Iowa House passes heat-aid bills

By Sara Nagel

The Iowa House passed two heating-aid measures Tuesday that supporters say would help low-income Iowans in the short-term by providing funds to assist them in the long-term by increasing the sales tax.

It's going to be a while before printing resumes. It's not like we're going to miss just one issue; it's going to take more than that, said Todd Klett, editor.

When the alternative newspaper went on holiday on Jan. 25, the staff members didn't know the paper would close down, Klett said. They only knew that Craig Hitchcock, the CEO of YES!, Communications, Inc., was still trying to find an alternative. The paper has been primarily funded by Indianapolis-based YES!, Communications, Inc.

"It's going to take a couple of weeks to build the staff back up if a new investor is found," said Jeff Kraemer, Iowa's information technology director.

Joni, which started as a University of Iowa School of Journalism and Mass Communication, had a circulation of 40,000 in Iowa City and Cedar Rapids. Register publications has taken over for the university in some cities.

Even with printing suspended, and only two employees remaining, some editors of Iowa say this is not the end for the alternative weekly newspaper.

UI holds largest collection of Yugoslav films in the nation

By Danielle Plogmann

A collection of feature films from the former Yugoslavia is the highlight of the new University of Iowa Minnall Library's Yugoslav cinema collection. Director of the Yugoslavia Film Collection, Ph.D. student in the UI Graduate Program in Slavic, East European, and Central Asian Studies, and ex-collecting director for Yugoslavia Films, Washu Mikulic, has been working to expand the Yugoslavian film collection with the help of the UI Modern Languages and Literature Center.

"It's an incredibly ambitious undertaking, taking a new level of commitment and a very real risk," said Mikulic. "It is an incredibly ambitious collection, and through the years and through the decades, it has been a labor of love."

Several of the films have never been shown in Iowa. "This is a part of the world that has been very little-known and has been very much neglected," said Mikulic. "Because of the utopian dreams, the utopian dreams of the Yugoslav cinema, it became a very special moment in the history of cinema.

The Yugoslav cinema was started in the 1920s and lasted until the 1990s. "It was a very important part of the world cinema," said Mikulic. "It was a very important part of the world cinema, and it was a very important part of the world cinema because it was a very important part of the world cinema.

EI student Petar Petrovic speaks on the U.S. war on drugs in "The Daily Iowan" on Tuesday night. Petrovic, who is a part of the Yugoslavia Film Collection, presents the films to the public. "We are trying to bring the films to the public in the most accessible way possible," said Petrovic. "We are trying to bring the films to the public in the most accessible way possible.

North Dodge expansion draws residents’ concern

Some neighborhood residents worry about noise and air quality affecting their quality of life. Mike Green, a member of the Northside Neighborhood Association, was present at the meeting held by the City of Iowa City. Mike Green, a member of the Northside Neighborhood Association, was present at the meeting held by the City of Iowa City.

"People come into town and pick up speed; they're not slowing down," she said. "The noise and the traffic and the lights during periods of lull in the traffic and the lights during periods of lull in the traffic is going to be a problem.

Despite the concerns, some residents expressed concern about the expansion of the Northside Neighborhood Association. "I think that's a great idea, because it's a great opportunity to bring more people into the neighborhood," said Mike Green. "I think that's a great idea, because it's a great opportunity to bring more people into the neighborhood.

Other residents, such as those on North Dodge, welcome additional expansion of the road. "It is a good idea, because it is a good idea, because it is a good idea."

Additional issues raised during the seminar included increased noise, the position of the parking lane and the timing of the stop lines as well as the impact on the quality of the land. Residents were concerned about the expansion of the road. "It is a good idea, because it is a good idea, because it is a good idea."

Iowa Greens attain official status

The party reaches the 5 percent threshold; Nader received more than 2 percent of the vote.

By Tony Robinson

Despite Ralph Nader's loss, the Iowa Green Party did find a few spots to celebrate. In November, the party, which had not previously had any statewide office, won 2 percent of the vote. The party now has a slate of official candidates and Nader received even more than 2 percent of the vote in the presidential election. To keep its status as a party, the Green Party must field a candidate for governor in the 2002 election and receive at least 5 percent of the votes in the presidential election.

"Greens know that we're going to be in for a struggle," said Nader. "We're not going to get here, but we're not going to get it."

The party is supported by the Iowa Green Party, which is one of the few political groups currently functioning in Iowa. The party is led by Nader, who is a co-founder of the party. Nader is also planning a series of events to support the party's candidates.

City Council nixes funds for annual RiverFest

City Council refutes to support annual event and slashes its budget by nearly $7 million.

By Dave Allen

The Iowa City City Council refused to support the annual RiverFest event and reduced its budget by nearly $7 million. The city council was asked to consider funding the event by the Iowa City Area RiverFest, Inc., which organizes the event. The council voted to reduce the budget by $6.8 million.

The reduction in funding is part of a broader budget reduction plan by the city. City Manager Frank Deine has proposed a $10.9 million budget reduction plan for the city. The council is expected to vote on the plan on June 26, 2002.

