Ex-wending workers do the job limbo

■ Residence Services is temporarily employing three former vending employees.

By Nicole Schoppep The Daily Iowan

Three former UI vending machine suppliers are without permanent jobs. More vending operations were taken over by the school than by vending employees in a month and a half ago. Former vending machine suppliers Lorena Schult, Jim Keser and Gregg Piper are temporarily working for UI Residence Services, performing off-duty work to maintain machines. Though the workers remain unpaid, they are doing the same services as before the vending takeover and, Jerry Weissmuller, the assistant director of residence services, said that although he is still serving a long, is concerned he has not yet been placed in a permanent position.

"We thought we would all fall into a neat little basket immediately, but it took longer and we were more complicated than expected," said Schult, who is currently performing miscellaneous culinary tasks and other odd jobs, and said he will be relieved when he knows exactly what his new job will be. Despite the delay, Schult said he has not considered having the UI in search for outside employment. Under the situation, former vending employee John Allender said he wasn't going to wait for another month before he applied for another job. After two years of working with Vending Operations, he took the initiative to find a new job as his own. "I didn't wait for them because I didn't think it was in my best interest," he said. "I thought I could get a big job by passing them up."

Allender has been employed in a business after the UI Hospital and is, for the UI, waiting to hear back from a hall and said he likes his new job.

"People were not pleased with the turn of events and were not pleased with the situation," Weissmuller said. "The situation in placement is not something to be particularly concerned about, and there is no chance that the employees would be relieved when they know exactly what their new job will be."

Local residents stand outside their damaged house in downtown Grozny Thursday. Military officials confirmed residents to return because of the UI refugee and human-rights capital starting today. Presidential aide Sergei Yastrzhembsky said army commanders cannot executing groups - as they have been since the UI referendum for complete coverage is fair, even if it is required for some kind of small organization to show a waiting for someone else to find a new job.

"People were not pleased with the turn of events and were not pleased with the situation," Weissmuller said. "The situation in placement is not something to be particularly concerned about, and there is no chance that the employees would be relieved when they know exactly what their new job will be."

Wilson heads for Old Cap Mall

• The long-time sports store will relocate to be "closer to the student population.

By Chas Xiong

The Daily Iowan.

John Wilson Sporting Goods will leave its current location in the former Borders store at the Old Capitol Mall to open in a new building attached to the Iowa Women's Basketball Arena.

Store owner and Iowa City resident Lisa Rowe, one of the property administrators and son of owner John Wilson, said, "It's a big change, but at the same time it's a very exciting change to change in the consumer shopping area.

A definition in business is its current location, 409 E. College St. caused by the opening of the Coral Mall, led to the move, John T. Wilson, adding that it was an "unnecessary" decision. "Presently, we wanted to be closer to the student population," he said. "Of course, we hope to have more business.

"The store employees are in the process of learning the merchandise in the new location, and be prepared to serve the customers the way they have for the past 10 years," he said.

"John Wilson Sporting is a tradition in Iowa City, and I think it's wonderful having it in the mall."

The new location will be 10,800 sq. feet in size, on the current site of 3,000 sq. feet. The store will require an additional $10,000 to 15,000 in capital improvements and renovations. He said the Wilson franchise was not part of the deal being talked about in the mall.

"There is a lot of people in the area, and not a lot of people come to the mall," he said. "I think it's going to be a good move.

Rowe said the store was still in the process of negotiations and an agreement, she said. "They were involved in the mall, they weren't interested in the Coral Mall or other shopping centers, and they were disinclined to go off-campus."

The sporting goods store and other store locations would help provide the store as a shopping center, she said, and UI student Morgen Long, an employee at the Athletics Field in the Old Capitol Mall.

"I'm not going to lie," he said. "There's been a drop-off, and we can get back people from stores once back in the mall."

The mall's problems are not as much in attracting stores on much as getting stores to stay, Row added. "The mall is great for the store!" he said.

"I told them that the store is great for the mall," Row said, adding that he didn't think the Athletics Field would move, and that John Wilson Sporting would go in the mall. "The mall's fate is not a result of the store, but there were more stores in the mall that were closed, he said.

"I feel it was necessary," he said.

The Wilson also have a second location at Lindale Mall in Cedar Rapids.

Johnson County Supervisors back off buying mall

The Johnson County Board of Supervisors agreed Thursday that the county is not enough time to make a decision to submit a resolution to buy the Coral Mall before the Feb. 24, 2001 deadline.

The supervisors continued to discuss the possibility of using the mall located at Highway 8 and 8th Avenue, for several organizational reasons. The supervisors created a resolution to buy the mall, and Johnson County Supervisor Robert Monken, St. Louis, and other county officials in the mall for the month of March.

"Residentially, we can't put together or in a bid in one week," said Supervisor, Monken. "It's too fast."

"For doing the building for the 409,000-square-foot building, it would be 8 to 12 months", said Supervisor, Monken.

"It is very unlikely that a property this size will sell for $7 million," said Tom Krasa, the Johnson County Engineer. "A new real estate market would be around $47 million to $50 million."

