Brewers become first team affected by realignment

NEW YORK (AP) — The Milwaukee Brewers became the first major league team to switch leagues this century, moving from the AL to the NL when baseball's ruling executive council approved the shift Wednesday.

The Brewers, who had been in the AL Central, will play in the NL Central starting next season. It leaves the NL with 16 teams and the AL with 14.

There was no announcement after the 45-minute conference call among executive council members. Two council members, who spoke on the condition they not be identified, confirmed the decision had been made. One said the decision will be announced Thursday.

Owners gave the council permission to make the final decision when they approved realignment in a telephone vote Oct. 15. While Kansas City was given first choice to switch, the Royals preferred to stay in the AL.

Milwaukee, the team owned by acting commissioner Bud Selig, had said it would move to the NL in the event Kansas City declined.

While Milwaukee has been an American League town since the Seattle Pilots moved there prior to the 1970 season and became the Brewers, it has been an NL city. The Braves moved from Boston and played in Milwaukee from 1953 to 1965 before moving to Atlanta.

"I think it's a wonderful thing for baseball," said home-run king Hank Aaron, who started his career with the Milwaukee Braves in 1954 and ended it with the Brewers in 1976. "It's a great day for Milwaukee. Milwaukee's first identification was with the National League.

"Nothing against the AL. They won a championship there (1982). But we won a World Series (1957)."

Selig, reached at his home in Milwaukee, refused to even confirm the council call took place.

As part of the realignment, the expansion Tampa Bay Devil Rays will join the AL East and the Detroit Tigers will shift to the AL Central. The NL Central will become baseball's largest division with six teams.

NFL City of San Diego to throw away Chargers tickets

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The city of San Diego, starting on Sunday, will buy tickets to the Chargers games and throw them away.

Under an agreement with the NFL team, the city has guaranteed the sale of 60,000 general-admission tickets for every home game. Those tickets have an average cost of $40.

The new plan will save money.

The guarantee cost the city $807,480 for the first three home games. The money was paid through reductions in the estimated $5.7 million in rent the Chargers are expected to pay this year.

If the city buys tickets outright, however, it will save an average of $4 per ticket.

In order to have to buy as few tickets as possible, the city will make its purchases following the first quarter — after the last of the late arrivals has shown up.

Davey wins AL Manager of Year, then quits

Davey Johnson ended his feud with Orioles owner Peter Angelos by quitting.

By David Ginsburg
Associated Press

BALTIMORE — Davey Johnson ended his feud with Baltimore Orioles owner Peter Angelos by quitting Wednesday just hours before he was voted American League Manager of the Year.

Johnson, who led the Orioles to an AL-best 98-64 record, had been fighting with Angelos since the team was eliminated by Cleveland in the AL championship series.

"If you're not wanted, do you want to take the money?" Johnson said. "Life is too short. I'll survive. I was hoping it wouldn't come to this."

Johnson, who had finished second three times in voting for NL manager of the year but never won, received 10 first-place votes, twice as many as anyone else. He received 88 points, 38 more than the second-place finisher, Buddy Bell of the Detroit Tigers.

"Nothing can ruin this day. ... To me it's like winning the Heisman Trophy," Johnson said during a telephone conference call. "It's a great honor for me. I think it's the highest award you can get in baseball."

Two days after the World Series, Johnson's agent sent Angelos a letter requesting a contract extension or a buyout of the final year. A day later, word leaked that Johnson ordered Roberto Alomar to pay $10,500 in fines to a charity that employs Johnson's wife as a fund-raiser.

Angelos said in a letter Wednesday accepting the resignation that Johnson failed "to recognize the real issue posed by your imposition and handling of the Attention sports fans: give Grant Field a shot

The Iowa field hockey team has had a rough year, but the Big Ten tournament is a chance to make everything right.

The 1997 campaign has been filled with highs, such as the upset of then fourth-ranked Penn State, and lows, Iowa dropping its first ever games to Michigan.

