Crisis between India, Pakistan overloud, native students say

But UI will cancel fall program in India if U.S. travel ban continues

By Chayah Manjprakash

The Daily Iowan

Recent tensions between India and Pakistan are being dismissed by UI students who are concerned about the inclusion of travelers from the nation being granted entry into the U.S. last August.

Yet travel restrictions set by the government because of the attack in the Kashmir region could prevent UI students and faculty from traveling to India, until further notice.

With the travel ban in place, students and UI faculty members have been left to plan their academic and research work, including those who were scheduled to travel to India in September.

UI graduate students Paul Jones, who is in the process of completing her master degree in humanities, said she was initially excited about the possibility of traveling to India.

"I was excited to travel because I have never been to another country and I was excited to experience the culture, " Jones said.

UI graduate students Jeff English, who is in the process of completing his master degree in history, said he was initially excited about the possibility of traveling to India.

Board mulls Corvalle connection

By Jayson Wang

The Iowa City School District Tuesday night issued a request for information about a possible location for a new waste transfer station in connection with the proposed 13th Avenue Extension and its location in Coralville is estimated to cost $10 million.

"We can get more for our dollar by this partnership with Curverville," School Superintendent Lane Fling said in his request for the board to enter into a "franchise agreement with Curverville should the bond pass." Fling said the partnership involves recategorizing space in the current transfer station and a multi-purpose room designed for athletic performances on the grounds where the South Bend plant and the city share costs.

"It's possible that there are 219 Iowa kinds of shipments."

The study, which was presented to the City Council by the City's waste consultant, said there were 330,040 shipments of regulated waste in Iowa in 1994, both in Linn and Johnson counties. The study also found that 6,142 shipments of hazardous waste were made, with 12 shipments per day being packed into the trucks for the city's disposal.

"The dip in marriage rates has been a trend in recent years, especially in Iowa," said the author of the study, who was the same woman who was married in November 1994. "It's not the best time to plan a wedding, but it's certainly better than nothing."

"Mother of the study, said it was important to note that the increase in marriage rates has been a trend in recent years, especially in Iowa."
Private firms’ action on child support draws fire

By Laura Mecleer
Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Federal agents of single parents are increasing their efforts to collect child support from people who aren’t paying, turning over nearly 90 percent of what they come away with.

The federal program, which has been under way for about 10 years, has already reached more than 400,000 cases in 70 cities for a total of $30 billion. Over the period, the program has paid out more than $2.5 billion in child support.

The new plan is aimed at encouraging states to adopt the program and make it easier for people to collect child support. The program is designed to help people who cannot afford to pay child support, and it is also intended to help those who are paying.

The program was created to help people who are struggling to make ends meet. It is open to anyone who is a parent and is not paying child support. It is available to people who are unemployed or who have lost their jobs, and it is available to people who have been laid off.

The program is funded by the federal government and is run by local and state agencies. It is designed to be easy to use and to be able to help people quickly.

The program has been successful in helping people collect child support, but it has also been criticized for taking too much money from people who are already struggling.

June is Gay Pride Month. Yet, maybe you know that the history of the Pride Movement spans much more than just the last 30 years, going back to the Stonewall Uprising of 1969. Through the celebration of the Gay Pride Movement, we mark the anniversary of the Stonewall Uprising and honor the early activists who fought for gay rights.

So, what is the importance of this month? What do we celebrate? Why is Gay Pride Month important?

This month, we celebrate the rights and freedoms of all individuals, regardless of their sexual orientation or gender identity. We also honor the brave individuals who fought for these rights and freedoms.

During Gay Pride Month, we raise awareness about the discrimination and violence faced by the LGBTQ+ community and advocate for equality and acceptance.

Moreover, we celebrate the love and connection that exists between people of all sexual orientations and gender identities.

In conclusion, Gay Pride Month is an important time to remember the history of the LGBTQ+ community and to advocate for equality and acceptance for all individuals, regardless of their sexual orientation or gender identity.
Bush to reveal plan for Palestinian state

By Barry Schweid
Associated Press
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush soon will tell the nation how he intends to secure a state for the Palestinians, Secretary of State Colin Powell said Tuesday.

Before that, however, he probably will hear another Arab demand, this time from Saudi Arabia's foreign minister, that statehood should come quickly.

Prime Minister Ariel Sharon must expect to play a large role in Bush's plan, as he has expressed surprise at reports the White House was drafting a plan for a Palestinian state, separate from Israel.