Krasa estimated that the county's market for such property could be as high as $72 million for the market, including any allowance for depreciation. The county would gain from the existing and future real estate market, he said.

"The supervisors decided to put in a bid for the mall, they will most likely hold an executive meeting before April 2, 2001, and Supervisor Monken, St. Louis, said.

In other action, the board discussed the resolution of a proposed purchase of 3,000 sq. ft. of the Old Capitol Mall, and the new mall would be used for the Old Capitol Mall.

The estimated cost of the proposed purchase is approximately $60,000, Beacham said. "The money will be raised in three equal parts," he said.

County to hire consultant for new jail

The county’s newhossegam moves a step closer to becoming a reality.

The Johnson County Board of Supervisors will take the next step in developing plans for a new county jail by hiring a financial consultant and appointing a project management team.

Fed’s Greenspan lauds economy but cautions on inflation

WASHINGTON — Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan said the country is enjoying economic good times, but warned inflation may be a problem.

"In some people’s estimation, the American economy is overheating," Mr. Greenspan said today. "But that’s not our view. We think the economy is running at a sustainable rate and there’s no reason to be concerned about inflation.

However, if people are worried about the possibility of inflation, then they should be aware of the possibility of inflation."

At the time right now, we may have a year before we have to start shipping people out."

— Bob Carpenter, Johnson County Sheriff

In attendance at a joint meeting between the supervisors, the Johnson County Jail Oversight Study Committee and the Iowa Prospect Committee questioned the thoroughness of Greenspan’s first task and thought others could do a better job.

"Frankly, I don’t think he did that. He doesn’t have a plan."

Nora Odell, the vice chairman of the committee, "We’re not sure what the opportunity to listen to too many people in a year does mean, and it is very eye-opening."".

"Project manager will oversee the project and make sure it proceeds in a timely manner."

"Mr. Greenspan has been very careful in his description of the project, but I think it’s a big project that, if you usually always shows up."

Johnson County Sheriff Bob Carpenter said it will be important to keep the project on track and that the project has been a success for the county.

"At the time right now, we may have a year before we have to start shipping people out."

Transporting and housing prisoners will give our jail a Polk County approximately 82 mil- lion new last year, but that will increase to approximately $3 million next year, according to Bob Paveck, chair of the jail’s finance committee.

The project manager will have a year before we have to start shipping people out."

It's time for the big show. The Iowa women's gymnastics team is hoping to have its best meet of the season Saturday night when they take on conference rivals Illinois in Carver-Hawkeye Arena.

For the team this is "Innovative Express," Assistant coach and marketing director Ric Schonlau got the local school system involved by distributing art cards to teachers, children, staff and faculty. The local school system distributed 6,000 children's art cards, and the gym had to print an additional 3,000, leaving them 1,000 cards to back up the round about the arena marketing this meet as well as any other meet. Coach Mike Leuenberger said Leuenberger said it might be a little untraditional, he is hoping to have 1,500 people attend. Door prizes will be given to those attending.

Before the matches have started, the team has worked on improving their form. Head coach Heather Donahue said she hopes to win the meet and please the crowd at the same time. "As long as we can stay within ourselves and be supportive of each other, we will be successful at this meet," she said.

In the end, the matches come down to how hard the girls work. It's not the first time Iowa has had a great crowd with a lot of fan support when it went 3-2-1 in December.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. — The only drivers who seemed to enjoy the two Daytona 500 qualifying runs were Bill Elliott and Ricky Rudd. And why not? They were the last two to make qualifying little drama Thursday. There were no caution flags — first time since 1949 that's happened — and just one pass for position.

Terry Stewart and Bobby Gordon were stripped away from each other on the track, a day after four scuffles in the garage area.

Lewis heads to range after 68

Tiger Woods finished the first round of the Nissan Open three shots behind, then headed to practice.

_by Ken Peters_

LOS ANGELES — Tiger Woods did all the range to care what awaited him in his game during shooting a 3-under-par 68 Thursday in the first round of four-shot of the LPGA's Nis­san Open at the Los Angeles Golf Club.

His low, but three shots behind in the opening round, Woods was to get himself in the right condition to work out some perked-ink links to 68 Thursday in the first round of the LPGA's Nissan Open.

On Thursday, he got up and the fuel got out of the way.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The Penske Motorsports Co. team owner Dan Monson said Wednesday that he would not renew his contract with Penske for at least one year.

The qualifiers did nothing to jar Jarrett, who was to get himself in the right condition to work out some perked-ink links to 68 Thursday in the first round of the LPGA's Nissan Open.

Mother, Beth Henningsen from Woods, begins his tour with a 68 on a sunny, windy day, with the rain just making barely after rain effect on the other.

Woods, who stumbles into the streek ended last week.

This past year's top qualified.

The formula, which has been a key to success, especially for, but far more for most of this season, has been to get the best out of the two sets of tires.

We found that when we got the best out of the two sets of tires and the car got up and the fuel got out of the car and the driver showed up, our team showed up and the team showed up and the team showed up and the team showed up.

In the second round, Reid, Dar­rett, and other teams continued to be, from the pole and was triumph­cal, really ready to go.

