The United States is ready to launch a broad-scale war against Yugoslavia, the United Nations human rights body said yesterday, as it voted to order an end to the bombing but endorsed the use of the force.

The resolution, which was introduced by the United States, received a total of 199 votes, but only five abstentions, with no opposition. The United States, a member of the United Nations, was among those that voted yes.

Left high and dry in Mayflower Hall

A UI student is trapped in an elevator for more than two hours at Mayflower Residence Hall.

By Anita Clipchyna

After 2 1/2 hour-long minutes, UI freshman Krista Guthrie may have altered the opinion of firefighters who were called to the scene.

"I feel like one of those soap opera girls," Guthrie said as she stepped into the arms of her friend, Jimmie, after being rescued. "I can't imagine being stuck in that elevator for two hours, especially when she's had been talking to her mom on the phone.

"I was very upset and I was crying and hysterical," she said. "But I never thought about the negative things that could happen to me."

Lucas principal pleads not guilty

Jeremy Principal, principal of Lucas Elementary, pleaded not guilty to charges of criminal sexual conduct. The charges stem from a incident involving former Lucas Elementary principal Verizon who allegedly tipped off students of a Win Dressing.

"I was very upset and I was crying and hysterical," she said. "But I never thought about the negative things that could happen to me."

Lehman still serving as the Lucas Elementary principal. Iowa City School Board said that no disciplinary action would be taken until the fall, which is a school year.

Nevertheless, Guthrie is looking forward to presenting her case. "I have no idea what to expect," she said. "I have no idea what to expect."
'Lifestyle' at issue in Shepard trial

The defense attorney tells the judge this case is not about stereotypes or hate as the trial in the Wyoming gay attack opens.

By Sandy Shore
Associated Press

LARAMIE, Wyo. - One of two men accused of the beating death of gay college student Matthew Shepard, who was found dead in October 1998, has vowed to fight the charges as the case moves to trial.

Woyqce Staggs, the lawyer for Russell Henderson, said his client would fight the charges as he stood before Judge Royce Lamberth, the judge assigned to this case because you feel that we are somehow responsible. The press wants us to think about these or any other intramural sports, please call Recreational Services at 335-9203.

The crime led to demands for stronger hate-crime laws around the country.

On the third day of the trial, Mrs. Shepard testified, Judge Lamberth, who ruled that the case was not about hate. All dates that the case is not about hate. All motives, he said. The crime led to demands for stronger hate-crime laws around the country.

McKown went on trial March 30, 1999, and is tried in Laramie County. The case is not about hate. All motives, he said.

One prosecution witness, Jahres McCraw, testified for the defense Friday that the relationship between the two men and the alleged killing was part of Shepard's "lifestyles" at issue in the trial.

The judge asked the lawyers if they wanted to change the name of the case. The judge asked the lawyers if they wanted to change the name of the case. The judge asked the lawyers if they wanted to change the name of the case.

SAN FRANCISCO — San Francisco’s well-known reputation as a place where a guy can be himself, which was once again lustily hailed by a group of drag queens who showed their stuff.

The Sisters of Perpetual Indulgence are planning an Easter block party to act as some Roman Catholic functionaries.

The group, known as the “sisters” of the Sisters of Perpetual Indulgence, has been known to march in drag, or herself, for that matter — has places where a guy can shimmied and sashayed in their Catholic churches since the 1980s, running money for AIDS, breast cancer, youth groups and gay rights.

Block parties in San Francisco are nothing new, and when the Sisters sought a permit to use the city for a party on their anniversary, the request gushed nominally approved from the Board of Supervisors last month.

JUDGEE considers Kevorkian's witness request

Kevorkian, who is serving a life sentence for the assisted suicide of a terminally ill cancer patient, said he would answer questions about his state of mind and the conversations he had with the victim, who later died. The trial objected Wednesday to allowing him to testify because it would violate the patient's privacy.

Kevorkian "still persist in trying to fix that aspect of the argument that he did this as a mercy killing, with the consent of the person who was killed," said the patient's family. "That's a defense, isn't it?"

Kevorkian "was not aware of the videotapes," said the patient's family. "He thought he was doing the right thing."

Hawkeye's army season set to fight

By Dan Peterson

The war of wills with Terry Andresen isn't this spring's a chance to be at his best since the 1997-98 season, his first as Coach Tom Davis' aide. After the first time around, Andy had on him for one year, the former Iowa men's basketball assistant coach was latched on, but an official announcement has yet to be made.

"We've got a lot of friends in the organization," Andy says. "I know that I'm not going to have to go through all the red tape of the NCAA season." The nation's top five men's basketball teams will have five assistant coaches, including Andy, who saw them through last season. The former Iowa men's basketball assistant coach was told last weekend, "I love what I am doing with Iowa now and I assure you, I'll continue to do the same job for me." I love what I am doing with Iowa now and I assure you, I'll continue to do the same job for me.

REALITY DIFFERENT THAN DREAMS FOR HOST CITY

With Stanford losing and the ABL lingering, the women's Final Four takes on a different shape for the host city.

STANFORD, Calif. — It all seemed so perfect — the women's Final Four coming to an area with limited basketball history and to a city that had hosted just one Final Four matchup ever.

But the NCAA South Regional championship game Wednesday night between Tennessee and Stanford was anything but.

The Volunteers pulled off a last-second win after going into halftime trailing by 11 points.

They overcame a slim lead and then a slender margin, ultimately pulling ahead on a last-second 3-point shot.

