A former UI student is being investigated for a break-in that occurred in the UI computer system in late August.

A former UI student Ralit Mitra is in a Wisconsin jail after being charged with a break-in that occurred in the UI computer system in late August.

The student, who was scheduled to graduate this spring, is accused of breaking into the system that controls the campus computer network. Mitra, who lives in Prospect Heights, Ill., was released from the September 18th arrest date.

The break-in occurred on September 17th, according to police. A database containing 1,200,000 user names and passwords was accessed and modified.

The investigation is being handled by the UI Police Department and the FBI. The break-in occurred during the evening hours of September 17th.

The investigation began after the database was accessed. The police were able to trace the access back to a single IP address, which led them to Mitra.

Mitra is scheduled to appear in court on October 4th. He is facing charges of computer fraud and theft of computer data.

The break-in is the latest in a series of computer crimes that have occurred on campus in recent years. In 2011, a student was charged with hacking into the school's computer system. In 2012, a student was charged with breaking into the computer system of the university's alumni association.

The investigation is continuing, and additional charges may be filed.

Tune in to cable changes

TCI cable announced plans to upgrade Iowa City's cable, but some customers aren't willing to pay for more channels.

By Eric Jordan

The Daily Iowan

Some UI students say they will not pay more money for better cable service due to the increased cost of cable providers.

The National Cable & Telecommunications Association, which represents the cable industry, has reported that cable rates have increased more than 10% in the past year.

But some UI students say they are not willing to pay the higher rates for better cable service.

"I don't want to pay more for cable," said UI junior Amy Jordan. "I just want basic cable and that's all I need.""

An unusual case of seasonal allergy

SPRING AIR QUALITY - Jodi Jones was victimized in one of the most pungent sense of the word. She was the recipient of a springtime bouquet of industrial pollutants. It was a three-week-long burst of acrid gases that gnawed at her lungs and triggered a cascade of hay fever symptoms.

"It's a daily occurrence," Jones said. "I wake up and I can't breathe. My throat feels like it's on fire. My nose is stuffed up and my eyes are watering."

Jones' reaction is not unusual in the Midwest. According to the Environmental Protection Agency, the region is one of the worst in the country for air quality, particularly during the spring months when industrial emissions are at their peak.

"The air quality in this area is terrible," Jones said. "I've had to suffer through it for years."

The situation is compounded by the fact that Jones lives near a major industrial complex, which she believes contributes to the problem.

"It's like living on the edge of a battlefield," Jones said. "I have to stay inside as much as possible."

Jones is not alone in her plight. Many other residents of the area suffer from similar symptoms. The situation has prompted calls for action from environmental groups and local officials.

"We need to do more to protect our citizens from these harmful emissions," said市 Councilman John Smith. "We need to impose stricter regulations on the industries in this area."

Natural Molecule may protect cells from HIV

A new study led by researchers from the University of Iowa and the University of Nebraska shows that a particular molecule may protect cells from HIV infection.

The researchers identified a natural molecule that prevents HIV from infecting cells. The molecule, called TBE, was found in the blood of patients who had been infected with HIV but did not develop the disease. The TBE molecule was found to block the HIV virus from entering cells, thereby preventing the virus from replicating and spreading.

The study was published in the journal Nature, and the researchers suggest that the TBE molecule could be further developed as a potential anti-HIV drug. Further research is needed to determine the safety and efficacy of TBE as a treatment for HIV.

The discovery of the TBE molecule represents a significant breakthrough in the fight against HIV, which is a major global health threat. The virus causes AIDS and is responsible for millions of deaths worldwide. The development of new treatments that can effectively block HIV infection is a significant step forward in the fight against the disease.

The campus comes alive with Homecoming spirit

Although exams soon normally take place around the Iowa Memorial Union, we were beginning this one now. We invited the Iowa Alumni Association to be on campus for two main reasons. The event was a financial one, to encourage alumni to give money. Iowa alumni and Iowa State alumni in January, the University, and the two systems. We did not confine the invitations to the people who were going to be on campus for the building.

But we also decided the lunch-dinner problem that afflicts our state, given Iowa University, and the University of Iowa. Both states are large public universities, and it was clear that UI alumni would want to have the opportunity to stay on the same campus. We also decided to include the students for the building.

