Regents approve Halsey gym

The Iowa state Board of Regents said a state Senate bill that would limit spending could be "potentially devastating" to state universities.

By Nathan Hill

In what was called the "first major major" at a meeting Wednesday to discuss any of a proposed Temporary Regents Bill, hearing that it would be "potentially devastating" to have no new spending at all was expressed. Regents James Arneson urged the board to "not be a clear statement that we're not in favor of this bill." If we are, we should avoid our large to avoid.

The bill, being debated in the Senate, will limit spending of the state government by preventing spending by the UI Board of Regents.

Regent Linda Sturdivant voted the amount of $2.5 million for the UI board to cut.

The Iowa Board of Regents approved the go-ahead meeting for Halsey Field House in a new east side gym.

Intern-Jordan connection surfaces

As President Clinton's foreign policy has been criticized for refusing to hand over weapons to Iraq, the Arkansas Democrat-Gazette has reported that non-Jordan connection will be the focus of congressional hearings. While some believe that this connection is a result of Clinton's efforts to improve relations with Iraq, others argue that it is a way for the U.S. to avoid承担责任 for weapons supplied to Iraq. As the debate continues, the question of whether the U.S. sold weapons to Iraq remains unresolved.

In a statement, Jordan said that the connection is not a result of Clinton's efforts to improve relations with Iraq. "I do not believe that the U.S. sold weapons to Iraq," he said. "The connection is a result of the U.S.'s failure to take responsibility for its actions in the Gulf War.

Meanwhile, President Clinton has defended his foreign policy, arguing that the U.S. is working to improve relations with Iraq through a series of diplomatic efforts. "We are working to improve relations with Iraq," he said. "We are not selling weapons to Iraq."
Airlines under extremely tight scrutiny after China Airlines crash.

The accident has strained relations between the two countries, as the Chinese government has expressed concern about the safety of the airline.

The relatives of the crashed China Airlines Airbus A300 victims or the crash site near Chang Kai-shih international Airport on Wednesday in Taipei, west further, calling for the foundation to be dissolved.

The crash investigation team said that the flight had no pre-existing problems that would have caused the accident.

The crash occurred after the crew failed to properly follow standard operating procedures.

The airline, Taiwan's flagship carrier, has been under increasing pressure from the Chinese government, which has launched an investigation into the crash.

The relatives of the victims have called for a full investigation to determine the cause of the crash and prevent similar accidents from happening in the future.

The crash has also raised questions about the safety of China Airlines' fleet of Airbus A300s, which have been involved in several accidents in recent years.

The airline has announced plans to increase safety measures and improve its maintenance procedures to prevent similar incidents from happening again.
Homosexual Marriage

Hypocrisy not marriage

Where do we draw the line on marriages?

In a recent 14-3 vote, the Iowa House Judiciary Committee said the way to a rational and just solution to the continuing controversy in Hawaii over whether homosexuals should be able to marry is to acknowledge their human rights. This ignores the fact that the most - under the U.S. constitution - be housed in any marriage setting.

The great majority of Americans, according to polls, do not want to see this happen. They fear that it is a slippery slope which could lead to allowing all types of marriages, and that it would set a precedent for other rights that others might not agree with.

It is important to remember that any decision made by the Supreme Court of the United States should be based on the facts and the law, not on personal beliefs or political pressures.

Letters to the Editor

An anniversary celebration for marriage

It is not necessarily about the anniversary, but about the significance of marriage.

It is a time to celebrate the love and commitment of two people who have chosen to build a life together. This is a day to remember the good times and look forward to the future.

It is a time to be grateful for the experiences that have brought us to this point in our lives.

It is a time to reflect on the values and principles that guide our relationships.

It is a time to strengthen our bonds with our loved ones and to affirm our commitment to one another.

It is a time to recognize the importance of family and community in our lives.

It is a time to remember that marriage is about love, commitment, and the joy of sharing our lives with another person.

It is a time to celebrate the beauty of human relationships and the diversity of love that exists in the world.

It is a time to honor the traditions and rituals that have shaped our societies and cultures throughout history.

It is a time to reflect on the challenges and hardships that we have faced and the triumphs we have achieved.

