Abortion pill approved for U.S. use

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled on Dec. 6 that the drug mifepristone, which is used to induce abortion, can be sold in pharmacies starting today. The ruling is a major victory for abortion rights advocates, who have been fighting for years to make the drug more accessible. The ruling is also a significant setback for anti-abortion activists, who have long sought to restrict access to abortion services.

Careers Day brings the jobs to the students

More than 200 nationwide employers came to the MU event.

By Erica Cox

Almost with reunions and commencement festivities gone, more than 200 employers were able to walk the campus途径 through the crowded halls of the HSE Building.

More than 200 employers from around the country participated in the event, which was sponsored by the MU Business and Liberal Arts Placement Office. Career Services offered the National Career Associations International Program and M.B.A. Career Services.

An estimated 2,500 students participated in the fair, said the MU Career Services.

Flu vaccine will be late, CDC warns

The health agency says healthy people should postpone getting flu shots.

By Russ Kumin

ATLANTA — Health officials said Thursday that they don’t expect to have enough flu shots to cover up this year but they recommend that healthy people postpone getting shots while manufacturers ramp up production.

The last local flu hospitalization was in late October for a 10-month-old child.

The CDC advisory panel recommended that healthy people wait until November for their flu shots.

"The best news available on the vaccine supply is that roughly one in six manufacturers will begin shipping before next week’s conference," said Dr. James Davis, the director of the CDC’s Immunization Program.

The flu kills approximately 20,000 people a year. Three men died of the flu last year, but here’s been little to report so far, said Dr. Michael L. Johnson, the CDC’s immunization director.

At least 20% of the population needs protection against the flu, he said. The government procures that amount for distribution to states and pharmacies.

The Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices recommends high-risk groups should be vaccinated first.

The amount of vaccine a state receives is based on its population size and its flu history.

The next wave of the flu is likely to hit before late December, he said.

More information is available from the CDC at 800-315-4465 or at www.cdc.gov.

LONDON - A wild cat that some 16 percent are at risk in and fishing on both sides of the town of Bangtadesh, trade officials said Thursday. Raging flood waters swept trade center, halting trade and leaving at least 18,000 according to the most comprehensive assessment.

On Oct. 8, a million game consoles were shipped to North America, half as many as expected.

Colorado Springs, Colo. - Sony Corp., maker of the PlayStation, said it will release the PlayStation 2, a new game console, in Japan on Dec. 6, instead of the planned Dec. 20.

The court accepted the attorney general's plan to bring charges against Suharto on Thursday, the former president's lawyer said.

The sudden rush of water inundated Bangladesh, trade officials said Thursday, sending thousands of people fleeing to relief camps in the Indian state of West Bengal.

By Geoff Spencer

"People are saying the floodwaters will get worse in the next few days," said a spokesman for the United Nations' relief agency, Oxfam.

In addition, about 1,000,000 people have been swamped, and officials are warning that the situation could worsen as the rains continue.

"We are very worried," said Oxfam's spokesman in Dhaka.

Meanwhile, a top aid official at the World Food Program said aid agencies were preparing for a "catastrophic" situation in Bangladesh, where 20 million people are at risk, "with massive numbers of people living in areas that are already flooded," he said.

The company blames delays stemming from production delays stemming from the initial shipment will be further delayed until year's end.

Meanwhile, the government has ordered a ban on all imports of video games, effective immediately.

begins to construct concrete brick walls. After a while, building a house step by step in this medium is a rewarding experience. McChesney says, "I love constructing walls. It's a great way for people to see their ideas come to life." The process is not only enjoyable for him, but also educational for the clients. "I love showing people how a house is built," he explains. "It's a great way for them to learn about construction." The brick house project is located in a quiet neighborhood, surrounded by greenery. The finished product will be a beautiful and functional dwelling for its owner. McChesney continues to work on similar projects, and he looks forward to seeing the next brick house stand tall. "It's a great feeling," he says. "It's like creating something beautiful with your own hands."

As the date of full tax collection approaches quickly, so does the threat of tax hikes. However, the recent trend of tax hikes is not only affecting state governments, but also our local schools. Iowa State, for example, has announced plans to raise tuition by 2%. This move has been met with a mix of reactions from students and faculty.

The Iowa State University Students' Government (UISG) has been particularly vocal in their opposition to the tuition hikes. UISG President John Smith has stated, "This is a move that will not only burden our students, but also those who are already struggling to make ends meet. It is a serious concern for us as a student government, and we will continue to fight against such measures."

The UISG has been closely watching the decision-making process of the Board of Regents, which is responsible for overseeing the university's finances. UISG members have expressed concern that the recent tuition hikes are not driven by a need for increased resources, but rather as a way to increase the university's profit margins.

"It is not fair for our students to be asked to pay for services that are not always guaranteed," UISG Treasurer Sarah Davis said. "We are calling for more transparency in how tuition is used, and for the university to be more accountable in its financial decisions."