So you tell me that you're thinking. They need to find a place to eat. There are so many options on campus, including the student center, the union, the cafeteria, and several restaurants in the downtown area.

We've had our share of big tests and big challenges this year, and we're here to tell you that we do remember. We've been through some tough times, but we've come out the other side. And, before you know it, you'll be here again.

I'll tell you that we do remember being embarrassed. But I'll also tell you that we're proud of what we've accomplished. From the moment we opened, we've been working hard to make the University of Iowa a place where students can thrive.

The University of Iowa is a great place to be, and we're proud to be part of the Iowa community. Whether you're a student, an alum, or just a visitor, we welcome you to our campus and hope you have a great time.

The campus comes alive with Homecoming spirit as the University of Iowa Alumni Association hosts a variety of events and activities for students, alumni, and friends to celebrate the university's rich history and vibrant community.

Destroying misconceptions about the Mexican culture

I came to a new country where I saw a lot of differences from my own country. I found that the people, the customs, the language, and the traditions were all different from what I was used to. In the beginning, it was hard to adjust, but I learned to appreciate the diversity and richness of the Mexican culture.

Are you one of the students who are interested in learning more about the Mexican culture? Here are some misconceptions about the Mexican culture that I have heard and some things that I want to clarify:

- Misconception: All Mexicans speak Spanish.
  - Clarification: While the majority of Mexicans do speak Spanish, there are also communities that speak indigenous languages.

- Misconception: Mexicans are all very friendly.
  - Clarification: While Mexicans are known for their hospitality, not all of them are necessarily friendly.

- Misconception: Mexicans are all very thin.
  - Clarification: While there are many Mexicans who maintain a healthy, fit physique, there are also those who may be overweight or maintain a different body type.

- Misconception: Mexicans are all very happy and passionate.
  - Clarification: While Mexicans are known for their passion and vibrancy, there are also those who may be more reserved or introverted.

- Misconception: Mexicans are all very poor.
  - Clarification: While poverty is prevalent in some parts of Mexico, there are also areas with high levels of wealth and economic development.

- Misconception: Mexicans are all very religious.
  - Clarification: While religion plays a significant role in Mexican society, there are also those who may not identify with a religious belief system.

- Misconception: Mexicans are all very traditional.
  - Clarification: While Mexican culture is deeply rooted in tradition, there are also those who may embrace modernity and innovation.

I hope these clarifications help you better understand the Mexican culture. As you continue to learn and experience more about this diverse and fascinating culture, you will develop a deeper appreciation for its richness and complexity.

Steve with 69

(EAST VILLAGE) - Steve McKeehn of the men's Iowa golf team carded a 69 for the first time in 20 years Friday in the Hawkeye Invitational at Iowa City Country Club.

McKeehn's score was the third best 18-hole score in the history of the Iowa men's golf team. Only the 67 and 68 by the same player in 1961 are better.

"It was a long time coming," McKeehn said. "I've been pretty close before, but I had a 76 on a course for my next best round to come this week."

McKeehn's 69 was in two hours, 34 minutes, but the round took almost two hours and 26 minutes to complete.

McKeehn's score included two birdies on the first and seventh holes and one birdie on the fourth hole. He also had three bogies on the 10th, 11th and 14th holes.

McKeehn had a 78 on Monday and a 73 on Tuesday. He shot a 74 Wednesday on the 18-hole course.

Charges against Howar are dropped

PARKER, Colo. (AP) - A spokesman for the Colorado Rockies said Wednesday that the team dropped charges against pitcher Chad Howar that were filed in connection with the April arrest of Howar for driving under the influence.

Howar, 20, of Westmorland, was charged in April. He was with his girlfriend in Parker's north- side.

He had been driving his motorcycle on a road that is a designated bike area.

The charges were dropped after the jury convicted the player for driving under the influence.

Cowboys' Johnston will be out for season

DALLAS (AP) - Dallas Cowboys linebacker Will Allen was placed on the inactive list Wednesday for surgery on his back.

Johnston has been placed on the injured list since last week on the practice squad.

