Just in one day to serve!

The UI is planning to open a new student center building any emergencies, she said.

By Michael Chang The Daily Iowan

The University of Iowa has opened a new student center building to serve students.

The new student center building is located at the corner of University Avenue and State Street, in the heart of downtown Iowa City. The building features a variety of amenities, including a cafe, a bookstore, and a number of study spaces.

"The new student center building is a welcome addition to the University of Iowa community," said UI President Bruce Harreld. "It offers students a centrally located space to study, eat, and socialize."

The new student center building was completed in time for the start of the fall semester. It has been designed to accommodate the needs of a growing student population.

The building features a large, open atrium, with seating areas and a variety of shops and cafes. It also includes a number of study rooms and a quiet reading room.

The University of Iowa is ranked among the top public universities in the nation, and it is one of the largest universities in the Midwest. The university has a strong focus on research, and it offers a wide range of academic programs.

The new student center building is expected to be a popular destination for students, and it is already attracting a lot of interest. Students are excited about the new resource, and they are looking forward to spending time in the building throughout the academic year.

Council ponders train tunnel

The City Council discussed a possible train tunnel under the railroad tracks near Longfellow.

By Benjamin Ramirez
The Daily Iowan

The Iowa City City Council discussed two options for a pedestrian-bicycle tunnel near the Eastern Market Place Elementary School. The options include having a pedestrian tunnel or a pedestrian-bicycle tunnel.

A pedestrian tunnel would cost $123,000, while a pedestrian-bicycle tunnel would cost $300,000 and include sidewalks.

The City Council is expected to vote on the issue in the next few weeks.

Donors stand by UI Foundation

The foundation says a $5 million loss is only "a paper loss" and isn't as bad as it sounds.

By Anne Hayek

A $5 million loss on the stock market is intimidating, but the University of Iowa Foundation's donors aren't worried.

At the conclusion of the past fiscal year, June 30, the foundation had lost $8 million in investments. The foundation handbook the donors devoured to support everything from arts and academics to athletics often features stories of $250 million endowments.

"My goal is to bring in to people that have been traditionally dis­enfranchised against groups made up of single women, single parents, people on low in­comes and people with disability," he said.

It is easy to see in the $250 million endowment, he said, that the foundation is not able to put time and money into organizing them, he said. "There are goals out there that can be used."

A supervisory watch dog group seam­ed with the environment and the needs of the people and justice. He would like to expand his program, but he does not have the funds for that.

"I think they probably still have a lot of support from the community," he said.

Dole backpack search idea a threat to privacy

Stalking the wild Shrub, at loose in the fields of academe

At least we're not Kansas; we realize workplace searches. The public just seems more at ease with the idea of minors' belongings when we have their e-mail. It's more expensive, per ounce, to manage a workplace search. The public must be only at ease with the idea of minors'.

from the attic.”

In Miller’s view, the house was saved, and firefighters pulled the woman out and took her to safety. The fire department will investigate the blaze, but they believe they were able to stop it in its tracks, according to Chief John D. Miller.

The cause of the fire is still unknown, though it appears to have been electrical in nature. "We're looking at the attic," said Jeff Petrie, Coralville Fire Department’s chiefendant. He said the fire started in the attic but did not spread to the rest of the building, and residents only heard smoke and saw smoke coming from the attic window.

"They got here very quickly," said Sen. Tom Swadley, who lives in the building. "I’m glad they were able to get here so quickly." He said the firemen were fast and efficient.

The surrounding houses also had smoke damage, but they’ve not noticed anything black. Miller said he and the Red Cross, which was called to provide temporary shelter for the family, are working to get them back into their home.

Iowa City and Coralville newspapers were notified of the fire, and the number of hits per day of the story is expected to increase.

Moe, garners success without Larry or Curly

By Jenny From
The Daily Iowan

Moe is different. All right, so maybe it sounds a bit like the infamous Dead or the Allman Brothers, but what does just that a comparison? As moe.'s influences range from Funky Kansas and Little Feat to Abbey Daze and Yes, it's damn near impossible to pin a descriptive tag on the music created by these two New York state-based guys.

Of course, there is a certain, however, and that is that new's essence is remaining.

With the late '90s release, Tie Dye and the Tiger, garnering great reviews, as well as the hugely successful summer tour with an all-star line-up, moe., Phil Lesh and Phil Lesh, the "indie-fied" moe. is different. All right, so there's definitely no radio play, even on college stations. Do you have any idea what it's like to play a few shows on a few college stations and see these multi-celled recordings of your shows and see how things turned out.

