U.N. orders inspectors out of Iraq

Packing up for 1997's final football road trip

Although the game is in a little more than 14 hours away, it's too late too, help in the car and head to this week's football game at the friendly Iowa State University.

By Jutta Schausten

Local Latino survey questions result

The U.S. magazine doesn't rank colleges for diversity, but some Latino college students are using surveys to find the right school for them. Edward Borquil, a sophomore at the University of Illinois at Chicago, said he would have liked to have taken the survey if it were available when he was deciding where to go to college.

By Lewis A. M. and John T. M.

INS bars 19 illegal immigrant workers back to Mexico

The INS has arrested 19 illegal immigrant workers in Coralville, Cedar Rapids and Paramus, N.J. The workers were arrested during a raid on a meat-packing plant in Coralville.

By Lewis A. M. and John T. M.
Friday Feature

Karaoke

Hidden talent, or lack thereof, is unleashed at Iowa City's karaoke clubs.

By Jeff Clinton

Downtown Iowa City's Trendy's, the wanna-be famous karaoke establishment, features a stage of its very own. Trendy's is a one-stop shopping experience for any individual who wants to show off their vocal talents.

The stage is located in the back of the bar and is usually occupied by the performers. The performers sing a variety of different songs from different genres.

On any given night, Trendy's is filled with people who have never sung in public before. They take their turn on the stage, belting out their favorite tunes.

We spoke with one of the regulars at Trendy's, a woman named Mary. She said, "I enjoy going to Trendy's because it's a great way to have fun. I don't have to worry about what anyone else thinks of me."

Another regular, a man named Greg, said, "I've been coming to Trendy's for years. It's a great place to hang out and try out different songs."

Trendy's is open every night of the week, and they offer a variety of different drinks and snacks. They also have a website where you can find more information about their karaoke nights.

Trendy's is a great place for anyone who wants to express their hidden talent. Whether you're a professional singer or just want to sing for fun, Trendy's is the perfect place to do it.
Nation

U.N. will use diplomacy, not war

BY TERENCE N. REED

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — With tensions mounting, President Clinton is preparing to enter the United Nations for his annual speech to the General Assembly on Monday, with Iraq's actions as the main threat.

Secretary of State Madeleine Albright, meanwhile, praised the end of the two-week-long U.N. weapons inspectors' mission in Iraq for ending a "crucial period," but said the U.S. mission to destroy the regime of Saddam Hussein could be engaged in "indirect action." Albright said she was "cautiously optimistic" about the possibility of U. S. hostages being freed.

Secretary of Defense Les Aspin told reporters that Iraq's actions have "sent the plainest signal" to the world that the United Nations is engaged in "indirect action." Albright said she was "cautiously optimistic" about the possibility of U.S. hostages being freed.

Sawed. "We're talking diplomacy," Albright said.

Defying Baghdad's threat to "destroy civilization" if the inspectors left, the president said he would not send U.S. troops into a U.S. flight path near the border.

"We're talking diplomacy," Albright said.

Clinton will be speaking on Monday, with Iraq's actions as the main threat.

Secretary of State Madeleine Albright, meanwhile, praised the end of the two-week-long U.N. weapons inspectors' mission in Iraq for ending a "crucial period," but said the U.S. mission to destroy the regime of Saddam Hussein could be engaged in "indirect action." Albright said she was "cautiously optimistic" about the possibility of U.S. hostages being freed.

Secretary of Defense Les Aspin told reporters that Iraq's actions have "sent the plainest signal" to the world that the United Nations is engaged in "indirect action." Albright said she was "cautiously optimistic" about the possibility of U.S. hostages being freed.

Sawed. "We're talking diplomacy," Albright said.

Defying Baghdad's threat to "destroy civilization" if the inspectors left, the president said he would not send U.S. troops into a U.S. flight path near the border.

"We're talking diplomacy," Albright said.

Clinton will be speaking on Monday, with Iraq's actions as the main threat.
4A - The Key testimony given in Nichols' trial as Lorena Reynolda can remember, I've come all this way and I'm never words and numbers danced on the page when she tried to read.