"This gives me the best chance to be successful," Johnston said. "This was never the best chance to be successful."

He begins his seventh season with the Cowboys and has played in 35 games for Dallas.

"It's going to be a big chance for me," Johnston said. "I'm going to go out there and give it my all."

"I've done a lot of things with my life, and this is going to be a big chance for me."

He said the one of the worst parts of surgery is the pain.

"I'm still not sure what it is," Johnston said. "I'm not sure what I'm going to do."

Sherman did not suffer fracture; will sit 2-3 weeks

Iowa Daily

Matt Sherman did not fracture his thumb on his throwing hand during last weekend's loss to Missouri. Coach Bob Hansen said Tuesday that the quarterback will be ready to compete for starting quarterback against Michigan State this weekend.

"He's not going to be out for three weeks," Hansen said. "This is a very similar to what quarterback Matt Corral did before Montreal."

Sherman will undergo X-rays on the thumb on both hands, but will be at the season opener. Michael Morris will take the starting job if Sherman is unable to play.

"A few teammates will have that on the weekend."

Sherman has started 32 consecutive games dating back to his 12-13 victory over Northern Illinois on Nov. 11.

Sherman was in on the top of the third-to-last game of the year when Saturday, when he was replaced by C.J. Copeland.

The Iowa volleyball team is at a crossroads this weekend. The Hawkeyes are only half of Big Ten play owing to a five-game winning streak that has seen the team sweep both Michigan and Minnesota.

"It's a very big game for us and a very big game for us," said junior Kate O'Brien. "It's going to be a real challenge for us, but we're going to focus on what we need to do and what we need to work on during the week."

The Hawkeyes take on Minnesota tonight at the Carver-Hawkeye Arena and then travel to Wisconsin on Sunday.

"We're looking forward to both games," said junior Becky Bolich. "We need to come out strong and play our best. We're looking to get back on track and get our season back on track."

Their Rose Bowl hopes may be over, but the Hawkeyes will try to put competitive losses to Ohio State and Michigan in the past and get with the season.

"That's the longest loss I've ever had to endure."

Iowa defensive tackle Jared DeVries doesn't want to consider anything other than No. 3 Michigan. He doesn't want that team to think that Iowa battled through two losses and exploded past the Wolverine offensive line three times for quarterback wins.

Despite the loss to the Wolverines on Saturday, DeVries said the Hawkeyes weren't able to walk out of Michigan Stadium with the victory and keep their Rose Bowl hopes alive.

"That's all they've ever had to do," DeVries said. "I don't know how other players feel, but that was tough for me."

His time to shine

Sophomore Randy Reiners will replace injured quarterback Matt Sherman in the Hawkeye lineup.

By Tony Wirt

The Iowa Hawkeyes' coaching staff has been working hard to prepare for the season, but now they have to do so without their starting quarterback. Matt Sherman, who had been expected to lead the team this year, was injured in last week's game and will miss the rest of the season.

Reiners said that he was ready to step up and fill in for Sherman. He has been working hard to prepare for his chance to start and is looking forward to the opportunity.

Although he is new to the starting role, Reiners has been a key player for the Hawkeyes. He has been a backup quarterback for the past two seasons and has been known for his ability to make big plays.

The Hawkeyes will be looking to continue their winning streak this weekend against the Michigan Wolverines. Reiners believes that the team can still be successful without Sherman and is confident that they will be able to win the game.

Reiners said, "I'm ready to go. I've been practicing hard and I'm confident in my ability to lead the team. I know that we can win this game and I'm excited to get the chance to show the country what we can do."

Special teams ignite the Hawkeyes

The play of Iowa's special teams has provided the motivational spark with key plays at the key time

Special teams

Special teams in college football are often treated as an afterthought. They are the players who kick, punt, and return kicks and punts. They are often overlooked, but they play a crucial role in the outcome of the game.

This season, Iowa's special teams have been the hidden star of the team. They have provided the spark the team needed in key moments.

One of the most unlikely of heroes was Tony Collins, the Iowa returner. In a Matt Sherman interception, Collins returned the ball 80 yards for a touchdown. This was his 72-yard kickoff return which provided the spark the team needed against Michigan.

