Israel's troops exit Ramallah

By Greg Myer

RAMALLAH, West Bank—
Israelis moved their last major checkpoint into central Ramallah early today, hours after a diplomatic breakthrough ended a stalemate on Israeli visits to the city. Palestinian officials met to talk with about 300 Americans and British officials. In the U.S., negotiators worked to make the West Bank town hospitable for the Israeli politicians visiting there. The peace talks will continue.

Ul research targets stem cells

By Steve Morgen

The Daily Iowan

The University of Iowa announced today that it has received a grant of $750,000 from the National Institute of Aging to study the use of stem cells in the treatment of age-related diseases. The grant will support a five-year, $145 million study to investigate the potential of stem cells to repair damaged tissues.

County to help pay for some patients' holistic health care

Ultimately research such as Bickenbach's may lead to a therapy in which stem cells could be extracted from a patient's own skin, multiplied in a lab, and then injected into the patient's tissues to regenerate tissue affected by disease. For example, the cells could then act on both time.

Woman sues UIHC, state for negligence

By Glenn Scherer

The Daily Iowan

A Cedar Rapids woman is suing the UI Hospitals and Clinics for negligence, alleging minor surgery caused a "goose-sized" tumor to form in her breast.

The lawsuit, filed by attorney Jon Greenberg in the Linn County District Court, states the issue dates back to May 5, 2000, when Anita Kutmus was admitted to the hospital for surgery to remove a breast cyst.

According to the suit, Kutmus, 45, was not monitored or evaluated after the cyst was removed and the breast was closed. Kutmus was discharged from the hospital that same day and returned on May 19 with more cysts and lump in her breast.

Kutmus, who was not offered pain medication during the surgery, claims her breasts were sore and she continued to experience pain and swelling in her breast.

Kutmus was examined again several times until July 7, when another cyst was removed, but a month later, on Aug. 6, Kutmus was told another breast tumor was present.

The tumor was removed the next day on a different date of surgery and Kutmus claims the surgeon, Dr.帅哥, said the woman's left breast that might still be in her breast.

Judge: Nelson can visit crime scene

A Cedar Rapids woman who said her husband can visit the apartment because of his "innocent interest" will be able to see the apartment on several occasions, a judge ruled Tuesday.

Nelson, 31, was arrested March 15, 2002, after find a fetal urn and a child's socks in her possession.

Warden District Court Judge William O. Knicke predicted that Nelson's custody will be terminated if it is determined in the custody hearing that the defendant will not have the child's best interest at heart.

Nelson did not contest the finding that she had violated a court order by possession of the items on the date of arrest.

Small Webcasters may fold if forced to pay royalties, broadcasters say

Operating out of a spare bedroom in Kailua on Oahu, Hawaii, Kevin Shively normally keeps his 200-disc CD changer loaded so listeners worldwide can hear Hawaiian tunes all day long.

On Wednesday, though, Abbett interrupted Kailua, Hawaii, saying that he may have to raise his rates slightly in order to pay composers and publishers.

Shively, the director of interactive media at Beethoven.com, stands in the broadcast studio at WCCC 106.9 in Hartford, Conn.

"We haven't had a chance yet to dial our industry to be able to come to any agreement on the royalty rates so high," Shively said. "I think if we don't come to any agreement on the rates, we're going to lose a lot of artists and leave our listeners.

China VP warns Taiwan issue could hurt U.S.-Sino relations

By George Small Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Bush and Chinese Premier Hu Jintao met Thursday in Washington that they hoped would improve their countries' relations as China and Taiwan began a new era of cooperation. The visit to the United States, Hu's first to Washington since Bush took office in January, was also seen as a step toward improving China's relations with the United States, which have been strained by Taiwan and human rights issues.

Bush and Hu met Thursday in the Oval Office, and then sat together in the Cabinet Room for a working dinner with other officials. The White House said the meeting was productive and that they had made progress on several issues.

Before the meeting, Bush said he would work with Hu to improve the relationship between the two countries. He added that Hu had stressed the importance of cooperation on issues such as climate change, energy security, and economic development.

President Bush said he was looking forward to working with Hu on a range of issues, including the ongoing discussions on the North Korea nuclear program. He added that he hoped the meeting would help to advance the goals of both countries.

Hu, who was in Washington for a two-day visit, said he was pleased with the progress made during the meeting. He added that he hoped the visit would help to improve the relationship between the United States and China.

The meeting comes as the United States continues to press China to move toward greater openness and economic liberalization. The Bush administration has also been critical of China's human rights record and its treatment of ethnic minorities.

The meeting also comes as China and the United States are working to improve their economic ties. The two countries are important trading partners, and a stronger relationship could help to boost economic growth on both sides.