The team has compiled a disappointing 8-9 record overall, 4-6 in the Big Ten, marking the first time under coach Beth Beglin that the Hawkeyes have been below the .500 mark.

The last two years, the Hawkeyes opened up the can of whoop-ass on their Big Ten foes, going a combined 20-0 and earning first-round byes in the Big Ten Tournament. But both times they lost to Penn State in the finals.

However, in 1994, the first year of the tournament, the Hawkeyes had a disappointing season where they lost eight games in the regular season and didn't receive a first-round bye. That team won the Big Ten tournament and advanced to the Final Four.

Anyone else see a pattern?

Things may not be as bad as they look for the Hawkeyes this year. While the traditional powers Northwestern, Iowa and Penn State are maybe not as good as they have been in the past, traditional doormats Michigan, Michigan State, and Ohio State are better than usual.

There were no weeks off against bad teams that Iowa used to enjoy. Suddenly the team's record doesn't Iowa freshmen Ricky Davis and Dean Oliver shined as the Hawkeyes had no trouble getting past the Venezuela National Select Team, 106-59.

By Mike Triplett
The Daily iowan

Freshmen Ricky Davis and Dean Oliver are the Tavian Banks of the Iowa men's basketball team.

You can watch them get stopped at the line of scrimmage a few times, but you know the breakaway run is on the way.

Wednesday night it finally happened with just more than six minutes remaining in Iowa's 106-59 blowout of the Venezuela National Select team.

With 6:25 remaining, Oliver stole the ball. Then, lying on his back, he fired downcourt to Davis, who dished behind his back to J.R. Koch for an emphatic slam dunk.

On the next possession, Davis put the crowd on its feet with a monster dunk of his own — this one coming on an alley oop pass from Oliver.

It plays like that which have Iowa fans excited this season. But Oliver said he can't promise such dramatics every night.

"We're gonna be out there playing hard," Oliver said. "Sometimes things can happen in transition, hopefully every night. But I can't guarantee that every game there will be an alley oop or monster dunk."

Oliver, who was celebrating his 19th birthday Wednesday, finished with 11 points, five assists and no turnovers. Davis scored 12 points on 5-of-14 shooting.

Neither player started. And that's something that may continue, Iowa coach Tom Davis said. He said Oliver and Davis will play a major role, but the pressure of starting is not necessary right away.

"Early on, you worry about the quality of play, not the quantity of minutes," Coach Davis said. "They can actually improve the quality of their game without worrying about starting."

"Obviously they'll be starting somewhere down the line. I don't yet know when."

One thing the coach said he liked about his young duo is that they aren't worried about making mistakes — something Oliver showed when he started to get carried away

Iowa has not lost to Wisconsin in football since 1976.

By James Kramer
The Daily iowan

This series is a peculiar one. One team could label it a heated rivalry. Just another game, the other might say.

When Wisconsin hosts No. 12 Iowa on Saturday, adrenaline undoubtedly will flow on both sidelines. But a sense of urgency will prevail on the Badgers' bench. This may be the biggest game on their schedule.

The Hawkeyes (6-2, 3-2) have not lost to Wisconsin (7-2, 4-1) since 1976. Since the end of Gerald Ford's administration, the best the Badgers have done is gain a tie in 1984. Iowa has won the last 10 games.

Wisconsin's 1976 victory was its Homecoming game. This week is also Homecoming in Madison.

"These kids haven't had that much to do with (the streak)," Wisconsin coach Barry Alvarez said. "They've had something to do with one or at most two games. We're going to concern ourselves with this game, not the streak."

Still, it has to be difficult for Badger players to deal with such profound futility against one team. The Hawkeyes have gotten nearly every break in the series, even in years the two teams haven't met.

When Wisconsin won 10 games and went to the Rose Bowl in 1993, Iowa had the good fortune of not playing the Badgers. Hayden Fry's team finished that season with a 6-6 record.

Iowa offensive lineman Matt Reischl, a Greendale, Wis., native, understands the feelings Badger fans possess.

