Calif. woman killed in I-80 Corvair crash

A 29-year-old woman was killed when a semi-truck crashed into her vehicle on Interstate 80 in northern California on Wednesday, according to the California Highway Patrol.

The identity of the victim has not yet been released, but the CHP said she was traveling in a single-vehicle accident on the westbound lanes of I-80 near the town of Oakley.

A three-car accident occurred on eastbound Interstate 80 near the town of Ione on Wednesday morning, with injuries reported. The accident involved a vehicle at the intersection of a Chevron station, Ruthanne Smith, 37, of Oakley, was transported to a hospital with minor injuries that caused no serious damage.

The accident slowed traffic on the freeway, which had re-opened by 9 a.m. with no serious injuries reported.

In addition, a truck driver was arrested at the scene for driving under the influence of alcohol.

The I-80 crash occurred at about 10 a.m. when a semi-truck struck the rear of another vehicle that was changing lanes.

The woman, who was driving the semi-truck, was transported to a hospital with life-threatening injuries and died at the hospital.

The CHP said the investigation is ongoing and no further details were available at this time.

The accident is the second deadly crash on I-80 in the past week.

On May 8, a 22-year-old man died when a single-vehicle accident occurred near the town of Tracy on the westbound side of the freeway.

The Iowa Board of Regents selected Karen Pieper, 16-year-old boy saticked for kidnapping a 3-month-old girl as the new superintendent of the Cedar Rapids School District.

Pieper is currently the director of the Cedar Rapids School District's Office of Student Support Services.

The Board of Regents announced its decision during a meeting held in the district's Boardroom on Thursday, May 12.

According to the Board's news release, Pieper was selected from a pool of over 100 applicants.

Pieper has served as the director of the Office of Student Support Services since 2015.

She has a strong background in education and has held various leadership positions at the district level.

Pieper has a Bachelor of Science degree in Education from The University of Iowa and a Master's degree in Educational Administration from the same institution.

She has received various awards and accolades for her work in the field of education.

The appointment is effective immediately and Pieper will begin her duties on July 1.

The Iowa Board of Regents made its decision following an extensive search process that included interviews with candidates and public input.

The search process was conducted by the firm Bowerman & Associates, which was hired by the board in January.

The Iowa Board of Regents is responsible for overseeing the management of the state's public school systems.

The district has been without a permanent superintendent since March 2016, when the previous superintendent, Tom Boas, retired.

The selection of Pieper comes as the district continues to work on a new strategic plan that includes goals for student achievement, equity, and community engagement.

Pieper has committed to working closely with the community to ensure that the plan is successful.

The Iowa Board of Regents praised Pieper for her leadership, experience, and passion for education.

"Karen Pieper is a dynamic leader with a proven track record of success," said Dr. Bruce Rastetter, chair of the Iowa Board of Regents.

"She has demonstrated her ability to work collaboratively with all stakeholders to create an environment that is focused on student success.

We look forward to partnering with her to advance the district's goals and objectives."

Some new concerns drastically changed the numbers posted by the CIA for the second month. While it is too early to say whether the CIA has adjusted its predictions for the previous two weeks, the CIA's most recent assessment of the bomb attack focused on the Howard's study despite its own study, which showed that the CIA's prediction was off. While it is not clear if the CIA's prediction was wrong, it is clear that the CIA's prediction was not accurate.

In the spirit of Duke

By Winton Marsalis and the Lincoln Center Jazz Orchestra playing Ellington on the tube.

By Mary Campbell

NEW YORK — "Duke Ellington is the most important man in jazz," Winton Marsalis, artistic director of Lincoln Center Jazz, told the New York Times recently. "He's the most significant person who ever lived in jazz."

Ellington — pianist, bandleader and composer — remained at the helm of the Duke Ellington Orchestra, which is led by Joel Frahm, until his death in 1974. The orchestra, under the direction of Danny Barker, toured the world and recorded extensively. Frahm, who is now the bandleader, is known for his dedication to preserving the legacy of Duke Ellington and his music.

The Lincoln Center Jazz Orchestra, under the direction of Marsalis, has performed Ellington's music extensively. The orchestra has performed at the Lincoln Center for the Performing Arts, in New York City, and has toured internationally. The orchestra's performances have received critical acclaim and have been praised for their fidelity to the music of Duke Ellington.

Ellington's music is characterized by its complex harmonies, its use of the blues, and its incorporation of elements of African American folk music. The orchestra's performances often feature soloists who are celebrated for their interpretations of Ellington's music, such as the saxophonist James Galway, who has performed with the orchestra on several occasions.

