Besting the curve with the inflatable grade

■ Higher student GPAs in lowa are a reflection of relaxed grading, not smarter students.

professors

By Jill Barnard The Daily Iowan

These days, a grade of "A" might just stand for "average."

This year, Iowa's three state universities are reporting the highest gradepoint averages ever, and many argue that grade inflation, not great intelligence, might be the reason.

Over the last three decades, students attending the UI, Iowa State University and the University of Northern Iowa have been receiving better grades.

"AC used to be considered an average grade, but most students consider that a low grade now," said Ann Rhodes, vice president for University Relations.

In 1966, the average GPA at Northern Iowa, for example, was 2.42 lowest among the state's public uniGPA was 2.94 - the highest among the three state schools.

The impressive report cards are a reflection of relaxed grading, professors say, not a new generation of super

"After teaching at Iowa State for 30 years, I'm not convinced they're smarter," said Clair Keller, an Iowa State history professor.

Franklin Miller, UI professor of communications studies, said that in the 30 years he's been at the university, it seems as though grades have improved, while students' intelligence has not.

"We're starting from a de facto Baverage grade, and students will let you know when they are unhappy with their grades," he said.

Nationally, professors say they feel ner favorable student evaluations, which can determine a professor's promotion. They say students are also more likely to bargain for better grades in hopes of getting into graduate school or nailing down a good job.

Miller said the trend could also reflect a shift in the focus of college students. In the 1970s, courses were more about content and the excitement of the subject, he said. But in the 1980s, the focus was more on the outcome of the course.

"There's a more open agenda now about how the grade is related to jobs and outcomes after college," he said.

Yet, admittedly, giving out higher grades doesn't come without some unfortunate consequences.

"The down side of grade-point inflation is that the A means less than it used to," Miller said.

Despite his students' expectations, UI mathematics Professor Daniel Anderson said he still grades in accordance with a student's classroom performance.

"I still see a C as average," he said. But, Anderson said, grade inflation at Iowa's state universities is not surprising, considering the inflation of high school grades in recent years. As more students from the lower half of their high school class are given higher grades, more are seeking higher education, he said.

"Many more students take calculus today than they did 25 years ago,"

Anderson said. It also didn't help when the UI insti-

Northwest students on edge after threats

■ Two notes threatening violence against eight junior high students named today as the time.

> By Steven Cook The Daily Iowan

Written threats against eight Northwest Junior High students have many local parents worried about sending their children to school today.

School officials were alerted to a note posted on a locker on May 6 that threatened seven students with violence; it named today as the day of the violence. A subsequent note. found later inside a locker, threatened an eighth student.

Coralville police officers will be stationed at the school, 1507 Eighth St., Coralville, today. Backpacks will be banned for the day.

A letter was also sent home with students explaining that parents may keep their children home today, though classes will go on as scheduled. Bob Harris, a Coralville resident and father of a Northwest seventh grader, said he left the decision up to his daughter, Elwie Apor, 14. He said she planned to attend school today. "It'd be hard for anything to happen tomorrow with all the security," Harris said. "If something does happen, it would make sense it probably wouldn't happen tomorrow."

The notes frightened many students throughout the day on May 7, causing many to call their parents and leave school early.

Standing by Northwest's main entrance on May 7 with her father and a friend, seventh-grader Julie Arnold, Apor said students had been talking about the notes throughout the day.

"I'm scared. It's really scary," she said. "It's happened before, so you got to take is seriously.'

Harris then took his daughter and her friend home. About 800 students are enrolled in the school, which is one of two junior highs in the Iowa City Community School District.

Rumors of the note and threats spread quickly through the Northwest lunchroom on May 7, students reported, with some students leaving without asking permission from the lunch monitors.

After lunch, teachers were left to calm the students' frayed nerves. Teacher Judy Gehrke said students in her seventh grade health class were tense after lunch.

She asked them what it would take for them to make them feel safe, she said, and some students said they would like police in the schools and the building to be locked. But others said they didn't believe the notes.

"They think it's a hoax, but they think it's better to be safe than sorry,' Gehrke said.

After talking about the threats, Gehrke said she had the students play charades to get their minds off Police continue to investigate who posted the notes. Northwest Principal Bryce Hansen said the handwriting on the two notes does not match. He said he believes the second note is a copy-cat note.

Hansen said he hadn't spoken with police since the evening of May 7; however, he said, they "indicated they've been getting some useful information."

"The students have been very helpful," he said. "They've tried to provide

Delta Zeta to take a hiatus

Because of low membership, the UI sorority will close its doors for one year to regroup.

> By Erika Slife The Daily Iowan

The Delta Zeta sorority, a UI fixture for 86 years, will be taking a leave of absence from campus next year due to flagging membership.

"It's not a matter of we can't come back, but rather accommodating financial and recruitment needs," said Jessica Peavy, a UI junior and UI Delta Zeta president. "We had to set aside our personal wants.

Delta Zeta, 223 S. Dodge St., has 30 members in its chapter, significantly lower than many other UI sororities.

Mary Ellen Gillespie, UI Greek adviser, said Delta Zeta has seen a large membership decrease, which has the sorority's Oxford, Ohio-based national council concerned.

"It's been a gradual decline, not all of a sudden," she said. "The national council sent out representatives last

Kasich campaigns on UI campus, seeking 'energy'

■ Following conventional political wisdom, the Republican comes to the UI to find enthusiasm and staff.

By Steven Cook The Daily Iowan

Politicians need a virtual army of volunteers to help their campaigns by stuffing envelopes, making phone calls and organizing events.

And one of the best places to find that army, says UI political science Professor Peverill Squire, is on college campuses.