"I'm sure (the series) has a great deal of importance for them," Reischl said. "They have a very great desire to beat us."

At one point during his prep career, Reischl thought he would almost certainly play for Alvarez. His high school coach, the late Steve Gavinski, had some Iowa connections and cleared the way for Reischl to end up in Iowa City.

That decision did not sit well with some Wisconsin fans.

"I had one sort of persuasive letter

College Football

A major shakeup Saturday

Number 2 meets number 4, number 3 faces number 5, and the number 1 spot may be on the line.

By Richard Rosenblatt
Associated Press

Every so often there's a Saturday to remember in college football, when just a few games determine the course of the season.

On Saturday, for the first time in 26 years and just the fourth time since 1936, when the AP poll began, four of the top five teams are matched against each other on the same day — No. 4 Michigan at No. 2 Penn State and No. 3 Florida State at No. 5 North Carolina.

What's more, all four have perfect records.

At State College, Pa., there are implications for the Big Ten title, the Rose Bowl and the national championship when the Nittany Lions (7-0, 4-0) and Wolverines (8-0, 5-0) play before a Beaver Stadium crowd of 97,000 (ABC, 3:30 p.m. EST).

At Chapel Hill, N.C., the stakes might be even higher when the Tar Heels (8-0, 5-0) play the Seminoles (8-0, 6-0) at 60,000-seat Kenan Memorial Stadium (7:30 p.m. EST, ESPN). If the winner finishes with a perfect record, an Orange Bowl berth awaits, and so might No. 1 Nebraska (8-0) in what could be the national title showdown.

Both favorites — Penn State and Florida State — have major concerns going in: Too many mistakes for Joe Paterno's guys, a missing defense for Bobby Bowden's troops.

"We're going to find out how good a football team we are, whether we can play better than we have been, whether we can play smarter," Paterno said, referring to numerous penalties and poor pass protection in a 30-27 win over Northwestern last week.

The Lions, led by Curtis Enis' 830 yards and 12 touchdowns, have won their last three games by a total of eight points after outscoring their first four opponents 184-54.

With cornerback Charles Woodson leading the nation's top defense (202.5 yards, 7.5 points per game), the Lions have little room for error.

The Seminoles may be 7-0-1 against the Tar Heels, but Bowden can't figure out how his top-notch defense — dropping from No. 1 to No. 4 overall — allowed N.C. State to roll up 448 yards and five touchdowns in FSU's 48-35 win last week.

"Scares me to death," Bowden said. "Right when you think you have a lock on things, you lose it. I can't explain it. I don't know what it means."

Coach Mack Brown knows firsthand how well the Seminoles' defense can play. Last season, Florida State beat North Carolina 13-0.

While the Tar Heels have the nation's second-ranked defense (206 yards per game), the offense has a few weapons, too. Oscar Davenport is 111 of 173 for 1,330 yards and six TDs, while Jonathan Linton has 708 yards and seven TDs.

Florida State counters with Thad Busby (171 of 286 for 2,543 yards and 18 TDs), freshman Travis Minor (61 carries, 357 yards and eight TDs) and leading receiver E.G. Green (38 catches, 825 yards and eight TDs).

"It's step up or shut up time," Tar Heels linebacker Kivunusama Mays said.

The Michigan-Penn State game marks the first time since 1973 that two Big Ten teams with perfect records are playing so late in the season. On Nov. 24, 1973, a 10-0

Top-ranked Huskers are hotter than ever

No. 1 Nebraska, fresh off a 69-7 win over Oklahoma, is playing its best football of the season.

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — The nation's top-ranked team is getting better. Nebraska is coming off its best game of the season and remains among the national leaders in several statistical categories.

Last week's 69-7 defeat of Oklahoma helped the Cornhuskers remain on top in two areas: the No. 1 ranking and the No. 1 offense.

While the score was impressive, coach Tom Osborne said he uses various goals to measure Nebraska's performance. Even those standards didn't look bad to him.

