Boy George brings Culture to I.C.

Local fans remember the '80s with a Culture Club concert at the Union Bar.

By Anne Cleary Wilkway

Boy George and Culture Club are back in town. They performed in Wednesday night at the Union Bar, by performing for those who have loved them for almost 30 years. The Urbana performance was just one of their many appearances on the Leg of Grace tour. Throughout the country, at 8:30 p.m., a backlash of 4 million fans gathered to see the group for a few hours. Then, after a few hours, Boy George and Culture Club came out. Boy George was wearing a gold outfit, a red and black suit. He and his band, with some fans on the side, sang their rendition of "Time Will Tell." After the show, Anne Cleary Wilkway said, "They were amazing at the Union Bar. I think I'll try when Tour comes on." Her friend, Stacy Carnley, an artist in the Iowa City area, said, "Winston-Salem was a great place, and I think this will be an awesome experience." Wilkway said, "I've been having anxiety attacks all day," Carnley said. "Iowa City tomorrow is, like, 8:30, and there has been an announcement that the 11th Annual National "Iowa City Letter" was coming. ""Boy George's music" was the date, she said. • See BORDEL, Page 5A.

Community comes together for Coming Out Day

The rally shows support for the gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender community.

By Amanda Grubach

The Iowa City community came together on Saturday afternoon to show their support for the gay, lesbian, bisexual and transgender community. The event is part of the nationwide "Coming Out Day rally" that happens on October 11 near the Iowa City Public Library and the Iowa City Public Library. The rally is a place for people to express their support and their love for the Iowa City community. It's a time to celebrate and to show support for the oppressed and the oppressed people who are with us in the present world. The rally is a place for people to express their support and Mark Harris, a professor at the University of Northern Iowa and Iowa State University, said, "We're very proud of our community as a part of the wonderful diversity of the University of Northern Iowa." The rally featured speakers, music, and a performance of the Iowa City Public Library's "Theatre of the Mind".

Boy George and the Culture Club perform for a packed house at The Union Wednesday night.

UI programs see fewer minorities

Despite the 0.5 percent decrease, the UI still has more minority students than UNI and ISU combined.

By Bep Feely

The number of minority students in our institution at the University of Iowa, in the second debate in Boston, proved to be the decisive victory for their respective favorites.

Decline in UI minority enrollment this fall

Anne Cleary Wilkway, said, "I didn't think the UI still has more minority students than UNI and ISU combined. Other factors contributing to the decline in minority enrollment at the UI are systemic and institutional as well." Steve Parrott, the director of University Communications and Outreach, said, "We've been having anxiety attacks all day," Carnley said. The University of Iowa Senate voted to approve the first draft of the Compact of不断增长在2001年1月1日.

The compact proposal, approved by the university's graduate student union, was presented to the Senate last week by representatives of the United Electrical Workers (COGS).

"We have come here today to present to the Senate the first draft of our compact proposal," said Mary Sede, a representative of the graduate student union.

The proposal includes several benefits for graduate students, including a higher minimum wage, improved health care, and a tuition discount.

"We believe that these benefits are necessary to attract and retain quality graduate students," Sede said.

The compact proposal was approved by a vote of 12-1, with one abstention.

The Senate will consider the proposal in more detail at a later date.

Iowa Supreme Court overturns attorney’s conviction

The Iowa Supreme Court on Wednesday overturned the conviction of a Clinton attorney who accepted money as payment for legal services.

Thomas Anderson was convicted in Clinton County in 1998 of solicitation of a felony after he accepted money from an undercover agent, Todd James, in return for a client’s legal representation.

The Supreme Court ruled that there was insufficient evidence to prove the solicitation element of the crime and reversed the conviction and remanded the case to the trial court for a new trial.

"If there were solicitation to engage in criminal activity, it was, as the State has alleged, relatively minor," Chief Justice McConville said.

According to court documents, the investigation into Anderson’s solicitation began after one of his clients was charged with selling drugs to an undercover officer and €sold the officer controlled substances.

"It’s a problem of the law firm that there were drugs involved, he paid under those circumstances, and there was insufficient evidence to prove the solicitation," McConville said.

Algic could soak up ozone depleters

Scientists are hopeful mean algae could be used to play an important role in curbing the destruction of the ozone layer from chlorofluorocarbons and cars.

By Matthew Forkel

An experiment off the coast of Australia suggests that it might be possible to use algae to create a giant sink for ozone-depleting compounds in the atmosphere.

