INDIANAPOLIS — Indiana University at Indianapolis in Indianapolis, Indiana, yesterday said it will be one of the four universities to receive a $500,000 grant from the National Science Foundation to fund research in the field of information technology.

The grant, which was announced yesterday by IU/Indianapolis president William H. Green, will support a new program in computer science and engineering that will be established at the university next fall.

The program will focus on developing new technologies and applications that will help solve some of the most pressing problems faced by society today.

Green said the grant will enable the university to hire new faculty members, purchase new equipment, and provide opportunities for students to 参与到研究项目中来。

The grant is one of several that have been awarded to universities across the country.

COMMUNITY

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Department of Energy announced today that it will provide $500,000 in funding to support a new program that will help communities across the country reduce their energy consumption.

The program, which will be administered by the Department of Energy's Office of Energy Efficiency and Renewable Energy, will focus on developing and implementing new strategies to reduce energy use in homes, businesses, and institutions.

The funding will support a variety of projects,
including energy audits, energy-efficient building designs, and outreach efforts to educate consumers about the benefits of energy efficiency.

BUSINESS

NEW YORK — The New York Stock Exchange announced today that it will implement new regulations aimed at improving market transparency and reducing fraud.

The regulations, which will go into effect on September 15, will require all listed companies to disclose significant financial information in real time, rather than providing late updates.

The exchange said the new rules are designed to enhance investor confidence and protect consumers.

SPORTS

TOKYO — Japanese tennis player Kei Nishikori defeated Roger Federer today to win the Japan Open tennis tournament.

Nishikori, who has been ranked in the top 10 worldwide for most of his career, defeated the Swiss icon in a thrilling three-set match.

"It was an amazing match," Nishikori said.
"I'm so happy to win this tournament."

Panel OKs controversial parking plan

Iowa

The UI administration has decided on the fate of the plan, which has been highly criticized by the Board of Regents.

By Kelly Dobson

Iowa City

The UI administration, including President Mary Sue Coleman, now has the final decision on the controversial parking policy, after the parking committee approved the policy on a 5-2 vote on June 24.

Under the new parking policy, spots will be assigned alternately between campus and off-campus faculty. Faculty and staff members will be assigned to campus, and students will be assigned to off-campus parking," said UI spokesperson Karle Root.

The policy will allow faculty and staff members to seriously consider living off-campus and the option to purchase an on-campus parking permit. The policy also will allow off-campus residents to purchase a permit in the student parking lot, according to Root.

"This policy will be of great benefit to the students and faculty because it will ensure that the parking is available for everyone," said Root.

The practice of the Students Against Sweatshops that should be celebrated this holiday. With the members' strength and determination, the movement continues to push for a world free of sweatshops, they made a statement about their passion and their commitment to this cause.

The new legislation, approved by an overwhelmingly Republican state Senate, will apply to businesses operating in the state and will require employers to have systems in place that can be audited by federal or state officials. The new law is a response to growing concerns about labor conditions in the U.S. and around the world, and it is hoped that it will help to improve working conditions for workers in this country and abroad.

It is important for individuals to be aware of their rights and to speak out against labor abuse. By supporting legislation like this, we can help to create a more just and equitable world for all workers.

ISSAHO: Haiti's President Jean-Bertrand Aristide was not taken into custody by the armed forces on Saturday as rumors had suggested, it was reported.

Aristide was not taken into custody by the armed forces on Saturday as rumors had suggested, it was reported.

He was not even seen at the presidential residence, a source said.

Aristide, who has been under house arrest for two weeks, was on his way to the presidential residence when he was stopped by security forces, the source said.

The source said Aristide was told by security forces that he was not wanted by the government.

The government has said it will not renew Aristide's travel documents and has threatened to arrest him if he leaves the country.

Aristide's supporters have been demanding his release, saying he was unfairly arrested.

The government has denied the allegations, saying it is acting in the best interests of the country.

The situation remains tense, with many people still demonstrating in support of Aristide.

One saved after Indonesian ferry sinks

The body of a woman who survived a ferry disaster in Indonesia has been identified as that of a schoolgirl.

The ferry, carrying 481 passengers, sank on Saturday morning in the Sulawesi Sea, near Manado in North Sulawesi.

The schoolgirl, identified as 17-year-old Oyo Matayani, was one of the 481 passengers who were rescued from the ferry.

She was one of the few passengers who survived the disaster, which claimed the lives of at least 200 people.

Oyo Matayani was a student at a local high school in North Sulawesi.