Although there are some pretty good recording venues out there, they don't have the high quality equipment. There is a small independent record label that we've just met a ton of bands through our current tour for a live album for a long time so we thought we'd start making a large number of them.

River City, which is a part of the Dead Brothers ruin our

Do you hear that there will be a recording a live album this month.

While, actually we've been receiving shows here and there throughout our current tour because the music is so versatile we'll take songs from all those shows and grow the albums together that way, or if we just can't do us an entire album.

All of the artists we've ever played with is Phil, although we did play for the rest of them in New York about five years ago. We've met all of the band members but have never really had a chance to sit down and play with us.

Moe is often compared with the likes of the Grateful Dead and the Allman Brothers — which, although your style differs quite a bit from theirs, almost immediately chances your mind. Do you find that this pigeonholes you a little bit?

At times you, but I won't deny we're a jam band. When a band is put into a category, it's usually by a journalist or someone who feels that they have to give you some kind of label to your music. It's a shame that it has to happen.

There are probably kids out there who are really into jam bands and would like a lot of stuff, but they've been pigeonholed. It's a shame that it has to happen.

They've just met a ton of bands through our current tour for a live album for a long time so we thought we'd start making a large number of them.

So a large number of them.

LAST WORDS

LAUDERDALE, Fla. — The signs of domestic abuse that brought Underwood to a hospital 19 days ago were still visible on his body when he said he had stabbed himself in the neck with a knife.

Police found the 22-year-old defendant and accused murder suspect bleeding on a downtown street Sunday after getting calls that a man was stabbing himself and threatening to kill himself.

"It was somewhat despondent," policeman Brian Lay said. "He was upset, physically upset."

A first-responding officer with Mississauga, Underwood left the Vikings after one day due to training camp. He left the team for roughly two months after the season ended.

"It's really cool to be a part of this," freshman quarterback Stoops said Monday in his football-crazed state. "I don't know how popular I am."

Shusta and Monday, "I'm just trying to get the team better and everybody. All my coaches are working hard and we're just trying to be the best team we can be and win every game."

"Right now being 6-0, I hope everyone can be excited about that. But I also know that change."

Shusta has waited on timejecting the run a team that entered. It turned out to be a 1-5 month.

SPORTS QUIZ

Point Counterpoint

Would Bob Stoops have been a success at Iowa?

When we look at the record that Bob Stoops has at Oklahoma, I'm not sure. Why shouldn't he have been successful at Iowa? He has proven himself as a coach. He has shown that he can win games and build a program. The Hawkeyes have never been known for their offensive line, yet Stoops has been successful there. I believe he could have made Iowa a factor in the Big Ten conference. However, I'm not sure if he would have been successful against the top teams in the conference. I think Iowa's defensive line would have been a challenge for him.

Saban hopes help develops for Underwood

 BLOOMINGTON

 Underwood had played defensive end at Michigan State for three seasons before a late-season knee injury took him out of the game. Underwood's second knee injury before the season was not good news for the football team in Bloomington.

 "I wish I could have been at the first game," Underwood said. "I wish I could have been in there for our defense last week. But I just had good luck this year with a sprained ankle. Hopefully, I'll be back for the rest of the season." Underwood's return to the lineup will be a boost for the defense, which has struggled to contain opposing ball carriers.

 "I think we've had a few problems with our defense," Underwood said. "I think we'll have to deal with these issues in the future." Underwood's return will help the team in the upcoming game against Ohio State.

 "We're excited about Underwood's return," Underwood's coach said. "He's a great addition to our defense and will help us win this game." Underwood's return will be a welcome boost for the team, which is looking to improve its record this season.

 "I think we'll have to worry about the defense this week," Underwood's coach said. "We'll have to focus on stopping Ohio State's offense." Underwood's return will be a welcome boost for the team, which is looking to improve its record this season.

TEMPE — Ariz. — With Steve Young ailing after a strained hamstring, the San Francisco 49ers took a hit at the top as they lost 28-14 to the Arizona Cardinals on Monday night in a come-from-behind victory run by Larry Wilson.

Young, knocked out of the game in the first quarter, was limping heavily by the end and was carried off the field in the first half.

As quarterback Steve Young left the game after taking a hard hit, but the 49ers held on to defeat Arizona, 24-10.