That's what potential presidential candidates from Bill Bradley to Elizabeth Dole have been doing in preparation for the first-in-the-nation Iowa caucuses in February 2000: going where the students are to find future staff and to generate enthusiasm. More than 100 people, including many students, listened to Rep. John Kasich, a Republican presidential hopeful, speak at Quinton's Deli, 215 E. Washington St., on May 7. A Quinton's employee said the crowd was a little larger than what the deli normally has on a Friday.

The stop, billed as a "pre-finals get-together," came complete with a live band. The 46-year-old Kasich first jokingly admonished the band for not playing any Pearl Jam or Radiohead, something that brought scattered approval from deli patrons. Kasich then said that as president, he would turn Washington "upside down."

"If he wants to get through to college kids, this is the way to do it," UI junior Nina Deka said, as Kasich toured the deli, shaking hands and asking students about classes and their futures. "Why not show up where (students) are instead of making them go where they

The UI Parents' Association has granted the Women's Resource and Action Center $7,500 to fund the salary of the Safewalk coordinator. In the wake of a large budget cut by the UI Student Government, organizers of the student safety program had feared it would not be able to run next fall.

The UISG allocated $7,600 for the program next year, a $7,400 reduction from this year's budget. The reason for the cuts, said Tom Chiesa, chairman of the UISG Student Assembly Budgeting and Auditing Committee, was that the program could not justify paying the $11,000 annual salary for a part-time coordinator. Also, the program has not been heavily used; last year, 33 people used it,

STATE BRIEFS

Conservatives face daunting challenge

DES MOINES (AP) - Social and religious conservatives face one of their most daunting challenges in years as the presidential campaign takes shape.

Since the mid-1980s, their role in Republican politics has been on the unquestioned rise, but a serious debate has been launched in GOP circles.

Nationally, Republicans lost the White House in 1996 for the second time in a row. And in 1998, they lost lowa's governor's office for the first time in 30 years.

That's sparked a big debate in Republican circles about what went wrong. Some say the party, nudged by social conservatives, simply moved out of the mainstream and turned off moderate voters.

They point to exit polls showing Gov. Tom Vilsack carrying 60 percent of those voters who consider themselves moderates as evidence.

Social conservatives reject that argument, and say Republicans lost those prizes precisely because they didn't work hard enough to fire up their base. They see GOP standardbearers as being too weak on issues that energize social conservatives.

That debate isn't settled, but the fact that it's being waged at all is telling. The influence of conservatives - particularly on the party machinery — has been assumed to be so strong that a challenge was considered unthinkable only a few years ago.

Dole faults Clinton tactics in air campaign

DES MOINES (AP) — The Clinton administration has made fundamental strategic and tactical blunders in the Balkan bombing effort and those mistakes are fair game in the presidential campaign, Elizabeth Dole said on May 8.

Dole said the effort is being run largely by politicians and not soldiers, and they have made errors in targeting, intensity and focus.

"I think they could, in terms of the air war, have done a lot more a lot more quickly," Dole said in an interview with the Associated Press. "I just think the politicians have been driving it to a great extent. The military should be given its free hand."

Dole, former head of the American Red Cross, traveled to the Balkans and came back talking tough, arguing that NATO forces should do whatever is needed to win.

In her latest campaign swing, Dole is broadening that argument by complaining about Clinton's conduct of

She noted that at the beginning of the Gulf War allied, forces were flying 1,500 to 2,000 attack sorties a day. "We're not anywhere near that,' she said

In addition, she said NATO forces were tardy to target communications systems in the region.

A chartered bus on a Mother's Day trip flipped off a freeway Sunday.

By Janet McConnaughey Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS - A chartered bus carrying members of a seniors casino club on a Mother's Day gambling excursion ran off a highway Sunday morning and crashed, killing 23 people, authorities said.

Seventeen more were hospitalized, nine in critical or guarded condition, and three were released after emergency room treatment.

Mayor Marc Morial said it was the worst traffic accident in city history.

Gambling trip crash kills 23

The bodies were not all removed until the afternoon, four hours after the crash. "We have people on top of each other, crushed between twisted metal," police Officer Joe Narcisse said.

The bus, traveling eastbound on Interstate 610, swerved from the left lane off of the highway, then across a paved narrow path for golf carts that emerges from a tunnel next to the highway, crashing down one embankment and up the other.

It came to rest on a grassy area along the highway, which passes through a residential section of "This went through all these hoops, but for whatever reason it was not detected," the official said of the mistake. The Chinese Embassy is several hundred yards away from the Yugoslav government supply office.

Most of the target planning in the allied air campaign is done by NATO, the U.S. European Command and the Pentagon, with the CIA playing a smaller role, the official said. CIA officials are still reviewing their own published and clandestine sources to determine how they misidentified the embassy, the official said.

NATO offered further apologies Sunday for the bombing, but no further information about how the mistake occurred.

Meanwhile, Rep. Porter Goss, R-Fla., chairman of the House Intelligence Committee, said the bombing shows that America's intelligence capabilities are stretched too thin and that such mistakes will happen as a

The sorority took a vote in April to decide the chapter's future; a team for the national council also voted on the decision, Peavy said. National council representatives will come to the UI in a couple of weeks to begin reoganizing recruiting strategies.

tuted the plus/minus grading system about 10 years ago, he said. At the time, the UI feared grade-point averages would drop because people would be receiving an A- instead of an A, Anderson said, but one might argue that the opposite has hap-pened. Students have been getting more grades of A+ instead of an A. Frederick Antczak, UI associate dean, said grade inflation at the UI is present but minimal.

"Grade inflation is happening very marginally," he said. "It's way short of the rate of our currency's inflation."

Slightly more faculty, in combination with a greater number of small classes, might have a little impact on grade-point averages, Antczak said. Additionally, higher college admission requirements are likely affecting the grade-point averages, he added.

