Pollock’s ‘Mural’ sojourns in the Big Apple

The artist composed the work in “roughly two-and-a-half hours.”

The Daily Iowan

During the 40s, Pollock developed a relationship with the school of Art and Art History which would become known as the New School of Art. It was at this time several prominent instructors and critics encouraged him to paint a large mural. The painting, “Mural” by Jackson Pollock. The mural was created in 1943 as a mural for the Southwark Gallery of the University of Pennsylvania. The mural was completed in 1943 and then was loaned to the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

The mural had a profound effect on Pollock’s work. It was a turning point in his career, and he is credited with having introduced abstract expressionism to the world of art.

Isaac Hayes dives books

Vivian Wagner, the former NBC casting executive at NBC, was at the New York Times’ office when she met with the author. She had just finished reading Hayes’ new book, “The Picture in Which Show,” and was enthusiastic about it. She suggested that the book might be a hit, and that it could be turned into a television series.

Wagner helped Hayes with the book’s marketing and publicity, and they worked together to promote the series. The series eventually became “The New Adventures of Old Christine,” which ran for seven seasons on CBS.

Interest rates cut

The Dow shot up almost 35 points in an hour after interest rates were reduced.

By Dean McBride

WASHINGTON—The Federal Reserve Board reduced short-term interest rates by one-fourth of a point Thursday for the third time in seven weeks and for the second time in as many weeks, just two days before the presidential election. The board, in accepting President Reagan's recommendation, cut the federal funds rate, the short-term interest rate policy panel voted to set the benchmark federal funds rate charged on overnight loans between banks, at 10 percent from 10.25 percent. It announced its change at the conclusion of its scheduled one-day meeting.

Although conditions in the economy may not be as strong as would normally warrant a rate cut, the board said it was acting on economic pressures that it expected would be barely large enough to keep economic growth from slowing any further in the face of high rates.

The board said it would watch developments closely and would act again if pressures were to increase.

The Dow Jones Industrials Average shot up 120 points after the announcement, while the Nasdaq Composite Index rose 12 points.

The Federal Reserve Board cut the feds rate again and the market reaction was mixed.

Local protesters blast sanctions against Iraq

By Frank Lehman

Ralliers shouted, "Drop the sanctions, not the ban." On Nov. 7, students gathered to protest the U.S.-Iraqi offensive targeting Iraq and demanding the end of sanctions.

The rally was supported by a coalition of Iowa student groups that has been actively involved in the protest movement against the sanctions.

The sanctions are designed to punish Iraq for its support of terrorism and its refusal to disarm. They include an embargo on imports from Iraq and a freeze on its assets.

The rally was held in front of the Sprint PCS store on the corner of 14th and University Ave.

The Sprint PCS store was among the first in the nation to offer the new phone service.

The store was packed with customers who were checking out the new service.

Members of the Coalition to End sanctions spoke at the rally, calling for a peaceful resolution to the conflict with Iraq.

The coalition includes a variety of groups, including the Iowa Student Alliance, the Iowa Student Union, and the Iowa Student Senate.

Gay marriage hearing to begin

A standing-room-only crowd is expected for the state Supreme Court hearing.

By Ron Jaffe
Associated Press

MONTPELIER, Vt. — For the first time in its history, the Vermont Supreme Court is expected to sit in the nation's straightest-looking woods inside the nation's most homophile, nature-loving, business-challenged courtroom.

The courtroom would need a bigger crowd is expected today, when Vermont becomes the latest state in the national debate over whether to recognize same-sex marriage.

Claiming discrimination, three gay couples — Stan Baker and Norma Maldonado, Craig Schrider and Stacie Jacob, and Beck and Stacie Jacob of South Burlington, andLes Farquhar and Shelly Fantin of Milton — sued last year when their town clerks refused to grant them marriage licenses.

The case now appears to be the best current hope for advocates of gay marriage and the worst fear for its opponents, after voters in several current or potential states to define marriage as a union between a man and a woman. Voters in Washington state last November refused to grant gay couples marriage licenses.

Twenty-five years ago, when we met and fell in love, marriage was barely mentioned in any gay male's fantasy. But the same-sex-gender-couple thought about, until now, at least in the conversations, it was not in the thinking.

The buildup to the decision has been fierce, with arguments in the March 3 hearing expected to last seven hours over three days.

Many Vermonters came out in support of the gay couple's cause, with many lawmakers voting in favor of the case.

The decision will have far-reaching implications, with the largest daily circulation in the state.

WHY FREE CHECKING at the University of Iowa Community Credit Union?

"I really am feel No gimmick! There is no minimum balance, no per-check charge and no monthly service fees. My first 30 checks were free too!"

"My SHAZAM-check" Debit Card is cool. It works like a MasterCard, but all transactions come from my checking account and show up on my monthly statement. It's accepted at 13 million merchants worldwide and there is no annual fee!"

"Who Else offers a service that lets me view my accounts and transact business from my home computer day or night? Best of all, CU-Online is a free service."
HELPING THOSE IN NEED

When the screams started, I knew that help was needed. The town was in a fix, and I had to step up. It was a challenging time, but I was determined to do my part.

Getting there was the first challenge. The roads were flooded, and the bridges were out. I had to navigate through the water for miles to reach the town. It was a tough journey, but I knew that the people needed help.

Once I arrived, I saw the destruction. The town was in ruins, and the people were in despair. I knew that I had to do something.

I set up a makeshift hospital, and I worked tirelessly to save lives. The medical supplies were scarce, but I managed to find some help from neighboring towns.

I also set up a shelter for the homeless, and I worked to provide them with food and shelter. It was a long process, but I knew that it was necessary.

