.

Bochco, Newhart return to Monday night

By Frazier Moore
Associated Press

Here's a look at the new prime-time television series on Mondays:

ABC

“Timecop”
Premieres: Sept. 22

No, this isn't about the supervisor who docks you for being late to the office. It's a futuristic adventure from the same producers who created the 1994 film, and tells of the TEC (Time Enforcement Commission), which polices the time continuum against criminals seeking to change the course of history.

The year is 2007, and Jack Logan (T.W. King) is our hero Timecop. If he doesn't keep the bad guys from messing up the past, well, none of us may have a future.

But even time-travel technology is insufficient to gauge this show's future, and no episode was available for review.

CBS

“George & Leo”
Premieres: tonight

This is by-the-book Newhart, and reads like a sure thing.

Bob (er, George) owns a bookstore on Martha's Vineyard, where his son and future daughter-in-law run a restaurant. But tranquility is threatened with his son's engagement, when the bride's reprobate father shows up.

That would be Leo (played by “Taxi” Judd Hirsch), a small-time hood and part-time magician. His daughter hasn't seen him in years — and prefers it that way.

Of course, Leo will stay on. Of course, he will glom onto the quiet, fidgety George, as well as on the newlyweds (played by Jason Bateman and Bess Meyer).

On this sure-to-be tight little island, Hirsch is spot-on as the oily, rascally Leo — a marked departure from his usual role as moral center. And in his fourth sitcom, Newhart sparkles just being the perpetually off-center Newhart, always with the comic pause that refreshes.

the cast of “Brooklyn South”

“Brooklyn South”
Premieres: Sept. 22

The “uniforms” walk a tough beat in this new ensemble drama from Steven Bochco. For one thing, a posse of thought police is after them.

Just as when Bochco's most recent cop show, “NYPD Blue,” premiered four seasons ago, a largely ill-informed and self-serving campaign has flared up with the aim of burning “Brooklyn South” at the stake.

The obvious response for any thinking viewer: Watch the show and then decide. Based on the pilot (which most of its lynch mob still hasn't seen), the show is tough, compelling and fully acceptable as adult drama.

Fox

“Ally McBeal”
Premieres: Sept. 8

This show could demonstrate David E. Kelley's genius even more convincingly than his better series such as “Picket Fences” and the current ABC law drama “The Practice.”

Here's the challenge he was handed:

Come up with a drama that's compatible with its lead-in, the long-running soap “Melrose Place” — AND serves as a high-minded draw for young adults who don't choose to wallow in “Melrose's” brand of melodrama.

Based on the pilot, “Ally” ably pulls off both assignments.

The title character (played by “Birdcage's” Calista Flockhart) is a lawyer. Single. Pretty. Bright. Ambitious.

She joins a small Boston law firm. But who should be a colleague but her former long-time love Billy (Gil Bellows), now married.

Clearly, they are going to get in each other's way — and be subject to that same old emotional tug.

Meanwhile, the romantic drama is blended with comedic moments befitting Kelley's sly sense of humor. Ally's private thoughts and emotions are played out in quick-cut fantasies to which only we are privy. For instance, when Ally learns that Billy is taken, we see arrows pierce her chest.

Smart and sexy, “Ally” tallies the thrills and woes of twentysomething love and work.

Stone's new film, “U Turn,” starring Sean Penn and Jennifer Lopez, opens this fall.

music

Elton John denies BBC use of “Candle”

Elton John has refused to allow footage of his performances of “Candle in the Wind” at Princess Diana funeral for use in a BBC video, his spokesperson said in the Daily Telegraph.

John denied use because he wanted a large percentage of the cover price to be donated to charity.

film

“The Game” tops weekend box office; “The Full Monty” makes it to No. 3

LOS ANGELES (AP) — PolyGram Films proved itself a Hollywood player with its first release, “The Game,” opening as the weekend's clear box office winner, according to industry estimates Sunday.

“The Game” was the only new film issued in wide release, giving it an immediate edge over competitors as the fall film season gets underway. It was expected to gross $14.3 million on 2,403 screens, according to Exhibitor Relations Co. Inc.

The estimates for Friday through Sunday:
1. “The Game,” $14.3 million.
2. “G.I. Jane,” $3.4 million.
3. “The Full Monty,” $3.3 million.

literature

Oliver Stone to read at Prairie Lights

In addition to his 7:30 p.m. appearance at Hancher Auditorium, film director and novice novelist Oliver Stone will read from his debut novel, “A Child's Night Dream,” from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 1, at Prairie Lights Books, 15 S. Dubuque St. Stone also will be signing autographs at the reading.

Stone wrote the novel in the late '60s — as a teen-ager — and critics have compared it, in style and theme, to the writing of Jack Kerouac and James Joyce.
