Tuition raised 3.9 percent

■ The Board of Regents approved the tuition hike and the business school computer

> By Nathan Hill The Daily Iowan

It's official.

Thursday the Iowa state Board of Regents unanimously approved the 3.9 percent tuition hike and the $340 business school computer fee slated for the 1998-99 academic year at their monthly meeting in the Triangle Ballroom of the Iowa Memorial Union.

But some administrators say they wasn't high enough.

The 3.9 percent tuition hike means $2,760 to $2,868, and out-of-state tuition will jump by $374, from $9,616 to $9,990. More on the egents' meeting, Regent James Arenson said he Page 7A.

was concerned that the 3.9 percent increase was too far below the national average of 5 to 6 percent. As the line widens (between the national average and Iowa schools) and Iowa continues to charge less tuition, I don't understand how we can maintain a quality level of education," he said.

dent Martin Jischke said students should bear a low fraction of total costs UI's in-state tuition will increase from compared to what the state contributes, he agreed that the quality of Iowa schools should be the top priority.

There is a careful balance between keeping tuition low and providing a top-notch education, said UI President Mary Sue Coleman.

"We need to think carefully to achieve the quality goals that we need to achieve," she said. "It's an issue that needs to be discussed by the regents, and I want to involve the students in the decision too.

Charges against one of the six codefendants in the Matthew Garofalo wrongful death civil suit were dismissed due to lack of evidence, Johnson County Court documents said.

Brian Garcea, a former member of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity who has graduated from the UI and lives in the Chicago area, was dropped from the Iowa City Attorney Joe Johnston, who represents Garcea, filed a motion to dismiss charges on Sept. 8 claiming the Garofalo estate had produced no witnesses or evidence to support the claim of negligence. The hearing on the matter was held on Oct. 10. Tom Verhulst, attorney for the Garofalo family, said they were dissatisfied with the decision to dismiss Garcea. "We feel disappointed with the court's ruling," he said. "But I still need to talk with my client to see if we want to appeal the decision." UI sophomore and Lambda Chi Alpha associate member Garofalo died the morning of Sept. 8, 1995 from fluid in the lungs caused by acute alcohol intoxication. The civil suit, brought by Garofalo's parents, Edward and Monica Garofalo in November 1996, alleges Garofalo's death was a result of negligence on the part of one or more of the defendants. The decision by Judge William Thomas was the correct one, Johnston

"I think its appropriate," he said. "There just wasn't any evidence (Garcea) had any involvement at all in Garofalo's death. He just shouldn't have been named at all." Garofalo had been pledging for the fraternity and attended a party the night before at the Lambda Chi Alpha phone calls didn't stop U.S. Marine recruiters from interviewing in the Boyd Law Building Thursday.

"We did have calls from the Gay and Lesbian Coalition protesting our being here," said Capt. Scott Casey from the U.S. Marines. "One of the Iowa City Marine recruiters received one call that said something like, 'If you recruit, we will be ready for you.' Even though Joe Wilson, member of the Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual, Transgender Union, said he doesn't know who would make a threatening phone call, he's not surprised. Wilson said there is no 'Gay and Lesbian Coalition' in surrounding areas. "It's surprising, because there wasn't much of an overlap between the queer community and the law students when they protested," he said.

Due to the Solomon Amendment passed in 1996, the UI College of Law opened its doors to U.S. Military recruiters on Oct. 8 for the first time in nine years. About 100 UI law students rallied against the U.S. Army Judge Advocate General Corps' presence on Oct. 8. Some law students gathered in the lobby of the building and offered educational literature, pink triangles and arm bands.

Distinguished guests, including Gov-

Renovation of Schaeffer Hall was started in 1995 and the project was completed this fall. The total cost of the project was $8.6 million. The building houses the Departments of Political Science, History, Classics, and Statistics and Actuarial Science.

impressive renovations to the interior and exterior of the building, Associate Dean of Liberal Arts and Professor of Astronomy Jack Fix said.

Some of the renovations include a new computer lab for the department of statistics and actuarial science, computer resources for classrooms, updated classroom seating, uniform faculty office sizes, improved handicap accessibility, modern climate controls, and extensive computer and telephone wiring.

This is a completely gutted and redone building," Fix said. "They have retained a lot of the turn of the century charm, yet the technology is completely up to date."