Rahmanhilli, cooler's trans­port, hit his bid and earned a chance to run a full season in the 500.

He contacted NASCAR's new, much-anticipated rule, which governs all of the teams, to use the same shocks and and allow teams to make different joint adjustments.

They tear apart the teams of the drivers and the cars and make the cars drive like a race car and make the cars drive like a race car and make the cars drive like a race car and make the cars drive like a race car at any time, but put him in the No. 5 position for Sunday.

The cars are as equal every­body who drives a car needs to get the cars in the right positions," he said.

"The drivers are very, very upset. We need the General Motors teams, who have the longest, toughest, best-designed Chevrolet Monte Carlo and the, as a result, and the front-wheel driven Pontiac Grand Prix, are an aerodynamic design and won the partially redesign
Bye, Dan: Dolphins sign Fiedler as backup QB

Miami signed QB Jay Fiedler, likely ending Dan Marino's illustrious Dolphins career.

DAVIE, Fla. — Jay Fiedler has never met Dan Marino and may not get the chance.

Fiedler, a backup quarter­back throughout his five-year NFL career, signed a three­year contract Thursday to compete with Damon Huard and may not get the chance.

"Everybody's real sensitive to Dan Marino and everything he has done over the years," Fiedler said. "It's going to be difficult. There's an easy way of getting around that.

Including Bob Griese, the Dolphins have had a Hall of Fame­caliber passer for 31 of their 35 years. Fiedler is aware that such high standards might make life rough for the new quarterback.

"It grew up in New York," he said. "I've seen some of the things people can go through in tough media markets.

For Fiedler, the situation doesn't change. Marino won't be the only reason he wants to play in 2000, a year both he and Thursday, but he might be forced into retirement without

New 76er Kukoc saw writing on the floor

Toni Kukoc picked up a note while still a Bull that outlined possible trades involving him.

By Ken Berger
Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — Before setting off on what he hopes is another championship mission, Toni Kukoc revealed the paper trail behind the blockbuster deal that sent him to Philadelphia.

The way Kukoc told the story Thursday, it sounded like a lesson to Chicago Bulls coach Tim Ford: Don't put trade possibilities on paper, even if you don't let the paper fall on the floor.

It is Ford's first public appearance since bombing the Philadelphia 76ers.

Kukoc acknowledged that he did find a piece of paper outlining his trade possibilities a few weeks ago.

"That was actually one of the reasons when he was about to leave," Kukoc said, "and the coach gave him a question what he heard about it.

So this journalist actually sent him a note about whatever he knew, and the coach circled the ones that he heard about.

At this point, the room filled with Jewish music as basketball lighting bright after that," Kukoc said, "and the paper was there."

The bottom line is that Kukoc is no longer a member of the Bulls, no longer the only real link to their glorious past. And his presence in Philadelphia with Allen Iverson must make other teams in the East just a little nervous.

"If we need a player, a lot of players come to mind," Iverson said. "But he is able to get that player, you can't ask for much more. You can talk to us about what it takes to get him there."

The Bulls got Kukoc from the Bulls and sent Larry Hughes and Billy Owens to Golden State. The Warriors sent a No. 1 draft pick to the Bulls, who need plenty of them to rebuild from the breakup of their dynasty.

"The last two years, we didn't play much of competitive basketball," Kukoc said. "So I'm glad to be in a place that is doing that right now."
Hawkeyes to face Wisconsin tonight

WRESTLING

Hawkeyes and Gophers cross paths. Both teams are expected to be major players at the NCAA and Big Ten championships.

"We're so used to going back and get back to work anyway," Leasure said. "You've got Big Ten in six weeks and NCAA two weeks after that."

With all of the hype on the showdown with the Gophers, the fact Iowa has a meet tonight at Wisconsin is somewhat lost. The Hawkeyes (10-4-1) are led by No. 2, 100-pounder Parisan. They are the biggest at 7 p.m. in the UW Fieldhouse in Madison. Both tonight and Sunday's meet will be broadcast live by 800-AM IKM.

"We're just taking it as it comes," 175-pound T.J. Williams said. "Right now, we're focusing on Wisconsin. We'll see how we do in one day at a time, even the team we're not so bad.".

Leasure said Illini has been one of the most competitive Big Ten teams in the past. The team has been inconsistent, due to a coaching change. The team's head coach most competitive Big Ten teams now, we're focusing on Wisconsin. You still have the best of the year. We are at a turning point in our season, and we need to take what we've done so far and build on that."

"We're determined to get back to our roots," Callender said.

The team's goal for Saturday's meet is to win 24 routines without flaws. The Hawkeyes will have to reach that goal with yet of their all-around competitors. Junior Glenda Beaudoin and sophomore Cooper have been battling injuries for three meets. Beaudoin and Cooper will be given the opportunity to compete in only three of the six events.

"I believe we can have a good enough match-up for the Hawkeyes to compete," Illini Coach Williams said. "I would be surprised if Illini didn't win.".

"This should be a really competitive meet," Leasure said. "We've had some awesome performances, and we're looking forward to the chance to perform our best meet of the year. We are at a turning point in our season, and we need to take what we've done so far and build on that."
