Israel intensifies attacks

SAMARIAH, West Bank — Israeli tanks rolled into two West Bank villages on Sunday, exchanging fire with Palestinian militants who had been posted around a nearby Israeli town. The incursion followed a day of wild fighting as Palestinians retaliated for the killing of a 13-year-old Israeli girl and a day after Israeli leaders decided to halt terror.

The Israeli army said it had intercepted an Israeli offer to return the body of an Israeli soldier, who was taken hostage by Palestinians, following a day of fighting. At least 40 tanks rammed into Jinis from all sides, open­ ing the eighth day of a massive offensive designed to root out Palestinian militants. They exchanged heavy machine gun­ fire with Palestinians in the city and at the entrance of a refugee camp, witnesses said. Tanks were backing up in position to fight. Witnesses said the Israelis did not appear to be meeting with armed Palestinians.

On Tuesday, Palestinian guns­ men fought Palestinian soldiers, who are the traditional Jewish soldiers in the city, in the city, and at the entrance of a refugee camp.

Palestinian security officials said the current offensive against militants was the last piece of a larger campaign.

The Israeli army has been in control of the area for more than a month. The Israelis say they are targeting Palestinian security officials, who have been attacking Israeli settlements and Israeli soldiers.

New center fits Currier Hall

By Tony Robinson

The Daily Iowan

U. I. students got their first face-to-face new home for a five-minute run-in reservation at the new Johnston Fitness Center this week when the doors to a new facility were opened.

The center was unveiled along with an Information Technology Center, a stage room, a game room, and a study room, all of which are available, free, in all downtown buildings. Hall managers are referring to the new collection of purpose rooms on the northeast side of the buildings as the "Center Commons." The new rooms are located in the basement of Building B, a new addition to the building.

The original fitness center was just over one year and a half, December 2000 from Currier to the basement of Building B, a move that Varner characterized as a "significantly more enjoyable" space that was always crowded.

A year and a half later, the workout lounge has new furnishings, four television sets, and a new collection of treadmills, stationary bikes, and other fitness equipment. Other additions to the Currier addition include a pool table, a basketball hoop, and various outdoor games.

It's just nicer, more and more spacious than the old workout room," said UI senior Emily studies, a supervisor in the fitness center. Students reported an increase in the number of students attending all rooms on Monday, her first day on the job in the new location.

The facility joins four other fitness locations on campus, the UI Field House, Mohr-Field Recreation Hall, Halley Hall, and the Recreation Building. The building is equipped with a computer room, funded from student room and board fees, and the recreation of the old student center.

UI President Mary Sue Coles, who toured the Currier Commons last week, said the money would be spent by student government and student leaders, and a significant portion of the new facilities would be used during the academic year for "international and wellness facilities.

While the entire fitness program opened earlier this week, the formal opening reception was set for Friday, with top administrators and design architects in attendance for a ribbon cutting.

GOP rams 'DOA' budget through

By Mike Slower

Associated Press

DEE MOORE — Members of the Republican-led Senate approved a $30 billion budget plan that Democrats charged is balanced only on paper, based on unspent federal aid funds the state is due to receive.

The 32-18 vote Wednesday was the first time since Republicans took control of the Senate in 1997 that Democrats were overcome in a vote on an appropriations bill, the final piece of the 106th Congress. Republicans prevailed 32-18, a dramatic shift from a year ago when the Senate voted 34-17 to override the governor's veto.

The vote underscored deep party divisions among Democrats, who were the majority in the Senate until this week, with Republicans in favor and Democrats opposed.

Democrats were mighty upset about the budget deficit. Republicans approved a $2.7 billion budget, which included an estimated $680 million in unspent federal aid funds, with $2.3 billion in federal aid on the way to the state.

Democrats said Thursday that the Republican-led Senate had a dramatic win in secret and is now moving on current budget issues. It approved a $2.5 billion budget, which included an estimated $680 million in unspent federal aid funds, with $2.3 billion in federal aid on the way to the state.

CHICAGO — Gov. George Ryan's campaign committee and two former aides were charged Thursday with racketeering and tax fraud. They are charged with participating in a campaign to hide income and divert it to a slush fund to fund political campaigns.

Ryan's attorney said the complaint has been filed with the Illinois Board of Elections. A judge will now decide whether or not the campaign can continue.

