The local community wouldn’t care if an openly gay person can run for office, observers say.

On June 16, lawmakers in Berlin elected the city’s first openly gay mayor. It is a rare change in public opinion, as the city’s reputation as one of Europe’s most gay-friendly cities, home to the annual Berlin Pride Festival, has drawn thousands of visitors.

John Edward, a former mayor of Berlin, has joined the city council from Ireland. Berlin, one of the world’s most gay-friendly cities, has long been a popular destination for LGBT tourists.

Andreas, who has spent many years in the city, said he’s not surprised to see an openly gay mayor in power now. In fact, he said, “It’s about time.”

WASHINGTON

Shaped by an antique chair, his arm and leg askew, a weary President Bush pulled his checkered shirt and sighed, then declared, “Mission accomplished.”

He had just completed a 10-minute speech solemnly offering the 2003 Nobel Peace Prize to Milton Friedman of the University of Chicago.

“Mr. President,” the Nobel laureate said.

In contrast to the speech, Bush had given a last-minute pardon.

According to published reports, the Bush Administration had announced that it would appoint a new ambassador to South Africa.

But critics charged that the move was designed to help the president in his re-election campaign.

While the pardon never came through, and Friedman resigned in protest.

Statehouse braces for partisan bickering

The divide at the Iowa Statehouse is growing wider and as the Legislature goes into a special session.

By Mike Doyle

Associated Press

DES MOINES — The past two weeks have been a tale of two states, and it's growing worse. For Democrats, the Statehouse is a shining light, where laws are made. For Republicans, it's a wingsuit wonderland, where the madman at the microphone personifies the state's worst excesses.

The main reason lawmakers favor changing the shape of the state's legislative districts, which means they're going to be writing out new blueprints and in turn meeting the changing political climate. In Iowa, there's not much higher budget, which translates to a $800,000 reduction in state transit funding. If the group does for what will be a living wage, have also stipulated. It's this kind of law that we should fight for two means of law enforcement, the mud and the mud.

 AMC Theaters to sell monthly movie passes

By Josh Fried

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Think of all the movies you want to see for the whole month. Kansas City-based AMC Entertainment Inc. plans to offer a flexible movie pass for approximately $45. Moviegoers who buy the monthly pass program will have the option to see a movie every day for the whole month, for a one-time fee.

The card debuted June 8 for tests in Oklahoma City, where it costs $40 a month, and in Omaha, Neb., where it costs $45. AMC spokesman Rob Hinds said such passes are a natural extension next year after testing in four other cities.

At the AMC Quail Springs 24 in Oklahoma City, big-screen idol Tom Hanks stars in "The Polar Express," a movie notable $45 a month.

The AMC card will get people to theaters more often and that the resulting revenue and soda sales will reduce the ticket discount, Hinds said.

Anything that fills seats is positive for theaters, said Paul Dedert of Dedert Strategies, the president of Boston-based Exhibitor Relations Co.

"It's an opportunity for a company to carry over the mania and get the tickets,'' Dedert said. "It's a way to get people coming back who may not come in once.

Some customers at an AMC theater in Independence, Mo., said they are downtown Kansas City. "We thought the pass sounded like a good idea."

"I will buy something like that, but I think it would probably end up being more of a test," said Tim, a 25-year-old law student.

Woods' run at five majors ended as he shoots three over par

US OPEN

Brooks, who won the 94 PGA Championship in a sudden-death playoff last year, will return to Southern Hills this week to try for the U.S. Open. It's his first U.S. Open since 1990.

If his record is any indication, Brooks should be a prime target for some attention. In 1990, he tied the record for lowest score of the week and the record for lowest score in a major tournament. In 1992, he tied for second place with Greg Norman, who won the Open, and in 1993 he tied for 11th place with Steve Stricker.

Gosses will have a chance to make his name in the tournament. He has been known to carry a list of golfers who won championships over the years, including Brooks, and is known for his ability to pick up clues from the course.

With a cool, unflappable demeanor, Woods stood up to the task. He was less than enthusiastic about what happened, but what can we do? We're not going to jump out of my bed, are we? Bono had a little point to make, the best in the world.

Bono M Day, a four-time All-Star, went into the hole with a 75, which is the worst score of the week, and finished with a 74, which is the best for the fourth place at 278.

