UI to pay consultants $150,000

Two consulting firms are set to report in the aggregate to the campus and the Union.

Finding out what the UI community wants, what it needs and what it needs to know is part of a 60-day study the university will pay for the work done by two consulting firms, Brederoth, Caven and Associates of Sioux Falls, S.D., and Percival and Associates of Des Moines.

Student input

Students can make recommendations to the UI about the study and the process through student forums. The forum will be held from 2 to 3:30 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 30, in 302 McCollum.

The forum is sponsored by the Student Assembly of the University of Northern Iowa, the campus’ general student body organization.

Student input is important, said Amy Anderle, student assembly president, and there should be open lines of communication. “We’ve got a lot of input from students,” she said.

“[Students] need to feel that they are being heard and that their voices matter,” said Sarah Pettinger, executive for undergraduate activities and the library of the University of Northern Iowa.

It is important to put that much thought into it, she said, and the money helps student input in the decision-making process.

Pettinger said she hopes students will come forward if they have any input or suggestions they would like to make.

The president watches. Palestinian leaders renounce talks for Israel's destruction.

By Teresa Heinz

Gaza City, December 15, 1998

President Clinton arrived late Monday night for his final meeting with Yasser Arafat, the leader of the Palestinian Authority, in the West Bank city of Ramallah. Earlier in the day, Clinton expressed his hope that the two leaders would come to an agreement on the Middle East peace process.

Arafat told reporters after the meeting that he was willing to talk about a future Palestinian state, but that Israel must first halt its military operations.

Clinton said he was confident that an agreement could be reached, but that it would not be easy. "We have to work hard," he said.

The meeting was the last of Clinton's presidency, and it came as the United States prepared to withdraw its forces from the West Bank and Gaza Strip.

"We have to work hard," Clinton said. "We have to work hard."

A NEED OF CLARITY

More than 25 religion students feel the need for the Intervarsity Christian Fellowship to adapt its mission and better define its role in the religious atmosphere at the University of Iowa, according to a recent survey of 116 members.

Most of the religious organizations on campus feel the need for a better sense of community, and many members feel the need to work more closely with related groups.

Robert, who teaches religion in his religion and society "It's a need to define the role of the religious community in our society," he said.

A GOOD PLACE TO FAQE

Allen-Bill President, Leonard, said that the organization on a firm basis because it was not a part of the religious world at the University of Iowa, he said. The organization, he said, focuses on building a sense of community among its members. Leonard said that the organization is not a religious one, but rather a place for students to come together and build relationships.

"I think people go into religion because they feel like they need a place to go," Leonard said. "We give them a place to go.

INTANGIBILITY

Unlike other students organizations, religious organizations are often a place "to come together," Leonard said.

Contrary to popular belief, students have it pretty easy.

For many students, finals week seems to have something that not even the Grinch could turn off. But the fact is, many students are not as busy as they make themselves out to be. In fact, many students have more time than they know what to do with.

The majority of students, however, should be trumpeted with a little perspective.

Some students are actually studying for their exams. This is an opportunity rather than a burden. We should not be taken for granted.

Mills' novel is Coen brothers, on paper

A new author's style is being discussed by the famous screenwriter...

By Peter Stewart

Maggie Millen first novel, "The "Nepartak of the Bax", is being compared to the Coen brothers' films. Millen, a rising star in the publishing world, has been gaining attention for her unique writing style and her ability to transport readers into a world that is both familiar and foreign. The novel follows a group of friends as they navigate the complexities of life in a small town in the midwest, much like the Coen brothers' films have done in the past. The novel has been well received, with critics praising Millen's ability to create a sense of realism and evoke the same emotions as the Coen brothers' films. The novel has been compared to the Coen brothers' films in terms of its style and tone, with many critics predicting that Millen will be the next big thing in the world of publishing.

Parent sentenced in air bag death

Man pleads not guilty to a first degree murder charge in his son's death.

By John Stevens

PARMA, Ohio - A man who pleaded not guilty to a first-degree murder charge in his son's death said the 2002 air bag deployment was "unnecessary and failed in his job." The 22-year-old father, who was charged with the murder of his 17-year-old son, said he was "shocked, shocked, shocked" at the news of the verdict. The trial was held in the Municipal Court of Cuyahoga County, Ohio, and the defendant was found guilty on all counts. The defendant, who was tried in absence of his lawyer, was sentenced to life in prison without the possibility of parole. Hawks climb into poll

In the deep Iowa basketball tournament, Iowa State's Balsa Koprivica had a game-high 27 points as the university moved into the Associated Press Top 25 on Monday.

By Don Smith

Iowa State coach Jamie Dixon had known all along it would take a signature win to get the basketball team into the Associated Press Top 25. It came Saturday at Wells Fargo Arena.

The Associated Press basketball coaches across the country announced the latest rankings Monday, and the No. 24 Hawkeyes (10-8, 1-7) moved into the poll at No. 25. Iowa State had not been ranked since the 2011-12 season.

The Hawkeyes, who had not been in the Top 25 since the 2011-12 season, had dropped their previous four games. They were 7-7 as an unranked team.

The Associated Press poll is released on Monday and is based on the coaches' thoughts. The Hawkeyes were selected ninth in the Big Ten.

Officials' allegations rock IOC

A senior international Olympic Committee official reiterated that the Russian track and field team faces possible exclusion from the Olympics if the nation has not taken further steps to eradicate an illegal performance-enhancing drug program.

The International Olympic Committee's decision to include athletes from Russia in the Olympic Games was based on a separate case involving an athlete who tested positive for a banned substance.

In an interview with The Daily Iowan, Hodler said.

What's Worse: NFL officials or the BCS?

What's Worse: NFL officials or the BCS?

NFL Officials

Don Smith

In the previous two weeks, officials in the NFL received much criticism for their performance and their play-calling decisions. Critics have been quick to point to the NFL's referees as the reason for the instability in the league.

The NFL has a unique system of officiating that relies on a group of officials called field officials. These officials are responsible for calling fouls, making plays and determining the outcome of games. They are also responsible for handling any disputes that arise during the game.

The NFL officials have come under fire in recent weeks for their performance, with many calling for changes to the system. The officials have been accused of making mistakes and failing to follow the rules.

The BCS

When the NCAA first began selecting five teams for the BCS, the list included the No. 1, No. 2, No. 3, No. 4 and No. 5 teams. The BCS was designed to determine the best team in college football, with the participants in the bowl games decided by the coaches in the BCS.

The BCS was created in 1998 to replace the Bowl Championship Series, which was used to determine the national champion from 1992 to 1997. The BCS was expanded to include six teams in 2006, but the system was criticized for being too complex and lacking transparency.

In recent years, the BCS has faced criticism for its perceived bias and inequity. The system has been criticized for allowing major conferences to control the playoff field and for giving them an unfair advantage in the national championship game.

The BCS is widely considered to be a flawed system, and there have been calls for a more fair and transparent selection process.

Little to celebrate at NBA Christmas party

The NBA closed its doors to celebrate the holidays Monday.

The league has had a busy living season and players have spent time with family and friends during their off-season, but the holiday season is over and the NBA is back in action.

Players have been traveling throughout the country, playing games and meeting with fans.

The league has announced that the NBA Christmas party will be held on December 25th at the Las Vegas Convention Center.

The party will feature food, drink, and entertainment for NBA players and fans.

The party will be open to the public and will run from 6:00 PM to 10:00 PM PST.

Tickets are available for purchase online or at the door.

The victory was the 49ers' 16th straight regular season win at Charlie Batch in the second quarter, said coach Dom Capers, who has a salary of $2 million.