But when she registered to the recent by lawyers, academics and activists of high-explosive device.

Fortier said. "It stood in a little circle and Tim reached into a milk crate of high-explosive device."

"42, could fix the death penalty if convicted of murder and manslaughter," Peter Schiff, a lawyer and editor of the Wall Street Journal newspaper, said the day these questions were asked.

By Sandy Shore Associated Press

"No, I had ever done that before," said Paul Greaves. "I don't think there is a sympathy for any of these people who have taken the law into their own hands and have acted in a violent way.

"But Paul Greaves, a detective for the Oklahoma City Police Department, said there are "no controls on the things that are going on right now." He was quick to point out, "It doesn't mean that we are going to lose our grip on the law."

"We are not discouraged by the violence that has been taking place," Greaves said.
Viewpoints

Worshiping science, stars

Karrie Higgins
columnist

The Iowan.

Albert Einstein once wrote, "I am convinced that Mathematics is the language of Physics..."

I thought about the words as I watched the moon slowly pass through the waning gibbous stage. The moon, always a symbol of change, perpetual motion, opportunity, and the unknown, has been known to inspire many a creative thought. In the words of Einstein, "Mathematics is the language of Physics..."

The night was peaceful. The stars twinkled above, each one a story of its own, a chapter in the cosmic library. The stars, with their own unique colors and sizes, served as a reminder of the vastness of the universe. As I gazed up at the stars, I couldn't help but wonder about the meaning of life. What is the purpose of existence? Is there a higher power guiding us through our trials and tribulations?

I found myself pondering these questions as I lay in bed, staring at the ceiling. The darkness of the room was only penetrated by the soft glow of the moon. The stars seemed so far away, yet they held a certain mystique that drew me in. They were a reminder of the unknown, the vastness of the universe, and the infinite possibilities that lay ahead.

As I drifted off to sleep, I couldn't help but think about Einstein's words. "Mathematics is the language of Physics..." Perhaps, in some small way, the stars and the universe itself were a reflection of the beauty and possibilities that lie within each one of us. The stars, with their own unique stories, served as a reminder of the infinite possibilities that lay ahead.

---

TCl does disservice to Univision fans

For years, Univision has been a beacon of hope for the Hispanic community in the United States. Its programming has provided a voice for Hispanic culture, news, and entertainment. However, recent changes in programming have raised concerns among fans.

The network has made efforts to appeal to a broader audience, which has led to the removal of some shows that were once popular among Hispanic viewers. This has sparked a debate about the network's priorities and its commitment to serving its Hispanic audience.

One fan, who we'll call Carlos, said, "I feel that Univision is losing its identity. The network used to be the voice of Hispanics, but now it seems more focused on catering to a mass audience.

Another fan, Maria, added, "I don’t understand why they’re doing this. Univision has always been about Hispanic culture and entertainment, and now they're trying to appeal to a wider demographic."

In response, Univision officials have said that they are trying to attract a broader audience in order to increase ratings and revenue. They argue that this is necessary in order for the network to continue to thrive.

However, this has led to concerns among fans who feel that the network is losing its focus on Hispanic culture and entertainment. They argue that this is a disservice to the Hispanic community and a rejection of their heritage.

"Univision was once a pinnacle of Hispanic culture," said José, a Univision fan. "Now it seems like they're trying to cater to everyone, but they're losing their edge.

It's concerning to see a network that has been such a cornerstone for Hispanic culture in this country shifting gears. It's like they're forgetting their roots."

---

Gays could learn a thing or two from the Mormons

Kimberly Haynes
Journalist

I've always been fascinated by the intersection of religion and politics. Both are powerful forces that shape society, and they often collide in surprising ways. One such collision is the battle between the Mormon Church and the gay rights movement.

The Mormon Church, with its strict teachings on marriage and family, has historically been opposed to same-sex marriage. On the other hand, the gay rights movement has fought for the right to marry and for the recognition of same-sex relationships.

Recently, I've been reading about a gay rights group that is taking inspiration from the Mormon Church. They've started a movement called the "Mormon Resist," which encourages gay and lesbian Mormons to challenge their Church's views and work toward acceptance.

