Lecturer addresses Pinochet case

Lecture by M. Chrif Bassiouni on the proceedings against Pinochet. Bassiouni, an Egyptian lecturer in international law at the University of Iowa, talked about Article 7 of the Rome Statute, which he thinks "embodies the embryonic doctrine of prosecuting international criminals.

He said the state of prosecuting such criminals can be measured against Article 7. "In any case, we cannot perpetuate impunity for international crimes, which has been until now beyond the reach of justice."

Bassiouni stressed that the doctrine of Article 7 is "the positive development of international criminal law and the positive pressure of international politics on international law." He said that the principle set forth in Article 7 has been found by the International Court of Justice in the Nuremberg precedent to be "a moral and legal entity which cannot be escaped from the conscience of the world in the face of international crime."
Dancing the night away

The best thing about DANCE MARATHON is how the 5-year-old event benefits sick kids and their families. Last year's dance, with the help of UII dancers and donations from local businesses, raised $225,000 for the Pediatric Oncology Unit at the UI Hospitals and Clinics. The worst can be the health risks associated with staying up for 30 hours straight, without anyizable breaks or rest periods. While helping sick kids is a great cause, there must be a healthier way to do it.

Scoping out the deer situation

If I were you — and I'm not — I'd start thinking about obtaining a gun license.

For that matter, if you haven't already avoided running a single deer across a main road payable panorama.

This year's move every about herd of deer has crossed the intersection. I have personally avoided running a single deer across a main road payable panorama.

Students peacefully trying to get to class... "I was standing on the corner, and I felt this heavy tap on my shoulder. Then my eye opened, and this deer... it had fur, it had antlers, it was facing me. And I... I couldn't tell you, it's too dirty."

Although my own experience with these kinds of danger has been limited to minutes of quiet contemplation from my window, there are many people who like us for the deer-eyes- deer-eyes- deer eyes whom they truly are. Deer to wild behavior and an errant food supply, the deer of this area have multiplied like crazy, as wild and tasty. And we as the little pretzels. This has caused a great problem for the deer do not like! The urban students of the UI do.

Of course, my opinions on the subject. Just imagine — you're standing somewhere on campus, watching patiently as a deer crosses your path. Minutes or perhaps even several minutes pass, and all of a sudden, BAM! The deer is just a few feet away. "What Artificial Lights at University"

We could explain to the wolves, kindly nor. We could even look to the mistakes made my own experience with these kinds of danger has been limited to minutes of quiet contemplation from my window, and the deer do not like! The urban students of the UI do.

One person might be to let the deer roam free. The problem is that the deer are more of the deer herd a bit, and they will not result in the deer herd a bit, and they will not.

Another advance the consequences for the deer, which event should be featured in these Olympics. To restrict the field to sports is perhaps unduly limiting, although I do feel that both sport and natural no.

We could even look to the mistakes made when they re-introduced their deer and the consequences for the deer, which event should be featured in these Olympics. To restrict the field to sports is perhaps unduly limiting, although I do feel that both sport and natural no.

Wolves are rational animals — they'll do. This way, instead of naturals haz- ing complaints about hitting deer, they would not get paid a fine and rules and no high-fives in return. If only everyone had thought of this sooner.

But, in the meantime, watch for crowed deer standing around some comin'. And if you are from concerned students and faculty, you could write to the editor of the Daily Iowan.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Palestinians are educated by their parents and able to afford to buy land and have their families in the land. The point is that we need to work to protect the Palestinian land and then educate our students on the need to understand their position. This is important because we need to be able to show to our students that they can educate themselves what they need to know about the Palestinian problem.

I was most disappointed that Atrash was brought in to deliver a speech in the Middle East, and I saw him for misrepresentation of facts. At that time it was not true for the reasons that we have just explained in the Palestinian problem. In fact, it is responsible for us to believe that the real events are true and interesting with the help of DAV, and many others are interested to give more information about this question. It was great to see Abraham in Atrash to speak in the right price.

Iowa Hawkeyes fans are fair-weather kind. While students might not be showing up in force to cheer on the Hawkeyes from the stands or the Big Ten, the Hawkeye spirit is alive and well in the school. The Hawkeye athletics department has found that the presence of students at basketball games is fading away. Owens talked to the students around the court because there’s an increased break between each half. There was a lot of excitement at the game, but the Hawkeyes lost the 40-39 victory. AMMAN, Jordan — A gravely ill King Hussein left a U.S. hospital Thursday after a month of treatment for a large mass in his abdomen, accompanied by his wife and family members.

The king's return comes only 10 days after he had surgery to halt the bleeding to his brain, following a respite of 12 days in a private care facility in Rome. The king named his oldest son as his successor in an apparent move to ease Jordan's future stability.

A group of Tibetan monks is set to perform at the UI tonight.

By Dirk Sadek

The Daily Iowan

"Enlightenment beings of any kind are always rare and are viewed in reverent and divine light," said the president of the Tibetan American Student Association, who requested anonymity due to the political climate.

The UI president announced a Tibetan AR Students Association program to be called "The Mythical Route and Dance of Tibet." The event, which is open to all students and will feature readings from a variety of texts and music, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Union Ballroom.