"One of the things that you need to take into account is that, in the early 1990s, the admission requirements for language, math and science went up," Antczak said. "By getting students who are all better prepared, what we did was tuck the tail under the curve, and push the grades up that way." The Associated Press contributed to this report.

Since then, said UI junior Chris Logli, president of UI Students for Bill Bradley, approximately 20 people have contacted him about getting involved in the Bradley campaign.

"Anytime you have student support, it's nothing but a positive," Logli said. "It's more than just leg work it's getting students involved in the campaign, especially on the university campus. We're trying to build a strong grass-roots campaign."

Mixed review of evaluations

The end of the semester brings many things — finals, graduation and the chance to evaluate instructors. While evaluating an instructor at the end of the semester may be appropriate, this kind of system has several disadvantages.

Maybe the biggest problem is that many students do not feel a responsibility to take evaluations seriously. After all, grades are often largely determined at this point, and many students would rather be spending evaluation time studying for finals.

Ideally, students should all want to help out those students who will follow them and their current instructors by providing constructive criticism of classes. But in the week before finals, this sometimes doesn't happen. It may be because of apathy toward a class or professor or competition with other students. And there's sometimes the feeling that, I suffered through this awful class, so the next person should have to as well.

As a result, evaluations often end up in the trash or are completed in two minutes of scribbling.

In order to increase the number of evaluations completed, some professors have even been known to resort to an unfair system in which a student cannot take a final without turning in an evaluation.

However, the UI can make sure that evaluations are taken more seriously by requiring instructors to distribute them in the middle of the semester.

The University's Examination and Evaluation Service does provide a midsemester evaluation form, but departments don't require their instructors to use it. Many instructors have also taken it upon themselves to create their own, more comprehensive evaluations in the middle of the semester.

Either way is better than what the UI does now. If departments and professors used evaluations throughout the semester, students could feel that comments could have a direct impact on their education and not just the education of those who come after them. Instructors can also receive compliments and criticism earlier in the semester, allowing them to put any necessary changes into practice immediately.

Many argue that a poor evaluation may affect an instructor's opinion of a student and, by extension, that student's grade. However, most instructors at the UI can surely be a little more objective than that. Besides, many instructors seem genuinely concerned about the quality of their teaching and would appreciate this kind of feedback instead of taking it personally.

Taking offense with political cartoon

To the Editor:

I was extremely upset by a recent political cartoon in The Daily Iowan ("I'm sure it's just a phase he's going through," May 5).

The Viewpoints staff utilized extremely poor judgment in selecting such an incredibly offensive cartoon.

The cartoon displayed a youth wearing a swastika-emblazoned T-shirt, carrying a book on how to make bombs in one hand and giving the Nazi "Heil Hitler" salute with his other hand. His parents are saying, "This is only a phase."

It is highly dangerous to make such a statement and completely indefensible on the part of the DI to print it.

The prevalence of Neo-Nazism and intolerance in America, particularly among our nation's youth, cannot be laughed off as a phase. In 1920s Germany, Hitler was laughed off as merely a phase. His phase resulted in the systematic murder of over 12 million people, six million of whom were Jews.

As a Jew, it is my responsibility to recognize and denounce such hatred, intolerance and ignorance in our society today. This includes Slobodan Milosevic's ruthless dictatorship in Yugoslavia as well as actions in our country, actions that hit as close to home as Littleton, Colo.

This political cartoon, as well as the public sentiments it no doubt echoes, must be taken seriously. This cartoon was not funny or even the slightest bit humorous. It was frightening and offensive, and the DI should have had the elementary judgment necessary to recognize this before it hit their presses and appeared on my doorstep.

"I'm already your teacher and surrogate parent . . . now I'm supposed to be your shrink as well?"

If only endorsements were needed

OR several agonizing months now, I have been agonizing over the agonizing question of whether I should run for president.

If I had to describe this agonizing process in one word, that word would be: "hard."

I have wrestled with many agonizing questions, such as: Do I have any views? If so, what are they? Can I stand harsh media scrutiny? What if Bob Woodward of the Washington Post starts poking around in my past and finds out about certain incidents that I would rather not see rehashed, such as the 1961 explosion, never fully explained, of a boys'-room toilet at Harold C. Crittenden Junior High School?

And of course the most agonizing question is: Why, really, do I WANT to be president? Is it just so that I can have a limousine and a helicopter and a big plane and a huge staff of boot-licking lackeys waiting on me hand and foot?'

Yes. So that really wasn't so agonizing. But before I made my final decision, I wanted to find out what a panel of distinguished Americans thought. So, as I reported to you two months ago, I formed an Exploratory Committee, consisting of (I am not making this committee up): Robert Goulet, the famous actor and singer; Stanley Krugman, my dentist; Heloise, who writes "Hints from Heloise"; the Delaware Destroyers, who are the band behind George Thorogood; and Adam Duritz, lead singer for Counting Crows, who was chosen for the committee on the basis that my campaign staff, Judi

Smith, thinks he's cute.

I sent these distinguished Americans a letter asking them whether I should run. I heard back almost immediately from Robert Goulet, who said he was 100 percent in favor of it unless I wanted money. I then heard from Heloise, who wrote, "Here's a hint: Go for it!"

Next I heard from Jeff Simon, the drummer for the Delaware Destroyers, whose letter did not specifically address the issue of my candidacy, but did invite me to join the band live onstage and play the maracas on the song "Double Shot of My Baby's Love." I never heard back from Adam Duritz, so I amalso putting him down in the "yes" column.