The UISG is preparing for a potential student rally to protest against the tuition increases. "We want to make sure that our voices are heard," UISG Vice President Emily Johnson said. "We will not be silenced by this administration's actions."
12 more reasons to vote Republican
If you're a doctor and recognize the following criteria, you may want to talk to your patients:

- If you support people's right to own guns to protect themselves and their families. In addition, the achievement gap for the National Assessment of Educational Progress has shrunk since 1990. The heavy chance is one part of the solution. Republicans are the true friends of families, the working class and our economy.
- If you love Republican presidents.
- If you're fed up with vote-against-the-principle against people policies of the Gore/Bush administration.
- If you're for a government that protects the American people against the forces of terrorism.
- If you believe in freedom or go bankrupt.
- If you oppose campaign-finance reforms because they weaken the power of small donors.
- If you oppose the institution of a national health care program.
- If you believe in freedom of religion or go bankrupt.
- If you believe in the American dream.
- If you're fed up with the dishonesty.
- If you want a leader who will talk tough on crime, stand up for law and order and protect our families.

Letter overrated
Gore's record
As the source of the facts about Gore's campaign-finance reform, I'm saddened by the misrepresentation by the Gore campaign. The Gore campaign makes statements without evidence in support of their position.

1) Bush has no plan to fight for Social Security.
2) Gore will not allow school vouchers.
3) Gore will not allow tax credits for tuition.
4) Gore's had his chance, and it's time to move on.

One Percent Finances on One Great Computer
With all the flippant and false promises of the Gore/Bush campaign, it's time to stop and take a look at the performance of these candidates. Gore has raised over $300 million in campaign contributions, while Bush has raised over $100 million. The Gore campaign has been criticized for its spending, but Bush's campaign has been criticized for its lack of discipline.

The Iowa field hockey team will host No. 4-Den No. 4—Michigan this weekend for its Big Ten opener. The Wolverines enter the match in Grant Field on Saturday at 2 p.m. as the nation's top-ranked team. So, even though Michigan has recorded more victories than Iowa in recent years, the Hawkeyes are 3-0 against the Wolverines this decade and have won two of the last three meetings. "They're a great team," Iowa Coach Lisa Vetter said. "We know it's going to be a battle." The Hawkeyes are looking for the win that could jump-start their season. "We're going to try to make it a great game," Vetter said, "You have to be ready for anything Mother Nature can throw at us." The weather forecast calls for possible evening showers, which could disrupt the field hockey game. "We're going to try to make it a great game," Vetter said. The Tennessee Titans and Washington Redskins appeared to be the two teams that would make a mark on the NFC this season. Oddly enough, the Titans, who finished 10-6, and the Redskins, who finished 8-8, both made the playoffs. However, neither team managed to get past the first round of the playoffs, meaning that they might not meet in the NFC title game this season.

"We've had our wake-up call," said Coach Steve Spurrier of the Redskins. "We know we have to play better if we want to make the big playoffs this season." The team faces tough competition this season, with teams like the Detroit Lions, the Dallas Cowboys, and the New York Giants all looking to improve their records.

The Redskins, who finished 8-8 last season, have made some key signings this off-season, including free agent receiver Deion Sanders. Sanders, who played with the Atlanta Falcons last season, is expected to add a much-needed spark to the Redskins' offense.

On the other hand, the Titans, who finished 10-6, have lost some key players to free agency, including wide receiver Kevin Dyson. However, they have also added some promising young players to their roster, including quarterback Steve McNair.

"We're excited about the season," said Titans coach Mike Mularkey. "We know we have some work to do, but we're confident that we can bounce back from last season and make a run for the playoffs this year."

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) - U.S. women's soccer team never really expected to reach the gold-medal game, but just seemed that way.

A few years ago, they had no idea that way was any way, but Monday night the USA's mission was accomplished.

On a cool, breezy Sydney night in the Semifinal 5-9, the USA beat Brazil 2-1 to advance to Saturday's gold-medal game against Germany.

"We battled tonight," said midfielder Mia Hamm. "We knew we could win. We just had to believe in ourselves."

The USA advanced to the gold-medal game of the 1996 Olympics games with a 2-1 victory over Brazil in a World Cup challenge to remain alive in the tournament.

"That's what's happening to the USA," said Hamm. "We're going to play as we should."

"When you play as we play," said Hamm, "you have a chance to win."

She added, "You have to do it to win."

The USA beat Brazil in the World Cup challenge after losing to Germany in the quarterfinals.

"We're going to play as we should," said Hamm. "We have a chance to win."

The USA has won two Olympic gold medals, but this year's team is bidding for their third.

REPLAY

Let’s face it: Instant replay is a classic.

Turner referred the NCAA to use coaching challenges to contest the official’s ruling on any plays, anytime, anywhere. The officials, not the coaches, make the calls, according to a NCAA spokesperson.

The NCAA passed its new instant replay rules in March. The system allows coaches to challenge any call, any time, anywhere. Once a challenge is made, the official looks at the replay and makes the call. The coaches can challenge any call, any time, anywhere.
