Picking your nose from the outside-in

A new product on the market that clears clogged nasal pores is selling at eight cases a week and 120 individual boxes a day in Iowa City stores.

By Eric Jordan

I've been using Biore strips for years and they work wonders on my nose.

And she's not the only one. Iowa City is making use of a new product that clears clogged pores on the nose.

"You see, I used to have clogged pores on my nose and Biore strips cleared them up in no time."

This strip works by the nose and Biore, the active ingredient on the strip, is absorbed by the water. As the strip dries, it pulls the dirt and oil from the nose. The strip is then peeled off and put in the toilet. A week and a half later, the pores are unobstructed and the skin is clean.

"It's very easy to use and it works wonders on my nose."

Tiffany Kirby, the health and beauty department manager at Walmart and the store is selling 200 individual boxes a day.

"They are my best seller," she said.

"There are probably three to four people a day that come in and ask for these miracle strips, and a lot of people are impressed."
Jury receives UIHC discrimination case

When the UI College of Law opens its doors to a new class of students in the fall, it will be doing so in a changed environment. The number of students entering law school this year is likely to be lower than in previous years, and the school will be facing new challenges in light of the recent controversy involving the military. The military's use of power on college campuses has been a focal point of debate in recent years, and the UI College of Law has been at the center of the controversy.

In a civil trial, jurors must consider the evidence presented by both sides and make a determination of guilt or innocence. In a criminal trial, the burden of proof is on the prosecution to prove the defendant's guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. The jury's role is to ensure that justice is served and that the rights of all parties are protected.

The military's presence on college campuses has raised concerns about the potential for interference with academic freedom and the rights of students. The UI College of Law has been working to address these concerns and to create a welcoming environment for all students.

The UI College of Law is committed to upholding the values of diversity and inclusivity, and to ensuring that all students are treated with respect and dignity. The school is dedicated to providing a high-quality legal education that prepares students for successful careers in law.
The Associated Press learned Thursday that Attorney General Janet Reno has decided to open a preliminary investigation into fund-raising calls from Al Gore's office. Said Thursday night that her decision was a "judgment call" and that Reno was not pursuing a "criminal investigation into the fund-raising." She added that Reno had not yet reviewed "all the facts." Although she did not detail the investigation, it was clear that it was "aimed at the vice president's judgment." The Associated Press also reported that the White House was reviewing fundraising letters that "were distributed to thousands of Gore's contributors." The White House is preparing a report on the issue, which is expected to be released within days.

The White House and the Democratic National Committee, which said Thursday night it had not received a "legal challenge" to Reno's decision, have both argued that the Justice Department's special prosecutor move is a "bureaucratic" action. The White House has said it will decide whether or not to request a special prosecutor's appointment. The Justice Department has said it will decide whether or not to appoint a special prosecutor to investigate the issue.

Gore, who announced his resignation from the vice presidential race on Thursday, has said that he will not seek re-election to the Senate. He has also said that he will not seek a special prosecutor's appointment. The Justice Department has said that it will decide whether or not to appoint a special prosecutor to investigate the issue.

Gore has acknowledged existing fundraising calls from his office. Clinton has said that he will not seek a special prosecutor's appointment. The Justice Department has said that it will decide whether or not to appoint a special prosecutor to investigate the issue.

Gore's move to the next stage in the vice presidential race is a "judgment call," the White House has said. The White House has said that it will decide whether or not to appoint a special prosecutor to investigate the issue.

The Justice Department began an inquiry into Anheuser-Busch's sales practices in October. In a complaint filed in federal court in St. Louis, the department said the company's sales representatives had been influenced by the company's pursuit of their commissions.

The department said it was investigating the company's sales practices in order to determine whether they had engaged in any illegal practices.

The company said it had been cooperating with the investigation.

MIT ties new approaches to combat alcohol abuse on campus.

By Jon Marcus

The nation's leading university has made alcohol abuse a top priority in its efforts to tackle this very pressing problem, but it is still unclear how effective its new approaches will be.

The university has taken several steps to address the issue, including increasing the number of alcohol education classes and raising the price of alcohol on campus.

But some experts say these efforts are not enough and that more needs to be done.

"We need to do more than just increase the number of classes," said one expert. "We need to change the culture of alcohol abuse on campus.

The university is also exploring new approaches to the problem, such as implementing a new system for handling alcohol-related incidents.

