Republicans hype Nader to fight Gore

The GOP is airing pro-Nader ads to hurt Al Gore's chances in three swing states.

By Joe Elliott

In a move that George Winston, press secretary for the Nader campaign, called "an extremely negative move that is not necessary," GOP leaders are vastly increasing their negative advertising against Al Gore in three swing states.

"We are talking about a move that completely cheapens the political process," Winston said. "This is not what the American people want."

GOP leaders kill budget compromise

President Clinton says the Republicans are heading special interests.

By Jim Firestone

A multi-billion dollar budget compromise in the Senate was scuttled on Wednesday in an eleventh-hour move by the Republican leadership. The move gives the Senate the power to override President Clinton's veto of the budget.

"We are not willing to support a budget that would cut Medicare and Social Security," said Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole. "We will not support a budget that is not fiscally responsible."

The Federal Reserve crisis threatens a recession

By Joe Elliott

The Federal Reserve crisis threatens to push the economy into a recession later this year.

"The Federal Reserve crisis is a major threat to the economy," said a White House official. "We are watching the situation closely and will take action if necessary."
In a recent poll conducted by the University of Iowa, 83 percent of those surveyed said they are still in touch with their alma mater. The report states that alumni who are involved in university-related activities are more likely to stay in touch with their alma mater. The report also notes that alumni who are involved in university-related activities are more likely to give to their alma mater.

The report further notes that alumni who are involved in university-related activities are more likely to volunteer for their alma mater. The report also notes that alumni who are involved in university-related activities are more likely to attend alumni events.

The report concludes that alumni who are involved in university-related activities are more likely to support their alma mater in a variety of ways. The report also notes that alumni who are involved in university-related activities are more likely to be satisfied with their alma mater.

The report recommends that universities should make it easier for alumni to become involved in university-related activities. The report also recommends that universities should make it easier for alumni to stay connected with their alma mater.
At Mayflower, it's finally quiet

The rush of false fire alarms in the dorm has abated, at least temporarily.

By Megan Eckerd

The recent rash of false fire alarms finally came to a halt last week. Jackson Hall, after a semester marked by alarming changes seeing an unusual number of false alarms, has returned to normal. The dorm's resident director, Kroul Farms, has responded to a majority of Mayflower's concerns. They have given an all-clear signal, ending the false alarm threat.

The false alarms also caused Kroul Farms to send out another major. Only a few false alarms were reported by the dorms. The major is now over, and the dorms have resumed normal operations.

"People have gotten concerned about the dorm's safety," said Kroul Farms. "They don't have enough information sitting in their rooms to determine whether it's a real fire alarm." The City Fire Marshall Roger Russell said that in the next few days, Mayflower residents will be working to understand the management's decision.

Planning was the least of the dorm's concerns. In the past, the dorm has dealt with other issues such as mold and noise. But the dorm has made a significant effort to improve the living conditions.

"I think it's a real improvement," said Russell. "I'm going to make my jack-o-lantern with 60 million others who can't sleep because of the false alarms." The dorm has also made changes to the mattress and pillow, and is considering moving furniture.

For Nickie Kirkwood, being involved with Glamour magazine as one of the top 100 college students in the country is something she has always dreamed of. Kirkwood had applied to the Glamour magazine, and was eventually selected as one of the top 100 students.

"It's been a dream of mine," said Kirkwood. "I'm just thrilled to be a part of this." The magazine has always been a source of inspiration for Kirkwood, and she is excited to see what the future holds.

This year, the dorm is planning a "Girl Power!" event to celebrate the lives of women who have experienced success.

The event was organized by the dorm's women's group, and will be held on October 24. The event will feature discussions, workshops, and guest speakers who have experienced success in various fields.

Kirkwood is excited about the event, and hopes that it will inspire other women to pursue their dreams.

"I'm really looking forward to it," said Kirkwood. "I think it will be a great way to celebrate the accomplishments of women." The event will be held on the dorm's main hall.

Kirkwood was recently interviewed by Glamour magazine, and was featured as one of the top 100 college students in the country. She has been an active member of the women's group on campus, and has been involved in various activities.

"I'm really proud of her," said her mentor, Mary. "She's been working very hard, and it's really exciting to see her success." The event will be held on the dorm's main hall.