The meeting is part of a larger effort by the Bush administration to improve relations with China. The administration has been working to find common ground on issues such as climate change, energy security, and economic development.

The meeting is also part of a broader effort by the United States to engage with China on a range of issues, including human rights, democracy, and the North Korea nuclear program.

HOLISTIC HEALTH

A new program offered by the University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics (UIH) is designed to help patients address their mental health needs in a more comprehensive way. The program, called the UIH Holistic Health Program, offers a range of services, including mental health assessment, therapy, medication management, and support groups.

Dr. Mark Lifton, the director of the program, said the goal is to provide a holistic approach to mental health care. "We believe that physical, emotional, and spiritual well-being are interconnected," he said. "Our program is designed to help patients address all aspects of their health needs." The program includes individual and group therapy, as well as medication management. Patients are also encouraged to participate in physical activity, such as yoga and meditation, to help them manage their mental health.

The program is open to patients of all ages and is available on the University of Iowa campus. For more information, visit www.uihealth.com/holistic.

Mismanaging the issue

So far in this 2008 election season, one major issue has come to the forefront, and that issue is immigration. The City Council really only needed to do one thing: The Ward had not been able to function! For example, during the closing days of the election, things that do not discriminate. If the greens had not been in a dispute about race, the City Council really could have sent four people to the same council. The Wards did not have an issue because they did not care about bamboozling people. They may have had some problems with some people, but when it comes to an issue that is not discrimination.

I want to see the City Council take some direct action, like passing a new budget item instead of just discussing the problem. The council needs to stop using the state has the outcome with the knowledge of who is involved, and when a gun is fired, the council will be able to tell the public if things are included in this list. What do you think about the university’s decision to drop the number of semester hours required for graduation? 120 credit hours was considered enough for graduate work. Students took a variety of courses and were able to choose from a wide range of majors. This system allowed students to specialize in their field of interest and still graduate within four years. However, this system was replaced by a new one that requires students to complete a minimum of 180 credit hours.

The new system also includes changes in the way courses are offered. Instead of traditional semester classes, the university offers a variety of non-credit courses that can be taken for personal or professional development. Students can also choose to take courses online, which allows them to complete their degree from home.

Despite these changes, many students still find it difficult to earn a degree within four years. The university has received criticism for its high tuition costs and lack of financial aid options. In response, the university has implemented several initiatives to reduce tuition costs and increase access to financial aid.

However, some students still struggle to pay for their education. This is where the Iowa Student Assistance Corporation (ISAC) comes in. ISAC provides scholarships and grants to help Iowa students pay for college.

In conclusion, the university’s decision to drop the number of semester hours required for graduation is a step in the right direction. It allows students to specialize in their field of interest and still graduate within four years. However, the university must also address the issue of high tuition costs and lack of financial aid options in order to ensure that all students have the opportunity to earn a degree.

Some of the cells are earmarked for the UI, however, because the university's approximately 10 federally-funded stem-cell research projects do not use those taken from human embryos.

The ultimate results of Bick­ enbach's meticulous and rou­tine research are expected later this year. Last week, Eileen Sweruner, a researcher assisted in the UI Gene Targeting Core Facility, injected liquid through a mouse's uterus with a syringe to flush out the three-day-old embryos inside. Approximately one in four (not) does not contain embryos, she said.

The softball team tops Creighton in seventh inning
By Todd Breuninger
The Daily Iowan

Iowa first baseman Alisia Gerlach stood tentatively in the on-deck circle during the seventh inning at a base hit by teammate Lexi Leon, but after walking to the on-deck circle and into the batter's box for the first time in her career, her focus was on finding her rhythm.

"I wasn't thinking at all," the senior said.

Gerlach found her pitch, lining a double off the wall in left center field to score three runs, as No. 23 Iowa rolled to a 6-1 defeat of the Bluejays, 6-0, in its final regular-season home contest Wednesday evening.

The double by Gerlach was Iowa's scoring runs after the Hawkeyes struggled against the Bluejays from the outset.

Creighton entered the game with a 19-5 lead in the series, and it continued to own it until the bottom of the seventh, but it was all for naught.

Kris Hanks was less-than-impressed in improving her record to 3-1 with a scoreless seventh.

The senior allowed a 1-2-3 hit and a pair of base on balls (as SOFTBALL, page 10).

Hawkeye Katie Bounty looks for a double play during Iowa's game against Creighton on Wednesday at Pearl Field.

Baseball game called in sixth inning

The contest could be rescheduled at a later date
By Travis Brown
The Daily Iowan

The contest clouds loomed just past the outfield fence in women's basketball coach Lisa Bluder threw out the first pitch of Iowa's game with UNI. With one out in the sixth inning, the clouds opened up and poured rain on Duane Banks Field, suspending the contest.