DAVE

The only dissenting voice on my Exploratory Committee came from Stanley Krugman, who opposes my running for president on the grounds that, as he wrote in his letter to me, "you might start brushing your teeth, which could accentuate your gum problems." This is exactly the same chilling warning that Abraham Lincoln's dentist gave to him when he was deciding whether to run for president. And just as Lincoln courageously decided to run anyway — and wound up paying the supreme price (root canal) — so, too, have I decided to "throw my hat into the ring."

What was the deciding factor in my decision? I can answer that in one word: "Dan Quayle." When Dan announced his decision to run, my reaction was — and this is a verbatim quote — "Whoa." Because as a professional in the field of humor, I cannot resist the challenge of taking on the best there is, mano a mano (or, as Dan would put it, manoe a manoe).

Of course there are other solid candidates in the race, including the heavy Democratic favorite, Al Gore. Al stumbled a few months ago when he made a much-ridiculed speech in which he claimed credit for inventing the Internet. But he rebounded nicely when his staff issued a statement explaining that the vice presi-

And let's not overlook Elizabeth Dole. She is likely to gain rapidly in popularity as the voters realize that, if she were elected, she would be in a unique position, as our first woman president, to make her husband stop discussing erectile dysfunction on TV.

So the competition is plenty stiff. (Ha ha!)
But I am entering this race to win. As a symbol of my commitment, my dedication and — I am not ashamed to admit it — my old-fashioned patriotism, I have taken the ultimate step: I have a Web site, located at http://www.herald.com/davebarry/. If you have a computer (which was invented by Lamar Alexander) you can go to this site and see my positions on the issues, as well as a photograph of me with my arm inside the stomach of a living cow.

So I say to you, the voters: Join me, so we can build an America in which ALL people—not just the privileged elite—are working together to supply me with contributions. And I say to you, members of the news media: Go ahead and investigate my past; I have no fear of you, because I have a clear conscience, and photographs of Bob Woodward with an otter. Finally, I say to Adam Duritz: How come you never write or call? Judi is standing by Thank you and good night.

RIENDS, readers, countrymen, lend me your ears. Semester's end looms nigh, and I need your help. You've all heard me go on about my fabulous household — our parties, our travels, our propensity for spontaneous nakedness and our brilliant talking cat, Smith.

I've written my house (and the three hunks I live with) into this column at least a half-dozen times, and I'm sure the greater Iowa City area knows all about us. Indeed, our house is a castle — a bastion of fellowship and good cheer.

But something's come up. One of us is leaving and taking with him a quarter of our collective soul. Boy's gonna go to Philadelphia and become an orthopedic surgeon. Gonna rebuild the shattered knees of NFL linebackers and stuff.

Of course, as his departure nears, my heart is breaking by degrees, and my mind is full of troublesome thoughts: How will we do without him? Who will saturate the house with exotic cologne? What will I tell Smith? And not least of our concerns — who will take his place in The House? That's where you readers come in.

Hear me now, Iowa City! The remaining three occupants of 704 E. Jefferson St. are scouring the city for a worthy replacement to take up residency in The House on Aug. 1. Maybe you or someone you know is the perfect candidate. Let me illustrate what we're looking for, and there are negotiable points, of course: Gender doesn't matter. — whatever. Now, after our boy leaves, it's two guys, me and a feisty cat, so consider that if you're a girl who is alarmed by the sight of the exposed male member or a guy whose heart quails at the sight of a tampon box in the medicine cupboard.

We also don't mind if you're not a student.

Two of us will have graduated by summer's end, and I'm still chipping away at the academic monolith, so that's fine. Just no burnt-out philosophy majors or seminary drop-outs, 'kay? We don't care if you're gay, straight or into livestock and rubber hipwaders. We've always found naughtiness interesting — ask around. And then there are a few slightly less flexible criteria we've come up with:

None of us smokes with any regularity, and we Febreeze the hell out of anything smelling remotely of cigarettes. However, it would be remiss not to mention that I do smoke cigars occasionally.

Smith, though affectionate and wellbehaved, is a cat, and cats produce cat-dander, which makes some people itchy and miserable. Smith is also protective of her space and would probably kill and devour any small animal who dared invade her domain. It would seem that we are a one-pet house.

It would seem that we are a one-pet house. It should also be noted that except for the odd fatigue 'n' stress-induced conniption fit, we are all stable, sane, rational people who have no use for controlled substances of any kind (prescription or otherwise) aside from tasty cocktails, which we have been known to

FILM REVIEW By Gene Stupnitsky

"Election" is a film of uncommon intelligence. Like many recent films, it is a comedy set in high school, but it's more than just the latest highschool comedy. It deals with a student body election, but it's not really about a student body election.

Tracy Flick (Reese Witherspoon) is running for student body president with an almost satanic single-mindedness. She's an overachiever's overachiever and is running unopposed. Enter Jim McAllister (Matthew Broderick), everyone's favorite high school teacher, who teaches history and ethics and has won teacher of the year thrice in his 12 years at George Washington Carver High School. McAllister doesn't like Tracy, so he against her in the election. His choice is Paul Metzler (Chris Klein) the school's star quarterback who is out for the season with a broken leg. Metzler is one the of the best-loved and most-sincere students at Carver, but he is not intelligent and is hilariously unqualified for the job.

His naïveté is a nice counterpoint to Tracy's unrelenting machine (he describes her as "super nice"). Then a third party candidate comes into the fold: Paul's lesbian sister, Tammy, whose slogan is "Who Cares?" and is only in the election as revenge for her "girlfriend" leaving her for Paul.

Meanwhile, McAllister who is unable to remain a spectator, begins to harbor sexual fantasies about Tracy even as he works to orchestrate her downfall. "Election" is a dark, insidiously funny satire on the self-involved ways otherwise rational people can allow narrow personal agendas to lead them astray to the point of self-destruction. "Election" is a first cousin to

"Rushmore" - smart, sophisticated, original films that even critical acclaim can't push to more than mediocre box-office dollars.

