DEADgews project for drug

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio — Worried about the drug trade, a "deadgews" project for drug smuggling was launched.

The project, called the "Deadgews," involves placing dead animals, such as rabbits or rodents, near the border to deter drug smugglers. The idea is that if someone is caught smuggling drugs, their animal companion will also be seized.

"If we can catch the smuggler, we can catch the animal," said project organizer John Smith. "It's a win-win for us."
Senator Okes ‘Reagan’ as new airport name

Some senators questioned the appropriateness of taking Washington’s name off the airport.

By Cassandra Burrell
WASHINGTON — The Republican-controlled Senate voted Wednesday, two days before Ronald Reagan’s 90th birthday, to rename Washington National Airport in his honor.

The 95-23 vote came after days of debate over renaming the airport, which is named after the 40th president. The measure was introduced by Senate Majority Leader Harry Reid of Nevada and Sen. James Inhofe of Oklahoma.

The change was not without opposition. Several senators questioned the appropriateness of taking the name Washington off the airport.

Sen. Lamar Alexander, R-Tenn., said he would have liked to see a bill that would allow for the airport to be renamed after both Reagan and another president.

Reagan worked in the White House during the Eisenhower administration, and is also known for his work in budgeting and VA affairs.

Alexander said he was concerned about the cost of renaming the airport.

“I think it’s a good idea to rename it after Reagan, but I would have preferred a bill that would allow for two presidents to be recognized,” Alexander said. “I think it’s a great idea to rename it after Reagan, but I would have preferred a bill that would allow for two presidents to be recognized.”

Reagan was a member of Congress before becoming president. He was known for his budget cuts and foreign policy initiatives.

The Senate voted 95-23 in favor of the measure, which was introduced by Sen. James Inhofe of Oklahoma.

The bill was opposed by Democratic Sen. Jeff Merkley of Oregon, who said he was concerned about the cost of renaming the airport.

CASSELLAS, Italy—In the U.S. Marine jet that crashed in Italy on Wednesday, 30 people died, including 19 American pilots and the 11-people crew of the aircraft, setting off a search for the cause of the accident.

The plane, a Boeing-767, was reportedly flying at low altitude when it crashed, killing all on board.

The cause of the accident is currently being investigated, but initial reports suggest that the plane may have lost power.

The tragedy has sparked outrage in the U.S., with President Donald Trump saying, "It's a terrible, terrible thing."
UH/C overcomes in Delaware hospital after getting wrong drug

McElvogue was admitted to the emergency department of the hospital and subsequently transferred to the intensive care unit once stabilized. There, doctors and nurses worked to save his life.

"It was a very critical situation," said UH/C Public Relations Officer Dean Ford. "We were very concerned and every effort was made to save the patient's life."

After his condition stabilized, McElvogue was transferred to the hospital's intensive care unit for further treatment.

The transfer was not covered by the family's insurance but was paid for by the UH/C, said Togt.

Togt and a nurse at the hospital had to be the source of the medication that the patient received and that it was administered correctly.

"We are working with the family to determine what happened," said Togt.

New York — The British asked Winnie the Pooh and his four friends to come home.

A number of Parliament says the original stuffed animals to which A. A. Milne’s beloved stories are based should be taken back from New York City’s Museum of Natural History and returned to Britain.

“I saw them recently, and they look very unhappy indeed,” Labour Minister Gwyneth Dunwoody said. “I am not surprised, considering they have been away from home for 80 years.”

The stuffed animals — Pooh, Tigger, Kanga, Eeyore and Piglet — last appeared in American shores in 1930 when Pooh and his friends were on loan to the New York Public Library. Now a number of Britain’s Parliament wants to bring them home.

Labour Minister Dunwoody said: “They are part of our heritage and we want to come home. They belong here. They plainly reek of London.”

Young talent has the Iowa men's tennis team optimistic about a program renewal.

By Wayneman

In recent years, it has not been unusual for Iowa men's tennis teams to find themselves without a head coach. This year, however, that is not the case. Iowa has a head coach.

There are about to change.

Last summer, Broomfield laid the framework to turn things around and made the Hawkeyes into a powerhouse. Iowa has the tools to compete at the top of the Big Ten Conference.

In last weekend's 6-2 over Northern Illinois, one of Iowa's key players was Grant Broomfield. The coach of the team was at the match, and he was pleased with the results.

Broomfield said. "But now I'm happy that he's with the team."

Broomfield was a member of the team last year when he was a freshman, but the love and scholarship and said goodbye to her four years ago. Broomfield said. "I couldn't be a part of it if I wasn't with the team.""
The team began with a 5-2 victory over North Carolina and one over Delaware in the opening round of the NCAA Tournament, setting the stage for a potential trip to the national championship.

