BOMBING - China broke off military ties and other contacts with the United States Monday and demanded that NATO apologize for its bombing of the Chinese Embassy in Belgrade. More than 130 protesters rallied at a courthouse in Coralville to draw back the attraction inflicted open the Chinese. Employees powers are pursuing us human rights, but they're not being tried, she said. "The United States should have apologized rather than claiming it's accidental and claims some lives."

Protest fails; "Dumb Bunny" stays in school

A popular children's book, and the absurd humor, was found to be harmless at a School Board meeting Monday.

An objection to building a concrete drain below the school was turned down at a Johnston City School Board meeting on Monday. More than 100 Johnston Elementary School parents and Johnston citizens turned out for the Johnston City School Board meeting Monday night.

Most people are concerned about the school's potential for expansion, but not everyone agrees. "As a Corvallis citizen, I'm aware of what can happen," said one Johnston graduate student.

A Johnston graduate student, Adam Cook, said, "I'm so furious about what happened, I can't believe it's just a mistake."

Power outage causes minor stress

By Jill Blimard

The University of Iowa Hospital and Clinics was hit hard by an electrical failure that affected about 6,200 MidAmerican Energy customers in the Iowa City area for nearly three hours, but no one was injured.

"It wasn't as severe as I thought it was going to be," said one caller who was watching the outage on TV.

However, because his heart patient had recently received the test, "I didn't hear the siren," he said.

The outage occurred at about 2:45 p.m. and went out Monday afternoon. A spokesman for MidAmerican Energy said the failure was caused by equipment not operating properly.

"There were quite a few blocks that had load shedding going on," he said. "The Iowa City Police Department sent in extra officers as a precautionary measure."

Children's author Shel Silverstein died at 66

The acclaimed writer and songwriter was found in his home Monday, apparently of a heart attack.

Associated Press

KEY WEST, Fla. — Shel Silverstein, the author of such books as "A Light in the Attic" and "Where the Sidewalk Ends," died Monday of a heart attack. He was 66.

Silverstein, who had been a fixture of the Key West art and writing community and had a reputation for wild and sometimes x-rated parties and songs, died in his sleep Monday morning, said friend and poet Richard Eicher.

The Chicago-born, New York-based Silverstein's body in the bedroom of his home Monday. Eicher said the cause of death was a heart attack.

Silverstein's book, which was illustrated with his own humorous images, is packed with critical sources, describes 'The Dumb Bunnies' as 'missing the necessary that ('The Dumb Bunnies') as 'missing the necessary that ('The Dumb Bunnies') as 'missing the necessary that ('The Dumb Bunnies') as 'missing the necessary that ('The Dumb Bunnies') as 'missing the necessary that ('The Dumb Bunnies') as 'missing the necessary that ('The Dumb Bunnies') as 'missing the necessary that ('The Dumb Bunnies') as 'missing the necessary that ('The Dumb Bunnies') as 'missing the necessary that

A few interviews are necessary to learn about hunting techniques in this area.

Burr Trail

In the Burr Trail area, there are several guidelines that must be followed by hunters. These guidelines are in place to ensure the sustainability of the wildlife population and to protect the habitat. Hunters are required to possess a valid hunting license and to follow specific regulations, such as seasonal hunting periods, size and sex limits, and bag limits. It is also important for hunters to avoid disturbing the wildlife and to respect private property. Violations of these guidelines can result in fines or other penalties.

Grand Staircase-Escalante National Monument

In the Grand Staircase-Escalante National Monument, there are strict guidelines for recreational activities, including hiking, biking, and off-road driving. Visitors are encouraged to follow a responsible recreation ethic and to avoid damaging the fragile ecosystem. Some areas within the monument are closed to the public, and visitors must obtain a permit to enter these areas. It is also important for visitors to stay on designated trails and to avoid creating additional trails or disturbing the wildlife.

Utah's Red Rock Country

In Utah's Red Rock Country, there are unique geological formations that are protected as a national monument. Visitors are encouraged to follow specific guidelines to minimize their impact on the environment. These guidelines include staying on designated trails, avoiding off-trail hiking, and minimizing the use of fire. It is also important for visitors to respect the natural beauty of the area and to avoid disrupting the wildlife.

Clinton urges end to youth violence

The president meets with school officials and encourages them to organize a campaign in the wake of Columbine.

By Rebecca Ashley

WASHINGTON - The FBI has finished its crime scene investigations of the shootings at Columbine High School in Littleton, Colorado. With 13 students and an adult staff member dead, investigators are trying to piece together the events that led to the shooting.

The FBI finished its investigation Monday after 22 days. That came after the Colorado school district's police chief said the work was done.

"The FBI has finished their work," Chief Matt D. Stumpf said.

Serbs announce drawback

Yugoslavia says it is withdrawing some of its forces, in line with NATO's demands.

The news also marked a change in the Serb government's position, which had previously said it would not withdraw its forces.

The announcement comes as NATO begins its bombing campaign against Yugoslavia, which has been described as a success by Western leaders.

The US government has welcomed the Serb announcement, saying it is a step towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict in Kosovo.

The bombing campaign is expected to continue for several more days, with NATO forces targeting military targets in Yugoslavia.

The Serb government has said it will continue to fight, and has accused NATO of using false information to justify its actions.

The situation remains tense, with reports of fighting and casualties on both sides.

U.S. companies lie low in China

Because of the protests over the bombing of the Chinese Embassy in Yugoslavia, many U.S. companies have decided not to make any public statements about the situation.

The Chinese government has accused the United States of being behind the attack on the embassy. The U.S. government has denied these allegations.

Several companies, including McDonald's and Kentucky Fried Chicken, have announced that they will not comment on the situation.

The Chinese government has also said that it will take legal action against any company that makes public statements that it believes are supportive of the U.S. government's actions.

The situation remains tense, and it is unclear how the protests will affect the U.S.-China relationship in the future.

Pavl Demitra's OT goal gave St. Louis a 3-2 win in a hard-fighting game against Dallas.

By B. E. Fedorowicz

ST. LOUIS — After a slow start in the playoffs, Pavol Demitra is in the St. Louis Blues' go-to guy. His knack for finding opportunities, even if it means creating them, has been essential to the Blues' success.

On Sunday, Demitra scored the game-winner in overtime to give the Blues a 3-2 victory over the Dallas Stars, securing a spot in the Western Conference finals.

The game-winning goal came off a pass from teammate Robert Lang, who set up Demitra in the middle of the ice. Demitra used his quick hands to control the puck and then fired a shot that squeezed past Stars goalie Marty Turco.

"It was a great pass from Robert Lang," said Demitra. "He put it right where I could get it, and I just had to shoot it. It was a great feeling to score the game-winner in overtime and help the team advance to the Western Conference finals."
