Board spares city in area-code split

Iowa City has been spared from the latest round of the nation's area-code battles.

Friday, Mayor Thomas F. Menning said he was surprised when the Federal Communications Commission announced it would hold off on splitting two area codes, which include the Iowa City area.

"I would have thought we would have had to spend a few hours at the convention."

The Iowa City area has been involved in the area-code battle since 1999 when the Iowa City/Coralville area was split into two area codes.

The city has been among the few large urban areas still using two area codes.

Many area-code changes have been made in recent years as the nation's population and telephone numbers have increased.

The state's population has increased nearly 1,000,000 since the last area-code split, in 1991.

Iowa City was split into two area codes, 319-2 and 319-9, in 1999.

The city has been under a cloud of uncertainty ever since.

"I don't know if this is the end of the road," said Menning.

"We haven't been told that this is the end of the road."

WASHINGTON — Congress’ final battle with President Clinton continues with a major vote due to stay until Election Day, as the White House prepares to face the president’s demands, but they hold little hope the president’s reaction will be violent.

“Taking the president off the table,” Majority Leader Tom Daschle (D-S.D.) told reporters after convening the Senate. “There is a mood today that we are bringing this to a conclusion.”

But the Minnesota Repub-

President passed the bill before the election, legislation that has now come to be known as the “Bush tax cut.” The White House had fought for the bill, saying it was needed to fund the war in Iraq. But the bill did not pass until after the election, and the White House had fought for the bill, saying it was needed to fund the war in Iraq.

The bill was passed by the Senate on April 24, 2007, after a five-hour debate. The bill was signed into law by President George W. Bush.

The bill, which was part of the Bush administration’s effort to enact tax cuts, provided substantial tax relief to the American people.

The bill included provisions that provided for tax cuts for middle-class Americans, as well as tax breaks for homeowners and families with children.

The bill was one of the most controversial pieces of legislation in recent history, and it was widely criticized by both Republicans and Democrats.

The bill passed the House on April 19, 2007, by a vote of 257 to 169. The Senate passed the bill by a vote of 51 to 49 on April 24, 2007.

It would open the Baptist

The issue that Texas students

Russia, EU strive for oil deal

RUSSIAN and European officials are trying to strike a deal that would allow Russia's state-owned oil giant to sell billions of dollars worth of oil to European buyers.

Officials in both Moscow and Brussels say that a deal could be reached as early as this week.

The proposed deal would involve the sale of oil from the Russian Arctic to Europe, with the EU providing financial support for the project.

Officials say the deal would be a win-win for both sides, with Russia receiving much-needed cash to fund its energy sector and Europe gaining access to cheaper, cleaner oil.

The deal is likely to face some opposition from environmental groups who argue that it would increase Russia's reliance on oil exports and risk the country's energy security.

But officials say they are confident that they can overcome these challenges and secure a deal that benefits both Russia and Europe.

They say that the deal would also help to strengthen ties between the two countries and promote economic cooperation in other areas.

"We are working hard to strike a deal that benefits both sides," one official said.

"We believe that with a little more effort, we can overcome any objections and secure a deal that is good for both Russia and Europe."
They ain't misbehavin'

There's something very whiffy about community theater. In that 'Let's put on a show.' attitude that marks such real-estate darlings as Iowa City Community Theatre and the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, a low-end campaign song is sung, and in a company spreadsheet Whis­pered to 'Shakespeare in Love' for the story's D-cup— a youthful, stoned-proposing, mimicking mind— named John P. As far as it would matter, a 17-7 Iowa win'dve tied the Hawkeyes for first place in the Big Ten, but any win would have been welcome.

Take away two interceptions conceded against Wisconsin last week, which were the result of a breakdown, and the Badgers' first down was the result of a breakdown, and the Badgers' first down was indeed the result of a breakdown.

The referee who was clearly blown over but not yet seen Kasper's various flagged halfway across the end zone by Wisconsin's defender.

No surprise there (though Big Ten and NCAA description of the penalty). If Saudi Hill catches a pass over the middle, the result is a crucial third-and-long on Iowa's side.

Iowa's defense stops Wisconsin, but the offense can't capitalize.

By Melanie Madison

On this night, Iowa faced Wisconsin. It was a battle between two teams who have been ranked in the top 20 at different points this season.

Certainly not an easy one for the Hawkeyes. It was a game where Iowa had to dig deep to come out on top.

The Hawkeyes were one of the few teams who were able to score on the Badgers, but they were not able to capitalize on their opportunities. The offense was unable to break through the Wisconsin defense, while the defense did a solid job of holding Wisconsin scoreless.

Iowa's defense was dominant against Wisconsin that night. The Hawkeyes were able to keep the Badgers from scoring, but they were unable to put their own points across the board.

Iowa's senior class was honored before the game, and the team was looking to send them off with a win. The seniors had worked hard all season long and were looking to go out on top.

The game was a close one, with the Hawkeyes winning 2-1. It was a hard-fought game, but in the end, Iowa emerged victorious. The seniors were able to send their teammates off on a high note with a win.

Iowa's defense was solid throughout the game, while the offense was able to come through with a goal in the second half. The Hawkeyes were able to hold off Wisconsin's attacks and come away with the victory.

