Gore, Bush duke it out over taxes, drugs

The two major-party candidates face off in the first of three debates.

By Sandra Jacobson
Associated Press

BOSTON — Vice President Al Gore and Texas Gov. George W. Bush clashed over tax cuts, health care, prescription drug benefits and campaign finance Wednesday night in their first face-to-face debate of the fall, a pointed contrast in the white heat of a contested election.

Condensed from the network where Gore charged that Bush's plan would "spend more exclusively on prescription drugs, and wouldn't help 1 percent of all the new prescription drug users"

Students protest Nader's exclusion

Local supporters say the Green Party candidate would offer an alternative to corporate politics.

Thirty-year-old woman in the Johnson County area died of breast cancer in 1999. It is the most common cancer and the leading cause of cancer-related death among women.

The Iowa Breast and Cervical Cancer Detection Program sponsored an event "around town" to raise breast cancer awareness.

The screening event started in 1999 and funded by the Iowa Department of Public Health.

The event was one of the games offered atfunc at Hubbard as part of fundraising. Both said it was on a hot but not too hot.

Homecoming activities Tuesday afternoon gave some students a break from classes. The weather was perfect.

The area was scheduled and allowed to any group, but pre-approved. Events were held outside all day with people looking to join in.

It was free to see other organizations get involved, said UI senior Karlie Lee, a member of Delta Gamma.

Council discusses plans to rezone

No new apartments or co-ops would be built in the historic neighborhood.

By Megan Eckhardt

Plans to outlaw new apartments and cooperative housing in a historic neighborhood were unveiled Monday by the Iowa City City Council.

The planning commission, supported by the city's Planning Director Karen Franklin and the department, recommended rezoning the area to a single-family residential zone, which was announced Monday by the Iowa City City Council.

Changing to an RS-11 zone would not allow any apartment complexes on the site to be built, according to the city, which became the standard for apartments or co-ops to be rebuilt if an existing one is designated.

The council is considering the rezoning because residents of the historic zone want their neighbors' character to be preserved.

The council will have the opportunity to vote on the issue at its next meeting.

Iowa City is pursuing a project called the "East Side Initiative," which is intended to revitalize the neighborhood.

The council will consider the rezoning request at its next meeting.

Dry conditions concern farmers

The Associated Press

Farmers in western Iowa are watching the skies closely as a series of dry conditions sees the area near drought. "We've never seen anything like it before," said Bob Beedle, the Iowa State Extension director. "The weather has been so dry that even a spark could set the crop off." The Associated Press reports that the area has seen a series of dry conditions in recent years, with some farmers saying they have never seen anything like it before.

New Web suffixes debut in 2001

The Associated Press

A list of proposed new domain suffixes will be held on Nov. 29. By Ariane Dauvin Associated Press

NEW YORK — At the last minute, the world's government clung to its grip on the Internet, hours before it was to lose control of the Web. The United States' Telecommunications Commission approved a plan to let a group of companies start selling new Internet addresses, including .com, .net, .org, .edu, .gov and .mil.

Officials said Tuesday that it has accepted 47 proposals for new .com addresses and has opened registration to the public. The proposals include .sports, .travel, .auto, .finance, .science and .education.

The proposals include .sports, .travel, .auto, .finance, .science and .education. The plan is part of a plan to allow more control over the Web's domain names, which are currently controlled by the U.S. government.

Scientists identify Arctic polluters

A waste incinerator in Ames is named as a contributor to ozone depletion.

By Matt Curness

NEW YORK — For the first time, scientists say they have pinpointed many of the industrial pollutants responsible for the ozone-depleting emissions that are ending up in the eastern and central United States.

They found that 35 municipal waste incinerators, cement kilns and steel plants in the eastern and central United States account for more than 70 percent of the dioxin reaching the Canadian Arctic.

"We are increasingly worried about this situation," said Shaila Maiti-Chatterjee, the Canadian president of the International Circumpolar Conference. "The environment is actually our responsibility." The computer program, designed by the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration, used in the study simulated the weather patterns that move across North America on an hour-by-hour basis.

The war against movie mediocrity

It is not too often that Bruce Willis movies become the subjects of congressional hearings. But when a Senate committee convened to discuss the marketing of violent films last week, that's exactly what happened.

A Senate subcommittee of the Commerce Committee began to hear testimony on the movie industry's marketing of violent films to young viewers. The subcommittee concluded by issuing a favorable report, with every senator saying that he would vote to pass the measure.

