U.S., other nations veto biogenetics trade pact

Critics accuse the U.S. of "trying to force genetically modified food down the throats of consumers."

By Frank Bajak

Washington

The United States and 11 other nations vetoed a bill Wednesday to place an embargo on genetically modified food trade in genetically modified plants and animals.

Washington said it was pres­en­ting the bill to protect U.S. consumers from what it called "the bioafety of third parties." But critics said it was doing the bidding of multinational businesses, whose laboratory-produced crops could one day be sold as "genetically engineered" and "gene-altered"

The results will be published in the New England Journal of Medicine.

Disease control and prevention experts have long es­tablished that the fewest number of deaths will occur when infants are less than one month old, Robert A. Knuppel, chairman of the study, said.

The study calculated that wait­ing for the ideal interval, those whose infants were delivered more than 1 1/2 weeks pre­maturely were at an increased risk of producing a healthy child, compared with those who waited the ideal interval, those whose infants were delivered less than one week premature were at a decreased risk of producing a healthy child, compared with those who waited the ideal interval.

The study also found that the longer the infants waited before being delivered, the more likely they were to have lower birth weights and live longer in the hospital.

Dr. Robert W. Johnson, a former chief of pediatrics at St. Louis Children's Hospital, presented the current study for the first time in 1999.
New avalanche strikes Austria

The avalanche, the worst in Austria since the 1940s, sent a huge amount of snow and ice crashing down a steep mountainside near Kals-Matrei in eastern Austria, killing at least 11 people and leaving six others missing. The avalanche hit at about 3 a.m. on Sunday, burying a group of European tourists and their guides who had been camped in the area.

The victims were part of a group of tourists from the United States, including four children and three adults, who had been staying in a nearby hotel. The hotel was evacuated, and the group was rescued by Italian mountaineers who had been called in to help.

The avalanche was the latest in a series of disasters that have struck Austria in recent weeks, including a fire at a ski resort in the Alps that killed seven people and an explosion at a ski lift that injured 15 others. The country is facing a severe winter storm, with heavy snowfall and high winds causing power outages and disruption to transportation.

Kosovar rivals form coalition

The move comes as Serb prolongs its siege of a Kosovo Serb-held town. The move was welcomed by the United Nations, which has been calling for a diplomatic solution to the crisis. The UN has said that the siege is illegal and violates international law.

Serbia has refused to sign a peace agreement that would end the conflict in Kosovo, a province of Serbia. The UN has imposed sanctions on Serbia and has called for a negotiated settlement.

Gunners shot down U.S. missile, Iraq says

Iraqi security forces have shot down a U.S. cruise missile that was launched at Baghdad International Airport. The missile was believed to be a Tomahawk cruise missile, which is used in precision strikes against military targets.

U.S. officials confirmed that the missile had been launched from a U.S. naval strike group in the Gulf. The U.S. military said that the missile was a humanitarian response to the rise in Iranian missile launches against U.S. targets in the region.

The U.S. military has been conducting a campaign of precision strikes against Iranian military targets in recent weeks, using Tomahawk cruise missiles and other precision-guided munitions.

Austrian authorities have not commented on the incident, but they have said that they are investigating all claims of U.S. military activity in the region.

Attacking room-to-room sentencing peninsula for climax of the Iowa City/Coralville news.

The Coralville City Council approved a proposal Thursday night that would allow the city to impose room-to-room sentencing against smoking.

The proposal, which was approved by a 5-0 vote, would allow the city to impose penalties on smokers who violate the city's smoking ban.

According to the city's code of ordinances, smoking is not allowed in any public place.

The code also states that anyone who violates the ban will be subject to a fine of up to $500 and up to 90 days in jail.

The proposal will now be sent to the state for approval.

Tyson to remain in solitary

By Darrell Dail

ROCKVILLE, Md. — Mike Tyson will spend another 20 days in solitary confinement, after appealing his solitary confinement sentence.

A Rockville disciplinary panel on Wednesday ordered Tyson to spend 20 more days in solitary confinement for allegedpossession of a weapon.

He was also hit with extra time after officials said they found a knife, a razor and a metal rod in his cell.