The department area layouts and office space utilization were planned by the faculty and staff of the individual departments. The university class-

Hall, the DI interviewed Governor Terry Branstad. What follows is a Q & A with Iowa's governor, who graduated from the UI in 1969 with a Bachelor of Arts Degree in Political Science. DI: What do you think of the new Schaeffer Hall? Branstad: I think that they've done an outstanding job of preserving the character of the building and yet making it a very modern and functional one that will serve the needs of the students into the 21st century.

DI: As a former student, do you have any tips for students who are pursuing a political science degree at the UI? Branstad: Study hard. I've always been fascinated by politics and history and I very much enjoyed my time in political science. I argued with the professors and learned a lot from them and found the courses to be interesting.

The city that can't make noise

NEW YORK (AP) — The unlikely new slogan for the city that never sleeps? Shhhh. Not all New Yorkers are happy about the new noise code enacted by the City Council.

In Central Park Wednesday, some dog walkers were scratching their heads over the $45 to $525 fines for first- to third-time offenders.

"Dog barking can be really annoying, but I think landlords will use this to get out unwanted tenants with dogs — on false pretenses," said Linda Brown, walk ing her father-and-daughter canines, Rascal and Riva. The dogs kept their sound effects down to coughing and sneezing.

A bar or nightclub that pumps noise into surrounding apartments may be fined $2,000 to $8,000 for a first offense, $6,000 to $24,000 by the third offense. For a car alarm that won't stop, the $100-$250 fine for a first-time offense jumps as high as $300-$750.

It's up to police and environmental inspectors to decide how much to fine, though any fine may be appealed.

The challenge began the day after the bill passed Tuesday. One radio station, WSKQ-FM, aired a discussion of the proposed codes while playing animal noises on the air — and telling listeners to turn up the volume.

Study shows that bears prefer Ford Explorers

MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) — Ford Explorers taste better. Just ask the grizzly bear that ate one.

Gael Bissell was staying with her family at their summer cabin just west of Glacier National Park when the grizzly dropped by. The bear smashed a passenger window and crawled inside her car.

"It couldn't have been in there long," she told the Missoulian newspaper after last weekend's vandalism. "But it was there long enough to eat the seats. I'd guess it was just one of those hit-and-run things bears do sometimes. Who knows why?"

Fall is a bad time for bears in the mountains of western Montana since grizzlies hunt single-mindedly for food as they try to put on fat before a winter's hibernation. Ms. Bissell said her insurance agent "didn't even flinch" at the news that a bear ate her car. "They cover acts of God. And I guess they cover acts of bear too," she said.

Brides are turning in their vails for mouse ears

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The city most favored by honeymooners doesn't have n Liftel Tower or allow romantic walks by the Seine, but sports Cinderella's castle and sells hats with Mickey Mouse ears.

Orlando was chosen the top city for honeymooners in a poll conducted by Bride's magazine. The poll surveyed 1;000 readers who had recently returned from their honeymoons.

"A lot of people look at their weddings as being fairy tale experiences. There is a lot of Cinderella, Prince Charming images buried in the back of their minds from childhood," said Sally Kilbridge, managing editor of Bride's.

Warm weather and easy access also made Orlando a top choice, Ms. Kilbridge said. Orlando was followed in the favorite cities category by Las Vegas, Paris, Charleston, S.C., and San Francisco.

Orlando also scored well in a separate category - favorite overall destination. Orlando came in third place, behind Hawaii and Jamaica.

Results of the survey will be published in the magazine's December/January issue.

at gold miners invading Indian land during the mid-1980s. Based on more than 60 hours of material, O'Connor combined outtakes from three different documentaries and over 50 news reports into a "behind-the-scenes look" of the Amazon area.

"(The film) became a story about contact between isolated indigenous societies and Brazilian, North American and European groups sharing European culture," he said in a telephone interview with the DI.

Laurie Graham, UI associate professor of anthropology, whose department co-sponsored the event, said O'Connor is an observer of North American stereotypes of Indians as primitives. He also looks at the downfall of the indigenous rights movement in Brazil during the last decade.

"We were doing a series on Brazil," she said. "This film is kind of a pre-course to a Latin American seminar on the Amazon in the next spring semester."

Expecting about 100 to 150 peoole, Graham said she hopes the film brings the audience to reflect on North American "romanticized

Waste found in Iowa's water

■ Environmental groups report lowa's water is ranked the ninth worst polluted.