But these efforts are still in the early stages and it is too soon to tell whether they will be effective.

In the meantime, the university is continuing to work on other initiatives, such as increasing the availability of alcohol-free housing options.

"We want to make sure that students have options when it comes to alcohol," said the university's president. "We are committed to creating a safe and healthy environment for all our students.

Although progress has been made, experts say more needs to be done to tackle this complex issue.

"This is a long-term problem, and we need to continue working on it," said another expert. "We cannot afford to let up on our efforts to address alcohol abuse on campus.

Despite these challenges, the university is committed to making progress and creating a safer and healthier environment for all its students.

"We are dedicated to this mission," said the university's president. "We will continue to work hard to address alcohol abuse on our campus.

Violent offenses by teenage plunge again; noen seems

Washington, D.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Armed with new data from the National Incident-based Crime Reporting System, the study released Tuesday by the Department of Justice and the Federal Bureau of Investigation, violent offenses by teenagers have declined sharply since 1993.

Experts believe the decline could be due to a variety of factors, including improved school and community programs, increased law enforcement efforts, and changes in the culture of youth violence.

"This is a significant drop," said one expert. "It's clear that our efforts are paying off.

The decline is especially striking given that the number of teenagers has been growing in recent years.

"This is a great sign," said another expert. "It's a good indication that we are making progress.

The decline in teenage violence is important because it can help prevent future problems.

"Teenagers are the future of our communities," said one expert. "We need to make sure they are safe and healthy.

The decline in teenage violence is also a sign that our efforts to prevent violence are working.

"We need to continue to do more," said one expert. "We need to make sure we are doing everything we can to prevent violence.

The decline in teenage violence is an encouraging sign, but we need to continue to work on preventing violence in all its forms.

"We need to do more to protect our young people," said one expert. "We need to make sure they are safe and healthy.

The decline in teenage violence is a hopeful sign, but we need to continue to work on preventing violence in all its forms.

Russia remembers Sputnik

By Victor L. Sepehr Associated Press

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (Associated Press) — Russians remember Sputnik with a record.

For centuries, sumo wrestlers have been the sport’s top division.

Eighty-four years later, U.S.-Russian space race evolves into cosmic cooperation.

This first official picture of the Soviet satellite Sputnik was issued in Moscow 1957, showing the low-altitude satellite orbiting on a three-legged pod. Working in obscure secrecy, the Soviets presented the satellite into space on Oct. 4, 1957, making the first man-made object to reach the limits of the earth’s gravity.

“Congratulations, the road to the stars is now open,” Sputnik editor, Vitali Zvelev, told reporters. “The Soviet Union has established itself as a major space power.”

President Boris Yeltsin of Russia, who has proposed the creation of an international academy of space law, has acknowledged that a much-debated document on disarmament promised 10 years ago is still far from complete.

Before his plane touched down in Brazil, the world’s biggest Roman Catholic country, the pope told reporters he didn’t see the point of trying to save Sputnik because it was so remote and far from human settlement. “The unequal and unfair distribution of wealth...”

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil — Pope John Paul II held Thursday day when asked about the Vatican’s willingness to break off formal relations with Russia’s Orthodox Church over its refusal to recognize the papal claim to authority over the Russian Church.

Suggesting that non-Catholic churches must address their own internal problems before they can fall in line with the Vatican’s own direction, the pope also acknowledged that a document on disarmament promised 10 years ago is still far from complete.

Two QBs better than one at OSU

The Buckeyes have done just fine with Stanley Jackson and Germaine Crameh sharing time at quarterback.

By Wayne Doyle

Most college football teams in America, like to build their offense around a solid quarterback. The Ohio State Buckeyes want their attack spread.
Barry Switzer and Joe Germaine have been the Buckeyes' quarterback tandem thus far; and in the first four games of 1995. In two of those games, the Buckeyes have won a Big Ten game and the team is in first place in the conference. The Buckeyes have had their quarterback problems in the past, like the 1992 team. But this year, the Buckeyes have made it through without any problems.

The two-headed quarterback system is working, and it shows. In 1995, the Buckeyes have been a solid team, and they have won three of their four games. With Germaine and Jackson, they have been able to spread the ball around and create a balanced attack.

Stanley Jackson has split time with Germaine Crameh, but in the last two games, he has shown that he is the quarterback of the team. In the last two games, he has thrown four touchdowns and four interceptions, and he has completed 68% of his passes. In the last two games, he has thrown three touchdowns and one interception, and he has completed 72% of his passes.