Bush also has been sensitive to Israel's insistence that Palestinian attacks must cease before diplomatic and political negotiations are resumed.

In Cairo, on his way to Washington, al-Faisal aligned the Arab kingdom with Egypt's President Hosni Mubarak. He said Mubarak conveyed "the Arab states," at the White House on Tuesday, that they are "ready to put an end to all violence, terrorism, attacks against Israel, and immediately start a dialogue with the Israeli government." His remarks followed the U.S. Quartet's statement, which was signed Tuesday.

For the first time, however, Sharon has found in the American president support for the deep state's strategy in the face of Palestinian attacks in Israel.

As the prime minister met Tuesday with members of Congress, another outside bomber attack, this time in Hadera, north of Tel Aviv, and injured nine Israelis.

Sharon thanked the House and Senate for their support and called them the banner of preventing dependency on a decline in terror attacks endeavors.

"I think we still see utility in planning for such a conference to discuss the mechanism of the future," Powell said as a State Department source confirmed. "Work is being done together now."
Vermont to curb drug industry 'gifts to M.D.s'

By Ross Savoy
MONTPELIER, Vt. — Vermont is about to become the first state to take action to curb drug companies’ practice of giving everything from free sample drugs to expensive brand-name drugs to promote products. Doctors say they are being driven to prescribe the high-priced drugs that the pharmaceutical industry gives away to promote products.

Doctors are warning that the drug industry is moving into a new phase of aggressive marketing that may undermine their ability to make decisions about the best medications for their patients.

"This is a new way of doing business, and it’s getting to be a problem," said Dr. Howard Korngold, chief of the Department of Pediatrics at the University of Vermont College of Medicine. "It’s a new way of marketing, and it’s a new way of pressuring doctors to prescribe certain drugs."

Korngold said that the drug industry is using a variety of tactics to pressure doctors to prescribe their products, including offering free samples, discount programs, and educational campaigns. "It used to be that doctors could make their own decisions about what medications to prescribe," he said. "Now it’s a different story."

"It used to be that doctors could make their own decisions about what medications to prescribe," he said. "Now it’s a different story."

The Vermont Public Interest Research Group, a consumer advocacy organization, has been monitoring the drug industry’s marketing practices for the past several years. "We’ve seen a dramatic increase in the amount of money that the drug industry is spending on marketing," said Jennifer Kowal, the group’s director. "And we’ve seen a corresponding decrease in the amount of money that the drug industry is spending on research and development."

Kowal said that the drug industry’s marketing practices can have a significant impact on the quality of care that patients receive. GOVERNOR POISED TO SIGN "FAIR TAX" BILL

By Jane E. Hendrickson
Associated Press

MONTPELIER, Vt. — Vermont Gov. James M. Douglas is expected to sign a bill into law that would change the state’s income tax system, and make it more progressive.

The "fair tax" bill, which was introduced last month, would replace the state’s current tax system with a system that would have a lower rate for lower-income households, and higher rates for higher-income households.

Douglas, a Democrat, said he supports the bill because it would help to level the playing field between low-income and high-income households.

"This bill is a fair and just way to tax our citizens," Douglas said. "It would help to level the playing field between low-income and high-income households."
McCartney, Mills tie the knot

By Thomas Wagner
Associated Press

GLASLOUGH, Ireland — Paul McCartney and Heather Mills were married Tuesday in a remote Irish estate, where the couple and their friends and families have gathered for a week in the company of their children.

The two have been married in a private wedding despite the growing interest outside and the noisy helicopters hovering overhead.

More than 36 hours after the ceremony began, the news broke when their guests huddled around Indian food in large tents on the lawn outside the Castle Leslie estate, McCartney's spokesman, Geoff Baker, emerged to reveal some details.

The bride, wearing a fitted lace dress she designed herself, carried a bouquet of 33 pink roses and was led in by her new husband — and two family members.

She was slightly late for the ceremony and was overcome by emotion, faltering slightly as she spoke before family and friends, he said.

McCartney entered the 17th-century church in the stratostratus of “Underneath,” a song McCartney wrote for his recent album. As the booming pair walked back down the aisle, a wedding March McCartney wrote for the 1966 movie “The Family Way” was played on the organ, Baker said.

The guests list of 300 was kept to a minimum because of the size of the Castle Leslie.

The large crowd outside could hear the music when the ceremony was scheduled for 11 a.m. (CET) — but the ringing of church bells more than an hour later indicated that McCartney and Mills had indeed tied the knot in the Protestant Church of Ireland service.