> By Mike Glover Associated Press

DES MOINES - A new report ranks Iowa as the ninth worst state in the nation for discharging pollutants into rivers, lakes and streams, a coalition of environmental groups said Thursday.

In addition, the groups said 15 percent of the state's water systems have recorded violations of environmental standards, leaving nearly 300,000 people drinking from systems contaminated at least briefly.

"Although our rivers no longer catch fire, we still have a long way to go," said Danielle Lucas of the U.S. Public Interest Research Group, one of the groups issuing people, or 12 percent of the state's the report.

Most of the data in the report comes from 1995, due to the length of time it takes to gather environmental information.

During that year, more than 3.7 million pounds of toxic materials were released into surface waters, the report said. More than 8.4 million pounds were released into sewage treatment facilities.

"The primary cause of water contamination in Iowa are sediments and nutrients from non point sources, including agriculture, urban runoff and storm sewers," the report said.

In the examination of drinking water facilities, the report examined facilities between 1994 and 1996. It found that 296 systems had violations noted at some point during that stretch, 15 percent of all the water systems in the state.

The violations affected 298,039 population.

Bellevue drops horse pooper-scooper plan

BELLEVUE, Iowa (AP) - Horse owners won't have to carry pooper scoopers with them when they ride in Bellevue after all.

The issue of outlawing horse droppings on the town's streets is dead, and the city council doesn't want to resurrect it.

After a resident complained about remnants left on city streets by horseback riders and horse-drawn wagons, the council asked for an ordinance requiring owners to clean up after their horses or face a fine. The proposed law was presented at this week's city council meeting to mixed reviews.

"All I've heard is negative remarks about the ordinance. They say if we can't take care of dogs, why start on horses? And what will this do to the Amish? We want their trade in town," council member Eldon Hoerschelman

A number of Amish families, who drive buggies to town, have settled in Jackson County in the past year.

WASHINGTON - Along with 44 million other Americans who receive Social Security benefits, Rufus Clayton will see his monthly check grow next year by just 2.1 percent — in his case, $10.50 — the lowest cost-of-living raise in a decade.

They give you a little increase," said Clayton, 77, a retired bricklayer who helped build the Pentagon. "But you can believe me, you don't have ... extra money on Social Security. I mean, you have to watch your budget and watch it close.

Like about 15 percent of retirees, Clayton's only income is from Social Security. Next year's cost-of-living increase, announced Thursday, will push his monthly check to about $514.50 from this year's $504.

Separately, the agency said that for 144 million working Americans, the maximum annual earnings subject to Social Security payroll taxes next year will rise to $68,400 from $65,400. Because the rate at which earnings are taxed remains at 6.2 percent, the maximum Social Security tax will be $4,241.

The cost-of-living adjustments are based on changes in the Consumer Price Index from the third quarter of one year to the third quarter of the next.

Union contracts guarantee about 5 million working Americans similar raises tied to inflation, the AFL-CIO says. For most workers, however, raises are not a sure thing and wages grow at a lesser rate - a seasonally adjusted 0.8 percent during the 12 months that ended June 30 for all civilian employees, the Bureau of Labor Statistics says.

Some members of Congress propose reducing the CPI, and therefore cost-of-living adjustments, as a possible solution to the financial crunch Social Security faces when the baby boom generation retires next century.

"I would say they haven't been in our shoes," said Pauline Armes, 75, of Suitland, Md. Her $613 a month next year would have been only $607 if the 1998 cost-of-living adjustment had been reduced as

Republic of Congo's embattled president insists he's still in

KINSHASA, Congo (AP) - Militiamen who seized the capital of the Republic of Congo looted what was left by their rivals Thursday, and their triumphant leader promised to name a new government

Gen. Denis Sassou-Nguesso's Cobra militia captured Brazzaville, the capital of this central African nation, and Pointe Noire, its second-largest city, on Wednesday. With the fall of the two cities, Sassou-Nguesso told Radio France Internationale on Thursday that he considered his four-month war against President Lissouba refused to admit defeat and said from hiding Thursday that he still considered himself the country's leader.