She was in her fifth year of high school, and had just finished her first year of university.

She had been looking forward to the ferry trip, which was planned as a family vacation.

But the trip turned into a nightmare when the ferry sank.

Oyo Matayani was one of the few passengers who managed to survive the disaster.

She was eventually rescued by the Indonesian navy, which was searching for survivors in the area.

She was taken to a hospital in Manado, where she was treated for her injuries.

She has since been discharged and is expected to make a full recovery.

Oyo Matayani is the first schoolgirl to survive the ferry disaster.

Her survival has been hailed as a miracle, and has sparked a lot of interest in the community.

Many people have been volunteering to help her, and she has received a lot of support from her family and friends.

The Indonesian government has also announced a compensation package for the families of the victims of the disaster.

No stopping statehood, Arafat says

Palestinian President Yasser Arafat has vowed to keep fighting for statehood, despite international pressure to accept a two-state solution.

Speaking at a rally in the West Bank city of Ramallah on Tuesday, Arafat said that the Palestinians would not accept a compromise solution that did not grant them full sovereignty over the West Bank and East Jerusalem.

"We will not accept any compromise solution," Arafat said. "We will continue to fight for our full rights and for the return of our Lands."

Rocky the Mets and Braves leave New York safe and still in first place

The Mets and Braves played their intense four-game series.

New York (AP) - The Braves left town after a four-game sweep of the Mets, and the Yankees moved into the first place in the NL East.

Mets second baseman Craig Swan scored the game-winning run on a bases-loaded single by second baseman Alfonso Soriano in the 11th inning.

The series featured a tense and dramatic finish, with the Mets leading 10-9 in the 11th inning.

The Mets had two runners on base and two outs when Soriano hit a single to right field, driving in the winning run.

The Mets had a 9-8 lead in the 10th inning, but the Braves tied it with a two-run home run by Derrek Lee.

The Mets had a 6-3 lead in the third inning, but the Braves scored four runs in the fourth inning to tie the game.

The Mets had a 9-5 lead in the ninth inning, but the Braves scored four runs in the ninth inning to tie the game.

Irvin takes home his second U.S. Senior Open win

Hale Irwin finished the U.S. Senior Open with a 17-under 207, the lowest tournament score.

By Rob Mcelroy

BRADFORD, Pa. — Hale Irwin has plenty of experience and a ton of confidence. Now, he has another major championship.

Irwin overcame a two-stroke deficit with a tournament-record 67 on Sunday, breaking a tie and winning the 54-hole Senior Open in three years. He finished with a 15-under 267 for the Sunday Invitational, nipping Gary Player's 270 and Matt Kuchar's 270.

I never underestimated my game, and I never underestimated my talents," said Irvin, 59, who took three-time U.S. Open winner Jack Nicklaus' place in the American Golf Hall of Fame.

Irwin pocketed first-year purse of $186,000, which is never over.

The victory at Beaver Valley Country Club was worth $175,000 to the 58-year-old former world No. 1 and 2001 Masters champion.

Irvin has six majors victories and 28th for Irwin.

It's not easy to beat him as Notah Begay's win consecutive tournaments since 2006, and Woods remains in second U.S.

Sosa says he and Baylor have put altercations behind them

SOSA

Sosa is not willing to trade a top hitting home run hitter in his prime for other players who may not even be on the financial horizon. To pay the few dollars that would be needed to move Sosa would only cost more than the few dollars that would be needed to move most of our talents. In the trade market one should always consider the financial horizon in addition to the talent market.

But it's when a player gets a call like the one Richardson did in New York on July 8th, Thursday night that her instincts are truly tested. She had a week off and then under the 1988 25-night limit. If this was true, she was out of compliance. Richardson was jubilant.

"I'm probably the happiest person in the world," she said. "I'm just thrilled." Richardson said that she had been following the story of the softball player and had known of her since the player had made her debut in the 1988 All-Star game. She was overjoyed when she heard the news.

But Richardson said she understood why the game went on. "There were not very many players who had come to see me play," she said. "We had not had many hits in the past and we were not winning much."

"I was happy to know that she was going to play," Richardson said. "I'm sure she'll be a great addition to the team."

R. I. P. Sosa

A source close to the Sosa negotiations confirmed that Sammy Sosa will test his three-point shot against fellow journeyman Brad Miller, who has been chasing the fourth spot on the majors.

Sosa wants a contract extension

Contractual terms remain the main sticking point. The players both want a long-term deal, and both want to test the market.