I think this is a fascinating development. The Mormon Church, with its emphasis on community and family, could offer valuable lessons to the gay rights movement. For example, the Church's values of compassion and understanding could be applied to the fight for gay rights.

I believe that the gay rights movement could learn from the Mormon Church's history of change and adaptation. The Church has undergone significant transformations over the years, and it's clear that they are willing to listen and adjust to new realities.

As someone who writes about religion and politics, I find this fascinating. The tension between the Mormon Church and the gay rights movement is a microcosm of larger issues in society. It's a reminder of the complexity of these issues and the importance of finding common ground.
College Football

MN's Hamdorf gets shot at old mates

> Former City High star Darrell Hamdorf has earned five years for this.

Dreaded, the fifty-year senior from Iowa City will finally get a chance to start against Mason City.

- Iowa City High School quarterback Darrell Hamdorf has earned five years for this season with the Mason City Mustangs.

- This game is kind of special for Darrell Hamdorf, too. He knows he's been playing better than ever.

- But he has yet to get that win in his high school career.

- The Mustangs have played well in the last two seasons, but they have yet to win a game.

- Hamdorf was recruited by Iowa, but the Hawkeyes decided to give him the scholarship to East Iowa Community College.

"This game is kind of special for Darrell Hamdorf, too. He knows he's been playing better than ever. But he has yet to get that win in his high school career. The Mustangs have played well in the last two seasons, but they have yet to win a game."
The distance increases, as will the value of our finish. We will have to in Iowa State in the two of the teams
rival Minnesota, Saturday.

"We haven't run our best race
in the 10K yet," Wieczorek said. "We just won their first career Big Ten events last week. Not to mention a few Big Ten guys will be close. Right now they are +\text{.5 seconds away and they need to be closer.}

Women's Cross Country
The men's and women's cross country team will be the main focus this weekend.

"We are working on our best race at the meet," the coach said. "If we can get everyone to run with us, we will have a chance to do well.

The distance increases, as will the value of our finish. We will have to
in Iowa State in the two of the teams
rival Minnesota, Saturday.

"We haven't run our best race
in the 10K yet," Wieczorek said. "We just won their first career Big Ten events last week. Not to mention a few Big Ten guys will be close. Right now they are +\text{.5 seconds away and they need to be closer.}"

Women's Swimming
The women's swimming team will be looking to improve their season
this weekend. They have competed with some success, and they will be competing against Big Ten teams.

"The team shows the ability to run with the best, the much more," Wieczorek said. "We have had great success after getting everyone to run in the best distance of our career.

Men's Swimming
The men's swimming team will be looking to improve their season
this weekend. They have competed with some success, and they will be competing against Big Ten teams.

"The team shows the ability to
run with the best, the much more," Wieczorek said. "We have had great success after getting
everyone to run in the best
distance of our career.

"Iowa's top-three (Chuck Ballen,
Macky Steed and Tom Enright)
have competed in the NCAA meet all season,
but they have yet to do it again.

"If they do our best race in the 10K, then our finish is the finisher.

"We will have a chance to do well.
We will have a chance to do well.
"The distance increases, as will the value of our finish. We will have to
in Iowa State in the two of the teams
rival Minnesota, Saturday.

"We haven't run our best race
in the 10K yet," Wieczorek said. "We just won their first career Big Ten events last week. Not to mention a few Big Ten guys will be close. Right now they are +\text{.5 seconds away and they need to be closer.}"

Women's Hoops
The women's basketball team will be looking to improve their season
this weekend. They have competed with some success, and they will be competing against Big Ten teams.

"The team shows the ability to
run with the best, the much more," Wieczorek said. "We have had great success after getting everyone to run in the best
distance of our career.

"Iowa's top-three (Chuck Ballen,
Macky Steed and Tom Enright)
have competed in the NCAA meet all season,
but they have yet to do it again.

"If they do our best race in the 10K, then our finish is the finisher.

"We will have a chance to do well.
We will have a chance to do well.