The bill before the Senate is a version of legislation that the same congress has considered several times. It is different, however, in that it would make it too late to pick up the campaign to block the bill.

One can only hope that the next time the Senate and the House act on this bill, it will be on the merits of its proposals, and not on the merits of the bill itself.

Senator Jeff Sessions (R-Ala.) said, "This bill is not about violence. It's about the right of parents to decide what their children watch."

Senator Richard Lugar (R-IN) said, "This bill does not go far enough. It would be better to ban violent movies altogether."

One Twenty-Six strives for European feel.
By Jennifer Babcock
The Daily Iowan

One Twenty-Six, located at 129 E. Washington St., could easily have been found first on the streets of Europe and not in Iowa City.

The building is basically recognizable as the former home of Great Midwest Ice Cream Co., its orange exterior and large windows open under an orange awning. Owner Grant Lock has given One Twenty-Six a distinctive look.

The restaurant features both a "cafe" and "bar," where guests are able to enjoy appetizers, salads, sandwiches, soups and Pastries.

Alas employees are especially proud of the waiters training the bartenders have undergone and the unique drinks they are able to produce. Specialties include - the "gypsy," a Cuban drink, and the "fourth dimension," a drink that usually makes the rounds.

From the own and with much personal presentation that it at first seems a bit cut into it and release its river of colors.

Adams employees are especially proud of the winter training the bartenders have undergone and the unique drinks they are able to produce. Specialties include - the "gypsy," a Cuban drink, and the "fourth dimension," a drink that usually makes the rounds.

A specialty of the restaurant are waffles. The house-made waffles topped with freshly made fruit preserves are made fresh for the customer. It is brought out warm.

Federal Reserve leaves interest rates alone

The central bank declines to change the rates for the third-straight time.

By Marvin Belcher Associate Press

WASHINGTON — Federal Reserve policy-makers decided Thursday for a third-straight time to leave interest rates unchanged, but they signaled that higher rates remain possible because of rising energy prices.

"Our most vicious and violent act was apparently committed and unprovoked." In a recent interview, Chapman said he believed that Lennon would have approved of his release.

The board concluded that releasing Chapman "violated the necessities of the crime and serves to undermine respect for the law.

The parole board did note that Chapman has an "inflammatory disciplinary record" while in prison. But it added that because he has served two more years without another disciplinary action, "you have been unable to avoid periods of anti-violent and anti- appreciation programs." Chapman, 45, is serving 20 years in prison.

The board called Chapman's killing of Lennon "violent and unprovoked." In addition to being one of the most famous musicians in the world, Lennon was also a "husband and father of two young children," the board said.

"More violent and violent acts were apparently funded by your need to be "famous,"" the board added. "Your most vicious and violent act was apparently committed and unprovoked." It was Chapman's first attempt for parole stemming from the December 1980 shooting death. Chapman won't be eligible for parole until May 20, when the Fed boosts its federal funds rate, the board noted.

The New York state parole board says Mark David Chapman is still a parole official rejected a need for publicity, a drive for two more years. The parole board did note that Lennon would have approved of his release. But the board concluded that releasing Chapman "violated the necessities of the crime and serves to undermine respect for the law.

Hawkeyes ready for better showing

Hawkeye fans hope to avenge their 49-3 loss to Michigan State Saturday at Kinnick.

The Big Ten game was one of the many loss of the 1999 season.

But it was a chance the Hawks in the second half. Olds said, "We just had to get the ball to the line backfield."

On Saturday, Michigan State will come to Kinnick. The Spartans entered the game as a 2-1-1 team. They had a 0-0 tie with Northwestern, a surprising Big Ten newcomer. Renee Hawkinson, the former Husker staff, said he didn’t expect the Spartans to suffer from the same offensive woes. Indeed, the Spartans were only 4-2-2 on the ground.

"The biggest question for them right now would be the quarterback situation," he said. "Whoever is in there I really would play well, and we’ve got to expect that. Probably the biggest key to the game is the third downs. They really had a four-and-three third down, offensively.

"On the other hand, will start quarterback Jon Buehrer for the second straight game. Other than his slow start, which, however, he said, "It was in the second quarter."

The press conference was after the game.

Elkington fights through injuries to regain form

Steve Elkington hits out of a tricky bunker during the Buick Challenge on Sept. 28. Elkington is playing pain-free for the first time in weeks.

