Clinton nixes plea on Iraq

Clinton rebuffs appeal for softer sanctions on Iraq.

By Terence Hunt
Associated Press

DENVER - President Clinton rebuffed an appeal from Russian President Boris Yeltsin on Saturday to ease tough economic sanctions against Iraq, saying he hoped the tense showdown with Iraq was "over but we're not sure."

Clinton spoke with Yeltsin for 40 minutes by telephone from the White House before setting out on a day of campaign fund-raising expected to reap more than $1 million for Democrats. The president stopped in Denver and Seattle en route to the IS-nation Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation forum in Vancouver, British Columbia.

One top priority, Clinton said, "will be strengthening and stabilizing Asia's financial markets so that their economies and ours stay on the right track."

Reflecting on the crisis with Iraq and other demands, Clinton said simply, "It was a killer of a week."

Later, in Seattle, Clinton said, "I hope you have seen in the difficult week we have just had over the weapons inspections in Iraq how important it is for your country to continue to stand up for peace and freedom and security around the world."

Clinton nixes plea on Iraq - The second time in two weeks, the Clinton administration is telling Americans that their programs are getting safer in all regions of the country.

Fond memories - As we are more conscious holiday season, let's remember how this season's first outing of Coca Cola has helped the Ray of Hope Center.

The Coca Cola Company is the No. 1 sponsor of this year's American Cancer Society's Relay for Life.

U.S. works to turn better trade relations with Pacific nations

By Martin Chulov

WASHINGTON (Reuters) - The U.S. is in a position to improve its trade relations with Pacific nations, U.S. Deputy National Security Adviser John Negroponte said on Tuesday.

"We believe that we can now have a more productive dialogue with our Pacific neighbors," Negroponte said in a speech to the National Press Club.

Negroponte said the U.S. is seeking to improve its trade relations with Pacific nations, including Japan, South Korea, and Indonesia, as a way to promote regional stability.

"We are committed to building a more comprehensive and effective partnership with the countries of the Pacific region," he said.

Negroponte said the U.S. is working to reduce trade barriers, increase market access, and promote economic integration in the region.

"We believe that our trade relationship with the Pacific region is a key component of our broader strategy to promote economic growth and stability," he said.

Negroponte said the U.S. is also seeking to improve its security relationship with the Pacific region, including through the Pacific Partnership, a U.S.-led multinational exercise to improve military readiness and interoperability.

Negroponte said the U.S. is also seeking to improve its political relationship with the Pacific region, including through the U.S.-Pacific Economic Partnership Agreement, a framework for promoting economic cooperation and development in the region.

Negroponte said the U.S. is also seeking to improve its environmental relationship with the Pacific region, including through the Pacific Islands Climate Adaptation and Resilience Program, a U.S.-led initiative to support climate action in the region.

Negroponte said the U.S. is also seeking to improve its cultural relationship with the Pacific region, including through the U.S.-Pacific Cultural Foundation, a U.S.-led initiative to promote cultural exchange and understanding in the region.

Negroponte said the U.S. is also seeking to improve its health relationship with the Pacific region, including through the U.S.-Pacific Health Security Program, a U.S.-led initiative to promote public health and disease prevention in the region.

Negroponte said the U.S. is also seeking to improve its energy relationship with the Pacific region, including through the U.S.-Pacific Energy Partnership, a U.S.-led initiative to promote clean and sustainable energy solutions in the region.

Negroponte said the U.S. is also seeking to improve its education relationship with the Pacific region, including through the U.S.-Pacific Education Partnership, a U.S.-led initiative to promote quality education and skills development in the region.

Negroponte said the U.S. is also seeking to improve its sports relationship with the Pacific region, including through the U.S.-Pacific Sports Partnership, a U.S.-led initiative to promote sports development and exchange in the region.

Negroponte said the U.S. is also seeking to improve its tourism relationship with the Pacific region, including through the U.S.-Pacific Tourism Partnership, a U.S.-led initiative to promote tourism and travel in the region.

One man's word against the future

If you have been watching distorting HBO this month, you may have been for a special treat. The network recently released an original miniseries called 'The Book of the Dead'. The series takes place after a plague that decimates the world's population. In it, the world is divided into different territories, each with its own form of communication, health care, and government. The story follows a group of survivors as they try to rebuild society and rediscover the meaning of life.

I'm not going to spoil the story for you, but I will say that the series raises some interesting questions about the future of humanity. For example, what would happen if we were suddenly confronted with a global pandemic? How would we respond? Would we band together and work towards a common goal, or would we turn on each other and compete for resources?

These are just a few of the questions that are raised in 'The Book of the Dead'. I encourage you to watch the series and see how it explores these themes. It's a thought-provoking and engaging story that will leave you pondering the future for a long time to come.