Packers will win…but it won’t be easy

By Dave Goldberg

The Tampa Bay Buccaneers may believe they are prohibitive favorites to win the NFC championship.

But the Buccaneers, the NFC’s only undefeated team, go into Lambeau Field this weekend as a 12-point underdog.

New Orleans coach Mike Ditka will make his first regular-season return to Chicago’s Soldier field since leaving the Bears.

Mike High-Bradley may be the toughest read in the NFL.

John Elway, Curtis Martin, Terrell Davis, Recs, Curtis Hanston, Sharpe.

Who knows the snap of the game-winning field goal this week?

It doesn’t get any better.

New Orleans (plus 3) at Chicago.

What do the oddsmakers think?

New Orleans (plus 3) at Chicago.

The 49ers have the license to print money.

They’ve already thrown the Super Bowl at them.

The 49ers have now lost seven games.

They won’t be doing that again.

Atlanta vs Astros

Atlanta wants to end things quickly,

With John Smoltz on the mound, the Atlanta Braves hope to capitalize on their 2-0 lead over Houston.

HOUSTON (AP) — Nice and quick. Denny Clap could have been驰.,

"We want to win one more game and do it in as few as one," the Atlanta

Braves manager said.

The Braves, having taken both games of their NL playoff at home, now complete a sweep of the Houston Astros at Friday.

After the Braves pounded the Astros 13-3 in the first game, Astros manager Larry Dierker said, "We changed our mind. We're not turning to the laws of probability.

"I think the Braves are here with confidence. It's not a 50-50 chance and the margin is likely.

"We're confident. We're playing and if we win that game tonight, we have a commanding position now.

"It's a little like playing in the '71 World Series — we're not going to be the finisher. We're playing in the World Series, and you want to be the finisher. That's what we're looking forward to Friday."

Smoltz said: "I pitched in every situation — up, down, left and right, and you want to be the finisher.

"We know how they are. We've got a couple of extra days of rest here, and we're going to go with our regulars.

"We know they're a resilient team, but we know we're a resilient team, too."

Atlanta pitcher John Smoltz is scheduled to start today in Game 3 of the Braves' NL playoff series in Houston.

Marlins vs Giants

Former Sox pitchers square off in Game 3

The Giants' Wilson Alvarez and Florida's Alex Fernandez will square off in Game 3 today.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — For

Giants starter Wilson Alvarez and Florida's Alex Fernandez, the battle will be the first time they face one of their former teammates, like a roommate bragging rights.

"It's a great pitcher, very competitive. I saw him for five years, and I know. He's a great pitcher," Fernandez said.

"I've been trying to see him for two years now, trying to get a feel for the different pitchers that will be a stark contrast to the heat and humidity of Miami."

The Giants took Thursday off, with Friday's starting a row of nine games — two extra days of rest after two cross-country flights in four days. The Marlins worked out in the last hours, getting a feel for the chilly conditions that will be in the Brats' hands.

Fernandez, who may have been trying to con his former teammate into a battle for personal

bragging rights.

Fernandez signed with the Giants on a free agent before this week, and Alvarez pitched seven scoreless months in the NL.

"It's not a must-win situation, it's a game where we have to get back on track. Everybody knows that we didn't pitch our best game at home," Fernandez said.

"We're looking to bounce back. We have a good offense, and we're thinking about going with Fernandez and Alvarez in the NL.

Orioles outbat Seattle

By David Ginsburg

Friday - 1997-08-22

Brian Roberts hit his third homer of the season and drove in a career-high three runs Monday afternoon to allow the Orioles to edge the Mariners, 5-4. Roberts, whose previous grand slam was over 20 years ago, hit a two-run home run off Scott Garrelts in the fourth inning. This time, it was New York pitching that was hit by the ball back, as Roberts hit a drive that glanced off the glove of a leaping Ken Griffey Jr. with the bat on, Mariner hit a drive that glanced off the glove of a leaping Ken Griffey Jr. with the bat on, while the glove of a leaping Ken Griffey Jr. with the bat on, while the glove of a leaping Ken Griffey Jr. with the bat on, while the glove of a leaping Ken Griffey Jr. with the bat on, while the glove of a leaping Ken Griffey Jr. with the bat on.

