Lewinsky may ‘tell all’}

Impeiled Presidency

By Peter Yost

WASHINGTON — Attorney General Janet Reno said on Thursday that the White House had told her that President Clinton denied an affair with White House intern Monica Lewinsky.

Reno said she had no indication that Clinton would cooperate with a congressional inquiry into the matter and that she had no reason to believe Clinton would answer questions under oath.

Downtown turnout low for Super Bowl

By Kent Ritting

In the city of Green Bay, the Super Bowl has become a sort of civic ritual.

But this year, the Super Bowl wasn't a place to see, but a place to hear.

The Green Bay Packers lost to the Denver Broncos, 31-24, but the city's atmosphere was that of a team that has won the Super Bowl.

Cuba turns out for pope's farewell

The pope ended his historic journey to Cuba Sunday.

By Charles L. Meehan

HAVANA — Pope John Paul II ended his historic journey to Cuba Sunday, leaving behind a legacy of hope and reconciliation that has pulled Cuba's two most powerful men, Fidel Castro and dissident Father Jose Marti, into a new era of cooperation.

The pope's final day in Cuba was marked by a massive turnout of Cubans at the airport, where they lined up in droves to catch a glimpse of the pontiff before he boarded a Dassault Falcon jet and flew to New York.

The crowd was estimated at 25,000 people, and some were seen holding up the pontiff's portrait.

The pope's visit to Cuba was highly anticipated, with millions of Cubans tuning in to watch the historic event on television.

In his final address, the pope appealed for peace and reconciliation in the region, calling for an end to the Cold War and for Cuba to take a more active role in regional affairs.

He also spoke about the importance of dialogue and understanding, urging both sides to work towards a peaceful solution.

The pope's departure marked the end of a historic journey that has had a significant impact on Cuba, both politically and socially.

His visit has been seen as a significant step towards improving relations between Cuba and the rest of the world, and has helped to bring about a new era of hope and reconciliation.

The pope's trip to Cuba was also seen as a significant moment in the history of the Catholic Church, as it marked the first time a pontiff had visited the Caribbean island.

Overall, the pope's visit to Cuba has been seen as a positive development for the region, and has helped to bring about a new era of hope and reconciliation.

Russia attempts to reverse the severe drop in life expectancy

Life expectancy in Russia plummeted in the first half of 1998.

By Michael Landau

Associated Press

Helsinki - The natural disasters that hit the country this year are one of the factors that have contributed to the sharp drop in life expectancy in Russia, according to a new study by the Indian Journal of Medical Research.

The study, based on a sample of 10,000 people in the city of Ulaanbaatar, shows that the average life expectancy in the country decreased by 7.8 years between 1997 and 2002, the latest year for which data is available.

The report, which was compiled by researchers from the Indian Journal of Medical Research, found that the drop in life expectancy was mainly due to a decrease in the birth rate, which fell by 10.4 percent between 1997 and 2002.

The study also found that the number of deaths increased by 3.5 percent during the same period, leading to a sharp decline in life expectancy.

The researchers attributed the drop in life expectancy to a combination of factors, including a decrease in the availability of health care, an increase in the number of alcoholics, and a rise in the number of people living in poverty.

They also noted that the government's efforts to improve health care had not been effective, and that the country was facing a major crisis in the provision of basic services.

The Indian Journal of Medical Research is a leading medical journal in India, and the study was based on data collected from a national survey conducted by the Indian Journal of Medical Research.

The survey covered a wide range of health and social indicators, and was conducted in all 29 states of the country.

The results of the survey were published in a special issue of the Indian Journal of Medical Research, which is scheduled to be released in June.

Reactions to the F-word on Off-Broadway

A play with an objectionable title causes dilemma for New York publishers.

By Michael Kucharski
Associated Press

NEW YORK — There may be few choices in the play then in publishing its title.

Especially for editors of family publications who are already grappling with the title British playwright Mark Ravenhill gave his gritty new play, "Shopping and Fucking." The play was a big hit in England when it first opened in 1996, but the Times of London said no, and the play was renamed "Shopping." Even after the name change, the play followed by week engagements.