"This is a great opportunity to reduce unnecessary funding and save money," said City Manager Deine.

In other budget news, City Council members also approved several amendments to the Capital Improvement Plan that will reduce debt tax levies.

City Council also approved the budget for fiscal year 2003, which includes a reduction in the city's operating budget. The budget is designed to reduce the city's debt burden.

The council cut approximately $1 million in non-core services and $2 million in debt service. The city's general fund budget for fiscal year 2003 was $130 million. The city's capital fund budget for the same period was $30 million.

RiverFest, a positive downtown event, is expected to receive a $25,000 increase in funding. The city's budget for fiscal years 2003 and 2004 is $41.4 million.

"This is the right time to cut the budget," said City Manager Deine. "We need to reduce our debt and save money."
UI panel examines tenure issue

The Faculty Senate discusses when tenured faculty may be removed from teaching.

By James Elliott

During a meeting of the UI Faculty Senate, professor Jeff Cox presented the account of the Senate's resolution, which reviews the procedures for removing tenured faculty members at the UI.

The document—a product of an ad hoc committee created to address the issue of removing tenured faculty members—outlines the procedures and explains the justification for removal.

The Senate concluded that removing tenured faculty members is a serious matter requiring careful consideration and due process.

The committee's report, which is based on input from individual faculty members, highlights the importance of maintaining academic freedom and ensuring that decisions are made fairly and transparently.

The Senate emphasized that tenure is a critical component of academic freedom and that it is essential to uphold the integrity of the academic institution.

The resolution also suggests that the Senate may consider the implementation of an ad hoc committee to address the issue of removing tenured faculty members.

The committee is scheduled to meet again in the near future to further develop the resolution and present it to the Senate for consideration.

The Senate expressed its concern that the procedures for removing tenured faculty members are not sufficiently transparent and that the process must be improved to ensure fairness and due process.

The resolution is anticipated to be discussed and voted upon by the Senate at its next meeting.

Weighing the HIV pros and cons of a contraceptive

Selling your soul never seemed so

I heard that using N9 was suddenly increasing your chances of contracting HIV. Is that true?

Unfortunately, there's no simple answer to your question. Unfortunately, the best advice you can get is: think before you act.

Given the prevalence of HIV among young adults, it's important to consider the risks and benefits of any decision regarding contraception.

Do you base your identity on a racial/ethnic group?

For many young adults, identity is a complex and multifaceted concept. It's important to understand the role that race and ethnicity play in one's identity and how it affects their decision-making process.

Do you mind being the "token minority"?

As a member of a minority group, it can be challenging to navigate the social and cultural expectations placed on you.

Do you ever feel that your identity is underrepresented or marginalized?

It's important to recognize and address the ways in which identity is represented in society. This can involve challenging stereotypes and promoting diversity.

How do you decide on your membership in a racial/ethnic group?

Identity is a personal and subjective experience, and it's important to respect and understand the choices that individuals make regarding their membership in a racial/ethnic group.

Are you willing to part with your American culture that to you is too restrictive?

The American culture is known for its diversity and inclusivity, and it's important to consider the ways in which it impacts your identity and sense of self.

Do you feel that you are part of a "thai" or "asian" community?

It's important to understand the ways in which one's identity is influenced by cultural and societal factors. This can involve considering the role of race and ethnicity in one's identity and how it affects their decision-making process.

What is your identity currently?

Identity is a complex and multifaceted concept, and it's important to understand the ways in which it influences one's decision-making process.

Is your identity currently defined by your race or ethnicity?

It's important to consider the role of race and ethnicity in one's identity and how it affects their decision-making process.

Do you feel that your identity is underrepresented or marginalized?

It's important to recognize and address the ways in which identity is represented in society. This can involve challenging stereotypes and promoting diversity.

Editor Wanted

An aggressive, talented individual is sought as editor of The Daily Iowan, Iowa City's largest newspaper, with an editorial staff of more than 40 young professionals, an editorial budget exceeding $300,000 and circulation of 20,500. The board of Student Publications Incorporated and the publisher of The Daily Iowan will interview candidates for the position of editor for the term beginning June 1, 2001 and ending May 31, 2002.

The editor of The Daily-Iowan must have strong journalistic abilities, skills in management and a clear sense of editorial responsibility. The board will weigh heavily scholarship, previous newswriting and editing experience (including working at The Daily Iowan or another daily newspaper), and proven ability to lead, organize and inspire a staff.

Iowa to face familiar Gopher squad

By Mike Kory

Last week Iowa's nationally ranked team lost 10-74 on the Gopher's home floor. Today, the Hawkeyes face a nationally-ranked Gopher team. Can't play winning without one of its best players. Find out on Monday.

Not so fast, say the Hawkeyes (14-4, 5-0). Iowa expects Minnesota (13-3, 4-4) to have it with different looks offensively and defensively. Also, to maintain an intensified intensity after last week's loss. In other words, because the Hawkeyes are fresh in their head, Iowa might have another.