A film like this is very dependent on the casting, and director Alexan-

Witherspoon and Broderick. Broderick will probably get more mileage out of his role as Inspector Gadget later in the summer, but this will be better received. Ferris Bueller is growing grey around the temples; and in fact, Bueller's blue Chicago skies have been replaced by Omaha's ominous clouds in "Election.

Unlike most films, Payne's film demands a level of intelligence and maturity from the audience. This sophisticated morality tale is deliciously malevolent, cutting down students, teachers and administrators all with equal zeal. Yet, Payne is not above his characters - he engages our sympathy with them in the most unexpected places; the visual look of the film is skewed and stylized and is keeps the audience off-guard.

Even more effective is Payne's use of that old literary device, the "unreliable narrator," as counterpoint to his direction. McAllister, Tracy, Paul and Tammy each take turns explaining their take on the events of the film, each one mouthing words that don't quite match his or her actions.

McAllister describes his personal and professional contentment as he sifts through a trunk of pornography. Sexually confused Tammy explains

'The Mummy' creeps to No. 1 at box office

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Defying analysts, critics and The Force, "The Mummy" bagged this year's biggest opening weekend at the box office with $44.6 million to kick off the blockbuster movie season.

Sometimes the most amazing medical discoveries begin with the simplest of questions.

A researcher thinks, "What if?" A nurse asks, "Why not?" A doctor wonders, "Is it possible?" And suddenly minds open to new ideas, more advanced treatments, better ways of caring.

Like finding more effective medicines and surgical techniques to help couples like Lori and Ken Smith of Mason City become parents.

Or using an improved method of replacing wrist joints damaged by rheumatoid arthritis.

Or introducing the use of a new technology to help profoundly deaf people hear.

Many times these breakthroughs begin with research at the University of Iowa College of Medicine. Add to that the advanced technology and medical expertise of the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics, and the special way we care for patients.

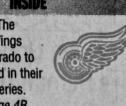

Together, we are changing medicine. And most importantly, changing lives for the better all over Iowa and all around the world.

Mattiace leads Iowa to sweep

■ The lowa baseball team swept a three-game series against Rockhurst over the weekend.

By Greg Wallace The Daily Iowan

Saturday was Seniors Day at the Iowa baseball field, but as usual, underclassmen stole the show. In game one of a doubleheader, freshman Ian Mattiace singled home the winning run in the bottom of the seventh to defeat Rockhurst College, 2-1. And in game two, junior David Kot closed the door on the Hawks, getting Iowa out of a bases-loaded jam and saving a 9-8 win and a sweep of the three-game series for Iowa. Mattiace starred again, going 3 for 3 and finishing a home run short of hitting for the cycle. Iowa's record improved to 21-31.

"When you sit back and think about it, you realize it's nice to get those seniors three wins, and send them out in nice style," Mattiace said.

It's not as if the seniors just sat back and let the freshmen do all the work, however. Senior pitcher Matt Sawvell, who entered game two with only 1 2/3 innings pitched all year and a 10.20 ERA, pitched 2 1/3 innings, striking out three and giving up only two runs to get his first career win in his last home game as a Hawkeye.

"It's special," Sawvell said of his win. "But I wasn't even thinking about it until the guys on the bench got up and said, 'Hey, you're going to get the win."

Fellow senior Wes Obermueller was equally impressive in game one Saturday. With a crowd of scouts See BASEBALL, Page 2B

HAWKEYE TRACK AND FIELD CLASSIC

A tale of two teams

Suspensions, finals take wind out of women

By Todd Hefferman The Daily Iowan

After putting up 10 season-best performances at last weekend's Iowa Twilight Invitational, the Iowa women's track and field team's showing Saturday was similar to the weather - cloudy and gray.

On a cold, overcast and breezy day at Cretzmeyer Track, the Hawkeyes made as much noise by who was absent from the meet as who was there. Sophomore Carissa Hoeman and junior Colleen Prendergast were both forced to sit out Saturday's meet for violating team rules.

the specifics of their violations, but said that both would compete at the last meet of the year, the Big Ten Championships, May 21-23 in West Lafayette, Ind.

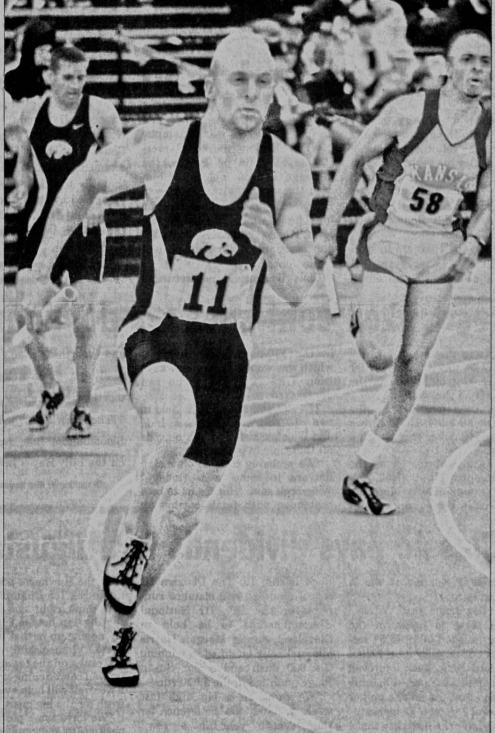

The Hawkeyes didn't run either of the relays (4x100 and 4x400) at the last tuneup of the regular season, which was partly due to Prendergast's absence. Prendergast broke the school record in the 100-meter hurdles and helped the 4x100 team run its best time of the season at the Twilight Invitational.