Microsoft fails in bid to track hacker

The software giant faces a skilled hacker through its network for more than a week.

By Michael J. Morton

WASHINGTON - Microsoft again found itself chasing a hacker in a more than working game of cat-and-mouse through the computer software giant's vast system, company officials disclosed Monday on whether a multi-week hunt for a hacker was successful.

Sources close to the case, who did not wish to be identified, told the Associated Press that the company failed of the information early. After the network operators reported suspicious activity that required a tool to track hackers, they "saw" a tool that could be in place in the first place. The hackers then tried to upgrade the security system to stop the hacker from using it.

The law itself never carved out a category for such a case, and lawyers argued that the hackers would be eligible for early release.

The debate centered on language in the law that said inmates "may" have their sentences reduced if they "show" they are not atypical, especially if the harm was "light." Inmates "may" have their sentences reduced if they "show" they are not atypical, especially if the harm was "light." "We're not seeing that with low-level access, or blueprints, to one system as he tried to upgrade the security system to stop the hacker from using it," said the spokesman. "It's been more than a week now, and we're still working on it." "But thanks to U 3 Family Care, "mothers and fathers" can be as simple as a short drive. I started typing as I read the text. The political crisis we have seen, it seems, will not end over night. The executive order with the rebels remains in place, and a new round of Israeli attacks on Gaza is expected later today. It seems that the president and the government will not be able to prevent the firing of rockets from Gaza. The military operation continues, and the damage is mounting. The government has not released any details about the casualties, but it is clear that the situation is deteriorating. The international community is calling for a ceasefire, but it seems that the fighters on both sides are determined to continue the conflict. It seems that the only way to end this conflict is through diplomatic efforts and a peaceful solution. The situation is grave, and we must act now to prevent a humanitarian disaster.

Reke said that it was important to have a honest house with a religious message, but that Christians don’t lose sight of what’s important during Halloween.

"Halloween is too much required for it being a time for the Devil, and we are to take this opportunity to stand for both right," he said.

Laurel Webbon, the youth director for the Church United Methodist church in Bedford, she said the group has been speaking the Christian messages and may not be the best way to do it.

"Personally, I think they are a bit out there, and as part of the soul, but I think the people are just more traditional," she said.

However, a member of the Church United Methodist church, said he believes their party's prospect will be in hand, but it will be bolstered by helping Congress in安卓 and the elections.

"The GOP leadership has been asking the congress to stay in line to see what happens in Congress to the elections, and the elections."

The Republican lawmakers will have to continue their budget fights in a hush-dash session of Congress after Thanksgiving.

But the American political tapestry has not been pushed together. The temperature is still high, and there is a growing sentiment that the Republican lawmakers will have to come together to do the election.

Reke, who was attending the university, said that college students should be paid for their government service.

"Education should be free," he said.

UI Freeman, a student, said he was concerned about the debate to learn more about the budget. He said,

"I think Bush would make a good president, but I think Gore makes every vote in the budget."

Kronos, Glass & Dracula to chill out Hancker

The famed quartet will team up with the famed composer to provide music for Lugosi's classic.

By Lauren Brandt in Tipton

As you stroll through the lobby of Centennial Hall on Oct. 30, you might notice a familiar face among the music students. Philip Glass and the Kronos Quartet will accompany Bela Lugosi's Dracula to the World Music Ensemble's annual Halloween concert.

Glass, who has been the original inspiration behind this annual feature since 1997, is looking forward to seeing how the music and movie come together.

"I love the sound of the quartet," he said. "It's melodic, and it's the nature of the style of music that really [fits]."

The concert will be held at 8 p.m. at the Main Auditorium, with admission $10 to $35. When: Oct. 30 at 8 p.m.

Glass will be working on a new quartet piece for Halloween, a composition he will premiere at the concert where Glass went to school. Glass will perform as Hanover last year, and he said the group is one of his favorite quartets.

"My number one is Chopin," he said. "He's the greatest composer in the world."

The Kronos Quartet (David Harrington, Jennifer Cohen, Joel Smirnoff and Hank Dall) will provide music accompanying the Dracula of Dracula. The price is $10 to $35.

"It's an incredible experience to work with the famed composer to provide music for Lugosi's classic," said Harrington.

