Farming aid goes to rich
A review of national farm subsidies shows funds going to the most opulent farms.

By John Daily
Associated Press

Almost two-thirds of the $27 billion in federal farm subsidies doled out last year went to 20 percent of America’s farm owners, including multi-million-dollar corporations and some of the nation’s wealthiest individuals. The report was released by the American Farm Bureau, a group that advocates for farm subsidies.

The report showed that the top 10 percent of farm owners received more than 30 percent of the subsidies, while the bottom 20 percent received less than 10 percent. The report also found that the subsidies disproportionately benefit the richest farmers, who tend to be owners of large, corporate farms.

The report also analyzed the subsidies provided by various federal agencies, including the Department of Agriculture, the Farmers Home Administration, and the Commodity Credit Corporation. It found that these agencies continued to provide billions of dollars in subsidies to the richest farmers, even as Congress has tried to reduce the overall size of the farm bill.

The report concludes that the farm subsidies are a pork barrel program that benefits a small number of wealthy farmers at the expense of the majority of American farmers, who are struggling to make ends meet.

Audit disappoints UI staff

By Peter Torguson
New Iowan

Two university labor representatives who talk part in the process of being unionized were highsighted over the weekend during which the organizing effort was launched.

Representatives from the two organizing UI employee groups, the faculty union, and the graduate student union, held two-day organizing meetings last week with advisors representing each employee union to discuss the organizing processes.

In an attempt to make the organizing processes more economization for the state of Iowa, UI President Regent Dan Arvizu began the university's organizing and development organization last week. Last week's organizing meetings were held to discuss organizing various union officials.

Audit disappointing UI staff for the College of OAI, the graduate union officials, as well as the representatives from the UI faculty union. "We were unable to give away our position," the reports said. "We have informed our advisors that we are not in support of the organizing process."

It seems like a waste of money, compared to programs the state already institutionalized employees.

Linda Hagan, if Kaplan's major program in medical pharmacy training.

"I don't think the state should be using its resources to fund the medical school," said Hagan. "It makes it very difficult to work with someone when you aren't sure they'll be there."

Hagan and the university representatives are the only educational programs that are not in favor of the organizing process. "It seems like a waste of money, compared to programs the state already institutionalized employees," said Hagan. "It makes it very difficult to work with someone when you aren't sure they'll be there."

The organizing efforts of UI union officials have been overwhelmed by the response of the state's already institutionalized programs, according to Hagan. This response makes it very difficult to work with someone when you aren't sure they'll be there.

Subsidies keep Iowa farms aloft

DES MOINES — Iowa — led the nation last year with $2 billion in farm subsidies, which occupied a number of government offices. The state's share, the third largest in the nation, must be reduced. Iowa is the nation's leading state in the production of corn and soybeans, and ranks No. 5 in the nation in production of pork.

Iowa's leading position in the production of corn and soybeans is due to the state's favorable climate, soils, and water resources. In Des Moines, Afghan refugees see world anew

By Mike Glover

...In March, after years of planning and preparation, the Afghan refugees began their arrival in Des Moines. The city had been selected as a host site for the refugees due to its history of hosting refugees from other countries. The Afghan refugees were welcomed with open arms by the community, and many local organizations and individuals volunteered their time and resources to help the refugees settle into their new home.

Over the past few months, the refugees have been adjusting to life in Des Moines. They have found jobs, attended classes, and participated in community events. Although they face many challenges, they are determined to make the most of their time in America.

Social issues take backseat in Iowa legislative session

By John Okeefe

Despite the attention given to social issues in previous legislative sessions, the Iowa legislature has once again prioritized other areas, leaving social issues on the sidelines.

While the legislature has dealt with a variety of other issues, such as education and transportation, social issues have not been given the same level of attention. This is despite the fact that many social issues, such as immigration and healthcare, are pressing concerns for many Iowa residents.

The majority of the legislators have been focused on passing laws that they believe will benefit their constituents. As a result, social issues have been left to secondary concerns.

This situation has caused frustration among some lawmakers and activists, who believe that social issues are important and deserve more attention from the legislature.

The state's voters have also expressed concerns about social issues, with many calling for more action on these important issues. Some have even suggested that the legislature should consider forming a separate committee to focus on social issues.

Despite these concerns, the legislature has continued to prioritize other areas, leaving social issues to be addressed in future sessions.

Students: Hold regents responsible

The state of Iowa Board of Regents governs the state's three public universities. The board determines policy for both higher-education institutions and, perhaps most importantly, its duties is setting the cost of tuition for those universities.

The board's strategic plan for the upcoming academic years is to follow the primary goal seems to be increasing instructional improvement and cost. With each higher-education institution's costs of college education, it is suggested as its main purpose is improvement of instructional costs for the next academic year. The regents need to address the growing inability of the state's universities.

The world is going to hell in a handbasket, and buried deep with the trash hit the fan, it seems to suggest. And doubt, another grandpa always do. The revolution, it seems, will be televised. And a good majority of us will be stuck at home in our armchairs watching the shit hit the fan and the trash hit the fan in the cities. The world has the potential to be a beautiful place if the generations who have grown up believe it to be — if they allow their young to see beauty on their own terms.

Middle East violence surges: eight dead, 40 hurt

By Jane Meyer

JERUSALEM — Arab militiamen unleashed a wave of violence across Israel yesterday, setting fire to a Judea mountain village and stabbing a Jewish woman. The violence raised the death toll in the conflict to eight and left 40 injured.

The series of attacks, which began early yesterday, is the latest in a string of assaults by unidentified groups that have periodically struck at Israeli settlers and civilians since the beginning of the current conflict. Three separate groups claimed responsibility for the violence.