The combination of the opening of finals week, the absence of Hoeman and Prendergast and the weather seemed to take the wind out of the Hawkeye sails in some events Saturday.

"With the weather and everything that's going on with the team, I didn't feel good at all during the meet," junior Lakeya Boatright said. "Sometimes when you don't have that extra motivation, it's hard. With Colleen, Carrie gone, it's hard. Mentally I'm ready to go, though, the Big Ten list is just a list. I'm ready to bring home some hardware.'

Boatright ran a season-best time in the 100 dash despite the concerns off the track, winning in 12.17 seconds. Seniors Paula Ruen and Coretta Clarke finished right behind her in second and third place, respectively. Boatright later won the 200 dash.

Tim Dwight competes in the 4x400 Saturday at the Hawkeye Classic. Earlier in the day, Dwight was edged out by Tony Branch in the 100-meter dash and Tim Dodge in the 200.

Men shine in tune-up for Big Tens

After last week's stunning effort at the Twilight Invitational, the Iowa men's track and field squad turned in numerous outstanding performances at the Hawkeye Classic at Cretzmeyer Track on Saturday.

"I think we did some good things," Iowa coach Larry Wieczorek said. "We had little bits and pieces that looked good."

Tony Branch and the sprinters, along with throwers Arno van der Westhuizen and Jeremy Allen, had plenty to be happy Branch edged out Tim Dwight in the 100-meter dash in what turned out to be one of the most exciting events of the day. Branch finished in 10.42 seconds, followed by Dwight at 10.43. Kurt Felix came in at 10.61 to complete the sweep for the Hawkeyes. "I was having fun," Branch said. "In the middle of the race, I thought I was alone and I thought I could pull away, but he (Dwight) kept hanging."

Branch and Dwight went at it again in the 200-meter dash, but it was senior Bashir Yamini who took the crown. Yamini's time of 21.62 - against the wind - held off Dwight and Branch down the stretch. Dwight finished at 21.82, and

Branch at 21.87. "Tim Dwight had a great workout today," Wieczorek said. "He did a lot of running and I think that will help him in two weeks (at the Big Ten Championships)."

In the 400-meter dash, Tim Dodge destroyed the field, winning easily at 47.42. Dodge led from the start and never looked back.

"It felt real well," Dodge said. "Coach told me to work on the first 200 meters of it to get out real fast. It was a little windy, but I'm really happy.

"I just kept hoping that no one would

Hawkeyes clinch, then deliver loud message

■ The softball team clinched a spot in next weekend's Big Ten Tournament by defeating Michigan State.

By Tony Wirt The Daily Iowan

After dropping the first game of a three-game set against the Michigan State Spartans 8-5 on Saturday, Iowa's 5-3 win in game two clinched a spot in the Big Ten Tournament next week.

In Sunday's game three, the Hawkeyes took the opportunity to send a message to the Spartans, who they will play in the opening round. The tournament will be held in Ann

The Hawkeyes chased Michigan State's top two pitchers off the mound in a five-inning, 10-0 romp.

"This shows that we can come out and put a lot of pressure on a team," freshman Kristi Hanks said. "It shows we can hit all three of their pitchers, and it's good for us because our defense, hitting and pitching all worked today."

After looking a little shaky in the first inning of Sunday's game, the Hawkeyes went off in the bottom of the second, sending 11 batters to the plate. Iowa scored six runs in the inning, all with two outs.

Senior Tammy Utley started things off with a rocket that hit the top of the left field wall.

"It felt good off the bat, but I wasn't sure if it was out," Utley said. "It would have been nice if it was out, but Utley finished up her career at the Hawkeye Softball Complex by going 2 for 3 with a double and an RBI. Senior Shawnte Vallejo also stepped on her home diamond for the last time Sunday. She was 0 for 2, with a walk and a run scored.

"It was a little emotional," Utley said. "But I know we still have games left, so that helps. We took care of things this weekend so we get to come back and play next weekend (in the Big Ten Tournament).'

In the bottom of the fourth, Iowa used four hits to bring home four more runs and take a 10-run lead. Hanks then shut the Spartans down in the fifth to end the game.

"It was a great slugfest for us," Hanks said. "It was good to see the team come together and hit like that. It's fun out there when you've got that support. There's no pressure.'

On Saturday, Michigan State took its turn pounding the ball. The Spartans used two swings - a third-inning, two-run home run by did last week, but I consecutively improved," Beck said. "Winning is just a bonus, but I'm pleased with the distance.' Saturday's meet was extremely eventful for Augustana College of Rock Island, Ill. The Division III school qualified two distance runners for the Div. III National Championships to be held in Cleveland. Junior Maegan Harris automatically qualified in winning the 800 dash and senior Susan Paige qualified in the 3,000 run.

"We came off a big high last week, winning the conference for the seventh year in a row," Augustana coach Fred Whiteside said. "Last week we were running to win, this week we were running for great performances, and we got Saturday was not as kind to Brian Mitchell, however. After singling in the bottom of the first inning of game one, the senior second baseman re-aggravated a hamstring injury and did not return.

"Somebody that works as hard as he does, but has a couple nagging injuries that he just can't get over, it's too bad," Iowa coach Scott Broghamer said. When Kot induced a Bill Grimes the team. All of them were honored in a ceremony held between games of Saturday's doubleheader. "It was a nice way to send those guys out on a good note, and give us a little momentum heading into (next week's series against) Northwestern," Broghamer said.

Iowa began the weekend Friday with a 7-5 win, using two Alex Dvorsky home runs and a complete game from staff ace Jim Magrane to pluck the Hawks' feathers. Magrane gave up four runs in the first three innings of the game, but catcher Mitch Thiel, who is leaving only one more the rest of the way.