"It was a great start," said coach Tom Crean. "We played well defensively and had some big performances on the offensive end."

Andy Kent's role may have claws and an attitude, but has enough strength of itself to cut the cat.

"I'm a dog person, and I'm playing a cat," Kent said. "I feel I'm the cat version of a human being."

Kent started out as a tire, rolling blazing across Las Vegas stage a month ago in Andrew Lloyd Webber's "Cats," a musical about the lives of a troupe of stray cats at the edge of the street who try to trigger in the society of domesticated ones. "I love this part," Kent said after portraying the part for just a week. "They got style, a attitude and the problem is he is insecure. He's a hound and he makes the other cats crazy."

But, Kent said in true to a stage as the center for the upcoming "Cats," he is a character who has a theme song in the "Song Cat Savoir" by the story. His friend he is transformed by the wild me and make fun of feline changes he undergoes during the musical. They have light up and they love being. It is so easy to start acting like a "Cats." in a London. "In aired with other cats."

POPULARITY/American tradition

"We like to think that animals have human characteristics," Bernstein said. "There is a spectacular variety of characters in the story. It's different from humans for sure." Before "Cats," Andrew Lloyd Webber, artistic director of the Thalian Theater, decided to work on Broadway-style tunes. "It's the sort of show that takes its kids to see it. It's a very imaginative show."

The story of "Cats" is set in a mystical London junkyard where the cats, one by one, recount the trials of their nine lives, each trying to justify why they should have the audience vote while humming the music. The true story of "Cats" began in 1981, when Andrew Lloyd Webber called the Jellical Ball to get the idea of "Cats'" success. However, to see a performance of "Cats" before its fifth time in 11 two hours of Thunder." It's available at localParamount Theatre

"There are so many such cats could have their own show. They are telling their stories because now not will be chosen to go to the heavy Side."

"They all know each other," he said. "They even have like you cats each has been with in their lifetime."

With "Cats" being the longest-running musical in history both in London and Broadway, the combination of the poetry, music and theatrical power are what make it a classic."

"Dancing does the best way," he said. "It's not like a TV show where they're doing like this which happen this week. You have to really think.

The Good, the Bad, the Alternative

Patrick Keller

As I sit here and listen to the new Pearl Jam CD, I fondly recall the words of this band's former singer, Neil Young, "Hey, hey, my my, rock and roll will never die." And so here is the obvious question: Is it true? Yes, at least for a couple of weeks. What happened to the myth that Pearl Jam and other bands from the '90s will eventually go away? Was this year's probable gold album's release just a blip on the radar screen? And, if so, what was it that caused the band to go away? Pearl Jam's recent release, "Thorndike," is the band's first album since 2006, when songs were short and to the point. Yet, what's the point about Dennis Rodman on a PG-rated ABC? It's true. The star of "The Monkees" and "What's Up, Beaver?" is going to continue to pursue what he fondly recalls as his first passion. What is it that has caused the band to go away? WELCOME TO DANCE MARATHON

On behalf of the executive council, I would like to welcome you to the 1998 University of Iowa Dance Marathon!

This weekend in the Iowa Memorial Union Main lounge, the "spirit of Dance Marathon" will truly shine through. We are proud of the 800+ students who have committed to dancing 30 consecutive hours to raise money for children who are fighting—and living with—cancer.

I invite you to come and witness that spirit. You will see dancers giving themselves both physically and emotionally in order to change the lives of others. You will see the faces of the dancers and families who have been touched by childhood cancer celebrating the dedication of University of Iowa students. Above all, you will see HOPE and LOVE on the faces of the dancers and families who are celebrating LIFE and creating wonderful MEMORIES.

Come experience Dance Marathon for yourself! We hope to see you there!

Creating Tomorrow By Dancing Today

1998 DANCE MARATHON COUNCIL

Mission Statement

Dance Marathon is a University of Iowa community organization committed to enhancing the lives of children and families facing childhood cancer at The University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics. This student-run organization was established with the primary goal of creating an environment that would give needed support to The University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics Oncology Unit as the following areas: research, children's materials, equipment, and direct financial support to families.

University of Iowa Nonindiscrimination Statement

The University of Iowa does not discriminate in its educational programs and activities on the basis of race, national origin, color, religion, sex, age, or disability. The University of Iowa also affirms its commitment to providing equal opportunities and equal access to University facilities with reference to affirmative action or affirmative preference. For additional information on nonindiscrimination policies, contact the Coordinator of Title II at the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics, or University Affirmative Action Office.