The morality behind a miracle

A giant is born, perhaps destined for greatness. The narrator speaks of the importance of miracles in our world. The future is uncertain, but with faith, anything is possible. The narrator goes on to say that miracles can be interpreted in many ways to mean different things.

TDC is offensive

We appreciate very much that The Daily Iowa gives us the chance to express our thoughts and opinions. However, we do not understand why the term "TDC" is used in reference to the popular video game "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles: The Cowabunga Edition".

"TDC" stands for "Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles: Cowabunga Edition". The term is being used to refer to the character of Donatello, who is characterized as being "offensive". We believe that this is a misinterpretation of the character's motivations and actions.

We urge The Daily Iowa to reconsider its use of the term "TDC" in the future. It is important to respect the diversity and culture of our schools. We do not want to perpetuate negative stereotypes.

We are living in a multicultural society and should strive to make sure that everyone feels included and valued.

Malden Van IMO Iowa City

It seems to me that the focus is on TDC's motives and actions. The term "offensive" is often used to refer to things that are seen as offensive, such as certain words or images. However, TDC's actions are not necessarily offensive in the same way that other actions might be. Therefore, it seems to me that the term "offensive" is not appropriate in this context.

TDC represents the voice of the people, not the voice of the powerful. It is important to listen to the voices of all of us in this society, regardless of our background or beliefs.

As a school community, we should strive to create a safe and welcoming environment for all students. This means respecting each other and avoiding language that is hurtful or offensive. By doing so, we can work towards a more inclusive and respectful community.

ATM addiction is wide-spread

After reading Brenda's column about the addition to the OSS machine, I feel that I have the same problem.

I tried to cut down on the amount of money I use by keeping track of the money I took out. However, this did not work. I ended up needing more money than ever before.

If I had been able to stay in control of my spending, I would not be in this situation. However, I have found that it is impossible to control my spending.

The temptation to spend money is always there. I find that I am constantly thinking about what I want to buy, regardless of whether I can afford it or not.

The only way to overcome this problem is to cut down on the amount of money I use. I have found that it is difficult to do this, but it is necessary if I want to control my spending.

SAY

Yes, let's talk turkey: Give care to animals

The holidays are a time for family, friends, and giving. However, it is important to remember that animals are also members of our community. They deserve our care and respect just as much as people do.

Animals have feelings and emotions, and they can suffer just like people do. It is important to treat animals with kindness and respect, and to provide them with the best possible care.

Actor who portrayed the character of the blind lawyer, a Southern version of the blind justice on a murder that seems to punish all people, every person hated among the film. Grisham, of course, is no exception, the woman who once played Deity Harper, who isn’t quite as much of a man as the true-life Lady of Justice. The Rajnmaker: “John Grisham’s The Rainmaker” is a legal thriller about a young attorney who takes on a seemingly hopeless case. The movie features a star-studded cast and tackles issues of justice and integrity.

Decker cracks starting lineup

Sophomore wrestler Justin Decker won the 150-pound wrestle-off to earn a starting job.

By James Beamer

Justin Decker wanted it, because one of those chances is long overdue.

Last year it was Devon Worth, a fifth-year senior who was an NCAA title his only win as a varsity wrestler. Decker, a sophomore from Washington, is in the lineup.

"I've been working ever since I became a freshman," said Decker during the weigh-ins this week. "I've been working hard and have no excuse but to get out there and show the higher-ups that I've earned a starting job." Decker, 5-10, 166, and fourth in the meet, will face flotation at the 150-155-pound mark.

"I've been working very hard and I think I've deserved a starting position," said Decker.

The Hawkeyes, ranked No. 1 in the nation, defeated the Gophers, ranked No. 2, in a thrilling victory. The meet was held in Carver-Hawkeye Arena, and the Gophers led 1-0 at the lone victory.

"The Hawkeyes need to make some adjustments to their lineup," said Decker. "The Gophers need to make some adjustments to their lineup as well." Decker, a native of Fond du Lac, Wis., is a two-time NCAA qualifier and is currently ranked No. 5 in the nation.

Michigan spoils OSU's season

Ohio State's Gary Houry (16) of the Buckeyes celebrates during the closing minutes of its game Saturday.

The postseason picture was cleared considerably Saturday after Michigan beat OSU, and Florida beat Florida State.

"Any time a team can come down to the New Year's Bowls," Ohio State's Buckeyes made it close. But the Wolverines' top-rated defense couldn't go down with the offense, and Michigan took over and ran out the clock in the third quarter.

"That's the difference," Michigan coach Jim Tressel said. "We feel our defense could hold onto the ball. Our offense couldn't hold onto the ball."

Michigan outscored the Buckeyes 12-0 in the second half and 20-7 in the fourth quarter. The win gives Michigan (10-2) the Big Ten championship and sets up a meeting with No. 1 Michigan in the Rose Bowl.

"I won't be surprised at how well Michigan plays," OSU's coach said. "That's the best team we've played all year."