He improved his record to 6-3. "I just settled down and tried not to think about (the deficit)," Magrane said. "I knew if I located better, I'd get better results." "I think the big thing today was that I was working the count, so I got those hitter's counts, and I sat on fastballs and I was dead red, right on," Dvorsky said of his power surge. Iowa will close out its season

Carrie Fry and a fifth-inning grand slam from Amanda Melton — to build an insurmountable lead.

Not about to roll over and play dead, the Hawkeyes did their best to chip away at the eight-run lead, but fell just short, falling 8-5.

"I thought we played a good first game," Iowa coach Gayle Blevins said. "Obviously they were on our pitching because they hit us hard, but I give our kids a lot of credit for not quitting. They showed a lot of heart in that first game."

In game two, the Spartans looked poised to win again, but the Hawkeye bats came back again, and this time they succeeded.

Down 3-0, Iowa got runs in the fifth and sixth innings to bring the game within one. Then in the seventh, the Hawkeyes tied the game with three consecutive singles, then took a 5-3 lead on a two-run double by Hanks.

Hanks sent the Spartans down 1-2-3 in the bottom of the seventh, giving Iowa the win.

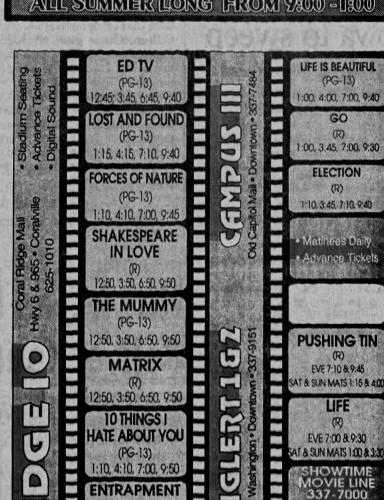

Iowa had to play the series without starting pitcher Kelly Zeilstra, who is out with a hairline fracture in her non-pitching arm. Zeilstra originally injured the arm in the Michigan series two weeks ago, but only recently had it diagnosed.

Her status for this weekend's Big Ten Tournament is unknown, but the coaching staff is hoping to have her available.

"It's not a stress fracture, but it is similar in effect," Blevins said. "A lot of it is finding out what she can tolerate in terms of the Big Ten Tournament."

And with good reason - the Lakers finished the season ranked 25th in the NBA in scoring defense, ahead of only four teams. These days, though, the Lakers are pointing to defense as their No. 1 strength. And it showed Sunday. Two clutch defensive plays - a block by O'Neal and a pounce by Derek Fisher — lifted the Lakers to a 101-100 victory over the Houston Rockets to open the playoffs. O'Neal blocked rookie Cuttino Mobley's layup attempt from behind at the final buzzer, and Fisher had 20 points, six assists, three steals and one crucial recovery of a loose ball that set up the winning points.

"We've done about everything. And I think that regardless of what you do, he's going to get 25 points ... He's really a genius with the basketball," Daly said.

George Lynch had 15 points and 12 rebounds for the 76ers, who won two of three regular-season meetings against Orlando, which at 21-4 had the best home record in the Eastern Conference this year.

The Magic shot only 34 percent from the field in the first two quarters, yet trailed just 50-47 at the half because they outscored the 76ers 23-6 from the foul line while attempting 31 free throws to Philadelphia's 13.

In three regular-season games against Orlando, Iverson averaged nearly 23 points a game. The Magic held him to 16 points in one game and 14 in another, although cold shooting probably was as much of a factor as Orlando's defense.

The 76ers star set the tone early with 11 first-quarter points and two assists, including a lob to Larry Hughes that the Philadelphia rookie caught up to on the baseline for a highlight-reel dunk and a 31-22 lead.

Golfers take 8th at Michigan

By Eric Petersen The Daily Iowan

The Iowa men's golf team looks to be gaining some momentum going into this weekend's Big Ten Champi-onships after finishing tied for eighth at last weekend's Wolverine Invitational.

The Hawkeyes ended up in a tie with host school Michigan, posting a team score of 892, in a field of 18 schools.

"We finally had all four guys playing decent," Anderson said. "We're peaking at the right time."

The conference champi-onships will be held May 14-16 at the University of Minnesota.

Junior Adam Turner led Iowa for the second straight week, finishing tied for 17th with a 54-hole score of 220. Lone Iowa senior Chris Englund had his best performance of the spring, shooting a 222, good for a share of 27th place.

The Hawkeyes other competitors were: sophomores Matt Stutzman (T32nd, 224) and Jason Wombacher (T42nd, 226), and freshman Ian Brendel (T66th, 230).

Minnesota won the tournament, finishing eleven-underpar with a score of 849. Gopher James McLean took the individual title, shooting a tournament record score of 202, including a course-record 63 in the second round.

DENVER - On his 34th birthday, Steve Yzerman lit two candles at the expense of Colorado goaltender Patrick Roy.

Yzerman scored two goals and Bill Ranford gained his fourth career playoff shutout as the Detroit Red Wings beat Colorado 4-0 on Sunday to take a 2-0 series Games 3 and 4 of the Western Conference semifinal are scheduled for Detroit on Tuesday and "I have spent better birthdays," Yzerman said teasingly, "but I won't tell you what happened. It wasn't with a bunch of sports reporters."

In a game featuring the sort of fierce hitting that has come to define this rivalry, the Red Wings stayed unbeaten in these playoffs. They registered their sixth straight playoff victory and 11th straight since last year's postseason.

Detroit, seeking a third consecutive Stanley Cup title, gave coach Scotty Bowman his 200th career playoff win - extending his NHL record.

the playoffs to equal a career high. Nicklas Lidstrom and Wendel Clark added power-play goals in the final period.