Politicians should lead, not preach nce again, Congress has decided that a woman's reproductive organs are public property, possessions of the government, and any decisions a woman makes about her body must be in accordance with what the House and Senate deem morally correct and somehow nationally relevant. For the second time in seven months, Congress has passed a bill that bans late-term abortions except in the case where the mother's life is threatened. And yet again President Clinton will veto this bill, because it does not allow for the procedure to be performed when the mother's health is at risk. Many conservatives who have fought for the passage of the bill eagerly quote Biblical passages and refer to the commandment "Thou shall not kill" when objecting to this type (if not all) of abortion.

Cleverly extracting yet other verses from the Bible, opponents of the bill argue that God does not consider miscarriages - even those forced by violent means (abortions) - murder because a fetus is not a life until it is outside of its mother's womb. Of course, all that these Bible verses prove is how the Christian word can be taken out of context and used to argue for virtually anything. Did not

> Charles Manson use the Bible to justify murder? And abortion is clearly not the only issue for which congresspersons are quick to whip out their Bibles with passages underlined by hardworking staff:

euthanasia, prayer in schools and homosexuality have all run the gamut of Biblical proof. The Bible, as it is inherently contradictory, seems to me an almost useless tool for legislating morality;

there is no definitive interpretation of the book in the first place, and the version most use to quote from is a poorly translated rendering anyway.

Brooke Barnett

Not to do dishonor to the Bible - it is obviously a fabulously crafted and very popular work of literaure. But it is not - and I repeat NOT - the Constitution. And to privilege the dogma of one religion over another is treacherous territory into which our representatives frantically race, never even glancing over their collective shoulder to see if the Bible is even what they should be basing their decisions on in the first place. If I remember anything at all from high school government classes, I remember that a government ruled by a single, authoritative religion is called a theocracy. And, not to be sarcastic (well, maybe a little), I could have sworn America was not a theocracy, but a representative democracy with separation of church and state and all that. Which, to put it bluntly, seems to make the Bible fairly irrelevant.

Some die-hards may argue for the Bible's relevance because it cannot actually be ignored if it is the religion of a majority of citizens. And with this point I do not disagree. If we were, however, to simply allow majority rule on all legal matters, we may as well throw out the whole congress and justice system and simply run on a pure democracy — let everybody vote on the laws and Constitution of the land. But there are very good reasons that we do not do this. The participants in the Constitutional Convention understood these intricacies of democracy. In order for minority groups to not be completely annihilated and oppressed, "our forefathers" attempted to write into the Constitution various tools for the protection of the outnumbered. Though these measures are not foolproof, they are necessary and always in need of support and protection.

Majority rule is not what the United State's democracy should or was ever intended to be. By using the Bible as some sort of ultimate statement on legal issues, our representatives are treading on ground They have no right to even survey. Assuming one religion can delineate right and wrong for everyone is not only wrong, it is fascist. The existence of one sacred understanding of right and wrong has been ingrained in the hegemonic value system of white, Protestant civil servants for a very long time.

Their refusal to step out of the power structure that perpetuates discrimination and marginalization of non-Christian religions is as intolerable as it is comprehensible - why question a system that has given them access to power in the first place? American voters need to asses the damage done by voting into office (mostly) white men who refer to the Bible as not simply a personal resource but as a national guide book, or this country will forever repeat its history of Institutionalized oppression and domination.

Most college students realize this, which is why most lawns and gardens on campus have an intricate series of shortcut paths crisscrossing them. For decades, campus planners and grounds crews have waged a quiet war against the students and their demon paths. Their tactics have included such diverse solutions as the knee-high trip bars on the downtown side of

A simple reorientation of the building on the site could have fixed most, if not all, of these problems. I guess they figured students would be so happy to see a new building among all the riot-proof holdovers, such as the English-Philosophy Building, that they wouldn't care how it worked.

The ability to consider how buildings fit into the whole master plan for the campus, as well as how it will affect traffic (both vehicle and pedestrian), is what separates good architects from the ones who can simply convince the Iowa State Regents that they can complete the building under budget. So far, the Ul age in Dubuque, a church or has done poorly at these considerations, resulting in a lation protested because they campus halfway in between walkable and driveable,

I was under the impression that the international atmosphere in a large college campus like the UI would be a bit different, with some form of solidarity, cooperation and coalition between the various international groups, but I guess that I was mistaken. When I started working in New York City, probably one of the most diverse and cosmopolitan cities in the world, I found that each ethnic group had holed up separately within its own confines in each borough.