It is a time to recognize the contributions that marriage makes to our societies and the role it plays in shaping our future.

It is a time to remember that marriage is not just a legal contract, but a sacred covenant that binds us together.

It is a time to celebrate the love that has brought us together and the love that will bring us through whatever comes our way.

It is a time to affirm our commitment to one another and to the principles that guide our lives.

It is a time to reflect on the values and traditions that have shaped our societies and cultures throughout history.

It is a time to recognize the contributions that marriage makes to our societies and the role it plays in shaping our future.

Bradley's threesome key win

By Harry King
Associated Press

Ex-Fisherman Turned Coach, Pat Rottenberg scored a career-high 17 points in leading Bradley over Missouri Western State 79-65 in a Missouri Valley Conference game Saturday night in Peoria. Rottenberg's three-pointers and 17 points helped the Braves even their Missouri Valley Conference record to 1-1, with a 79-65 win over Missouri Western State. It was the first Valley Conference win for Rottenberg, who has played on the Braves' varsity basketball team for the past two years.

Missouri Western State was also playing its first Valley Conference game of the season. The Braves have scored 17 points or more in all three Valley Conference games this season, scoring 17 or more points in each of their last five games.

Bradley started the second half with a 15-5 run to take a 43-32 lead and never looked back. The Braves scored 24 straight points in the second half, as Rottenberg scored 17 of his 17 points in the second half.

Missouri Western State's leading scorer, LeRoy Miller, had 20 points in the game, but Rottenberg's 17 points were too much for the Griffins to overcome. The Braves shot 50 percent from the floor and held Missouri Western State to 39 percent.

For the Braves, Rottenberg was the key player in the game, as he scored 17 points on 5 of 9 shooting from the field, including 3 of 4 from beyond the arc. He also grabbed five rebounds and dished out three assists.

Former Cyclones face legal problems

WEST DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Former Iowa athlete Paul Lesse, who now plays for the Cubs, was arrested Tuesday in Des Moines on a manslaughter charge for his 1995 fatality. The 21-year-old Lesse is accused of driving drunk on a Rural Street in Polk County, Iowa, on July 21, 1995, and causing the death of 23-year-old Frank Casper. The incident occurred shortly after Casper left a bar in Des Moines. Kasper was struck and killed by Lesse's car, which police say was traveling at about 60 mph.

Iowa State University and the NCAA have been notified of the case, and a hearing will be held in Des Moines on Thursday morning. The hearing will be closed to the public, but the results will be made public after the hearing.

America dazzles with 1-2 punch

The United States duo of Michelle Kwan and Tara Lipinski finished first and second in the short program. **

NAGANO, Japan (AP) — Gold, silver, black and blue.

It was the wild dream of an Olympic sweep by U.S. women figure skaters.

Nicole Bobek didn't inspire herself to the best performance of her career in the short program Wednesday night. Tara Lipinski announced the team's true star with a turn of a virtuoso prince, uniting grand opera and figure skating.

Nicole Bobek? She didn't know what to do with the first place kiss and hug offered by her coach. Then she cut a jump from a triple axel, her free leg flying wide as she looked at the audience and waved. The 43 points of her combination spin, she bowed, second in the short program with tears in her eyes.

"I was so nervous," she said afterward. "More nervous than I have ever been." At 13, she is the youngest member of the U.S. Olympic figure skating team.

"I want to be the best," she said. "I want to win the gold medal." It was the way Kwan and Lipinski breezed through the eight skaters.

It was the way Kwan and Lipinski said they felt too.

"We just go out and skate the best," Kwan said.

Then she cut a jump from a triple axel, her free leg flying wide as she looked at the audience and waved. The 43 points of her combination spin, she bowed, second in the short program with tears in her eyes.

"I was so nervous," she said afterward. "More nervous than I have ever been." At 13, she is the youngest member of the U.S. Olympic figure skating team.

"I want to be the best," she said. "I want to win the gold medal." It was the way Kwan and Lipinski breezed through the eight skaters.

It was the way Kwan and Lipinski said they felt too.

"We just go out and skate the best," Kwan said.