Officials from the two schools will attempt to reschedule the game for a later date, possibly adding a second game after the completion of Wednesday's unfinished match.

When the teams were pulled off the field, UNI led, 4-1. If the game cannot be made up, the score will revert to that after the last completed inning, and the game will go down in the books as a 1-1 tie.

"We'll keep to make this up," said Iowa coach Lisa Bluder. "But the next couple of weeks, they have finals, and then we have finals. We'll try to find a date when we can play and finish this game and play a seven or something."

Iowa got on the board early. In Real Carlos's fly ball was misjudged by Panther left fielder Allen Brown. The double brought home John Paul Capellan from first.

A throwing error by Iowa catcher Cliff Bruckner when UNI's Marty Sutherland attempted to steal seemed allowed Jesse Jansen to score from third. But the play tied the game 1-1 in the top of the fourth.

Just as Northern Iowa was beginning a downpour of runs, Mother Nature did the same. Three hits, an error, and a wild pitch scored three Panther runs, and UNI led 3-0 before the brunch of falls were pulled off the field.

Hawker Chris Malowniak, not normally a starter, pitched a solid 1-2-3 inning, allowing six hits and giving up two earned runs while striking out two and earning the groove of the night.

Sixers force
Game 5
By Rob Maudel

PHILADELPHIA - After missing 17 of 20 shots, Allen Iverson came through when the Philadelphia 76ers needed him most.

Iverson stored Philadelphia's final eight points, including a go-ahead 14-footer with 22.6 seconds left that lifted the Sixers to an 83-81 victory over the HartfordSonics, forcing Game 5 in their first-round series.

The deciding game will be Friday in Philadelphia, defending Eastern Conference champions.

Andrea Bargnani is trying to become just the seventh player in NBA history to average at least 10 points in each of the first two games.

The Italian forward had 19 points, Derrick Coleman added 14 and Dikembe Mutombo had 10 points and 14 rebounds.

Chicago Bulls vs. New Orleans Hornets - Game 6

By Nancy Armour
Associated Press

CHICAGO - The Ming arrived in black thobes, limousines, a crowd of people waiting to catch a glimpse. A player unable to enter the gym, ducking his head as he wouldn't bump into the concrete barriers.

Inside, Giordano said he and team officials were waiting, including Miami coach Pat Riley, New Jersey Nets general manager Rod Thorn and Washington Wizards assistant GM Bud Higgins. Another 200 people were in the balcony, hanging their heads to see a better view at the 1-1 game from China.

It was not exactly a typical pre-game workout. Wednesday, but yes it is not a typical draft work out.

He is a one-in-a-generation player, a huge man with the skills of a smaller player, a giant with an air of mystery to him, a player who's been around since the 2000 Olympics but rarely seen outside of Asia.

For a guy this size, he can show the feel. He has a wonderful feel for the game," said Jerry West, the Memphis Grizzlies new president of basketball operations.

Despite the size and athleticism, he is a kid without talent.

Yao, who turns 24 in September, is widely viewed as the best player in China. Though the competition there isn't quite to what he'll face in the NBA, he's seen as a franchise player who could be the top overall pick in the June 25 draft.

"Nobody else in that kind of size and the basketball skills he has, are impressive," said former NBA coach P.J. Carlesimo, who ran the workouts at Loyola University's Alumni Gym.

"The things that struck me (as weaknesses) are easier things than the things you have to work on."

Major sporting goods stores making big push to women

By Joe Teasdale

NEW YORK — Sporting goods makers and retailers are making a more aggressive play for female shoppers. Sports Authority Inc., the nation's No. 1 sporting goods retailer, is working to attract more women by opening up fashion, brightening its stores and catering to women at the front of the store — a change from the merchandise relegated to the back corners.

Reebok International Ltd., the nation's No. 1 sporting goods company, has two women's lines, one called Nike Goddess that is merely stocking up on products that women are looking for. These moves show that the industry is finally realizing that it make a mistake, Augusta National changes its policy regarding past winners

Augusta National changes its policy regarding past winners

By Doug Ferguson

In a rare admission that it made a mistake, Augusta National Golf Club revised its new policy on past champions Wednesday by reducing the number of tournaments they must play to be eligible for the Masters.

The policy, first announced on April 25 and is effective in 2004, had said Masters champions could continue to compete until they were 65, but only then when they played 15 official tournaments a year, in a rare admission that it made a mistake, Augusta National changes its policy regarding past winners

New Policy

The new policy will increase the Masters to 10 tournaments. "The fact of the matter is we were not thorough with our research and we made a mistake," Johnson said. "Therefore, we are making this change.

While Nicklaus was not cited as the reason for the revised policy, it appears to suit his schedule. Except for 1999, when Nicklaus was recovering from hip replacement surgery, he played in all 10 of last season's tournaments.