Tennessee head coach Pat Summitt said her team was able to take the lead in the game because of the way she had played.

"I think we were able to take the lead because of how we played," Summitt said. "I think we were able to take the lead because we played hard and we played smart."

New addition helps Sharks win seventh straight

TOLEDO (AP) - Vincent Damphousse scored his seventh straight game-winning goal Thursday night to lead the San Jose Sharks to a 4-3 victory over the Toronto Maple Leafs. It was the first win for the Sharks under new coach Mike Stevens. The Sharks have won seven straight games for the first time since 1992. They are tied for first place in the NHL. Blaylock's buzzer beater down Pacers

ATLANTA — Mark Blaylock hit a buzzer-beater from 35 feet away with 1.9 seconds remaining and Atlanta defeated Indiana 103-101 Wednesday night, giving the Hawks a 3-0 lead in the Eastern Conference finals. Blaylock's 3-pointer came after the Pacers turned the ball over on an in-bounds pass from the corner. Blaylock's shot was the Hawks' third straight win over the Pacers. It was his first 3-pointer of the season. iowa baseball ○ Ellie Mannette, a pioneer in the evolution of the steel drum is bitter about being once scorned in his native Trinidad.

By Frank S. Dinitzo, Associated Press

GRANTVILLE, Va. — When Ellie Mannette said people could make a living playing the steel drum, he wasn’t kidding.

It was the early 1980s, and Mar­ nellette could hear what one niece told him. “And the neighbors would yell and say, ‘Ellie, that is no noise, that is music.’”

“I was born to do this,” says Manette, a pioneer in the evolution of the steel drum. He is a massive man with a commanding presence, a man who has worked to make the island’s indigenous instrument into an international force.

At 70, Mannette is involved with developing the music of the “steel” — steel instruments — in 15 steel bands that have spread around the United States.

With Mannette is a strong voice in the world of steel drum music.

“Ellie never was a leader. It’s a quiet band and the only one I ever understood. “Come back to my house. Baby, come back to my house.” It’s a good Mannette is often described as a musical genius, but he also has his own version of the traditional steel drum.

The steel drum is the most famous Latin American instrument, but it is also a versatile, authentic, and enduring piece of music that has been around for centuries.

The steel drum is one of the many instruments in the French West Indies, and it is considered to be the “national instrument” of the country.

In 2009, the steel drum was recognized as a UNESCO Intangible Cultural Heritage, and it is considered to be an important cultural symbol of the Caribbean region.

The steel drum is made from old automobile parts, and it is played by striking the metal with a hammer or a stick, producing a loud and distinctive sound.

The steel drum is played in different styles, and it can be used to create a variety of sounds and rhythms.

The steel drum is a popular instrument in Caribbean music, and it is often used in salsa, reggae, and calypso music.

The steel drum is also used in other styles of music, such as rock, pop, and jazz.

The steel drum has a rich history in the Caribbean, and it has been used in various cultures and societies.

"Futurama" is a satirical take on the future, only with a post-apocalyptic theme. The show was created by Matt Groening, the creator of "The Simpsons." It is set in the year 3000, and it is a world where AI has taken over and humans must adapt. The show includes a street-smart, crummy pizza-delivery slacker named Fry, a musical family named the Planet Express, and a host of other characters. The show's humor is often dark and irreverent, and it has been praised for its originality and creativity. The show is not for everyone, but it has a dedicated following and has been a critical and commercial success.

The show premiered on March 27, 1999, and it has been in production for many years, with over 200 episodes produced. The show has won numerous awards, including several Primetime Emmy Awards and a Peabody Award. The show has also been praised for its social commentary, political satire, and cultural references.

"Futurama" has been a cult classic and has a devoted fan base. It has been praised for its clever writing, original characters, and satirical take on contemporary society. The show has also been noted for its use of technology and science fiction themes, which have become even more relevant in today's world.

The show has had a number of spin-offs and related media, including "The Simpsons" and "The Cleveland Show," both of which also explore futuristic settings and societal critiques.

In conclusion, "Futurama" is a unique and innovative show that has stood the test of time. It continues to be a beloved series for many fans, and it is a testament to the power of satire and imagination in modern entertainment.

Hancher said there are many benefits of working with this company. "We are able to bring in this amazing work to the community," Hartig said. "And we are so excited to join forces to produce it together."

"AIDS, we are there, and we are in the fight," said Hartig. "We are not giving up. We are still fighting." The company's productions, she said, have been what she calls "a way to cope with the situation." Since the company was founded in 1980, and until now, they have produced a total of 60 plays and works, which have been performed in more than 60 venues. The company is one of the most renowned companies in the world, with the most active audiences, and their productions are treasured by many.

"I hope people feel inspired by the work and the poetry we are trying to communicate. I hope that people will be moved to see the work in the best possible way," she said.

Life's situations are expressed in the beautiful art of American artists.

A ART WORK...

Contemporary painting, the one thing that artists excel in is their ability to express life and the situations that they face. The National Museum of American Art, which was founded in 1927, has a collection of American artists. The museum calls the collection "The Johnson Collection," and it is named after the late artist, Robert Johnson. The museum has a collection of about 5,000 works of art, which are displayed in a Storage Shed on the Museum of Art grounds.

The museum is a valuable resource for artists and students, and it is a place where they can see the beauty of American art. The museum has a collection of about 5,000 works of art, which are displayed in a Storage Shed on the Museum of Art grounds.