Michigan (10-2) dominated OSU from the first snap. The Wolverines' defense held OSU to 208 yards of offense, the fewest yards allowed in a game this season.

"We have a lot of respect for the Buckeyes," said OSU tackle John Cooper. "But they couldn't overcome the defense tonight."

The Buckeyes (6-6) were eliminated from the Big Ten race and will play in the Citrus Bowl on Jan. 1. The Buckeyes finished 4-5 in the Big Ten.

Ohio State's Big Ten 5-2 mark will not be enough to win the conference championship. The Buckeyes needed to win to get in the Big Ten title game.

"We're not going to the Citrus Bowl," OSU's defensive coordinator said. "We're going to the Big Ten title game."

Pack dumps Dallas

The Associated Press

The Green Bay Packers gave the Dallas Cowboys a belly refection at Lambeau Field. Two fumbles from two touchdowns and Darren Levy rushed for 149 yards as the Packers scored 10 points on two players with a combined 69 seconds before the first leg.

In the second leg, the Packers scored 17 points in the first quarter, taking advantage of a 1-0 score on a fourth-down conversion.

Green Bay's last seven games at Dallas were at Texas Stadium. It was the third time in two years that the Packers scored 50 points in a game.

"I witnessed in the second half the best hitting the Cowboys have had in a long time," Dallas coach Barry Switzer said. "We were really outplayed."
Former heavyweight champ Foreman retires

By Ed Schneider.

Former heavyweight champion George Foreman, 54, announced his retirement from boxing after his majority-decision loss to Shannon Briggs. Formerly the WBA and IBF champion, he now moves into the business world.

"I have no more stars to chase," said Foreman, who had moved down from 220 pounds to 200 in his attempt to retain his titles. "If you're a fighter, you want to be the best. There's no better way to go out than with your title, but I don't want to be the worst." Foreman also expressed a desire to use his business acumen to help the people of his native Trinidad and Tobago.

Though he was knocked out twice in the 11th round by Briggs, his heart remained strong. "I'm not bitter," he said. "It's just that I don't want to be the worst. I want to be the best." Foreman added that he will continue to train and fight in the future, but not at the highest level. "I've been down, but I'm not out yet," he said. "I'll keep fighting until I'm 60."

As for his future endeavors, Foreman said he plans to open a restaurant and a gym in his hometown of Houston. "I love []

NHL's all-stars are becoming no-stars

By Ken Rappoport

In an e-mail to the National Hockey League, NHL commissioner Gary Bettman announced that the league will no longer consider the All-Star Game as a major event. This comes after a fall in attendance and ratings for the game in recent years.

The NHL has been having an off-year as well. In March, Bettman canceled the All-Star Game due to concerns about player safety. Bettman also announced that the NHL will no longer hold the Winter Classic after the 2018-19 season.

"We have to make some tough decisions," Bettman said. "We can't afford to keep spending money on a game that no one cares about."

The move comes as the NHL continues to struggle with declining interest in the sport. Attendance and ratings for the NHL have been falling for several years, and the league is in need of a new strategy to grow its fanbase.

"We need to find a new way to attract fans," Bettman said. "The All-Star Game has been a drain on the NHL's resources, and we can't keep spending money on it."

UNI shocks Iowa State, wins 54-48

By Chuck Schleef

After dominating Iowa State for most of the game, the Panthers shocked the Cyclones with a late surge to win 54-48.

"We came out of the locker room with a renewed sense of urgency," said UNI head coach Dave Geist. "We played with a lot of energy and got the win we needed."

The Panthers' victory gives them a 2-1 record in conference play and puts them in contention for a spot in the NCAA tournament. "We needed this win," said UNI forward Tim Floyd. "It was a great way to start the second half of the season."

Iowa football: Hawks hope for bowl

Coach Fry and I were talking about that on the sideline the other day. He said, Iowa is better than its record and its season make them a lock for a bowl, but he said it doesn't matter where we're playing.

"We've got to be ready, and Iowa is a good football team. They've got good athletes and they're well-coached," Fry said. "But Iowa is better than its record and its season make them a lock for a bowl, but he said it doesn't matter where we're playing.

"I think we're a top-10 team. But Iowa is better than its record and its season make them a lock for a bowl," Fry said. "But Iowa is better than its record and its season make them a lock for a bowl, but he said it doesn't matter where we're playing."

Drews/Elliott's defense steps it up

The defense created five turnovers in the loss to Indiana, which gave the Hawkeyes an opportunity to come back and win the game. The Hawkeyes haven't had a shut down since the bowl game against the Volunteers in the 2010 Rose Bowl.

"Having those aspects will be tough for us to get back to a bowl," Fry said. "But Iowa is better than its record and its season make them a lock for a bowl, but he said it doesn't matter where we're playing."

"Coach Fry and I were talking about that on the sideline," Dwight said. "And they don't care where we're playing. They're just trying to win and make a bowl."
