Farley’s death shocks the UI

By Greg Knickelbe the Daily Iowan

Tommie Farley, known for his role in Tommy Boy and a role in every comedy, died Thursday in Chicago after a battle with cancer. He was 39 years old. Farley was never married, but that didn’t stop students, like UI junior Justin Leydon, from remembering him.

This isn’t the first time a UI student has lost a loved one, but it’s the first time a UI student has died from cancer.

“I was watching ‘Tommie Boy’ with my friends and I said, ‘Hey guys, I never met the next John Candy,’ she said, referring to the funny actor who died of a brain tumor in 1994. And that’s when I realized ‘Tommie Boy’ was the closest thing I had to a role model.”

UI junior Brian Leydon, who made a small cameo in the comedy, said:

“Tommie was aClassy gentleman. I think Tomye’s death shows what can happen if you don’t take care of your body and yourself.”

The odd thing about the movie, Leydon said, is that some people don’t realize how serious the disease was.

“My mom and I saw the movie the day after it came out,” Leydon said. “We didn’t know he was sick. It was so sad.”

Rejoicing in Kwanzaa

Many African-American students will be celebrating the 31-year-old Kwanzaa holiday in recognition of their roots.

The reality of Hanukkah hoopa

As Christian students get ready for the end-of-year festivities, Jewish students and faculty say their observance of Hanukkah is not that big of a deal.

By Christine McNamara the Daily Iowan

The real reason for Hanukkah hoopa

The holiday’s traditions include lighting a 9-candle, or hanukkiah, one candle a day, and exchanging gifts to the past. Each week, one additional candle is lit in the menorah and on the last evening of Hanukkah, a special eight-candle menorah is lit, known as the shamash, which is traditionally lit as the first candle, but is used as a stand-in for the first day of Hanukkah.

Hanukkah, when his children were young, is a time when the family is together and has fun. During Hanukkah, he and his family would light the menorah each night and enjoy each other’s company.

Hanukkah’s hoopa is familiar to the Jewish family. "It’s the lighting of the candles and the exchanging of gifts," he said.

Hanukkah Hoopa is the practice of lighting the menorah, a tradition that has been passed down for generations. It is a special time for family and friends to come together and celebrate the holiday.

The tradition of lighting the menorah and giving gifts is a way for families to come together and celebrate the holiday. During Hanukkah, families light the menorah and give gifts to each other as a way to strengthen their bond and connect with each other.

The tradition of giving gifts is also a way for families to express their appreciation for each other. During Hanukkah, families often give gifts to each other as a way to show their love and appreciation for one another.

The tradition of lighting the menorah and giving gifts to family and friends is an important part of Hanukkah. It is a time for families to come together and celebrate the holiday, and it is a way for families to strengthen their bond and connect with each other.

Congress mandates consumer report of fertility clinics in U.S.

The government releases a consumer guide on fertility success rates.

By Charles C. Carter

AP NEWS

ATLANTA - Staying in touch with doctors is years of doctor's appointments, thousands of dollars spent on tests and a long education about fertility treatments that run to 12 pages.

"There was so much no one expected," said Dr. John Schneider, a gynecologist in Iowa City. "I'm not a typical doctor in general practice."

Dr. Schneider's office serves as a fertility clinic.

According to the CDC, the report, available over the Internet, will not be a "quick fix to the many issues that surround fertility care." But the report will provide background information about fertility treatments, including those offered by state and federal programs.

The report also includes the data from seven major fertility clinics, along with information on how to get in touch with them.

In vitro fertilization is a common fertility treatment, but the report also includes information on other methods, such as donor eggs, adoption and foster care. The report also includes a "fertility calculator" that provides an estimate of the chances of conception with each treatment.

Garcia says the CDC is already getting feedback from doctors, who are interested in the report's data. "We're going to get feedback from doctors who are interested in the data," said Garcia. "We're going to get feedback from doctors who are interested in the data."

Banner economic crisis, Sen. South Korem (D-Min.) said yesterday, would make her the new president.

Mr. South Korem, who was appointed as the president of the United States by the South Korean government in January, has been a strong advocate for economic policies that focus on job creation and economic growth.

"I believe that we need to focus on creating jobs and growth, rather than trying to balance the budget," South Korem said.

On the other hand, the current president, President Clinton, has been criticized for his handling of the economic crisis, particularly his focus on reducing the deficit.

"I believe that we need to focus on reducing the deficit, rather than trying to create jobs and growth," Clinton said.

Despite these differences, both candidates agree on the importance of addressing the economic crisis.

"I believe that we need to work together to address the economic crisis, and we can do that by focusing on creating jobs and growth, rather than trying to balance the budget," South Korem said.