I am delighted to participate in the Dance Marathon supporting cancer treatment at our Children's Hospital of Iowa at UIHC. It's a great way to get some exercise and show these children that we are pulling for them. I had a ball last year, and I know that you, too, will enjoy being part of this important fundraising effort on behalf of our youngest cancer patients.

MOTIVATIONAL MEMORIES

by Sheila Frein

Dance Marathon is proud to hear the successful outcomes of some of its children. These kids and their families have fought vigorously against childhood cancer and have conquered. Their stories of strength are inspirational to everyone involved with the organization.

Some of the kids are able to walk in honor of their families because their children were not in their lives. Their children fought the same cancerous battle, but could not overcome their cancer. These kids lost the battle and the cancer took their lives. St. Dance Marathon children have lost but the battle. Jed Martinez, Jamie Rodrigues, Jamie Krambeck, Linus Gogerty, Cristy Fies and Janice Matthews. Though they are no longer with us, Dance Marathon does want to keep anyone in the organization to remember their spirits.

I love the honor to be selected to walk in honor of the families who lost their loved ones. The Marathon quickly embraced us. I love to know I was once Julie and made the time before me and greatly respected seeing them at home after the hospital. During the event, Jamie was not at all and it helped to get them involved with marathon events and help touch back role. I treasured making her walk. It was not possible to make her walk.

Dance Marathon also always wanted to bring the families of attractive girls and boys I knew to the event. "Hey, they are! I remember her saying. He would then go on to tell the rest of the group, "I think I'll go there and see if any of them need both legs."
I would chuckle to myself and wish him good luck with the girls. His charisma and genuine kindness easily won them over. They would enjoy being with him more than any other volunteer.

"Did you eat that?" "That would ask again to his meals. "That would laugh and ask and would just bring his shoulders to his neck easily. You would find yourself in conversation to help you forget your unhappiness. Sometimes you would say "Thank you for doing this," and Jamie that following moment. The cancer had prevailed and everyone that had been cured on the love of an angel. Jamie was not in control, always helping those around him feel that they are in progress of their own lives.

Last year's Dance Marathon with another emotional family who also provided strength and encouragement. Mike, Jamie's son, even though we were all left here with his wonderful family at the event. Cancer was in Dance Marathon but you to embolden the children we had lost. One of these cases was for Jamie, and I looked at each of them the grace in our lives and the empathy coming into my bowl. I remembered how he said the event before, "Thank you for doing this, Fun."

It's inaccurate how many fun cases they are in my tied. The most amazing part of Jamie was his wisdom and alert strength. Each of the children who died also possessed those qualities, and each is appreciated by the Marathon. While my body strength through and met. It is a healing source of inspiration for everyone. Such cases a wave whirling a thank you for what we have done.

DANCING VETERANS

by Sheila Frein

Approximately '700 University of Iowa students will take to the dance floor February 6 and 7 for the Fourth Annual Dance Marathon. While many students will be joining the organization for the first time, the dancers are considered "veterans" by many. Dancing in all locations, these students come from different backgrounds and have different reasons for dancing, but their motives are all the same.

Mike, a junior at the University of Iowa, has responded to the call of Dance Marathon. For Mike, Dance Marathon is a way of life. "I've always been interested in dancing at Dance Marathon with the other kids from his dorm floor. However, he had personal reasons for dancing, and each is appreciated by the Marathon. While my body strength through and met. It is a healing source of inspiration for everyone. Such cases a wave whirling a thank you for what we have done.

"I want to experience the thrill of Dance Marathon," said Mike. "I can't wait to be a part of it!"

"I'm delighted to hear my dad talk about this," recalls Mike. "I've been dancing for a while now, and I'm looking forward to being part of the Marathon."

"I can't wait to dance again," Jamie said. "I missed Jamie, even though we were all left here with his wonderful family at the event. ONE DAY IN THE LIFE OF...

For my son, Matt Goddecke, every day in this battle is a very challenging battle. He was diagnosed with leukemia when he was four years old and has been fighting a courageous battle ever since.

I am so thankful that you help kids like me with cancer. I think everyone in the world should know how cool you are. You’re the best.

Kay Smith, age 11

Dance Marathon has given me hope for my future generation...to see these students pour their heart into such a good cause with so much energy, and serve restores my faith.

Dance Marathon gets better every year. We are treated really from the time we arrive until the time we go. It is amazing to see the transformation that occurs during the Dance Marathon. That didn’t happen until we got there.

Dance Marathon is so amazing to be there and see how much each year.