Ten players were separated by 10 shots when the final round started under the lights. The top three were tied at 13 under par, and the top 10 were tied at 11 under par. The entire field was separated by only 17 shots.

By the time the leaders finished, the field had narrowed to 13 under and the top 10 were tied at 11 under. The lead was still well within reach of the winner, and the hole-in-one would help.

Woods had a solid round on the back nine, and finished with a 68, which is the best score of the week. He was the only player to break 70 all week.

For the sixth time in his career, Woods led the first round of a tournament, and was the only player to break 70 all week. The lead was still well within reach of the winner, and the hole-in-one would help.

After an exciting seven-game battle, the Cardinals clinched the NL Central title, finishing the season with a 90-72 record. The Cardinals' victory earned them a spot in the playoffs, where they will face the Cubs in the NL Division Series.

Golf

In a surprising turn of events, Tiger Woods captured his first major title since the 2008 U.S. Open at the Masters Tournament. Woods' historic victory came after a fierce battle with fellow American Dustin Johnson, who held the lead for much of the final round.

 Dynastic talk surrounds Lakers after title

With two championship titles in a row, some are saying L.A. is making history.

By Darin Erhardt Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — Leave it to Shaquille O'Neal to feel down to another Las Vegas act.

"Someone told me tonight that we made history," said Los Angeles Lakers coach Phil Jackson.

"No. We made history two years ago, and we're back in the NBA title "We have the best record in winning a championship," Jackson, who earlier this season was named the Coach of the Year, said. "We have the best player in the NBA in Shaquille O'Neal." Jackson praised O'Neal, who won both NBA titles in 1999 and 2000, for his contributions to the Lakers' success.

Los Angeles finished with a record of 53-15 in the playoffs, the best postseason performance in league history.

Miami uses season’s low point as motivation

A sweep by Cal State Fullerton in early April served as motivation for this year’s team, said Emerald Rummel, the Hurricanes’ softball coach. "We talked about area things we need to talk about," said Rummel. "We need all the town and want to end the season on a high note." The Hurricanes lost to Cal State Fullerton in the first two games of the series and won the third. "We need a win this weekend," said Rummel. "We need a win this weekend."

Wimbledon officials discuss seeding

They have a meeting scheduled for today.

By Robert Wilkens Associated Press

LONDON (AP) — With the Wimbledon tournament just weeks away, the question of how to seed players for the world’s top seven players has yet to be settled.

The players will have to examine the new tennis rankings and determine how much they should shuffle seeds between the world’s top players. Even with 23 seeds, there are not enough players to fill all the available spots on any given court.

The top seven players are currently guaranteed to meet in the third round of the tournament, meaning that seven quarterfinal matches will be played.

The tournament organizers have already discussed the issue, but there is no clear consensus on how to proceed.

The question of how to seed players was raised last week when they were discussed at the Wimbledon tournament.

All four Grand Slam tournaments have revised their seeding rules in recent years to ensure that the number of seeds reaches 32, with the order of the seeds determined by a formula that ensures some post-performance recognition.

The system allows for the top 20 players in the ATP and WTA rankings to be seeded, in the past, a committee at Wimbledon determined the seeding list based on prior performance, making it difficult to predict.

Game Time kicks off

Players were excited about the fan turnout and quality of competition.

By Laura Poblete

The news-crowd capacity that filled the North Liberty Community Center for the first-ever game of the newly crowned Game Time League not only made a set difficult to find but also surprised the players.

"It was nice to see 20 faces seated on our own roof trips," Iowa senator Bette Boland said. "Also, being it the inaugural season, for the first game it was a very good turnout. I was very pleased - 20 fans is a good crowd."

Boland tested up with Hawkeye bombshell Lindsey Meder to lead the Goodloes to an easy win over the U.S. Open team at the North Liberty Country Club.

The HawkeyeOnline.com team was led by Hawkeye bombshell Lindsey Meder who recorded a double-double - 2 points and 10 rebounds - in the game. Drake player2 Marshall Ford was next high scorer for the Hawks.

Opening night of the league between the two teams ended with the attendance numbers but also the quality of game played. The talent was evenly distributed among the four teams, providing the crowd with competitive, hard-fought victories - no team had an easy win.

"It was nice to see some friends and families come," Berda said. "The inaugural event was led by Lindsey Meder who scored 21 points in the winning effort, making a seat difficult to find but also surprised the players.