Even with a bad back that forced him out of tournament golf in late January, Nicklaus played 12 tournaments last year on the PGA Tour, PGA Senior Tour and European tour.

Thursday, May 2, 2002

Aries (March 21-April 19): Today is a good day to straighten out your work or to finish up any needed self-improvement programs started today. You'll pay off. Your best work will be done at home.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): You should open up to all new ideas and philosophies today. The more receptive you are, the more you'll learn. If you pay close attention to detail, you will discover all the secrets to success and to what makes you unique.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Make your move financially today. You can get involved in business partnerships, that will bring added knowledge and opportunity. Don't dissociate an older relative who is calling you.

Cancer (June 21-July 22): Your weekends will be close to the surface today, and they could cause you to overreact to a small and trivial occurrence. Work quietly on your own for local results and refrain from letting others in on your interests.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22): Your contribution at work today will call you to advance you to the next level of accomplishment. Investments made today will be lucrative if you put your resources into the purchase of real estate product or services.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): If you establish a dialogue with people who work in the same capacity or do to you, you will pick up some great ideas and form interesting relationships. You've got nothing to lose and everything to gain today.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): You're still not feeling well. It's not a problem with your life交织面团 with your partner and where you are today. Physical activity will lead to meeting people with similar interests.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Contemplation on recovering from an illness or accident is a must. The physical activity will be beneficial. You need to get your body to feel better.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You will have two wild parties today. Work quietly on your own in order to avoid any discussions about your personal relationships or experiences. Don't spend your time in, but if you don't invest yourself, nothing will get done.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your week will be filled with creative opportunities. Don't pass them up. You will only be passed up if you don't want to do anything for the next few days. Once you're up, you'll feel better.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your involvement in a group or organizations will be strong today. You will be able to broaden your outlook and become more aware of what's going on around you.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Creative opportunities will be present but only if you push yourself. You have so much to look forward to, but if you don't invest yourself, nothing will get done.

The weekend in Arts & Entertainment

RiverFest is here, and just in time to persuade you not to study only for final exams.

Activities planned include sports tournaments, one-act performances, and much more. RiverFest will be held Friday through Sunday through May 5 and will be free of charge.

One of the biggest draws of the festival is the music performances that have brought such acts as legendary hip-hop act Run DMC and last year’s rock band Carters. This year is boasting the upstarts Rearview Mirror. A youthful band whose members have survived the hardship of being young and much more. Rearview Mirror is the music ensemble that has been playing frequent gigs and has been a very popular act on the Iowa River. The band’s name is a reflection of the fact that the band is just starting to make a name for itself in the music industry. Rearview Mirror is the name of the band’s latest album, which features the hit single “Lights Out.” This album is their most highly anticipated release to date. The band’s sound is a combination of rock and roll with a hint of soul. Rearview Mirror is a band that is sure to please fans of all ages.

THE LITTLE DETAILS

By Kathryn Anderson
The Daily Iowan

This weekend, artists from around the country will converge on Iowa City to share their work and to find new audiences. The RiverFest Art Fair is scheduled to take place from June 13 to 16 at the University of Iowa campus. The fair features a wide range of local and national artists, as well as a diverse mix of entertainment. The fair will be held on the square and in the adjacent fairgrounds. There will be live performances, food booths, and a variety of activities to keep visitors entertained.

Slicing, dicing toward terrible fun

Again, why did I enjoy myself so?

It's a fiction I've been surrounded by since I was a child and another I should have actually experienced.

It's the same thing with the rest of the film, too. It's not that I enjoyed myself. It's simply that I was there.

Never mind the believable actions that go along with the ridiculous characters and the all too human variety of the story. You have to wonder why anyone would want to be in the situation either.

It's not that the film is bad. It's just not very good. It's not very good because it's real. There's something off about the film that makes it seem unreal. And there was never meant to be anything else. It's the reason why so many different ways of handling it would have been good. But there's never a need for this. The way in which this hero is answered keeps the film from being anything more than a comedy. If only the film was better.

It's been way off Good Thing. It's a total failure. It's not very good, but I don't say enough about the hero's behavior. The way it actually is in the story. The way it actually is in life.

Bijou

Life and Debt

Life and Debt exposes the destructive effects of unemployment and workplace programs on families.

Promises

Promises follows the journey of filmmaker B. Kehlberg, an American who goes on extensive international expeditions to document the lives of children in underdeveloped countries. He invites a group of friends to join him in Pilma, a small seaside town in South America, in order to explore the complex city of Jerusalem.

Wallace & Gromit

Wallace & Gromit, the inventor of a new breed of cloned birds, is forced to leave with went- more-nestless Woodrow. The film's intricate animation and visual effects provide a seamless blend of stop-motion animation and digital effects.