Ranford, the 1990 NHL playoff MVP with Edmonton, started his second straight game in goal in place of the injured Chris Osgood, who is out with a sprained right knee. He had 28 saves, preserving his shutout with a diving save to rob Peter Forsberg late in the first period and with back-to-back stops on Theo Fleury and Sylvain Lefeb vre in the third.

Yzerman chided the media for dismissing Ranford, a late-season acquisition from Tampa Bay.

"You've got to remember that this guy has won a couple of Cups," Yzerman said. "He is a Conn Smythe winner. Just because he hasn't been in the playoffs in a couple of years, you guys sound like you are amazed. He is a great, quality goaltender."

Ranford insisted he was "lucky. The guys played unbelievably in front of me. There were times when I didn't see the puck, and they were able to block it out for me. That first power-play goal we got in the third period took the

the only time I've thought about it. I worry more about the 111 losses." Yzerman, the Red Wings' capa tain, scored in each of the first two periods, giving him eight goals in wind out of their sails."

Orioles snag win in Tiger Stadium

DETROIT (AP) - It figured Scott Erickson would right himself in Tiger Stadium.

Erickson pitched a five-hit shutout to end a career-worst fivegame losing streak as the Baltimore Orioles beat the Detroit Tigers 5-0 Sunday.

"It took a while, unfortunately," Erickson said. "It's been a struggle to get here. I've been working hard and it finally paid off. I finally threw some strikes.'

Charles Johnson homered for the third straight game and Brady Anderson and Harold Baines also connected for the Orioles, who took two of three at Detroit to win their third straight series after losing their first seven.

Erickson (1-5) raised his career record against Detroit to 15-3, including 9-2 at Tiger Stadium. He won for the first time since last Sept. 26 at Boston.
"Mechanically speaking, I was just a little bit more sound today," Erickson said. "I've been struggling really bad, falling off, not driving it home, all sorts of different things. Today I somewhat put it back together. Erickson had five walks, including three that loaded the bases in the first inning. But he got out of that jam and was never seriously threatened again. "He had 25 pitches in the first and ends up with a shutout and 111 pitches," Orioles manager Ray

The shutout, the 14th of Erickson's career, was the Orioles' first complete game this season. Baltimore has won six of seven after a 4-14 start.

Yankees 6, Mariners 1

NEW YORK - Replacing ailing Ramiro Mendoza, Mike Stanton made his first professional start since 1990 at Double-A and allowed two hits in four scoreless innings.

Franco wins first PGA Tour event

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Carlos Franco, who learned to play golf barefoot and with borrowed clubs in Paraguay, shot a final-round 6-under-par 66 Sunday for his first win on the PGA Tour, a two-shot victory in the $2.6 million Compag Classic.

Franco, who made his first national impression holding a brief first-round lead in the Masters, finished with a 19under 269 to beat Harrison Frazar and Steve Flesch and take home the winner's prize of $468,000. That's quite an accomplishment for the 33-year-old Franco, who grew up in poverty so humbling his family of nine shared food while sitting on the dirt floor of a one-room shack.

Eric Booker, Craig Barlow and Dennis Paulson all finished at 15-under 273.

Franco offset his only bogey of the day with seven birdies. He was one of three players to shoot 6-under 66s Sunday The best round of the day was Robert Allenby's 64.

Irwin wins Nationwide with eagle on No.18

ALPHARETTA, Ga. — Hale Irwin had come close to winning the Nationwide Championship on several occasions. On Sunday, he finished the job. And, he did it dramatically, in capturing his first tournament of 1999. Irwin, the Senior PGA Tour player of the year the past two seasons, ended his six-month drought by knocking in an eagle on No. 18 to win the Nationwide Championship by two strokes over Bob

It came on a difficult course where he had finished second in three of the last four years and third in 1996.

"I really like it," Irwin said. "You never have an easy shot. Basically, I think that's one of the reasons I play so well here. "I respond to this course. It's not just ho-hum, hit a driver and hit it again. On this course, you really have to be careful where you put your shots," he said. Irwin, who had won 16 times in 1997-

98, shot a 69 for a 10-under-par 206 to edge Murphy, who shot a final round 68 over the par 72, 6,885-yard Golf Club of Georgia course.

Sapphire Ring wins Wilshire Handicap

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Sapphire Ring gained the lead past midstretch and pulled clear to win the $108,600 Wilshire Handicap by two lengths on-Sunday.

Sapphire Ring finished the mile race on turf in 1:33 4-5, breaking the stakes record of 1:34 set last year by Shake the Sapphire Ring settled in early, moved on the turn, caught the lead in the stretch and pulled clear under Hall of Fame jockey Gary Stevens.

Sapphire Ring, carrying 119 pounds, paid $7.40, $4.60 and $2.60. Secondplace Bell Chiarra returned $10.20 and $4.20. Green Jewel paid $2.80 to show.

The victory was the second in 15 starts for Sapphire Ring. The 4-year-old English-bred filly earned $65,160, increasing her career earnings to $275,102.

Three tied for lead in LPGA's Titleholders

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. - The Titleholders Championship, a tournament that almost didn't happen, has turned into one that might never end.

The third storm delay in as many days deprived the LPGA Tour of a rare netappearance and forced a Monday morning, back-nine shootout with Becky Iverson, Karrie Webb and Chris Johnson tied for the lead at 14-under.

Iverson started fourth round with a four-stroke lead over Annika Sorenstam but dropped two strokes under conditions that symbolized a bizarre final round. She had to hit a tee shot in the driving rain just before the start of a 3 1/2-hour storm delay and almost lost the club out of her hand, the ball landing in an awkward position left of the greenside bunker. Then she bogeyed her final hole. No. 10, after she and Sorenstam pleaded with a rules official to stop play because of the darkness.