"We set a lot of goals for the Oklahoma game," Osborne said Tuesday. "I think we met 10 out of 12 on offense, 10 out of 12 on defense and maybe five out of seven on the kicking game."

"That's really the best measure I have to see how we played," he said. "Sometimes the score is the index most people look at, but it really doesn't tell me how we played."

Entering Saturday's contest at Missouri (6-3, 4-2 Big 12), Nebraska (8-0, 5-0) is averaging a national-best 508 total yards per game. The Huskers' 400-yard-per-game rushing average also leads the country, as does their 45.3 points per game.

Meanwhile, the Nebraska defense is third in the total number of yards allowed, surrendering 217.8 yards per game. The Huskers are fourth against the run, giving up 68.4 yards per game.

With things looking solid on both sides of the ball, Osborne wants improvement on special teams. Against the Sooners, Nebraska partially blocked two punts to end a season-long drought in that department.

"One of the things we like to do is block a kick every other game or so," Osborne said. "We hadn't had any, even partially blocked, until this week, so that part was good."

As in the Oklahoma game, Osborne said the Huskers need another complete performance to beat a Missouri team that has won three straight and has been a suprise team in the Big 12.

"A couple of turnovers, a couple of things in the kicking game, and it can go against us," he said. "We've got to be good, we've got to be motivated and we've got to be lucky. So we'll hope those things happen together."

Wisconsin running back Ron Dayne could cause troubles for the No. 12 Hawkeys this weekend.

Michigan and 9-0 Ohio State played to a 10-10 tie.

The Florida State-North Carolina game marks the first time ACC teams have met while ranked in the top 5.

The other weekends when four of the top five teams were matched up during the regular season were:

Nov. 27, 1971: No. 1 Nebraska beat No. 2 Oklahoma 35-31; No. 3 Alabama beat No. 5 Auburn 31-7.

Oct. 9, 1943: No. 1 Notre Dame beat No. 2 Michigan 35-12; No. 4 Duke beat No. 5 Navy 14-13.

Oct. 31, 1936: No. 3 Northwestern beat No. 1 Minnesota 6-0; No. 2 Pittsburgh tied No. 5 Fordham 0-0.

Last year, No. 4 Nebraska beat No. 5 Colorado 17-12 on Nov. 29, and the next day No. 2 Florida State beat No. 1 Florida 24-21.

FLORIDA STATE AT NORTH CAROLINA

First-quarter edge goes to the Seminoles

While North Carolina has struggled early in ball games, Florida State has pounced on opponents.

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Mack Brown has some advice for television viewers planning to watch the showdown between No. 5 North Carolina and No. 3 Florida State — be seated by kickoff and don't change the channel.

The Seminoles (8-0) bolted to first-quarter leads of 21-0 and 27-0 in their past two games. The Tar Heels (8-0), meanwhile, have had a hard time scoring prior to halftime, leading Brown to believe his team also will fall behind Florida State in the first quarter Saturday night. North Carolina has been blanked in the first 15 minutes in five of its victories. A 10-0 lead over Texas Christian is the only advantage the Tar Heels have enjoyed after the first period.

Meanwhile, the Seminoles have scored 104 points in the first quarter of their eight games, including three touchdowns on the first five plays against Virginia three weeks ago.

"It doesn't look good for the first quarter," Brown said. "They are scoring a bunch early ..."

"I've told (my players) we're going to have a 60-minute half and we're not going to play the first half. I've told them maybe we should scrimmage out in the parking lot before we start and get whatever it is out of their system and they are not paying me any attention."

Despite not scoring much in the opening quarter, the Tar Heels have held the ball for nearly three minutes longer than their opponents.

"So we're not just messing up and not doing anything or being flat," Brown said.

"We are moving the ball. If we can't score, maybe we can kill the clock in the first quarter and then start."

"My halftime speeches haven't changed. I've been able to pull them back out and use them. I would like to have one where I could be telling our bunch to keep their focus. We haven't had that yet."