"The way our team played on Friday was a little different than the way they played on Saturday," said Iowa's head coach, Fred Corning. "The Hawkeyes are focused on playing their best game and they're not going to take Minnesota lightly."

The Hawkeyes played Minnesota last Wednesday.

Sports Brief

Football recruiting

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) - High school football player Lee Bruder of New Hampton, Iowa, has decided to attend the University of Iowa, the Hawkeyes announced Tuesday.

Bruder is a 6-4, 270-pound offensive tackle. He is ranked by Scout.com as one of the best offensive linemen in the nation.

Bruder's commitment is the fourth for the Hawkeyes in the Class of 2002. The Hawkeyes are currently ranked No. 6 in the Associated Press Top 25 poll.

Iowa women eyeing NCAA Tournament bid

By Melissa Murphy

The mood of a NCAA selection committee member is important to coach Lisa Bluder and the Hawkeyes. In her 19-year tenure at Drake, Bluder guided the Bulldogs to postseason appearances - including four trips to the NCAA Tournament - but the last criterion required for invitations is not always clear.

In Bluder's press conference following Thursday's game, she said the selection process evaluates numerous aspects of a team's regular-season record, including strength of schedule, record against teams in the NCAA first 25 and record of a team's opponents of the 25 teams.

"How we finish up these last eight games will be crucial," Bluder said. "If we can continue to get better and play well in the Big Ten, we might have a better chance of earning a bid to the NCAA Tournament.

Bluder's team heads to Minnesota on Sunday looking for a strong finish. The Hawkeyes are currently ranked No. 13 in the ESPN Coaches' Poll and 12 in the AP Poll.

Iowans support local teams

The Iowa Hawkeyes are doing everything they can to prepare for the NCAA Tournament. The team has been practicing every day since the end of the regular season in preparation for the tournament.

In a recent poll, 75% of Iowans said they would support their local teams in the tournament.

The Hawkeyes are currently ranked No. 13 in the ESPN Coaches' Poll and 12 in the AP Poll. They are the fourth seed in the Big Ten Tournament and will face the winner of the Nebraska vs. Northwestern game in the quarterfinals.

Of all the wrestlers in the program, only 25 had a chance to wrestle for the sectional title, and 13 of them had a chance to be No. 1 in the region, and 12 of them had a chance to be No. 1 in the state. For fourteen straight seasons, McMahan has been the only high school wrestler to have been ranked for the entire wrestling season.

McMahan wrestled in the 174-pound weight class this season, but he moved up to 182 pounds for the sectional championship meet. He won the sectional title and qualified for the state tournament.

McMahan is a four-year starter and has been a consistent performer throughout his career. He has won three sectional titles and has been a state placer each of the past two seasons.

He is one of the top wrestlers in the state and has a chance to become the first 174-pounder to win a state title since 1988.

In his junior year, McMahan finished fourth in the state tournament and was the sectional champion. He has been a varsity wrestler for three years and has won a district championship.

McMahon will never hire any NFL talent

McMahon means to think that after a few years, he will be able to purchase NFL talent. However, if you're not going to pay top dollar, no minimum salary of $50,000, which is what you would be paying the XFL, are getting paid, you're not going to get anybody close to matching the talent in the NFL, and you'll never be able to hire NFL talent way above what you're matching, any players your team want in your league are going to be forced to come. With his National League variance, he would end up being relative to the NFL in a short while.

Iowa has week break before it hits the road

Standing 6-1, Widombe is averaging 5.9 points per game in a limited role so far this season.

Burner's absence could mean a big role for tiny Joe Hill. The 6-5 power forward didn't mind inciting a battle against Mississippi, leading the Hawkeyes with 11 points and 10 boards.

In the previous second game of a three-game homestand, he played well and won against Indiana, 71-66, in the opener, when the Gophers tonight, has a week off before taking on the Indiana Hoosiers Friday.

After the homecoming, Iowa goes on the road for three games, including a contest at Michigan State.

Purdue running back charged with battery

WEST CRAWFORD, Ind. — Purdue running back Steve Davis was charged Monday with battery and criminal recklessness in connection with an October attack that left a classmate with a skull fracture.

Davis, a 6-foot, 218-pound sophomore running back from Flower Mound, Texas, is accused of striking a 6-foot, 165-pound sophomore on the head and then punching him in the face.

The Indiana University student was identified as his victim.

The Vincennes courtroom operated as a setting for heartache, recovery from a feature of background, and a question of future to his right eye socket.

Alexander said Monday his plan the current case is to prosecute. "I would like to see the former private of Porter County, 'I would like to have him discharged," Alexander and his team, 'I would like to have him be recognized by the public," Alexander said.

A university official said Monday that Davis had not been suspended, but, he was not playing for personal reasons.

"He was expected to be suspended from the team in December, before the University of Indiana, 6 games in a row," Alexander said.

But according to court records, Davis had been taken to court as early as this week to meet with the public's interest in the case.

"I was going to the court, he was expected to be suspended from the team, but he was not living up to that," Alexander said.