The Lincoln Center Jazz Orchestra's performances of Ellington's music are a testament to the enduring legacy of Duke Ellington and his contributions to the world of jazz. The orchestra's dedication to preserving and performing Ellington's music is a testament to the importance of his work and his influence on the music world.

In conclusion, the Lincoln Center Jazz Orchestra's performances of Ellington's music are a fitting tribute to the legacy of Duke Ellington and his contributions to the world of jazz. The orchestra's dedication to preserving and performing Ellington's music is a testament to the importance of his work and his influence on the music world.
Women break into pecking order of mascot institution

The UI was looking for a few good men to become Iowa's mascots, Herky the burgundy-clad pig with the NCAA law, not to mention a dangerous precedent for all of Jonathan Kozol's lecture, that students in the South Bronx are the $6,000 sbhools. None of this, of course, quite panned the women — the first ever — to portray the mascot. Nelson Mandela looks homeward

The South African president's brother says the 80-year-old leader is set to welcome him as his retirement aide.

By Pete Yost

WASHINGTON - Nelson Mandela's younger brother, Mzekuzile Mandela, says he, too, is training for the moment when his famous sibling steps aside.

"I've been preparing for a long time to be with him," said Mandla Mandela, who now runs the South African theater company Two Oceans, where he is artistic director.

Mandla Mandela, 55, spoke at a news conference Thursday where he was joined by Bill Clinton and Chung Ju-yung, the new chairman and CEO of Hyundai Daimler Chrysler.

"It's critical that we guard our secrets with a secure door," he said. "This is the time to be prepared and secure in our minds as to what will happen after Mandela leaves us.

"We want to be able to hand over power in a systematic way that will not disrupt our country."

The event was sponsored by the Energy Department, which is trying to accelerate the process of declassifying government secrets.

"It will be a bittersweet day for many of us," said Mandla Mandela.

"We want to be able to hand over power in a systematic way that will not disrupt our country."

Mandla Mandela said he had received a call from an official of the South African government two weeks ago, telling him that "he is coming.

Range won't be a Hawkeyes next season

By Megan Martell

The Daily Iowan

WASHINGTON—Joey Range played college basketball last year for the University of Maine, but the incoming recruiting class by coach Jim Zalesky isn't the same as last year. Range isn't projected with the same expectations as last season when Range was limited to five points in the first half and wound up missing 19 of 20 shots.

Now with the Magic, Range has turned the corner.

"He was limited to five points in the first half and wound up missing 19 of 20 shots," Zalesky said. "But in the second half, he was on fire."

Range scored 30 points in the second half and wound up scoring a team-high 34 points in Orlando's 92-85 victory over Philadelphia on Tuesday night.

Zalesky inks two recruits

By Tony Wirt

The Daily Iowan

IOWA CITY—Iowa basketball coach Tom Zalesky has added a dual-guard tandem to his incoming recruiting class by signing two 20-year-old, 6-foot-4 guards from Hawaii.

The brothers were both state champions last year and should solidify Iowa's upper crust.

Looking to return to his home state for the first time in his career, Zalesky said, "That's what we're hoping."

Penguins may be portland-bound

BY JEFFREY BAR

PITTSBURGH — Pittsburgh Tribune-Telegram is officially declaring it a war against the Penguins. The Penguins have lost their NHL franchise, and the Tribune-Telegram has declared it a war against the Penguins.

The Tribune-Telegram has already begun publishing stories about the Penguins' financial difficulties and their impending departure from the city. The newspaper has also begun running editorials calling for the Penguins to be relocated to Portland.

"We believe in Portland," the newspaper's editorial page declared. "We believe it's time for the Penguins to come to Portland and leave Pittsburgh behind."
Despite ban, Pete Rose still making some noise

Baseball’s all-time hits leader said he spoke with minor league managers about his intentions.

Reds officials deny his story.

By Joe Kay

CINCINNATI — Pete Rose’s claim that he’s set up minor league teams in the Midwest to practice autographing souvenirs has not been corroborated by other minor league teams or the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues.

"Incidentally, if there is something to that story, it may prove that the minor league system is not as healthy as we’ve been told," said Rose’s former teammate and Cleveland Indians manager Mike Hargrove.

Hargrove, who is executive producer of "The Pete Rose Story" on ESPN television, said he has been asked whether Rose practiced his signature in advance of the World Series, as he did in 1975. Hargrove has seen the autographed baseball, and Rose has shared it with him.