The Kronos Quartet (David Harrington, Jennifer Cohen, Joel Smirnoff and Hank Dall) will play music accompanying the original Dracula of Dracula at tonight's performance. The price is $10 to $35.

"It's not going to be the biggest party in town," said Harrington.

"We're expecting a lot of kids and families." The Kronos Quartet can be reached at Kronosquartet.com and/or email.

Easy voting, plenty of opportunities... Join the political fray

Haven't noticed all those politicians and celebrities running around? Believe it or not, your vote does count. That's because with Internet voting, Ralph Nader is there to further his own cause by stumping for your vote? Believe and consider. That's because with Internet voting, Al Franken is there, much. Most all of the polls (if such things are to be even acknowledged) show that the race is too close to call. The results of the major candidates are out there, written in large type. For you to even receive their messages on the ground. They say that the time to vote is now, and doing so is better.

Griese charged with OWI

DENVER - Denver Broncos quarterback John 1. Griese was arrested Thursday on a &nd Lake County juvenile drug charge in connection with a | drunk driving incident.

Griese, 29, was stopped about 11 p.m. Thursday near Denver International Airport on a 30 mph violation and was later charged with driving while impaired.

He was booked into jail and held at the Arapahoe County Detention Facility, officials said. No bail was set.

Griese said he has a 3-year-old son and a 1-year-old daughter with his wife, Cathe Maltby, who has been his lawyer in the case.

The Broncos have struggled through their first eight games, falling to 4-4 after a 10-23 loss to San Francisco on Sunday. They are also 1-3 in their last four games at home.

Vick hopes to practice by Wednesday

Michael Vick says he needs to prepare early for Virginia Tech's game against Maryland.

By Larry Bird, Associated Press

Virginia Tech's Michael Vick ended his high school career as a quarterback moved to wide receiver. Now the senior is trying to do the same on the college level.

"I don't want anything to put me out of practice," said Vick, who is fully healed from an injury that cost him the last three games.

Rex Smith, who prepared Frank Beamer for Vick's availability in high school, said Virginia Tech's quarterback believes he must improve on his passing.

"He's got to understand that he's No. 2 player in the backfield in Atlanta," Smith said.

Vick spent six weeks on the sidelines with a knee injury that required surgery. The sophomore from Atlanta's Newton High School missed a week of practice before a September game against Pittsburgh.

"I can't really say what will happen this week," Vick said. "In truth, I'm good to go but I'm not exactly sure."

In the meantime, Vick will try to prepare for the game Monday. His first priority is to be able to play.

"I don't have any idea," Vick said. "I don't know what the (rehab) process is."

Even if Vick can't play, Davis said.

"I think we'll be able to do anything we want," Davis said.
NFL's wild card race wide open

The season is halfway finished, and there are only a few teams sure to be in the playoffs by the end of the year.

By Dave Goldberg

The nation will be at least satisfied this time even though the New York Jets and Giants have reached the midpoint of the NFL season. OK, it's not a sure thing. But it's still early and maybe this is a league wide-open at the time when this book is published.

NFC
Tampa Bay broke a four-game losing streak and moved up to 4-3 in the standings. But the Bucs will have a shot at achieving wild card status in the NFC, as long as defense consultant Marvin Lewis is given his way. Will the Lakers repeat as NBA Champions?

The Los Angeles Lakers could have no problems repeating as NBA champions. It won't be easy, but they have the ingredients that it takes to win another NBA Championship, the first being the confidence that comes with winning a championship. The Western Conference is no less than even, and the Lakers have the talent to win.

It has been a long time since the Lakers have won a championship. The last championship was 1988 and the last NBA title was 1987. Now, the Lakers are back in the NBA's elite. The Lakers have made it to the Western Conference Finals for the second consecutive year. The Lakers are one of the league's top teams, and they have the potential to win another NBA championship.

The Western Conference is tough for the Lakers to win out of so many good teams. The Lakers are facing strong competition from teams like the Golden State Warriors and the Phoenix Suns. The Lakers have a tough road ahead of them, but they have the talent to get the job done.

having second thoughts about the wideout's future.

Petersen, who recruited Blackshear but wanted a "little more" from him, said the change was "a matter of process."

"We've been fortunate to have a very good team," Petersen said. "Our receivers have been the strength of our team, but I think the wideout position needs some work."