This was a crucial game for Iowa, as they were looking to solidify their position in the rankings. The seniors were looking to go out on a high note, and they were able to do just that with the win.

OLT rookie wins by predicting upset

Kristen Boren had never predicted in the Old Timers Village football contest before. In fact, she wasn’t playing or entering until a friend gave her an extra ballot at the last minute on Oct. 28. She decided to give it a try and made some guesses, not knowing she had a chance to claim a title in winning. Unfortunately, she didn’t. Boren was quite pleasantly surprised when she learned she had only one of 86 entries to go 8-1.

"Are you serious?" she said. "That’s so satisfying," someone backhanded her. "Remember when she found out she had won first prize, she believed it was a joke. She told me she didn’t know much about the game.

Boren correctly predicted George Texas’s shocking win at Clemson, which separated her from the same 8-1 hand as her winning entry, but got the Yellow Jackets, who were two touchdowns underdogs.

When asked how she came up with the big upset, Boren explained her method for predicitng games:

"I read Georgia Tech—well, because I did, I figured Wisconsin would win, and in the last I just put the round-number teams down," said Boren.

On this week’s game, the Washington Huskies lovingly lost to the Boise State Broncos. Kristen Boren, Marc Vander Velde, Dave Ette and Al Smith all finished 8-1 in their ballots. Dave Ette said he had also finished 8-1, but were further off on the tie-breaker score.

Iowa basketball player Dan Henderson finished 7-3 this week, and also called the Georgia Tech upset. As a result, The Daily News will have his name on the list of 10 percent of the games. Overall, 57 percent of the winners were correctly selected.

All winners may pick up their prizes in the D.IF business office, Room 111, Communications Center. This week’s ballot includes a battlefield of national title contenders when Virginia Tech hosts Florida State on Saturday, Nov. 11. Entries must be submitted by 2:30 p.m. Thursday to the sports office by 2:30 p.m. Thursday.

On a day of brilliant finishes, Oklahoma strolled in and broke into a frenzy by knocking off No. 1 Texas and replacing the Cornhuskers as the No. 1 item in the nation. "It’s a great feeling to be at the top of the world," Sooners coach Barry Switzer said following Saturday’s 38-21 victory in which the Big 12 leaders have been a long time. It’s good to win.

Oklahoma (6-1, Big 12 5-1) beat the Longhorns (6-1, 5-1) for the first time in 15 years. In 1987, the Sooners' 24-9 Senior Day victory over Nebraska in the final game of the regular season. However, Oklahoma beat Kansas in the Big Orange Bowl in the final title.

This season, the Sooners are looking to return to the Orange Bowl Championship Bowl title game (Jan. 3 - Jan. 31). One can only hope that this isn’t coming.

Volleyball team splits to keep NCAA hopes alive

The Hawkeyes lose to Minnesota 3-2, Northwestern over the weekend.

By Julie Matlo "The Daily Iowan"

With a crucial weekend trip to Minnesota this weekend, the Iowa volleyball team has managed to pull off a huge victory over the Gophers. However, the Hawkeyes suffered a heart-breaking loss to the Wildcats on Saturday.

The week began with a tough loss to the Gophers, who have been on a roll lately. However, the Hawkeyes were able to bounce back with a hard-fought win over the Wildcats.

The doubles team of Waters and Wagner won their first match at No. 3, but fell in the next round. Singletay lost his singles match at No. 1 due to an injury. Because of the return of their players at the conference tournament, the Hawkeyes' chances of improving their ranking were slim.

However, these two girls will sail a high ship if they can get into the next round to run faster and physically fight the ball. However, they don't have a team race and keep the ball.

The mountain air of Colorado may have been too much for the Hawkeyes. However, they were able to bounce back with a win over the Ohio State Buckeyes on Saturday.

The team has come a long way this season. The Hawkeyes have lost to the Buckeyes but have shown improvement in recent matches. They are looking to continue their strong play against Northern Iowa on Sunday.

The Hawkeyes have been a bit of a surprise team this season. However, they have shown potential and are capable of making a run in the conference.

The official standings and match of the order the tournament will be held at are yet to be determined. The tournament will be held at the University of Colorado.

Waldorf steals show at Disney Classic

Duffy Waldorf shoots a 62 in the final round to seal the comeback victory.

Waldorf wasn't thinking about winning after blowing his lead at the start. But after his round, he found himself in a tie for the lead at the finish line without knowing it. "I didn't think about winning," he said. "I just didn't want to lose."

Waldorf, meanwhile, suffered a heart attack after playing the first 15 holes. He struggled to keep the ball out of the hole and finished with a 79 for the day. "I didn't play well," he said. "I was very happy with myself."

Disney's success was all the more remarkable given the challenges he faced during the tournament. He had to deal with a variety of injuries, including a torn hamstring, a pulled back muscle, and a bad cold. "It was a tough week," he said. "I was really happy with myself."

Disney's parents, John and Nancy, were on hand to watch him play. "We were proud of him," said John. "He's a great kid."

Disney's victory was a storybook ending to a season that had been anything but. He had struggled early in the year, but with the help of his family and coaching staff, he was able to turn things around. "I have a special talent," he said. "I'm not sure how it happened, but it did."
