UI looks to Chicago firm for PR fine-tuning

Officials hope the university will become more "efficient" through the company's operations.

With the help of Chicago communications firm Ignite Media, the UI hopes to improve its communications strategies in an effort to increase university efficiency. "I wouldn't say we're doing this to improve our image," said Steve Par- bolini, the director of university relations. "I think this about the image we are projecting." But the plan, which involves university relations, and the firm will analyze how the UI communicates with current and prospective students, the public, alumni, donors and faculty. With the data it generates, the firm will make recommendations to "fine-tune" the university's image.

"I literally, we've gotten a lot of respect, but sometimes we feel like we're not sending the right message," Parbolini said. "We think this is a good opportunity for us to look inside." The firm will be able to "analyse the outside in" and "analyse the inside out," which it will do in the next few weeks, according to a letter from UI President Mary Sue Coleman. Coleman said UI officials have been looking at the outside in for some time, acquiring a " phúcent" of the institution that it hopes to be realistic from the current budget. Iowa City apt. building collapses

Iowa City - Neighborhoods near the site of a six-story apartment building that collapsed in Iowa City are being cleared Friday, even as authorities continued searching for survivors.

By Ellen Linsmeier, Associated Press

A pedestrian bridge with a vehicle was knocked from its support beneath it.

At least 16 people were killed in the collapse of an apartment building in Iowa City, the latest in a string of recent building failures.

The building, a six-story apartment complex near the University of Iowa campus, collapsed early Friday morning, sending people fleeing in panic.

The fire chief said the building was home to about 100 people, including students.

The collapse was caused by a gas explosion, possibly triggered by a gas leak, the chief said.

The building, located at 1111 S. Linn St., had previously been the site of a gas leak.

The cause of the collapse is under investigation.

Emergency crews responded to the scene and began searching for survivors.

The building was under construction when the collapse occurred.

The Iowa City Fire Department said the building was being used as a temporary home for students.

The building had been scheduled to be completed in the fall.

The collapse has caused widespread disruption in the area, with nearby streets closed and power outages reported.

The audits will help the UI in determining the reasons behind use of the top 10 public universities in the county. Pann said. "Construction was the area the UI team decided to investigate. In Deirdre McCloskey's 1985 book, "Theatine of theEndian", there's a passage that says that the players in the late 19th century, when workers were facing the unfettered expansion of capital, was an "absolute, unmitigated menace to them!

Interestingly, as the helplessness of workers and other professionals have been rising in the last few decades, there have been a few with strong corporate ties and other professionals have seen the evidence of this in the corporate workers' rights.

So-called workers of today are faced with a complex world of corporate and personal rights, where they must navigate through the labyrinth of corporate and personal rights.

On the other hand, there are those who are actively opposing the corporate and personal rights. They believe that the corporate and personal rights are necessary to protect the rights of workers.

In the 1930s, many workers and professionals were subverted by the corporate and personal rights of the era. They were forced to justify any and all allocations of resources.

ROGOTZ, Columbia - in a story last week that's been bandied about as censorship and news, a small town in the state of Washington is about to experience a wave of change. The Chopra Hotel in the town of Hopland is set to be transformed into a new restaurant and bar.

The Chopra Hotel, a small hotel and restaurant in the town of Hopland, is set to be transformed into a new restaurant and bar. The town's mayor, Rick Chopra, announced last week that the hotel would be closed and transformed into a new eatery, which will feature a full bar and restaurant.

"We're trying to bring some life back to Hopland," Chopra said. "We have a great community of people and we want to give them a place to gather and enjoy themselves."

The hotel, which has been closed for several years, was originally built as a post office and has been used for various purposes over the years. The town council recently approved plans to turn the hotel into a restaurant and bar.

"This is a great opportunity to bring some life back to Hopland," said town council member Mike Johnson. "Our community has been missing a place to gather and enjoy themselves, and this new restaurant and bar will fill that need."

In Israel bribes to Palestinians urge the first lady to dine with their leaders.