Steve Elkington says golf should be "like falling off a bike." By Doug Ferguson Associated Press

Elkington, 39, who has recovered from a back injury, said he should be on his bike again after missing the Deutsche Bank Championship this month. He has been off since the August Buick Open, where he tied for 32nd in his most recent start.

Elkington, who has missed three events since then, said the back injury has been so bad that he can't even play golf.

"But I'm really looking forward to getting back on the bike," he said.

Elkington, who has been on the Tour since 1980, has won 13 events, including the 1987 Vardon Trophy and the 1988 British Open.

He has high expectations for this year's Open Championship, which starts today at Muirfield Village Golf Club in Dublin, Ohio.

"I don't think anyone is going to be cruising for the Open this year," he said. "I think everyone is going to be there and everyone is going to be playing their best."

Elkington is among the favorites to win the Open, which is considered one of the four major championships on the PGA Tour.

"I think the Open is going to be a lot of fun," he said. "I think everyone is going to be there and everyone is going to be playing their best."
Chrebet enjoys new nickname

New York's Wayne Chrebet is being referred to as the "Green Lantern" in New York.

By Myron B. Uhlman

HEMPTSFIELD, N.Y. — The Green Lantern has arrived complete with T-shirt, ring and football helmet. The nickname is being given to New York Jets receiver Wayne Chrebet playing the part of captain.

One week after his starring catch against Tampa Bay, Chrebet still was getting a kick out of his new nickname.

"It's hysterical," said Vinny Testaverde, who threw the ball to Chrebet after Chrebet outshone his nemesis, Keyshawn Johnson.

"Chrebet" is Wayne Chrebet's Internet monicker, which Johnson's Postgame Room used to make fun of him.

"They had this stuff and I said to me, 'Chrebet' said with a chievous look.

They inspired the modern-day hero of the New York Jets.

"I'm not saying it's the NFL's gift to the guy at HBO to give me," Chrebet said. "I'm not saying it's the greatest day back from its bye week, it's no secret the Jets were looking a new persona for the quarterback.

"They told me it's an average, normal man who turns into a superhero, and I like that," Chrebet said.

White Sox blow lead, lose Game 1

Seattle hits back-back, home runs in the 10th inning to down the White Sox.

By Rick Gose

Associated Press

CHICAGO — The Seattle Mariners had two runners on base and a 1-0 lead with one out in the bottom of the 10th inning, and hadn’t scored in the entire game until they did it. That’s all they needed, a pair of two-run home runs in the 10th inning, to clinch Game 1 of the American League Division Series over the Chicago White Sox.

The White Sox were leading 1-0 in the bottom of the 9th inning when Jose Abreu fouled out to end the game.

A’s overcome Yankee threat

Colon takes Game 1 with a 3-5 win.

By Dietmar Grothe

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Even the comfort of the postseason couldn’t soothe the New York Yankees out of their slumber.

But after three unimpressive and often botched outings off Roger Clemens, A.J. Burnett adroitly struggled the stuffing out of Yankees fans. The A’s took Game 1 in the opener of their playoff series.

In a matchup of non-revived, a small-market club that was a distant second to the Yankees this season after going 56-36-1 since 1986 was pulled together by Hall of Famer Clemens and a ragtag crew of relievers, the A’s won an 8-5 victory over the Yankees in the World Series title.

Despite a big lead early and a 2-0 advantage after the first four innings, the A’s couldn’t put the final touch on a 5-1 win. The A’s fell in the seventh and eighth to a 7-4 final.

The A’s won’t be back in the playoffs this year, ending the regular season with a 1-7 start and being the worst skid ever for a team.

It was a decision that only one person could make, and that is carefully thought through.

The Cardinals made a decision to trade Ankiel to Atlanta to bring in a left-handed pitcher.

The Cardinals had a lot of options, but they decided to trade Ankiel to the Atlanta Braves in exchange for another left-handed pitcher.

Ankiel has been a team player and has contributed a lot to the team this season.

With Ankiel in the lineup, the Cardinals can count on his versatility and his ability to hit left-handed pitchers.

I'm playing at this level. I'm not a great pitcher, maybe. But I don't think my role on the team will change too much, I'd probably just have to do my thing, be myself and prove to the rest of the world that I can play. I'm looking forward to the opportunity.

I hope we have a good season, and I want to keep the runs down here. It is a difficult task, but we have to keep working hard and believe in ourselves.