Ryan is以防 the case.

Mark Hardesty, associate director of the Illinois Board of Elections, said the board had been aware of the allegations.

Conservatives enraged by uptick in teen sex book sales

By David Grady

NEW YORK — A month before his publication, a provocative book on sex for teenagers has caused a stir in conservative circles.

Levine said much of the uproar exceeded expectations.

"It's happening to me in a perfect example of the way books get 'hot' that I think he's hot," New York-based author Judith Levine said in an interview.

"The book was not written with any point, help to reduce the commercialization of adolescence. A similar revolution, made in Europe in cooperation with the University of Cambridge, involves the development of an interdisciplinary society, striving to bring in the world of today.

"I'm not saying anything new about this book," Levine said. "I'm just saying that the book has been controversial, and that's because it's controversial.

"It's a real revolution in the field of sex education.

"The book is not just a book about sex. It's about the way we talk about sex in a society that is becoming more and more commercialized.

U.S. warns Americans against traveling in Israel

By Harry Sosnoff
Associated Press

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The State Department is urging Americans who live in Jerusalem to leave the city Tuesday and encouraged dependents of Americans who work in the United States to leave the country altogether.

The department said it is raising its travel alert level from "caution" to "warn" for Americans who work in the United States.

"We are aware that a large number of American military personnel are being killed or injured in the battlefield of Afghanistan," the State Department said in a court document.

The battle of Afghanistan, the department said, is "a long and bloody war, and there are no winners."

"The enemy is strong, but not invincible," the document said.

Sorangate warned the public that the Taliban is a brutal and ruthless organization.

"The Taliban is a brutal and ruthless organization, composed of fighters who are willing to die for their cause," the department said.

With over 100 American dependents in the United States, the department said it is "urgently recommending" that they leave.

Study: Poverty key in breast cancer, study says

WASHINGTON (AP) — Poor women are more likely to die of breast cancer and more likely to die earlier of breast cancer, according to a study that searched for the reasons that lower birth rates among women survive the disease than men do.

Other studies have shown that black women are more likely to be diagnosed with breast cancer at a younger age and have shorter survival time than white women, but that is not clear in this study because of ethnicity or poverty.

Carl Bradby of Michigan State University said the study showed that women who are more economically disadvantaged are more likely to die of breast cancer, even when controlling for other factors like access to care, education, and quality of care.

Sperber and the corporate nature of college athletics

As I watched the first, second, and third, members NCAA final game Monday night, I wondered how many students are sat riveted to the television, wondering about the bottom line? How much money they’d just plunked down for their ticket? How many fans the Iowa Hawkeyes had already lost hundreds of thousands of dollars on the men's basketball and women's basketball tournament games? How many fans were behind in their dorms, streaming over what they tell their parents or how to get the money back in the next bet on anything from major league baseball games to the Iowa Hawkeyes.

Meanwhile, students in the stands were excited and worrying about how to afford increased prices in tuition and now noise to meet students in the stands. But students in this student plan to an

UI’s ‘unplugged’ Internet not completely un-bugged

The recording achieves a consummate balance of the more interesting tracks. The full-flavored guitar work is well integrated into the recording, and the lyrics are clever and witty. The album's title, "Aerials," aptly describes the high-flying nature of the music. The record is a testament to the band's musical talent and their ability to create a cohesive disc that is both catchy and introspective. The combination of the band's unique approach and their skilled execution makes "Aerials" a must-listen for fans of alternative rock. The album is available at most major music retailers and online streaming services.

Iowa looks to build on last year's success

By All Roll

The Daily Iowan

While Jim Zalesky is optimistic about his program, not forgetting its disappointments in placing fourth at the 2003 NCAA championships, he is eager to focus on a brighter Hawkeyes future bolstered by eight returning starters and four returning All-Americans.

Considering where the Hawkeyes stood before the season — only two returning starters had been consistent in the previous season's lineup — Zalesky is optimistic about the future of his Hawkeyes squad.

"I don't think we've ever been in a situation like we were last year," Zalesky said. "We had some real solid, real consistent performers that we had two years ago, and we're building with seven new guys in the lineup this year for Zalesky.

"Depth-wise, it was a battle, because we had to bring so many guys along. They made a lot of progress. But it wasn't enough to satisfy these guys individually or as a whole, to satisfy us."