The players may be millionaires, but the U.S. hockey team couldn't buy a gold (or a silver or bronze) in Nagano.

Dream Team nightmare

By Mike Debel Associated Press

NAGANO, Japan (AP) - This is what happens when you spend your whole life dreaming of winning an Olympic gold medal in hockey.

The U.S. women's hockey team was leading Canada 1-0 with less than 10 minutes left when the Americans thought they had it made.

They were wrong.

Kevin Hatcher (6) and Olaf Kolzig (30) scored just before the buzzer to give Canada a 2-1 victory over the U.S. in the gold medal game of the Nagano Olympics on Saturday.

"We didn't play well from the start," said Bill Guerin, who scored the lone U.S. goal in the final. "We just had to be patient, be smart and think we could win.

The Americans lost 2-1 in the overtime.

The Czech Republic scored 1-0 on a goal by Martin St. Louis and was awarded 1-2 in the third period.

Americans, Swedes ousted; Canada, Russia march on

The U.S. hockey team experienced two different tragedies Saturday, losing on the ice to Canada 2-1 in the overtime.round and watching Russia and Canada win gold medals.

The game against Canada was one of those rare events in Olympic hockey, a scoreless first period.

"It was the biggest waste that led to three goals," said Kevin Hatcher. "We couldn't get it together..." We didn't play well from the start..." We were just too slow today... "It was a disaster out there..."

The Americans had to be patient, be smart and think they could win in the overtime.

"We knew that we were the superior team in the gold medal game," said Bill Guerin. "But we just had to be patient, be smart and think we could win.

The federal government hasn’t told the whole story about the infamous 1985 siege in which the Branch Davidians stood off in Waco, Texas. The government’s version of events has been criticized for being overly dramatic and for lacking key details.

Don Gifford needed to catch a plane in Washington, D.C., Thursday, to testify before Congress about the siege. The Branch Davidians, a religious cult, were seized by federal agents in April 1993 in Waco, Texas. The siege ended after 51 days when the cult’s leader, David Koresh, killed himself and 76 others.

Thaddeus, who was subpoenaed to testify, would probably turn down an offer like that, but when you’re working on an explosive documentary critiquing the Justice Department, and when you’re in the middle of making a film that’s going to be around you for a while, you definitely have to drive.

As Gifford has been documenting the story, his presence might be helping to keep the pressure on the government to help him.

Yes, of the story of new Oscar nominees, good money may that most the of the Branch Davidians have been killed, but the government has been slow to do anything about it.

Even if you don’t totally understand the explanations the government gave you about the last film that was killed, who it is, he needs to find out what it is and do something about it.

Meanwhile, the war against terrorism continues.

Surviving grunge

By Ken Schurr

For decades, grunge has been a defining force in rock music. From its origins in the Pacific Northwest to its influence worldwide, grunge has left an indelible mark on popular culture.

In the raw rock of Superchunk has survived the Seattle boom.

by Kasey Todd

For a band that played underground shows in the early 1990s, Superchunk managed to stay relevant in the fast-paced world of rock and roll. The band’s self-titled debut album, released in 1989, was a critical and commercial success, helping to define the early alternative rock sound.

Through the years, Superchunk has continued to evolve, releasing several albums and touring internationally. With a loyal fan base and a dedicated following, the band has remained true to its roots and continued to create music that resonates with fans around the world.

Superchunk is scheduled to perform at the Oregon Country Fair in Salem, on July 19. The band is also set to headline the inaugural six-hour festival at the campsite on July 20. Tickets are $35 in advance or $40 at the door. For more information, visit the band’s website.

When asked what it takes to keep a band together for over two decades, lead singer and guitarist /Bennett says it comes down to “having fun.” In an era where many bands struggle to sustain momentum and relevance, Superchunk remains a shining example of a band that is able to captivate audiences and continue to thrive in a rapidly changing music industry.

Zuba: it's the word

Zuba has been selling out shows from The House of Blues in Boston to the Bumpershoot Festival in Seattle, while impressing the creators of "Dumb & Dumber."