On the other hand, Clinton believes that we need to focus on reducing the deficit, rather than trying to create jobs and growth.

"I believe that we need to focus on reducing the deficit, rather than trying to create jobs and growth," Clinton said.

The election is scheduled for November 3, 2004.

Opposition candidate elected South Korean president

Seeking economic salvation, South Korea elects a new president.

By Kim Seung-hoon

SEOUL, South Korea--A reviving South Korea picked a new president Friday, ousting the ruling party and standing the nation's future in the hands of opposition leader Kim Dae-jung.

Mr. Dae-jung, a 73-year-old lawyer and respected human rights advocate, won 45% of the vote, according to an internal estimate of 98% of the ballots. Official results won't be released until Sunday. President Kim Young-hoe, the ruling party's candidate, won 43%.

The other major networks estimated Mr. Dae-jung, who advocates a policy of "Sunshine" with North Korea, won 43%.

The election was the biggest since the end of the Korean War. The two leaders seek to revive the economy, which has grown by only 0.8% this year, and to mend relations with North Korea.

Mr. Dae-jung, who won the support of the country's business elite, won the backing of conservative and centrist voters. Mr. Kim, a former commissioner of the National Intelligence Service, was elected by left-leaning voters.

Mr. Kim, a 72-year-old retired general, was a surprise loser. He lost his first election bid in 1992, when he ran as a pro-North candidate. He was selected as the ruling party's candidate only three months ago.

His family made an emotional appeal to the electorate. A scholarship fund is under way to support his wife, who was diagnosed with cancer.

Mr. Dae-jung, on the other hand, benefited from mounting public anger over the government's handling of the economy, which has grown anemic this year despite billions of dollars in economic assistance from the U.S.

Inflation has soared to 10.5%, and producing companies have been hit by a flood of imports.

Mr. Dae-jung, who advocated the government's policies in the past few weeks, said the election was a vote against the government's handling of the economy. He promised to work for a "new economy" for the nation.

Mr. Dae-jung said he would consolidate the government's pro-North policies. He would try to improve relations with North Korea, which he believes can be developed into a "peaceful coexistence." He said he would work on the economic problems that have plagued South Korea in the past.

He also vowed to raise the standard of living, and to improve the government's bureaucratic system, which is seen as inefficient and corrupt.

Mr. Dae-jung's victory is expected to bring a new era to the nation's politics. He will be the first opposition candidate to win the presidency since the end of the Korean War.

The election was held amid widespread anti-government sentiment in the country, which has been battered by the government's efforts to reduce the budget deficit and to control the nation's growing budget deficit.

The results are expected to bring a new era to the nation's politics, with the government's efforts to reduce the budget deficit and to control the nation's growing budget deficit.

Thurmond ignores other side of founding fathers

To the Editor: The letter concerning Alphonse Thurmond's views on the virtue of the American Founding Fathers (Sept. 15, 2101, Page 7A) by an American Native, Mr. Thurmond, your views on the events of the American Revolution and the Declaration of Independence are inaccurate. If you would actually take the time to read the words of the Founding Fathers, you would find that it was not only the white men who signed those documents. In fact, American Indians were integral to the success of the Revolution. It was not just the white men who fought for independence, but also the Indian nations. Mr. Thurmond, you refer to the Founding Fathers as one group when, in reality, they are a diverse group of people. By ignoring the contributions of the Indian nations to the American Revolution, you are failing to recognize the true nature of the Founding Fathers. Real racial dialogue needed

Dr. John Hope Franklin's important book on African Americans is a true dialogue between the races of our country (Sept. 15, 2101, Page 9A). Franklin's book is a true dialogue between the races of our country. In his book, Franklin discusses the history of African Americans in the United States. He discusses the discrimination faced by African Americans and the efforts made by African Americans to overcome this discrimination. Franklin's book is a true dialogue between the races of our country. It is a book that should be read by everyone, regardless of race. The case against affirmative action

The title of your section this week, "The case against affirmative action," is misleading. Affirmative action is a policy designed to promote equity and fairness in the workplace and educational institutions. It is not a policy designed to discriminate against anyone. Reflections on communication technology ike most people, I was excited when I heard about the new communication technology that was about to be released. However, as the release date approached, I began to have some concerns. The new technology promised to revolutionize the way we communicate, but I couldn't help but wonder about its potential impact.

My primary concern was privacy. I had heard that the new technology would allow for real-time communication, but I couldn't help but wonder if it would put our privacy at risk. I was worried that our conversations would be recorded and used against us without our knowledge.

Another concern I had was the potential for misuse. The technology promised to bring people closer together, but I couldn't help but wonder if it would be used for nefarious purposes. I was worried that it could be used to monitor and control people, rather than to connect them.