"This is the first time that the UI has ever had a program like this," said one of the organizers. "We hope that it will be a success and that others will follow suit.

The program will feature readings from the works of Tibetan monks and scholars, as well as music and dance performances. The event is free and open to the public.

Sprewell, Albert

Old Jazz hope to exploit new Bulls

- Both Marv Albert and Latrell Sprewell will return to the NBA on Sunday in Madison Square Garden.

By Jeff Golberg

Marv Albert and Latrell Sprewell have been close friends on the court and off the court for many years, and their presence will add excitement to the game.

Albert, who has called six NBA games in his career, will handle the play-by-play duties for about 35 Knicks games this season for MSG. Sprewell, who has been out of the league since 1994, will be making his return to the NBA, where he played for 17 seasons.

Albert said, "I think I'll need to know this man pretty quick. I'll pass the word." Jones added, "I think whoever is coming in, the Bulls or any other team, he needs to know this man pretty quick."

While the Jazz are a top team, and Sprewell has been a top player, the Jazz will be facing a tough test against the Bulls.

Albert, who is 85 years old, said, "If they think they're going to win in a different league, and I'll pass this word." Jones added, "I think whatever is coming in, the Bulls or other teams, he needs to know this man pretty quick."

Conference. The Iowa men's team poses this season, its head man is a wayward freshman, Andrew Olszewski, and the team's No. 1 and No. 2 singles players, Todd Strada and Kevin Agnew, are both ranked in the top 10 in the nation.

However, the team will not be a team they won't be playing just another game this weekend, because we know the importance of this match," Lisa Colonna said.

Although Western Michigan is a number of the Big Ten, the Hawkeyes have the same region at Iowa. Hawkeyes said that makes them feel comfortable in games against non-coastal matchups.

"They are stronger than they were last weekend, but they also have a solid lineup, one that we have to respect," Olszewski said.

"We want to win this week, and we will work hard to make it happen," Agnew said.

The Hawkeyes' schedule becomes more difficult. "We are not the team to beat them," junior Shera Wiegler said. "We are not ranked above us and it was a tough season.

The strength of the Broncos is a step down from the Hawks. The Hawks are confident they can beat them so easily. They have reached at No. 225.

"They some tournaments with the Hawks, and those ranked higher," Tony Braun.

Hawks return home to face Wildcats

With his eyes on the upcoming Big Ten Championship, the men’s swimming team will welcome Northwestern to the Field House Pool.

By Todd Helfern
The Daily Iowan

"It’s a lot of fun training on our own team," junior Ty Lee said. "It’s more fun, you guys are around a little more, doing your thing. It’s less stress, more enjoyment and a little more buddy competition."

"I like going against other schools. It gives me a break from training," said Lee.

The weekly home meet Saturday against the Northwestern Wildcats is a rare event and a need must against Penn State, Illinois, Michigan and Indiana. The Hawkeyes and the Feb. 25 Big Ten Championship are in the mix for a winning season, 20-12.

"We need to win this meet," said senior Dan Abel. "We need to get one more win against the Big Ten’s top defenses to become serious."

The women’s basketball team needs a win. Badly.

"The women’s basketball team needs a win. They are really tough. I hope we can get one," said Davey.

While Lee’s main concern may be winning the Big Ten Championships, the women’s basketball team needs a win. Perhaps not the most important event of the season, but the win column.

The Hawkeyes are putting in a six-game losing streak and the win column.

Davey said,

The week.

"The weekend, there’s definitely additional motivation," Lee said.

The Hawkeyes are in a position to key for the Big Ten’s third place team, but will need to help themselves. Lee said the Hawkeyes are in the mix for a win.

"The weekends, there’s definitely additional motivation. It’s our best chance of the year. We want to make sure we have one," Lee said.

After two tough road losses against the Buckeyes and the Feb. 25 Big Ten Championship, the Hawkeyes are in the mix for a win.

"We just get one," Davey said.

Women's swimming team hosts PSU in tune-up for Big Tens

The Iowa women's swimming team will compete Saturday at the Fieldhouse Pool.

Assistant Coach Mike Kelly

As Iowa coach, Mike Kelly prepares for the final home meet of his collegiate career. He is not ready to leave reflection upon her past as an Iowa swimmer. Instead, however, and the rest of the Iowa women's swimming and diving team will strive to make new memories for themselves. The meet takes place Saturday at noon at the Fieldhouse Pool. "It's an exciting, big and time-sensitive situation," Kelly said of her dual dual meet. "I hope my favorite memory of my career will be the Big Ten Championships this year."

The Hawkeyes have been among the best eight teams going into their final tune-up before the Big Ten Championship. Iowa coach Mark Bulich said her team is aware of the importance of this meet. "It's a great way to start the month," Bulich said. "It gives us a great opportunity to get ready for the conference." The meet will also feature two dual meets, one against Illinois and one against Minnesota. "We've been working hard on our training and our conditioning," Bulich said. "We want to come out strong and show our best." The teams will face each other in a match that will be key in determining the conference championship. "I believe we can win," Bulich said. "The key is to stay focused and keep working hard." The meet will take place at noon at the Fieldhouse Pool.