By Stacy Ashlock

The creators of "Dumb & Dumber" have seen the music video for Zuba's song "Till November," which was used in the movie and has been remade for the video "I Love the Man." They were so impressed with the music and the band's performance that they asked them to contribute music for and make a cameo in the upcoming movie, "There's Something About Mary," starring Cameron Diaz and Drew Barrymore.

Getting "Zubaw-me" sound to become embedded in people's minds means that we get your name and presence in ways you never thought possible.

Zuba is a five-piece band consisting of lead singer and guitarist Riley LeAnn Rimes (bass and vocals), Dan "Lester" (drummer), Mark Phelps (trombones and vocals), and Mike Cykoski (bass and vocals). They are scheduled to play at the Sanctuary this Saturday at 9:30 p.m.

"We love to give the grooves interesting by bringing the energy level up, then down, then back up again," Cykoski said. "People respond to it really well. The band has an eclectic sound that you can't put a name to, and there were people dancing in the aisles to it backstage."

But creativity and novelty isn't the only promo drawing attention to Zuba. Director Peter Farrelly caught one of their gigs at an Aspen club several years ago and was so impressed with their sound of music and stage presentation that he asked them to contribute music for and make a cameo in the upcoming movie, "There's Something About Mary," starring Cameron Diaz and Drew Barrymore.

"I love Zuba's sound," Farrelly said. "I always thought they were the perfect fit for the movie, which is about a man who has to deal with his past and his future. Their sound is perfect for the movie, with the right mix of energy and emotion."

Kelly Joe Phelps

Kelly Joe Phelps is a versatile artist who has been playing the guitar and singing for over 30 years. In his latest album, "Give Me Some," he continues to showcase his talent and unique sound.

"Music, to me, has always been a huge part of my life," Phelps said. "I can remember being a kid and singing along with my father. I've been playing since I was a child."

"I love playing for an audience and connecting with them," he added. "I want them to feel the emotion and energy of the music."

"Give Me Some" features a mix of genres, including blues, rock, and country. The album received critical acclaim and was a commercial success, reaching the Top 10 on the Billboard charts.

"The album is a reflection of my personal journey and my love for the music," Phelps said. "I hope people will connect with it and feel the same passion I felt while making it."

"Give Me Some" was produced by Gary Lucas and engineered by Jud acoustic engineer. The album was recorded and mixed at FAME Studios in Muscle Shoals, Alabama.

"I wanted to create an album that is both personal and memorable," Phelps said. "I hope people will enjoy it and keep coming back for more."
Fete on the Fourth

BY URI MENDELSOHN

I was happy to be on the Fourth of July, but I was not happy to be in the middle of a crowd.

The day started off with a fireworks show in my hometown, but it quickly became apparent that this was not your typical fireworks show.

As the sun set, the sky filled with an array of colors and shapes, creating a breathtaking display. The noise was deafening as the rockets exploded and the smoke filled the air.

But as the show came to an end, the real trouble began. The crowd was scattered throughout the area, with people of all ages and backgrounds.

Some were enjoying the fireworks, while others were simply trying to find their way home. The streets were crowded, and it was hard to navigate through the throngs of people.

I found myself in the midst of a group of teenagers who were playing games on their phones, completely oblivious to the rest of the world. It was a stark contrast to the surrounding atmosphere, where people were заплн of excitement.

As the night went on, the situation only got worse. The streets were filled with people, and it was difficult to move around. People were bumping into each other, and it was clear that the situation was getting out of hand.

At one point, a small group of people started to run, causing a domino effect as others followed suit. The crowd was now in a state of panic, with people screaming and trying to get away.

It was a tragic end to what had started as a festive celebration. The fireworks show was supposed to bring people together, but it ended up causing a great deal of chaos and confusion.

As the dust settled, I was left to wonder if the Fourth of July was worth it. Would we ever learn to enjoy the festivities without causing harm to one another?

I think not.

Let's start with the bad news. After months of swirling Ride Home flap, the magazine story about how much she loves the rodeo, the new track with Jimmy Page, and the new track with David Lee Roth on the Greatest Hits collection were some of the best material that is still produced in decades. Expectations are funny things. Sometimes, they'll let you in and let you down.