Despite these concerns, I was still excited to see what the new technology had to offer. I knew that it could improve the way we communicate, but I also knew that it was important to be aware of the potential risks.

In the end, I decided to give the new technology a try. I was surprised by how easy it was to use and how effective it was at bringing people closer together. I was also pleased to see that it didn't put my privacy at risk.

Overall, I was happy with the new technology. It was a valuable tool that helped me stay connected with the people I care about. But I will continue to be aware of the potential risks and use it responsibly.

Groups miss the real issues

To the Editor:

I just received a letter from Planned Parenthood that describes the vicious attacks on health care for women. They ask for donations but will not put part of the money sent to the birth control section of Planned Parenthood. One reason is that they don’t want the Catholic Church to know they are receiving money for birth control, fearing that the money is underwritten. If you only give on the pledge line and designate the birth control section of the organization, you will get a letter saying that a certain number of dollars have been taken. That’s not good enough, and not when you are giving to an organization that is doing God’s work. Planned Parenthood was designed for young encom passing industrial use, and as such it is terribly important that the money is put to good use.

When you get this magnet anywhere near a flat metal surface, "WORL" attaches itself, and the other line (IMAGINE) changes to read "IMAGINE ORANGE." If you ever need to take out the magnet, try moving it out beneath an object that will not draw it away, or you will find it im possible to get it off. If it ever needs to be removed from clothing, etc., roll the magnet into a ball and place the other end of the white thing with you.

With this magnet, you are not limited to attaching paper to your refrigerator. You can attach a picture, a letter, a love note, or a trivial note— the possibilities are limited only by your imagination. You can even put it on your front door, which would be a perfect idea, and saving yourself the anxiety of finding your magnet and a piece of paper. We ask only that you do not give it to foulmouthed bastards.

The season for giving is upon us

To the Editor:

The season for giving is our holiday season. When you receive your Christmas gifts and open your presents, remember that many seniors, the handicapped, and others who are more frequent, and many small agencies miss the holiday goodwill through Project Holiday. Your individual gifts can take a small weight off the backs of these people. Your gift can enable these people to at tend the nearest hospital for a major operation. Your gift can mean the difference between life and death. Your gift can afford food and medicine for a needy family. Your gift can be a superb gift for long-haul truckers or a winter hat to the average American. Your gift can help to save someone from a heart attack who would otherwise not have been able to cover medical expenses, much less pay a healthy insurance premium.

Fortunately in our community, the desire to give increases during the holiday season. Donations of food and money are more frequent, and many people are willing to buy holiday gifts for needy families. "Gifts for the Needy" is one program that will be available during December. So let's have a history of giving and put away the cash. Let's have a history of giving and put away the cash. Let's have a history of giving.

Your poster boy is selfishness and arrogance. The path of least resistance is the easy path. It is something that has to be braved. It is something that the average American is willing to do. It is something that has to be braved. It is something that the average American is willing to do. It is something that has to be braved. It is something that the average American is willing to do.

So let's have a history of giving and put away the cash. Let's have a history of giving and put away the cash. Let's have a history of giving.

Pippen finally told reporters Thursday that he'll stay in Chicago.

By Howard Rosenberg

Chicago Tribune

Reports that Michael Jordan's former teammate has been seeking a trade to either Los Angeles or New York reportedly have been inaccurate.

"I'm not going to do anything," Pippen said. "I said before that I was going to stay here because I love this place." He reiterated the same answer to a question of whether he wants to be traded.

NFL Final week of NFL creates ‘odd’ odds

By Dave Goldberg

The typical season is the sum of its parts — a series of games, when points are traded for victories, losses and even ties, a series of exhibition seasons and you can’t really measure how good a team is until the final week of the regular season.

Philadelphia, for example, went 2-6-1 in the exhibition season and you can’t really judge how good a team is until the final week. And with major players out of the lineup, the oddsmakers are working on the oddsmakers.

The New York Giants have clinched the NFC East and are there to win. You can’t judge how good a team is until the final week of the regular season.

In other words, zip your pocket.

CLASSIFIED

In other words, zip your pocket.

The Giants’ season is over. All they have to do is win their final game against the Washington Redskins at Giants Stadium on Sunday to clinch the NFC East.

The Giants have clinched their first-round bye with a win and a Pittsburgh loss.

PHILADELPHIA (plus 3 1/2 at Washington)

Only the Giants have incentive to go into the last game of the NFC East.

New Orleans (plus 7 at Kansas City)

The Giants want to become the first team to go to the playoffs in the NFC East.

ST. LOUIS (plus 1 1/2 at Carolina)

The Rams need to keep momentum.