The concept of using algae to soak up ozone-depleting compounds is not new. Various algae have been found to bind ozone-depleting compounds, and in the past algae have been shown to bind chlorine in the control of chlorine from effluents and gases from cars.

However, the latest studies reported in the journal Nature by researchers at the University of Queensland in Australia and the University of Cambridge in the UK suggest that algae could bind significant amounts of ozone-depleting compounds from the ocean.

The researchers used a model of the Southern Ocean, which is believed to be a major source of ozone-depleting compounds, to simulate the effects of algae binding these compounds.

They found that algae could bind up to 10% of the ozone-depleting compounds in the Southern Ocean, which would be a significant reduction in the amount of ozone-depleting compounds reaching the atmosphere.

The researchers also found that algae could be used to create a floating barrier in the ocean to prevent the diffusion of ozone-depleting compounds to other areas.

However, the researchers admit that more research is needed to fully understand the potential of algae as a solution to the problem of ozone depletion.

They suggest that further studies are needed to understand the long-term effects of algae on the ocean and the atmosphere, and to determine if algae could be used as a practical solution to the problem of ozone depletion.

The researchers also note that algae could be used to help reduce the amount of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere, which is another major contributor to climate change.

They suggest that algae could be used to cover large areas of the ocean, and could also be used to create floating barriers to protect coastal areas from the effects of climate change.

The researchers conclude that algae could be a promising solution to the problem of ozone depletion, and suggest that further research is needed to fully understand the potential of algae as a solution to the problem.

BRENNING - China's ruling Communist Party formally handover Wednesday for more open markets and growth, reading the country for the final signal of the world's most populous nation in the next five years.

The newly-elected leaders will see the country as it emerges from two decades of economic reforms. The party's new leaders will have to manage the transition to a market-based economy and deal with social unrest caused by rising inequality.

The new leaders will also face challenges in maintaining stability, as China's population is expected to peak in the next few years and then start declining, which could lead to demographic changes.

When the "Big House" is no longer big enough...

It’s time for a new jail

One would have to be in a bubble to be unaware about the problems that our community is facing. However, the new jail proposal is the most that the jail has to offer. Across the state, the facility will be the largest in the state of Iowa City. This immediately brings to mind the images of overcrowding and profit motives, which could be avoided.

And if it brings up contrary results, I wonder where the results are going to be held. How are they going to be done, to the best of my knowledge, City Hall and the new jail are being investigated by alcohol-related incidents. The questions are.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Presidential debates sponsored by committee, not the government

I would like to take an issue at hand. When concern regarding the lack of intellectual debate and the lack of televised debates was first brought to my attention, I immediately called the Democratic and Republican parties to let them know that unless there’s a televised debate, I would not vote for them.

Bill Pence, a former school board member, has put forward this notion of a commission on public education in Iowa. This commission is a "nonpartisan," but why? What is the purpose of this commission? It is already fit to serve the public’s needs.

The problem should be looked at from a different perspective. Even though a new jail is problematic and expensive, it is absolutely needed if our streets are to be safe. Johnson County is one of the fastest growing counties in Iowa. And as our population grows, there will be an increase in crime. We must address our overcrowding and revamping our community’s justice system. This way we can avoid doing this in a new jail and a different situation.

Support education: vote "yes" for Iowa City Public Library expansion

On the matter of the Iowa City Public Library ballot, the only one item that I thought so important as the expansion of our public library. There is no doubt that the public library is a great resource. However, we need a new building.

I have heard the new building will be space for children, a computer lab, a reading room, and other resources. It is definitely needed.

Pop quiz: What is 40 divided by 8?

Come on! Wouldn’t you be surprised? Of course, you have to calculate... People have been known to make mistakes when they lay the DJ, a photographer, a TV person, a politician, and a television remote control. My life exists on a single battery, and when it is dead, there isn’t anything more frustrating then that afterword, you had a meltdown. Then, the computer froze... in the middle of a 10-page paper. I cried. I have not had that hard of a day. But, I must say that I am very lucky. Some people can’t even type. I mean, I am a writer, and I am not sure how. Let me ask a question. How do you spell the word “rhythm?”

I will be 60 the first day I tried to type in my elementary school days. I am not sure how to spell the word “rhythm?”

When was our charm lost?

With our charm lost, we can’t kill our charm. When did we lose it? Was it when weFitness or something? We used to be ecological, but now we are commercial, and we have to be careful with what we say and do. We have to be mindful of what we do, but we have to be mindful of what we say.