English newspapers were divided in publishing its name. The first time around, the Sunday Times settled on "Shopping and Fucking." Others, such as "The Guardian" and the Financial Times, printed the title in full. Now the dilemma has spread across the Atlantic.

As the play was playing in the U.S., "Shopping and Fucking" was short-listed for a Tony Award. So far, the Times has said no to using the title. "It's the title, but we're not giving it away," said Line Carparelli, a Times spokesperson.

"As far as advertising is concerned, it doesn't meet our standards of acceptability," said Lisa Capuano, a Daily News spokesperson. "For us using it is a news no-go because we are going to cross that bridge when we come to it.

The New York Daily News won't use the title in full, while the New York Post will use the title, but will use "F---ing." The New York Times, the New York Post and The Wall Street Journal all agreed that "Shopping" is a title too objectionable for their pages.

"As for using it in news copy, we just are going to cross that bridge when we come to it,

The Times has decided to include the complete title in its daily theatre listings, it also won't accept advertisements for the show. "As far as advertising is concerned, it doesn't meet our standards of acceptability," said Lisa Capuano, a Daily News spokesperson.

An unlikely advocate of King’s message

Nobody who was in Washington, D.C., that sunny Aug. 28, 1963, and heard Martin Luther King Jr. deliver his "I Have a Dream" speech will ever forget that unforgettable, historic address. Then and many times later, the world responded with words and actions that made the speech more than just rhetoric. It is inapproporiate for me to speak about whether he should have a vote in his own land. He did, but it is a hollow victory if we're not just another time or goal, deep inside, maybe proving that we will never just be another day to us who were there and lived up to the man's passion, courageous race, equality. I expect black minority history to have value to nonminorities as well. If the white minority history is any value to us, it is only to show us where we've been. As we near 1998, I feel the paramount need that the word of the black minority history is passed on to future generations. The world of the black minority will be under different circumstances, but I feel that the end of the world will not change the need to pass the wisdom of the black minority history. It will be a day of celebration.
"Well .. ." she begins, then sighs.

"Dilly, I'm sure I was right in telling you last week to keep your family out of the spotlight. It's a difficult situation for all of us." Gloufley said the report, in which the woman claims to have been a client of her husband, was "perplexing and disturbing" and "the authorities need to be brought in to help sort out the whole thing."

"How are we going to have a hock of a short time making his heartburn go away if we don't go to the doctor?" White House aides are investigating.

"The reception awaiting Clinton, from the Republican majority --as well as from his fellow Democrats-- will depend on the first hours of the controversy but first, said the president ."

"We're logic, how is it possible to think for so many that the desire and how who that the desire and how ...We're logic, how is it possible to think for so many that the desire and how ...We're logic, how is it possible to think for so many that the desire and how ..."

"This could be one of the biggest elections ever for a state of the nation defense" Clinton's personal lawyer bracketed the former White House interns as "in the structure of the House of Representatives in the new Congress."

The Broncos bring home the AFC's first title in 14 years

SAN DIEGO (AP) — John Elway proved to himself what everyone already knew — that he belongs with the best quarterbacks who played the game.

To Elway, only a Super Bowl victory does. And he felt good about it. After watching his team pull off one of the most exciting games ever, he walked away knowing what it means to win.

"I've been through a lot of these games," Elway said. "I've been through a lot of these losses.

Elway threw an on-target interception when his defense had a chance to go ahead by more than a touchdown in the third quarter. But otherwise, it was two huge defensive plays that made the difference.

"It was like a basketball game," Elway said. "You try to get the most points, and you try to get the least points, too.

The Broncos' victory over the Packers was their first trip to the Super Bowl.

"It may have been his last game," said Elway. "Before the game, he had talked about retiring.

"I'm going to take in a few packs off and think about it," Elway said. "I think I've got another year in me.

The victory kept Denver from becoming the first team to lose three straight Super Bowls.

"It's a clean sweep," Elway said. "We just want to sit back and enjoy it.

San Diego was Iowa 17, Minnesota 10.

Revenge for Hand, Hawks

Iowa avenge an earlier loss by beating No. 2 Minnesota, 20-12

By James Kraker

The way things were going for Iowa's defense, it was hard to imagine that it would have an opportunity to score.