Before I decided to go to graduate school for my master's in education, I thought that the university atmosphere would be a state of Utopia that would have an international and cooperative flavor attached to it. I may have been biased due to my personal vision of Each ethnic group tends to stick within the confines of their own community. This is fine, but I strongly believe that it is essential to assimilate within the local culture and people so as to learn and adjust. This helps to strengthen the bonds between the locals and the international students, and vice versa.

I fully understand the cultural shock that international students go through, as I went through the same thing. During this initial period, it is fully understandable that they would prefer to be within their own ethnic groups, as this shall help ease toward the transition into the mainstream. The above is exactly what I am trying to hit at. The bonding issue is a wonderful learning experience for all groups involved, be it the various international groups within themselves or the international groups as a whole with the local students. We should all try and function as

The regents went to work on faculty salaries, proving lowa's teachers nd Native American tuition.

UI President Mary Sue Coleman announced concerns that the UI was falling behind in teaching quality, citing a regent study showing the UI dropped from third to fourth in the Big Ten in teacher salaries.

"I'd like to signal a quiet alarm," she said. "We all know that maintaining educational quality means higher paid teachers.

Regent Nancy Pellett agreed, saying that if the UI aspires to be a center of educational excellence, it must keep faculty salaries high.

Currently, UI faculty net an average of $101,864 for the academic year. Full professors average a $121,600 income, associate professors $90,219 and assistant profes-

Educational Excellence

Marvin Pomerantz, former president of the Board of Regents, reported that Iowa's teachers, from kindergarten through college level, are competitive for this century, but may not be competitive for the next century.

Many Iowa teachers are going to retire in the coming decades, and "how we replace them will determine the quality of Iowa's education in the future," he said.

Pomerantz requested the board to the proposal was convincing the approve a $1 million appropriation Iowa legislature that the program is for each public Iowa university. The funds would go to implement changes in teacher training.

The strategy outlines goals for collegiate training of teachers, including developing proficiency standards, increasing internships and higher entrance criteria.

the proposal would recognize teaching as a professional job and boost teacher salaries, Pomerantz said. "The time has come when educators must have a professional sta-improve that ranking. UI President Mary Sue Coleman supported the measure, saying changes in the way the UI educates teachers will ultimately help the UI.

"We examined what we're doing in terms of teacher preparation and some things are going to have to change," she said. "The better prepared students are when they come to us, the farther we can take them."

Pomerantz said the biggest hurdle

"If we can win this battle, there's no question where we'd be going into the next century," he said. "We'd be the best. The very best."

Native American Tuition

UI Student Government President Allison Miller said the quality issue is an important one, but student interests must also be considered.

"I want a quality education for the lowest cost possible, and unfortunately that means at some point it will cost too much for the education I'm receiving," she said. "It's important that we don't blindly take what's given to us, but actively participate to get what we need."

The regents also approved of the proposal by the UI College of Business to increase the school's annual computer fee from $98 to $340 in order to fund technology improvements in the Pappajohn Business Administration Building.

Clinton called the provision "hastily conceived" and wasteful.

The first president to have the power, Clinton has now exercised the line-item veto 55 times in three months. The 1996 law enables him to cancel specific projects and programs, or "items," from spending bills and from certain tax bills. A new challenge to the law had been widely anticipated. The Supreme Court last June dismissed an action brought by six members of Congress, saying they lacked legal standing. But the justices made clear that the law could be challenged Joining him at a City Hall news conference in New York, Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., said he would support the mayor in a friend-of-the-court brief.

"Now there is an incontrovertible case," said Moynihan, one of the original plaintiffs in the dismissed case. "The line-item veto has been exercised; New Yorkers have been injured." At issue are federal Medicaid

Author Michener dead at 90

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - James A. Michener, who guided millions of readers from the South Pacific to the fringes of space in giant, best-selling novels, died Thursday of kidney failure. He was 90.

Michener's heralded writing career, which spanned nearly 50 years, began in his mid-life, with "Tales of the South Pacific." The book, written during his tour of duty with the Navy in World War II, won the Pulitzer Prize in 1948 and was the basis for "South Pacific," a long-running Broadway musical and later a motion picture.

Michener then spent decades wandering the globe, from Japan and Korea to Hungary, Hawaii, Afghanistan, Spain, South Africa, Colorado, Israel, Chesapeake Bay, Poland, Texas, Alaska

His books argued for universal ideals: religious and racial tolerance, hard work and self-reliance.