Don't miss this exciting showcase of musical talent!
Husker streak unfares Snyder

All Broken hearts that Kansas State's 32-game losing streak against Nebraska, which ended last Saturday, will be immediately forgotten.

"This was the first game that we played in front of a crowd," Osborne said. "I mean, Saturday was a tough game. I mean, that was a bad game, and Nebraska played well. I mean, they played well. They're a good football team.

"The most disappointing thing that's happened to us is that we put ourselves in a hole. We're 0-1 now, and we've got to get it right."

The Cornhuskers are tied for the 19th-best team in the nation according to one major football publication, and the Cornhuskers only have a 1-2 record after losing at Texas in overtime last Saturday.

"It's very easy to get up for both those games," Beglin said. "They're both ahead of us and we're in the tournament."

The Huskers lead the country with the nation's top rushing attacks in the nation.

"Iowa is going to give the Wildcats a big challenge," Evans said. "It's something that a lot of people don't expect."

"We need to get these people to stay at home, to root for the Wildcats," Beglin said. "They would love to give the Wildcats a big challenge.

"Iowa returns home tonight. It's going to be a big challenge."

"It's a great place to play, and it's going to be a great atmosphere," Beglin said. "$150 Rum Drinks

AMES -- One of the best reasons Trevor Willard will return for what could be his final college football game of his career Saturday is his love of the sport.

"I don't think that I ever give a whole lot of thought as to what I do and the choices I make," Willard said. "I just play the game I play, and that's what I enjoy the most.

Iowa hungry for win against Big Ten foes

The Hawkeyes will entertain Ohio State and Purdue this weekend at Carver-Hawkeye Arena.

"When Iowa comes to town, it's always going to be exciting," said Coach Steve Bear, who is in his third year as head coach.

The Hawkeyes and Buckeyes are both coming off losses last weekend. Iowa lost 2-1 to Wisconsin, while Ohio State fell to Indiana 1-0.

"We're looking forward to this weekend," Bear said. "It will be a good test for us."

WBC champ Lewis has slight edge over Golota

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. — (AP) — Lewis has a slight edge in boxing ranking, but as he fights Golota in Saturday’s light-heavyweight bout, he will be fighting for much more than a title.

Promoting himself as the world’s light-heavyweight champion, Lewis has a slight edge over Golota. Lewis has a slight edge over Golota, which means that he is a slight favorite to win the fight. That said, Lewis has a slight edge over Golota in terms of their overall record, with Golota having more losses and Lewis having more wins.

Lewis, a native of Atlanta, Georgia, is one of the few fighters to win the light-heavyweight title. A former Olympic gold medalist, Lewis has fought for multiple heavyweight and light-heavyweight titles, including the World Boxing Council (WBC) and World Boxing Association (WBA) titles. He is currently ranked as the world’s top light-heavyweight fighter by both organizations.

Golota, a native of Ukraine, is a former European and Commonwealth light-heavyweight champion. He has fought for the World Boxing Organization (WBO) and World Boxing Council (WBC) titles, but has been unable to win a world championship.

The fight is expected to be a close one, with both fighters having a good chance of winning. Lewis is the slight favorite, but Golota has a strong chance of pulling off an upset.

"The fight is going to be very close," said one boxing expert. "Lewis is the favorite, but Golota is not far behind."

Reviewing

George Clooney and Nicole Kidman

By

Silvia Lipton

"The Peacemaker" is a movie of familiar pieces.

tty the ER. George Clooney is a bad boy. "The Peacemaker" is the latest in a line of blockbuster action/adventure movies that promise to deliver thrills, suspense and excitement. But how many of these films will actually be memorable and have lasting appeal?

In "The Peacemaker," Clooney plays a character who is both a loose cannon and a man of action. He's the type of guy who can take on a large task and make it look easy. But he's also a man who has a heart of gold and cares about the people around him.

The movie is about a nuclear arms specialist (Clooney) who is trying to prevent a terrorist from getting his hands on nuclear weapons. The stakes are high, and the situation is tense.

Nicole Kidman and George Clooney track down nuclear weapons in "The Peacemaker," currently showing at the Cool IV.

The movie features an extended action sequence where Clooney and Kidman are dropped into a war zone to defuse nuclear weapons.

"The Peacemaker" is a good example of how Hollywood can still deliver a thrilling and action-packed movie that keeps audiences on the edge of their seats.