Keeping focus is a main concern for Florida State coach Bobby Bowden, whose team at times this season has appeared to turn it on and off at will, becoming disinterested in the second half of some games after charging to big leads.

"That does look like (the case) but is that really the truth?" Bowden said. "Are we playing so many young guys on our second unit that we can't hold people and we have to put our first team back in? Does it mean we have a lack of depth that we used to have? Or does it mean that our kids turn it on and off?"

"Those answers we're going to find out Saturday, but you can't turn it off against North Carolina and win."

high school marching band and college.

"Everything is very democratic," Miskulin said. "Everybody will have their squabbles, but nobody will ever go to bed angry."

The band is scheduled to perform tonight at 9 in Gunnerz, 123 E. Washington St. at "Ska Madness," which will also feature the ska bands Johnny Socko, MU330 and the Mibs.

While ska has quickly risen to nationwide popularity, Miskulin said people shouldn't be misled by what the mainstream portrays the musical genre to be.

"A lot of people think of ska as being what the media is saying it is — No Doubt, the Mighty Mighty Bosstones, Reel Big Fish," he said. "They are not ska and they say so. They are taking punk rock and putting ska in it. You don't hear real, straight-ahead ska on the radio. You won't hear it as far as the mainstream goes."

Still, despite this lack of radio airplay, Miskulin says a diversity of ska-based music seems to be gaining momentum.

"It is getting bigger all the time," Miskulin said. "You have bands doing '60s ska and bands doing the punk mixed in with ska and all in between there you have bands doing everything else. I would put us right in the middle of ska."

Let's Go Bowling's latest CD is titled Mr. Twist, which debuted in 1996. The band is scheduled to release a new CD in March after it finishes touring.

ARCADIA/Stoppard play opens tonight

these tremendous connections between these things."

Stoppard sets up each of his ideas in the first scene, where a 13-year-old girl named Thomasina is working on her studies with her tutor, Septimus. She is something of a child prodigy, pestering her tutor with questions about ideas that, technically, haven't been thought of yet; chaos theory, the universe's tendency towards disorder, the potential predictability of the universe with Newtonian physics and also, of course, love.

"Septimus, what is carnal embrace?" she asks.

"Carnal embrace is the practice of throwing one's arms around a side of beef," he answers.

"Is that all?"

"No... a shoulder of mutton, a haunch of venison well hugged, an embrace of grouse..."

From these first lines, we know that while Stoppard may grapple with weighty issues, the play never will become too heavy to bear. In fact, Stoppard is known for his ability to take the most complex of modern scientific ideas and turn them into something dramatic.

He also manages to connect these ideas with a huge number of other subjects.

"(The play) is like 'Encyclopedia Britannica,'" Forsythe said, "but it's also a human story and we need to make that compelling."

Indeed that is the challenge for a play that draws together every subject from physics to poetry, from love to death, from history to modern academia, from order to chaos. One of the problems Stoppard must deal with when we find that characters two hundred years apart are making the same "discoveries" is that of our own infinitely small role in this grand timescape.

But Forsythe said that in the end the play is meant to reassure us.

"(The play takes place) at a nexus of ideas, and that's what this play is about," Forsythe said. "It's about feeling our fear of chaos. All of the characters come up with systems of thought to deal with this. So even if we're all going to turn to molecular soup in a trillion years, we find that there's still some value to living."

Tickets for Arcadia are $14, $7 for UI students, senior citizens and audience members 17 and younger, and are available in advance from the Hancher Box Office. Call 335-1160 for more information. Any remaining tickets for each performance will be on sale one hour before curtain time at the Theatre Building Box Office.

Tickets are also available at a 25 percent discount as part of a University Theatres Mainstage three-play subscription package. Other options in the subscription package are Tennessee Williams' "The Eccentricities of a Nightingale," Feb. 5-15; the world premiere of "Salt" by Migdalia Cruz, Feb. 26-March 8; and Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream," April 2-12.