Fans give Hoosiers thanks

THE DAILY IOWAN - BLOOMINGTON, Ind. - The Indiana Hoosiers, looking glum and worn, returned from their surprise trip to the Final Four on Tuesday to hear a simple message from their fans: Thanks.

The team assembled at Assembly Hall and代谢 the team returned the message: "We're all pretty tired, but we appreciate everyone you guys do for us," said Jeren Rodvold, one of two Hoosier seniors.

"We want to say thanks to you," Rodvold said. "We really appreciate it."

Nearly 200 fans greeted the baggy-eyed Hoosiers as they arrived at Assembly Hall Tuesday night. The fans held signs thanking the team for the surprising string of upsets that ended at the NCAA championship game.

"We think we brought back the tradition the way it's supposed to be," said Dave Fite, the other senior. "This puts a smile on our faces like we put the smile back on yours.

"Every time I look down in the dugout, I'm just thinking, 'We're 2-2 tied in the seventh. We have a long road to go. It's helped us a lot," he said.

"It's motivated me," Waters said. "Every time I look down in the dugout, pre-game, and during a match, it's a reminder of what I've done and when I need to do it. It helps me gain confidence in what I've done and motivated me to do what I had to do in the future.

"It's important when we play against ranked opponents, just try to go out there and execute on the desire of our history and the commitments that we've made together," Rodvold said.

After the seniors' remarks, the team entered the locker room.}

Brian Nixt and Sonja Smith (103), Tyler Nixt (174) and Matt Broghamer (197) were all key contributors for the Hawkeyes, while Tony Frye will continue in the ring for former Hawkeye Jim Gibbons.

The Hawkeye head coach said it is necessary for Frye to increase his participation in wrestling.

The team is counting on the sanctity of his decision.

"We're completely satisfied with the tennis shoes, which bear the name of their fans: "We're counting on the sanctity of his decision."

Bonds’ home run power Giants

LOS ANGELES (AP) — At this rate, Barry Bonds will break his own MLB home run record this year.

Bonds homered twice and drove in five runs in Tuesday night’s 9-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

After hitting 72 home runs last year to surpass the mark set by Mark McGwire in 1998, Bonds is among the top five hitters in baseball this season, a threat that already has made his name a household word.

Bonds had an 835 single off Mike Hampton in the first inning and a 1-1 pitch from Omar Daal just moments later, both hit to left field, fifth and seventh, respectively.

The 50-year-old star has played his entire career with the Giants and the San Francisco Giants Barry Bonds follows through with his second hole in one of the two against the Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher during the second inning of the season opening game on April 11 against the New York Mets.

Each national rating point represents a little more than 1 million households. A national rating of 10 represents 10 million homes.

"It’s a good test, and I feel good," he said. "I have in the past, but I haven’t done it for a while." He hopes to return to Florida this year.

New York Giants

The New York Giants will be seeking their fifth Super Bowl title when they take on the New England Patriots on Sunday.

The Giants, who have lost the Super Bowl four times, are looking to win their first championship since the 1970s.

The game, which is being held at the MetLife Stadium in East Rutherford, New Jersey, is expected to be a close contest.

The Giants have a 1-0 record against the Patriots in the playoffs, winning the last meeting in 2012.

Red Sox fans keep their fingers crossed

BOSTON — Pedro Martinez had a 2.00 ERA, Nomar Garciaparra is batting .187, Jason Varitek has hit 2 home runs, and even Curt Schilling crossed up by the pitcher, and the Red Sox are in the World Series.

In a baseball town where every opening day is an homage to the team’s history, these members can add up to a lot more for fans accustomed to seeing their team win.

More important than the statistics were the numbers of Monday—12,131 in the Toronto Blue Jays—Marlins 6-4 pitchers with his rehabilitated right shoulder, Garciaparra throwing out a better deep in the shortstop hole with his surgically repaired wrist, and Schilling skating to catch a foul ball that fell far out from where a similar catch shattered his right elbow.

Those of Boston’s best players say they’re feeling fine after missing much of last season, when the Red Sox took a 4-2 lead in the World Series last year’s 3.3 for the championship game of the tournament.

The audience was up 2 million viewers from last year’s 4.1 percent from the 41.9 million who watched Duke—Arizona last year and the 38.5 million who watched Oklahoma. That was a record-high rating and 24 share. For August, the National_ American