Among those who have been attacked in recent weeks is Nablus, the home of Yasser Arafat, the Palestinian leader, but Israeli police said that Nablus was not the target of the attack.

The attacks on Wednesday were the latest in a series of incidents in which Arab militiamen have been killing and injuring civilians and妄y.

For example, four Arab militants shot residents of Nablus andtwo settlers were wounded.

The attack on the village of Deir Yassin, near Jerusalem, has been a major source of friction between Arab and Israeli settlers, who accuse each other of carrying out the attacks.

The Israeli Defense Forces, which control the West Bank, have not yet commented on the incident.

Police and security forces are on high alert, taking extra precautions in the West Bank and Gaza.

McCann near perfect against RedHawks

By Melinda Moundski

No one was more impressed by Kyle McCann’s performance in Iowa’s 44-19 win over Miami of Ohio than Miami’s quarterback, Terry Allen. “If he was standing right here, I would say Kyle, you did better than I thought you could, man,” Hopkins said. “That was an awesome performance by him. (McCann), not only throwing, but rushing as well.” McCann had one of his best games ever by the numbers. The junior quarterback completed 17 of 26 attempts for 311 yards and a career-high four touchdown passes, while making the 52 yards in the decisive drive after laying the game in the third quarter. But he did throw an interception midway through the third quarter. McCann watched the film, studied his list of priorities. “I thought we had good rhythm the whole game and when we play, we always play better,” McCann said. “That’s what makes a team.”

Iowa’s Rich Ferrone is very satisfied with the way McCann has handled the starting role and run with it — and in the case of Sept. 8 passing with it. “I shouldn’t be more pleased with the way Kyle’s operating our offense and leading our team,” Ferrone said. “He is our leader right now. There is no question about that.”

McCann opened the offensive end, driving Iowa to two touchdowns in its first possession, which was topped off with a 15-yard touchdown pass to junior fullback, Jeremy Allen. The second ended with a beautiful ninth-yard scamper in the un-tested arms of senior receiver, Tedd Brommelkamp.

Nothing game, too, though Iowa's offense was playing at a schoolrecord pace. The offense failed to hold the ball as long as Harvard, and the defense struggled with the blocking.

Hewitt rattles Sampras to win title

By Steven Wiese
Associated Press

Despite the loss of Pete Sampras, who lost in the semifinals to Marat Safin, Sampras and Andre Agassi were the two most popular players at the U.S. Open, neither making it to the final. Sampras and Pete Sampras both have lost in the semifinal round, and after much debate, the two of them will have to settle for a place in the top 10.

"I don't think they're going to be too happy about this," said Sampras, who was scheduled to play at the Canadian Open. "They were going to be their best and we were going to be our best."

Sophomore kicker Nate Kaeding continued one streak and started another in Iowa's 44-19 victory over Miami University on Saturday Night. Kaeding added to his streak of consecutive field goals with a 40-yarder and also established a new Hawkeye record for most consecutive field goals made with his third field goal of the night.

Fresno St. jumps up in Top 25

Fresno St. is moving on up in the AP media poll. The undefeated Bulldogs, with a running 25-30 win at Wisconsin, moved up to No. 31 in the Associated Press Top 25 on Sunday, while Miami, Florida, and Oklahoma remained 1-2-3 in the third Round of the USA Today poll.

Last week, Fresno St. (3-0) rushed for 268 yards and 3 touchdowns in a 30-13 victory over West Virginia. The Bulldogs now have 4-0 on the season and are in the Top 25 for the first time since 1987.

Huskiers have clear path to Oklahoma

By Doug Allen

Lincoln, Neb. — That Oklahoma football rivalry is almost here. With the end of the month drawing near, the Huskers and Sooners are set to take the field on Saturday night at Memorial Stadium in Lincoln. It will be the first meeting between the two teams since the 2009 season.

The game is one of the biggest of the year for both teams, as the road to the Big 12 championship and a spot in the College Football Playoff is on the line. The Huskers are coming off a 34-10 win over Iowa State, while the Sooners have lost just one game so far this season.

In fact, the Sooners have won nine of their last 10 games against the Huskers, including a 42-7 victory last year. The last time the Huskers defeated Oklahoma was in 2006.

But the Huskers are not without their own distractions. The team is currently ranked No. 2 in the AP poll and No. 5 in the Coaches poll, and they have their sights set on finishing the regular season undefeated and returning to the College Football Playoff for the second straight year.

The Sooners, on the other hand, are coming off their third straight win of the season, a 56-20 victory over Kansas State. They are currently ranked No. 3 in the AP poll and No. 5 in the Coaches poll.

Both teams are looking to establish early momentum in the game, as the winner will likely have a chance at clinching the Big 12 title and a College Football Playoff berth.

The game is set to kick off at 7:30 p.m. CT and will be broadcast on Fox Sports.

Early deficit sinks Iowa soccer squad, 3-2

By Jersey Shapiro

The Daily Iowan

Iowa found itself down 1-0 just 12 minutes into the game after a goal by the Buckeyes that sent the Hawkeyes to halftime. The second half was a different story as Iowa outscored Ohio State 2-1 on goals from seniors Kim Yeager and Linzy Wolman to tie the game 2-2. Wolman’s goal in the 87th minute was the winner for the Hawkeyes.

Wolman’s goal capped off a strong second half for the Hawkeyes, who outshot Ohio State 12-6 in the second half. Iowa dominated possession throughout the game and was able to control the tempo of play.

The Hawkeyes are now 1-3-1 on the season and 0-1 in the Big Ten. This was the first time this season that Iowa has allowed two goals in a game.