The last chance for 'Homicide'?

■ One of best dramas on television, "Homicide:Life of the Streets," has a new mandate — ratings or else.

> By Lynn Elber Associated Press

LOS ANGELES - The way it works on "Homicide: Life on the Street" is this: A squad room bulletin board displays the names of murder victims, black ink for the closed cases, red for the unsolved.

In that spirit of scorekeeping, the drama's title rightly would flash bright "Homicide" scarlet. Why "Homicide" one of the bestwritten, best-

For the self-proclaimed "Must-See TV" network, "Homicide" has been a delinquent family member with less-than-stellar ratings.

It's never been clearer, however, that "Homicide" (returning at 9 p.m. Friday with a three-part season opener) deserves your attention.

First, the kickoff episodes are as bold as anything the series has done in the past, with personal demons, racial tension and death galore - along with "Homicide's" tilted sense of the absurd.

Second, the series has a mandate to increase its audience this season or risk execution. We need this show, and it really needs us.

And, lastly, the scales of justice give "Homicide" the clear edge when it's weighed against the competition. If you're in front of a television Friday night, there's no excuse to be watching anything

Jess Settles didn't want to ruin Iowa's media day Thursday afternoon at Carver-Hawkeye Arena. But the fifth-year senior also didn't want to lie about his health.

The truth, Settles revealed, is that the nagging injury that sidelined him for almost the entire 1996-97 season has not disappeared. In fact, the Iowa forward said he is in more pain than ever and doesn't know when he'll even be able to practice,

Rose Bowl dreams rest on win against Michigan

■ The No. 15 Iowa football team travels to Ann Arbor Saturday to face the 5th-ranked Wolverines in a must-win game.

By James Kramer The Daily Iowan

The Iowa football team has pinned all its hopes on one horse. A longshot, some would argue. A darkhorse, at

The Hawkeyes' situation is simple to explain: Only a victory over No. 5 Michigan on Saturday can keep Iowa's Rose Bowl hopes alive.

Iowa emptied its reserve tank of osses two weeks ago in a 23-7 setback at Ohio State. Now the 15th-ranked Hawkeyes almost certainly have to win their remaining six games to earn their first Big Ten title since 1990.

After an open date last week, Iowa travels to Ann Arbor to face the Wolverines. Over 106,000 fans are expected at sold-out Michigan Stadium for the game, which will be televised by ESPN. Kickoff is scheduled for 11:30

"I was probably the most disheartened person after the Ohio State game," senior tackle Jon LaFleur said. This is what we work for so much, and if we don't do it this weekend, we're not going to have a shot at (the Rose Bowl) Iowa's loss to Ohio State was justified - perhaps expected - by many fans. The Hawkeyes were battling injuries and had not faced a strong opponent prior to that game. To make things worse, the then-No.

7 Buckeyes were flawless - most notably linebacker Andy Katzenmoyer, who stymied Iowa running back Tavian Banks.

Ohio State shut us down as well as we've been shut down in a long, long time," Iowa coach Hayden Fry said.

The Hawkeyes (4-1, 1-1) can't rely on the same excuses they used after their last game. Iowa is healthy now and it knows what a top-10 team looks like.

Still, winning won't come easily. Iowa's last victory over Michigan came in 1990. The Wolverines (5-0, 2-0) have national title thoughts dancing through their heads, and a defense to "Everything about their defense in unbelievable," Fry said. "We can't find a weakness on their ball club."

Michigan has allowed just more than five points per game in its five victories. Only Notre Dame was able to score a touchdown against the Wolver-

"We felt we would have a good defense (before the season)," Michigan coach Lloyd Carr said. "But I think there have been a couple of really pleasant surprises.'

Carr was referring to linebackers Ian Gold, a converted running back, and Dhani Jones. Both were forced to raise their level of play after a seasonending injury to senior Eric Mayes earlier this year.

MIAMI - Growing up in Cuba, ust 300 miles from Miami, Livan Hernandez managed to get his hands on videotapes of the 1992 and '93 World Series.

But watching a World Series game live on TV? Or listening on the radio? No way.

"I've never seen one," Hernandez said Thursday. "Not even dreaming." That will change Saturday, when Hernandez looks in at his catcher, winds up and throws the first pitch of Game 1. In a scenario literally beyond his wildest dreams, the 22year-old rookie will start for the orida Màrlins against the Clevend Indians.