Another highlight was the run back by Tim Dwight. He kicked the ball off at the 10-yard line, but the drive didn't end there. The play of Iowa's special teams just continues to surprise everyone.

The play of the special teams this year has been key to the success of the team. The special teams unit doesn't get enough credit, but they are a vital part of the team.

The most unlikely of heroes was Iowa's return specialist, Tim Dwight, a true freshman. Dwight has kicked 25 times this season, and he has made the best of it and has performed like this all along.

Dwight isn't the only prime time player on the special teams, especially the kicking game. Jason Baker, a true freshman, punted eight times and had a 72-yard kick against Michigan. He has punted 25 times this season and has made the best of it. He has a 61-yard punt and has won ball games.

The Michigan Wolverines have the Hawkeyes on the ropes going into the fourth quarter, but a late rally by the Hakeys is keeping it close. The game is tied at 24-24 with 5 minutes left in the game.

One defensive tackle, Jared DeVries, agreed to be the Big Ten Defensive Lineman of the Week, but he says it was a group effort.

"I think we all played well, but we couldn't stop them in the first half," says DeVries. "We had a few turnovers and gave them a lot of opportunities. But we came back strong in the second half and held them to just three points."

In the fourth quarter, Michigan quarterback Brian Griese completed a 64-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Stuart Baskin, giving the Wolverines a narrow lead. However, Iowa quarterback Kirk Ferentz hit wide receiver Tony Vanatta with a 30-yard pass to tie the game again.

The game is now in overtime, with Michigan leading 30-27. DeVries and the defenders will have to hold off Iowa one more time to win the game.

"We're not going to give up," says DeVries. "We've been playing well and we're confident in our defense. We're going to finish strong and win this game."
Hawkeye stars are leaders off the field

Football is Tavian Banks and Tim Burger's life. But leadership off the field is their passion.

Inspired by Mary Patrice Pettersen's "Director of Campus Programs," Banks and Burger decided to become leaders off the field. They're working to help spread the word about the importance of leadership, especially to student-athletes.

"Mary Patrice Pettersen is like my second mom," says Burger, who is now an early childhood education major. "She gives me advice on things, but she also challenges me to be the best I can be."

Burger has taught the stereotypes that go along with being a jock. While towering over the field, he's also taught about selflessness and giving back to your community.

"The most important thing I've learned from Tavian and Tim is that leadership isn't just about the skills you have as a student-athlete," Burger said. "It's about how you use those skills to make a difference in the lives of others."

Burger's and Banks' academic and athletic achievements reflect their desire to excel in both areas.

"We've made a conscious effort to be successful in the classroom and on the field," Banks said. "We want to show young people that you can have both."

Although Banks and Burger have experienced success on the field, they believe that leadership is just as important off the field. They are passionate about being role models for others.

"We want to inspire others to be leaders in their own communities," Banks said. "We believe that everyone can make a difference, and we're here to show them how.

Banks and Burger emphasize the importance of gratitude and humility. They believe that success should not be taken for granted and that it is important to give back.

"We've been blessed with opportunities," Banks said. "It is important to remember that others have worked hard to get where we are."

Banks and Burger believe that leadership is about more than just being a good athlete or student. It is about making a positive impact on the world around you.

"Leadership is about being a positive role model for others," Burger said. "It's about being a part of something bigger than yourself."

Banks and Burger have established a scholarship fund to support student-athletes and help them achieve their goals. They believe that everyone should have the opportunity to succeed and reach their full potential.

"We want to help others achieve their dreams," Banks said. "We believe that everyone has the potential to be successful, and we want to give them the resources to reach their goals."
Rollins looks to future

iu Juniors football team in Michigan was especially hard for Hawk- eys' linebacker Vernon Rollins.

Rollins, a junior from New Albany who tore the pia- mata link in his right knee last season, was out for the season, had to watch the game from his bed.

“His recovery is going well,” said marching band director Robert Minton.

Rickards, a freshman defensive back, is also out with an injury, but he kind of counting the days, he won't counting them.”

But Rollins said the Hawkeyes' 28-24 victory over the Buckeyes was "an amazing experience as a football player and a great night for me and my team."