Tyson has been in solitary confinement since his outburst Friday.

He was hit with a second solitary sentence for allegedly possessing a weapon.

The three-day disciplinary hearing was held at the Montgomery County jail to decide whether Tyson’s stay in solitary confinement should be extended.

Tyson has been denied appeals.

Hoosiers defeat Illini in overtime

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ray Scott beat Illinois for the second time this season and continued his remarkable run of success against the Illini, giving the Indiana Hoosiers a 78-72 overtime victory Wednesday night.

Scott scored 21 of his 26 points in the second half, including two 3-point shots in the final four minutes, to lead the Hoosiers (15-3, 4-3 Big Ten) to their third straight Big Ten win.

Illinois (14-4, 4-3) had won its previous two games and had given the Hoosiers their only Big Ten loss of the season.

The Hoosiers improved to 5-1 in overtime games this season, while Illinois continued its struggles in extra periods, losing its fourth straight overtime game.

Williams wins battle, Iverson wins war

COOLUMBIA, Colo. (UPI) — Denver Nuggets rookie Vince Carter scored a career-high 28 points as the Nuggets beat the Atlanta Hawks 94-81 Wednesday night.

Carter, who was the No. 4 overall pick in the 1998 NBA draft, had made his first start in place of injured star Allen Iverson and led the Nuggets to their first win in eight games.

The Nuggets' victory was their first in their last six games and ended a five-game losing streak.

The Hawks, led by Iverson, were looking to snap their own two-game losing streak and had been struggling offensively in recent games.

However, the Nuggets' defense held the Hawks to a season-low 81 points and forced 13 turnovers.

Carter's performance was his best of the season, as he scored 20 points in the first half and added eight in the second.

The Nuggets opened the game on a 20-7 run and took a 49-31 lead into halftime.

In the second half, the Hawks came back and cut the lead to four points at one point, but the Nuggets closed the game on a 20-9 run to pull away for the victory.

Carter's performance was a welcome sight for a Denver team that had struggled to find a consistent scoring option since Iverson went down with an injury.

The Nuggets will look to continue their winning ways as they face the Los Angeles Lakers on Friday.

The Hawks, meanwhile, will try to bounce back and avoid a three-game losing streak as they host the Portland Trail Blazers on Saturday.

5 of top 7 players fall at Match Play

■ Only Tiger Woods and David Duval survived the first round Wednesday.

By Doug Ferguson

CARLSBAD, Calif. — At least Tiger Woods and David Duval did not have to worry about their chickens going to market Thursday.

Those are the two top-ranked players among the top seven going into the $1 million event, which has a format as unpredictable as golf and a scoring system that would make a college basketball coach weep.

The Gophers face a talented Michigan team.

The victories continue to build for the Badgers' second straight year, has reeled off 23 straight victories with home games and outscored them 7.4-2.2 in those matches, including 20.7 per game. With this team's superstars and solid depth, but what it does have is a pair of juniors — with home games and outscored them 7.4-2.2 in those matches, including 20.7 per game. Country music biz takes two steps back

Since 1995, album sales, hardcover book sales and industry layoffs have been the norm for the past two years.

By Jim Miller Associated Press

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Magazine lists of 1996's top music acts and the Country Music Association's list of winners for its annual awards last night made one thing clear: Country music has hit the ice.

After reaching record heights in the mid-1980s, sales of country albums have tumbled by more than 20 percent since then, and the industry has been struggling to recover. Industry officials say that the country music industry is now in a trough, and that it may be some time before it recovers.

The industry's struggles have been exacerbated by the popularity of other genres, such as rap and pop, which have drawn away a significant portion of the country music audience.

“Country music has been a victim of its own success,” said Jim Goss, a country music critic for the Nashville Tennessean. “When it became popular, it lost its identity and became too mainstream.”

The problem is particularly acute in Nashville, where the industry’s center is located. The city’s music industry has been hit hard by the recession, and many people have lost their jobs.

The situation is dire, said Goss, who has been covering the country music industry for more than 20 years. “This is the worst I’ve ever seen it,” he said. “The industry is in a deep, deep hole.”