His family and friends in Cuba may not be able to watch, but much of the rest of the world will. Even the president is talking about the Marlins.

"I want to congratulate those in Miami because their baseball team is going to be in the World Series," President Clinton said Thursday during his tour of South America.

In Miami, the bandwagon is overflowing. Marlins owner Wayne Huizenga was so disappointed by attendance this season that he put the team up for sale, but a record crowd of 65,000 is expected for Game 1.

Their new hero is Hernandez, the MVP in the National League chamonship series. He caused such a commotion walking into a Little Havana restaurant Wednesday that took him four hours to eat lunch. "I love all the fans," Hernandez aid. "I hope they fill the stadium nd yell a lot.

Hernandez will be opposed by Cleveland's 39-year-old Orel Herhiser, who started - and lost the first game in Marlins' history in April 1993, when he pitched for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Five seasons later, the Marlins are in the postseason for the first time, and they're thriving. The NL's wild-card team went 7-2 in the first two rounds and reached the World

WORLD SERIES CAPSULES

Hitting

Indians: Solid from top to bottom, despite batting just .193 in ALCS against Baltimore. Roberts and Grissom provide speed at both ends of the lineup, and Ramirez, Justice, Williams and Thome form an extremely powerful middle. Alomar certainly best No. 7 man in majors. Aggressive hitters, will sometimes chase pitches. Mike Hargrove, unlike most AL managers, is not adverse to bunting and moving runners around.

Marlins: Hit only .199 in NLCS win over Atlanta, Not nearly as power-packed as Cleveland, but patient at the plate, leading league in walks. Sheffield performed well in playoffs after a disappointing regular season. Florida has knack for clutch hit - Johnson and Alou combined for 10 RBIs in NLCS on a total of only three hits.

Pitching

Indians: Overcame Jack McDowell's injury in midseason, helped by rookie Wright's emergence, especially in division series vs. New York. Hershiser brings postseason experience, Nagy and Ogea can be up-and-down. Middle and setup relief is deep and balanced, but Mesa may be shaky as the closer.

Marlins: Overcame Alex Fernandez's torn rotator cuff in NLCS, led by rookie Hernandez's MVP performance. Brown has sparkled since leaving AL and Leiter has done same, when he avoids walks. Saunders wrecked Braves as a rookie, was hit hard otherwise. Like Indians, have a talented lefty-righty bullpen, though Nen's high 90s-plus mph fastball may give Marlins the edge.

Defense

Indians: Vizguel is sure to shine with more barehanded plays and Grissom is a Gold Glover. Ramirez is a big problem in right. Like Marlins, did not give up an unearned run in the Marlins: Johnson, Renteria and White make up an outstanding middle. Johnson, a twotime Gold Glover, shut down Atlanta's running game and made a nice target for Florida pitchers. He had gone 175 straight games without the Braves.

Big Picture

Indians: Looking to bring first World Series championship to Cleveland since 1948. .. Much different team than the 1995 club that lost to Atlanta, Albert Belle, Kenny Lofton, Carlos Baerga and Eddie Murray all gone. ... Have showed comeback skill and hang-tough touch throughout playoffs. Rallied from 2-1 deficit to beat Yankees in first round, then several thrillers to eliminate Baltimore in six games in ALCS. ... Won third straight division AL Central title, holding off late charges by Milwaukee and Chicago. ... Unlike last two years when they won 199 games combined, never were more than 14 games over .500. ... Pulled off blockbuster trade on eve of opening day, sending Lofton to Atlanta for Grissom and Justice. Offseason acquisition of Williams helped offset Belle's departure to White Sox. ... First team in AL history to hit more than 200 homers in three straight seasons.

Marlins: Led by manager Jim Leyland, Florida became the youngest expansion team to reach the World Series. The 5-year-old Marlins also are first wild-card club to make it. ... Swept Giants in first round, then beat two-time NL champion Braves in six games. ... Owner Wayne Huizenga spent nearly $100 million to lure Leyland from Pittsburgh and sign Alou, Bonilla and other free agents, then committed more than $60 million on Sheffield's extension. Huizenga now trying to sell the team. ... Went 23-5 in one-run decisions at Pro Player Stadium during regular season, added two more against San Francisco. ... Won major leagueleading 26 games in last at-bat. ... Have a bit of World Series experience, led by White and Daulton. ... Had best home record (51-29) in majors in regular season and went 4-1 at Miami in playoffs. ... Marlins' 11-0 start in spring training included a 4-1 win over Cleveland in which Sheffield homered twice.