RAMALLAH, West Bank - Palestinians pushed the stateless issue into the spotlight Thursday during a visit by U.S. first lady Hillary Rodham Clinton to the Gaza Strip, leading to an apparent decision by the Israeli government not to go ahead with the planned new handover of territory.

The new attack came a day after the Supreme Court approved a secret handshake in a week of escalating violence, raising another of the obstacles to any hope of a peace process.

President Clinton, speaking at Ramallah's sprawling exhibition center, was due to arrive in the United States Thursday evening, ending the 13-day trip to the region that has been dominated by remote-controlled explosions.

The destruction of the house was the latest in a series of attacks in the capital.

The weeks of violence have left at least 200 people dead, mostly civilians, in the last 18 months. The United States, which continues to support the government, has been criticized for its role in the violence.

'West 54th' - old & not in the way

By Jim Patterson

NAUGARS, Va. - For some time now, the old idea about PBS's "sessions at West 54th" has been about as common as Elvis Costello and his version of "Bitter Sweet Symphony" by the Verve. Many have wondered if the idea was ever a viable one, and if so, who the hell would come to it.

The PBS series is in its second year of providing a diverse, intriguing mix of pop music. For instance, last week showed everything from early hip hop with Method Man and Redman, to blues with Tedeschi Trucks Band, to soul with Leon Bridges and Dua Lipa. The series and music industry have" "exponentially to the idea, especially in light of the current state of the music business.

The concept for "sessions at West 54th," which airs at 8 p.m. Tuesday nights on PBS, is to give artists an opportunity to showcase their music in a recording studio setting. This year's lineup includes performers like George Clinton, Linda Ronstadt, The Neville Brothers and the tenacious Willie Nelson.

"The idea of being able to interview people was kind of intimidating. But the more we thought about it, the more it liked," said Hiatt, who treated the performers as "special friends, unless I'm talking to his family."

"I'm not particularly good at interviews," Hiatt said. "The only thing I would do is keep it simple and honest with my kids from, like, 9 to 10:30 a.m.

"The radio and music industry is teeming with talent and possibilities and so much wonder."

"We're trying to keep up with federal health programs, who use federal health programs. The Department says other government health programs, who use federal health programs. We're doing it manually," Lynch said. "The much more (time-consuming) it is charging government health care providers for those covered by Medicaid."
Iowa running back Ron Dayne could become the NCAA's all-time leading rusher.

By Doug Wallace

When one remembers the 64-yard touchdown run that gave Gary Williams the college football rushing record, last Thanksgiving weekend, Williams is just as indebted to the Stanford Cardinal as Stanford is to Gary Williams. In the Cardinal's 41-7 win over Oregon State, the Cardinal had four 100-yard rushers and Williams added 94, pushing up the Stanford rushing record to 3,000 yards.

Besides winning the game, safely Madison Bogen has a new goal, to stay off the injury list. "It's something to be there," Browne said. "But it wouldn't be ideal if I get a run for the extra. It's probably too late in the season to build the highlight for the (Big Ten) championship game."".

Tickets to see the "Dayne Train" going for top dollar

ANTHONY J. W. (AP) — Tickets for Wisconsin's regular-season football games against Iowa and Northwestern are selling for as much as $309 each as Badgers tailback Ron Dayne makes a run for NCAA career rushing record.

Tickets from the UIU box office have sold out. They're no longer available online, but a few tickets are still offered on the black market.

Sellers say tickets in the Camp Randall Staduim's end zone, with a $12 face value, are being advertised for as much as $500. Regular $28 tickets are being advertised on the internet for $60.

One Milwaukee-area ticket broker said sellers are advertising those kinds of prices because it's a no-brainer. Mark Jones of Front Row Fun, 30, said his company had been selling Badgers tickets at all levels of price ranging from $90 to $116, with most selling for around $100.

Jones said specimen price was making sense since ticket brokers generally have to mark them up to make as much as $500 per ticket.

Police said they will be monitoring for traders around Camp Randall before Saturday's game. People are being warned by UW police that they could face fines up to $100 for selling tickets on the black market.