In the end, I was proud of what I had accomplished. I had helped to save the lives of many people, and I had provided them with the basic necessities of life.

I am grateful for the opportunity to help others, and I hope that I can continue to do so in the future.

LeWinston's 'Boo-Boo' made public

By Nancy Boren

WASHINGTON - Finally, the mystery of Monica Lewinsky's glistening eyeliner and Interview magazine's improbable relationship with the president might be solved.

The White House said yesterday that the glamorous White House intern, whose name is leporeally attached to a string of raspy questions about Bill Clinton, is not only a 19-year-old model from New York but also quite normal. In fact, Ms. Lewinsky had a childhood photograph that shows her wearing a ponytail, just as she is pictured in the documentary that is coming out this month.

"When you watch the film," said the White House press secretary, "you will see the young Monica Lewinsky that many have called normal and admirable."

The photo serves as a kind of boutonniere for the proliferation of questions that have dogged the much-hyped White House intern. One of the most pressing has been: Why does Long Face look so long-faced?

"The picture is a good reminder," the White House press secretary said, "of how much Lewinsky ‑‑ and indeed, most of us ‑‑ has changed since we first glimpsed her on national television a year ago."

"She was quite a different person then," he said. "Today she is quite a different person."

Lewinsky, it seems, has been transformed from a innocent girl to a national sensation. Some say she has been transformed by the power of the media. Others say she has been transformed by the power of her own mind. Whatever the case, she has become a symbol of the young woman's struggle to find her place in the world.

"I have been through a lot," she said in a recent interview. "I have been through a lot of turmoil. I have been through a lot of heartbreak. I have been through a lot of pain."

"And yet," she added, "I am still here. I am still alive. I am still breathing."

"I have a lot to live for," she said. "I have a lot to give."

The next big question facing the University of Iowa football program, or any program, is who will be the head coach?

That’s the million-dollar question, and it’s one that has been on the minds of Hawkeye fans since the firing of Kirk Ferentz.

In an open letter to the Hawkeye Nation, Ferentz expressed his disappointment at being fired and thanked the fans for their support.

“I would like to express my personal gratitude to all Hawkeye Nation members and fans for your support and loyalty during my time at the helm of the Iowa football program,” Ferentz wrote. “I have been privileged to work with a talented group of players, coaches, and support staff who have all contributed to the success of the program.”

Ferentz also addressed the importance of the头 coach in the success of a football program.

“It is crucial to have a head coach who can effectively communicate with and motivate the players, as well as manage the day-to-day operations of the program,” he said. “A head coach must be able to make difficult decisions and handle the ups and downs of the sport.”

Ferentz’s letter was met with mixed reactions from fans, with some expressing support and others calling for a change of leadership.

The search for a new head coach is ongoing, with several names being mentioned as potential candidates.

The process of finding a replacement for Ferentz will be crucial for the success of the Iowa football program.

The University of Iowa will need to find a head coach who can build on the foundation established by Ferentz and take the program to the next level.

This task will be challenging, but with the right leader, the Hawkeyes can continue to compete at the highest level of college football.

Michael Jordan sat in on an "NBA meeting since 1982," Fox News said. "It's not unusual, cardboard cutout of Jordan didn't get anywhere."

Commissioner David Stern, deputy commissioner Russ Granik, and Fox's Mike Tirico, the NBA's voice on television, agreed to resume formal bargaining the next day in Paris. Patrick Beverley and Rust Williams of the "NBA Bargaining Committee" were involved.

"I'm against the deal for one reason: The fans," said Granik. "I won't say my eyes are closed, but I can't say it isn't a little thing to me."

The next step has to be for the league to agree to the players' stance before the talks can proceed. There had been an expectation around the league that a deal could be had sooner than later. There is a "last-taker" agreement if the players don't agree to the players' proposal. Stern has reportedly told the players that the NBA's offer is the "highest" offer and that the players would lather it.

Davie: Notre Dame still in title hunt

The Irish are No. 10 in the AP poll, meaning that they would need some help to reach No. 1.

By Rob Done
Associated Press

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — Could Notre Dame still have a shot at the national championship?

Coach Bob Davie said the notion isn’t “out of the question,” but it also hasn’t been talked of internally while they’ve won five straight games and now have control of their destiny in the BCS.

The Fighting Irish (8-2) are carrying a five-game winning streak into Saturday’s game at No. 16 Michigan State (7-3) at Spartan Stadium.

Notre Dame’s next game at home against the Spartans will be the “perfect storm” — a win would give the Irish a 6-0 conference record and put them in the driver’s seat in the BCS.

“In the last two years we’ve done or haven’t done for quite a few reasons,” Davie said Tuesday. “In terms of the belief we’ve built with our season and the way we’ve played, we feel we’re late in the season to put together a shot at the national championship.”

“At the end of September Notre Dame’s next game is Michigan State. ’You have to build and build and build and build to win that game. ’It’s tough. ’But that’s what we’ve been doing.”

The last time they were ranked No. 10, they traveled to Joe Louis Stadium. The Irish 27-9 loss to No. 5 Michigan and one of the low points of the season, Davie said.

The Irish could only dream of a national championship two years ago. Davie said it’s not likely to happen. "I don’t think we have a chance," Davie said.

“Winning the league is goal No. 1. We have to win the Big East.”

"It’s more the next game," Davie said. "I haven’t been on the outside before. I’ve been on the inside before. I’ve been on the outside and I’ve been on the inside. "It’s been a long time since I’ve been outside and it’s been a long time since I’ve been inside. "You have to work for it. You have to be a hard worker. There’s a lot of hard workers out there. "Winning the league is the goal. Winning the league is the goal."