"The first we heard about this was Monday night," Hargrove said Tuesday. "If it’s true, I don’t know who to blame."

"The story that he’s planning to come out of Spring Training and start practicing autographs is not true," Hargrove said. "The only time he’s ever practiced autographs has been at the World Series in 1975."

The National Baseball Hall of Fame has declined to comment on Rose’s claims.

"Pete always has a way of getting people to believe what he says," Hargrove said. "He always has a way of getting people to believe what he’s saying."

"It’s a shame," Hargrove added. "It’s a shame that such a good player has to go through all this."

Hargrove, who is a former manager of the San Diego Padres and the San Francisco Giants, said he has never heard of Rose practicing autographs in advance of a World Series.

"I don’t know whether he did it or not," Hargrove said. "But I don’t know that he didn’t do it either."

"I don’t know what to believe," he added. "I don’t know what to believe."
Red Wings’ win streak ended by Avalanche

Detroit backup goaltender Bill Ranford had a night to forget against Colorado.

By Harry Allen

DETROIT — Thechemy worst of the Bill Ranford and unlikely the Detroit Red Wings won’t remember.

The Detroit Red Wings didn’t have the best of their 5-0 victory Tuesday night. The Red Wings lost goalie Bill Ranford, left five of the first six shots past him, and the Colorado Avalanche continued their success in the end, snapping the Red Wings’ playoff-winning streak with a 5-0 victory Tuesday night.

"Bill, you play this game 15 years, and you might not see something like this one in a while," said the Avalanche, 4-0 on the road in the playoffs, ended Detroit’s winning streak at 13 games, dating back to last season.

"The puck tends to be a little bit hotter when you play this game," Avalanche defender Aaron Miller, who scored Colorado’s fifth goal, said. "But, you play this game 15 years, and you might not see something like this one in a while.

The Avalanche, 4-0 on the road in the playoffs, ended Detroit’s winning streak at 13 games, dating back to last season.

"I think that kind of turned the tide for them," Bowman said.

Detroit winger Kirk Maltby and Colorado defenseman Adam Foote led the play during the Western Conference semifinals on Tuesday, the first period while Colorado had a two-goal advantage. The goal.

"The Avalanche scored a goal in the second period, but we couldn’t score anything right away," Detroit coach Mike Babcock said. "The Avalanche scored a goal in the second period, but we couldn’t score anything right away.

With their future in Pittsburgh doubtful, the Avalanche, who haven’t scored a goal in the last two games, are taking two points in the Western Conference semifinals.

"I think that kind of turned the tide for them," Bowman said.

West's future in L.A. uncertain

In Jerry West's future is in L.A. uncertain.

"It's been an incredible honor to be a part of this organization," West said. "I've loved being a part of it, and I've enjoyed the challenges that come with it."

West's career as a player and executive was marked by success, including seven NBA championships. His impact on the Lakers goes beyond his playing days, as he's helped guide the team through various eras.

"I've had the opportunity to work with some of the best coaches and players in the league," West said. "It's been a privilege to be a part of this organization."
Purdue extends Keady's contract

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue said Monday that it has renewed 64-year-old basketball coach John Beilein's contract through the 2007-08 season.

"This new agreement will allow us to build in the current era but at Purdue and we are very pleased to have John and his leadership of our men's basketball program," Beilein said. His credits for the program and his interest in the young men on his team, he continued.

Keidy will start his 10th season with the Boilermakers in the fall, has a career record of 415-181 at Purdue. His team have made 15 NCAA tournament appearances.

Belgrade — Russian andethnic Serbs struggled through a day and a night of reign overnight as NATO forces smashed bridges, destroyed roadblocks and looted towns in Kosovo, NATO said Wednesday.

Both reported early heavy bombardments throughout the Serb district of Mitrovica, near the River Mitrovica, and NATO said it was assessing the damage in the town of Orahovac. It said it was also assessing damage to infrastructure and communications in Mitrovica and Pristina.

"It was a sign of the momentum of NATO's campaign to contain the Serb aggression in Kosovo," NATO said in a statement.

The US and Britain have also confirmed their own reports of fighting in Mitrovica.

The UN's International Court of Justice is due to hold a hearing in The Hague on Thursday to consider the legality of the NATO air strikes in Kosovo.

The International Court of Justice is the permanent court for the settlement of disputes between states. It was set up by the United Nations.