PARIS - Michael Jordan has a sore toe, and the Chicago Bulls are already missing Scottie Pippen and Dennis Rodman. Could a stumble be coming in the McDonald's Championship?

Jordan cut his practice time in half Thursday as the Bulls prepared for their opener Friday in this six-team international championship, and Bulls coach Phil Jackson sounded worried.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. - The San Diego Chargers were embarrassed, and not just by the final score.

Deafened by the roar of nearly 79,000 Kansas City fans, the Chargers committed a team-record 19 penalties, three short of the 53year-old NFL record, and helped hand Kansas City a 31-3 victory Thursday night.

Nine of the penalties were for false starts as the offensive linemen, getting whipped anyway by a relentless pass rush, strained to hear the snap count over the Arrowhead Stadium din.

The NFL record of 22 penalties is shared by the Chicago Bears and Brooklyn Dodgers, both in 1944. The Chargers' previous record for penalties was 15 against Indianapolis last year. They came within 3 yards of matching the team record of 149 penalty yards set while playing the New York Jets in 1963.

Andre Rison caught two touch down passes as the Chiefs (5-2) romped to a 24-0 halftime lead while beating San Diego (3-4) for the 10th time in the Chargers' last 13 trips to Kansas City.

San Diego lost the battle on both sides of the line all night and lost starting quarterback Stan Humphries late in the first quarter when two tacklers hit him almost simultaneously. Humphries went out with a mild concussion and did not return.

lowa tries to get back on track

Tony Wirt The Daily Iowan

After a disappointing 1-0 loss to the Northwestern Wildcats last weekend, the 16th-ranked Iowa field hockey team returns to Grant Field this weekend where it will take on Michigan State Friday and Michigan Sunday.

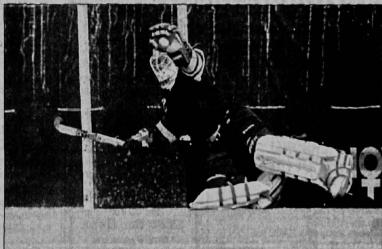

Revenge will be a big factor in Sunday's game against the Wolver-ines. The Hawkeyes lost to the them for the first time in Iowa history, 2-1, on September 26.

"We really feel that we owe Michigan," coach Beth Beglin said. "We did not play well at all there. It was the first time that we lost to them, and there is tremendous motivation for this rematch."

Beglin's team will look to keep its unbeaten streak alive against the Spartans, who will be looking for their first win over Iowa in 34 tries.

Michigan State will look to put a lot of pressure on the Hawkeye defense, using its speed to create breakaways.

"I felt we did a fairly good job at times shutting them off at their place, but we'll have to do a better job this time."

Coming off a few shaky performances, Iowa is looking to solidify its play before the Big Ten Tournament begins on Nov. 9. The coaching staff is looking for more movement and team play.

More importantly, Beglin wants her team to come ready to play from the opening gun every game.

"The biggest thing for us is that the Big Ten is so close this year, there isn't a lot separating the top teams from the bottom teams," "If you don't handle that ball Beglin said. every game, it really is true that on granted.'

With the Big Ten finale approaching, the Hawkeyes are beginning to run into some key games if they want to have postseason success. Finishing in the top two is still within reach, but the Hawkeyes know they can't afford to drop many more games.

"Every team wants to be one of the top two teams at the end of the season because it get's you that bye in the Big Ten Tournament," Beglin said. "That's huge, because if you don't have the bye, you have to win three games in three days to get the automatic bid (to the NCAA tournament). While the competition won't be extremely tough, men's coach Glenn Patton is excited about seeing his tankers back in action.

"We've had a very good fall training session, and the guys are ready for competition," Patton said. "It's good because everyone can swim a lot of events, we get a lot of different competition with the different clubs coming in, and it's better than just having an intrasquad

After eight weeks of training, Patton feels his team will benefit from having a more laid back, informal meet before his team begins its season against Big Ten powerhouse Minnesota.

"This will be a good time to experiment," Patton said. "When we go against Minnesota, we won't have any room to play around."