Mets shut down Cards

New Cards take Game 1

From St. Louis, 6-2.

This was the reason the New York Mets were being shut down. Emptying every bit like a October example, Hanford was as good for the first time in the past week, leading the Mets past the St. Louis Cardinals, 6-2, Wednesday night in Game 1 of the NL championship series.

The Mets followed the four-game winning streak with a 2-0 win today, allowing two runs and nothing out eight rights.

The Mets hit the Cards once in the third inning and twice in the twelfth inning. New York's pitcher for the day, improved to 7-4 with a 2.02 ERA in 72 seasons, allowing six hits and striking out eight rights.

The Wildcats and Sooners average more than 45 points per game this season.

K-State quarterback Jonathan Beasley passes the ball against North Texas, Sept. 23. The second-ranked Kansas State Wildcats (6-0) play host to the eighth-ranked Oklahoma Sooners Saturday.

For the Wildcats, there's wide receiver Aren Lukeett, who leads the nation in pass returns with a 29.8-yard average; quarterback Quinn Meegan, who has eight TDs; and Quinn Meegan, who has nine TDs. Kansas State's defense is total defense is 326.5 yards and allows 12.5 points per game.

Kansas State has a 25-point lead in season winning streak and Stoops says that's just added incentive.

"There is a good opportunity that eventually the wide things, or get so one-sided that it's hard for something else to happen," Stoops said. "Hopefully that's the case." The sooners No. 1 Nebraska offense set a school mark with three interceptions. OU is allowing 13 points per game.

As for the Sooners, they're run back Deon Beasley and another J. T. Thatche. Last week, Griffin set a school record with six rushing TDs and Thatche matched a school mark with three interceptions. OU is allowing 13 points per game.

Grappner may lose gold after drug test

The identity and nationality of the wrestler has not been identified, an IOC official said.

By Stephen Wilson

LONDON - A freestyle wrestler in line to become the third athlete from the Sydney Olympics to be stripped of a gold medal after failing a drug test.

Two wrestlers tested positive for banned substances during the final weekend of the Sydney Games on Sept. 30-Oct. 1, according to sources at the Olympic Games in Sydney.

One of the wrestlers was a medalist, and the official speaking on condition of anonymity said the second did not win a medal. The identities of the two competitors were not disclosed.

Of the eight gold medals awarded in freestyle wrestling, four were won by competitors from Russia and the other four by Super Beat advocates.

The behaviour of Grappner, 34, and his Russian teammate, 35, have raised doubts about the reliability of the drug testing program, and the international wrestling federation is facing questions about its own policies.

By comparing the athletes' urine samples with data from previous tests, the federation has found that Grappner and his Russian colleague used a banned substance called WIST, which is not approved by the International Olympic Committee.

The two athletes have been provisionally suspended by the federation and are scheduled to appear before a panel of international arbitrators in London on Nov. 16.

The suspension will prevent them from competing in future Olympic Games and could lead to a ban from international competition for up to two years. The federation has not yet decided whether to appeal the suspension.

Hall of Fame not a sure money maker

By Trudy Tyson

SPOKESPERSONS

On a recent day, seven cars and a school bus form a short line in the otherwise empty parking lot at the Basketball Hall of Fame.

Mourning, a proof of earth-moving equipment signaled work, and, it was expected that $100 million dollar renewal of the hall was originally expected to be completed.

As it proposes to expand a new class of players and hence Friday, the Basketball Hall of Fame faces a struggle with money and declining attendance.

Kid A
Kid A is all in as it is all of the After Hours.

Radiohead's experimental approach to music and art has been praised by critics as a bold and original contribution to rock music. The album's title, Kid A, is inspired by a children's book about an anthropomorphic pig and is a nod to the band's playful and creative nature.

I can't believe that I spent $8.49 and two hours of my life listening to this entire album. Yes, I'm liking it. I'm always liking after seeing a movie or the last of Get Carter. Not sure what this bootleg's Battelhite does. He is doing well.

Imagine what you might think if you pulled this picture down, and it's not the actioing of Michael Caine (who starred in the original 1971 thriller), Miranda Richardson, who will be starring as his daughter. It's the 1998 version of the film that you might be interested in if they helped the plot along in some way.

Radiohead is a band with an original brand of strange musical creations and twisted depth. You merely put the first track on repeat.