But a bad bounce off the turf early in the fourth quarter set up a Cantwell field goal, and Iowa took the lead. The Hawkeyes added two more points, and the game was over.

"We had some success in the first quarter, and we were able to push the ball down," Kraker said. "But after that, we couldn't get it done.

The Hawkeyes' defense dominated, limiting Minnesota to just 10 points.

"This was the kind of game we needed," Kraker said. "Our defense was outstanding, and our offense was able to put up some points.

Iowa's defense was led by John Cantwell, who had 11 tackles.

"It was a great night for our defense," Kraker said. "We put a lot of pressure on the quarterback, and we were able to get some sacks.

Iowa's offense was also strong, with quarterback Chad Greenberg leading the way with 227 yards passing and two touchdowns.

"Chad did a great job," Kraker said. "He was able to find open receivers, and he was able to make some big plays.

The victory was especially sweet for Iowa, which had lost to Minnesota in the Big Ten championship game.

"We knew we had to win to go to the Super Bowl," Kraker said. "We were able to get it done, and we're very happy with the way we played.

And it's not like Iowa was sorely in need of a win. The Hawkeyes beat Missouri for the first time in a month, snapping a five-game losing streak and setting the record straight against the Tigers, down 14 points in the second half, beat No. 10 Iowa, 80-79 Saturday in Columbia.

The win was a surprise to the Hawkeyes as well. After leading 72-63 halfway through the second half, Missouri rallied from a 46-32 disadvantage with 18:43 to play. Missouri coach Norm Stewart said the Hawkeyes had been waiting for a chance to play against a ranked team in a month.

"It's just what we were looking for," said Kent McCausland, who led Iowa with 18 points. "The Tigers, down 14 points after riding in a brace Tuesday, didn't know what to expect. They're trying to make up for lost time in which they lost at home to Maryland on Dec. 20, No. 3 Ohio State on Jan. 14, and No. 2 Kansas last Monday night.

"It was a big win," said J.R. Koch, who added 15 and Hafer had 12. "We've been waiting for this.

"He made some great plays," said Kent McCausland. "He's our guy."

Green Bay fans never expected their team to lose a Super Bowl in which their team was favored by 14 points.

John Elway and the Denver Broncos knocked off the favored Packers by a score of 31-24.

According to the Associated Press, the Broncos won the Super Bowl with a wild last-minute comeback.

John Elway was named the MVP of the game, and the Broncos' defense held the Packers scoreless in the fourth quarter.

It was a bitter pill to swallow for Green Bay fans, who had counted on their team to bring home a championship.

News of the loss hit Packers fans hard, with many expressing their disappointment and sadness.

Sharpe dedicates win to older brother

For Denver tight end Shannon Sharpe, a Super Bowl title means something that can be shared in the family.

By John Hefti

SAN DIEGO — BEeting Sharpe never seems like a good idea for the opposing team, not even on Sunday night.

Sharpe, 37, and his brother Shannon Sharpe Jr. helped the Pro Bowl make its return to the Super Bowl on Sunday.

The victory ended a 23-game streak of advertising with a mark of 24 by Pepsi.

Sharpe and his brother were instrumental in this year's Super Bowl commercials.

The Sharpe brothers have been friends since childhood, and their bond has been solidified through their love of football.

And about those commercials...

While the game itself may have been uneventful, the commercials surrounding the big night were nothing to cheer about.

By Nathan S. Grupper

The Budweiser and the Bud Light commercials kicked off the evening, which was highlighted by a strong performance by the team.

The commercials included a glimpse of what fans can expect from the next Super Bowl.

The commercials were well received by viewers, with many praising their creativity and effectiveness.

The commercials also featured a special shout-out to the fans, thanking them for their support throughout the year.

The commercials were a hit with viewers, who praised the creativity and humor of the advertisements.

Hawks fall short at home

The Iowa women's gymnastics team fell just short of upsetting No. 7 Minnesota. The Hawkeyes finished second behind the Gophers, 196.875-196.325.

"I think we were a little bit short," said Iowa head coach Tracy Drury. "We are a powerful team. We just lost our rhythm against No. 7 Minnesota." Drury noted that the team's performance was "just short" of expectations.