Arlington, Short among finalists for Butkus

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Penn State linebacker LaVar Arrington and Tennessee linebacker Alonzo Highsmith are among the final four candidates for the Butkus Award, given each year to the nation's top linebacker.

Louisiana State's Mark Eldemire and Oklahoma linebacker Kevin Johnson are the other two finalists.

It is the first time in the award's 15-year history that one team has had two players make the final cut. Eldemire and Codia in 1988 was the last University Lineman to be a finalist.

Blue Jays send Hundley to St. Louis

CHICAGO (AP) — The Toronto Blue Jays traded pitcher Pat Hentgen and Paul O'Neill to the St. Louis Cardinals today for third baseman Marcell Ozuna, outfielder Albert Belle and minor league pitcher Brett Grobl.

Hentgen, who will earn $8 million next season with a club option for $8.5 million in 1999, third-highest among Toronto's starters. In 26 starts, he pitched 159 innings, allowing 223 hits. He struck out 119 and walked 50.

In 1996, Hentgen was 12-11 with a 3.17 ERA. Since going 20-10 with a 3.23 ER in Young Award-winning season of 1996, Hentgen is 30-29.

Toronto's new 30th-round pick in last week's amateur draft, Grobl, also pitched today for the Blue Jays.

Mavericks place Leon Smith on injured reserve list

DALLAS — Leon Smith, a third-round draft choice, was placed on the injured reserve list for the Dallas Mavericks on Thursday because of a back problem.

Brodie Spencer was activated to take Smith's spot. Spencer had not played during the regular season because of a sprained lower back.

The 6-foot-7 Smith signed with the Mavericks in June. He missed a month of going to his first NBA camp in July.

The Mavericks' next game is tonight against Indiana, then they are home next Sunday against Phoenix.

Payton is the third Cleveland State player to be selected to the all-conference team. Earlier this week, Steve Alvey was named to the second team and Mike Calabrese to the first team.

Dolphins looking for revenge

By Don Goldsberry

Five weeks ago, the Buffalo Bills built a 3-0 lead, only to watch it disappear as the San Francisco 49ers took the game over. The 49ers finished on top, 34-17, at the Meadowlands.

"Iowa is not going to let us get away with anything again," said Bill Abraham, green-eyed quarterback for the Bills, as he limped to the locker room after the game.

The home team, however, was not too pleased with the Bills' performance. Mike Morris, the coach of the Buffalo Bills, was not pleased that his team had allowed the 49ers to score three touchdowns in the first quarter.

"This is not good," said Morris, as he paced the sidelines.

"We had a good chance to win this game," said Morris, as he shook his head.

"But we didn't take advantage of it," said Morris, as he turned to walk away.

The Bills' next game is against the New England Patriots on Sunday, November 15th.

Penn State trying to avenge two Michigan losses

After losing to the Wolverines in the Big Ten title game last year, when he finished with 45 tackles, 10 for loss and 11 1/2 sacks, he was second on the team with 76 tackles, including 21 for loss and 10 1/2 sacks.

"If you don't do that, you're not doing your job," he said.

"I've been on this team before, and I feel like I can do it," he said. "I feel like I can win the game for us."

Williams wins AL award

Jim Williams took the lead in the Triple Crown race Thursday as he hit .530 (32-for-60) in his last 12 games, giving him a .503 season average. He leads the Detroit Tigers in batting average, on-base percentage and slugging percentage.

Why it matters

The Tigers are in the thick of the American League West playoff race, and Williams' hot streak has helped fuel the team's surge. With his average over the past two months, Williams has moved into second place in the AL in batting average, behind only Boston's Wade Boggs, who leads the league with a .539 mark.

What's next

Williams will face a tough task in the final two weeks of the season as the Tigers face several top teams, including the Los Angeles Angels and the Chicago White Sox. The Tigers need a good finish to keep pace with the Angels and the Minnesota Twins, who are currently in first place in the AL West.

For more information, visit the Tigers' official website at tigers.com.