Media interested had reached for photos as soon as the moment was announced and included rock veterans Elton John and Eric Clapton.

The couple went directly to the church after their wedding, a decision meant to keep the ceremony a secret. But when reporters were allowed in to their progress, they were stopped by a fence of teams and insulated plastic to try to stop the media.

McCartney, 58, and Mills, 34, had tried to keep the details of their wedding a secret. But when word slipped out, they gathered naturally outside the castle walls on Monday, speaking briefly to the crowd that had gathered but giving few details of the nuptials.

Baker did confirm the menu would be entirely vegetarian.

“Ties are being held by one of the most famous vegetarians,” he said of McCartney. The singer’s first wife, Linda, was an animal-rights advocate, and she created a range of vegetarian foods.

Approximately 90 relatives and friends of McCartney gathered at Castle Leslie International Airport on a chartered flight from London. They were greeted by a fleet of buses and insu-

Superstar a monumental achievement

By Dave Strachman
The Daily News

Andrea Lloyd Webber's Jesus Christ Superstar begins with the story of the man who was only doing what he thought was best for his people and Jesus had been suborning him to do so.

The overall set with the tale set and the cast of the tale all of the album, but just as on the album itself, there is experience and no experience of any given love; its lack.

By the end, the role of rock and roll in the word, and the martial music could not but now in their progress. In its 73, the album featured Jesus Christ Superstar, a rock operatic retelling of the Gospel.

The album’s original title was “Evangelists,” a title that was later changed to “Jesus Christ Superstar.”

The album features three of the most famous Jesus songs: “Let Me Be There,” “I Will Be There,” and “He's Rockin’.”

Mostly, they are three songs that make Superstar remarkable. There are three main themes that form the story. The first is Jesus’ conflict with God, the second is the role of rock and roll in the world, and the third is the role of music in the word.

Rumsfeld arrives in India

By Winners Kaya

NEW DELHI, India - Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld arrived in India for a three-day visit, the second leg of his three-country tour of the region, to help in the peace process in Afghanistan and support the new government in Pakistan. Rumsfeld is scheduled to meet Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee and President Hamid Karzai. The visit follows a US delegation led by Foreign Secretary Donald Rumsfeld in St. Petersburg, Russia, for a three-day meeting with President Vladimir Putin, which concludes a three-nation tour of Europe.

Rumsfeld has already been welcomed by the government in Pakistan and Afghanistan, and his visit is expected to strengthen the relationship between the United States and the two countries. The US has been a key player in the region, providing significant military and economic aid to support the reconstruction efforts after the series of terrorist attacks.

The US has been working closely with Pakistan and Afghanistan to combat terrorism and support the Afghan government's efforts to stabilize the country. The visit is also expected to enhance cooperation in other areas, such as trade and security.

However, the visit comes at a time when the situation in Afghanistan remains fragile, with ongoing security challenges and the presence of extremist groups. The US has been coordinating with regional partners to ensure a peaceful and stable Afghanistan, which is crucial for regional stability and global security.

Study: Measles vaccine safe

By Emma Ross

LONDON — A comprehensive meta-analysis of more than 50 studies on the safety of measles vaccines concluded that the vaccines are safe and effective.

Experts say the study, which included a review of more than 50 studies, showed that the vaccines are safe and do not cause serious health problems in children. The study was conducted by the World Health Organization (WHO) and the National Institute for Health Research (NIHR) of the UK.

The study assessed the safety of various measles vaccines, including those used in the UK and other countries. The results showed that the vaccines are safe and do not cause serious health problems in children.

The study was conducted by the WHO and the NIHR, and it included data from more than 50 studies. The results showed that the vaccines are safe and do not cause serious health problems in children.

However, the study also found that some children may experience side effects, such as fever or minor skin reactions. The study recommends that healthcare professionals educate parents about the safety and benefits of the vaccines.

The study is significant because it provides a comprehensive overview of the safety of measles vaccines, which are essential for protecting children from measles. Measles is a highly contagious disease that can be deadly, especially for young children and those with weakened immune systems.

The study is also important because it can help to dispel myths and misinformation about the vaccines, which can lead to vaccine hesitancy and lower vaccination rates.

Although the study found that the vaccines are safe, it is important to remember that vaccines are not risk-free and can cause side effects in some children. Parents should talk to their healthcare providers about the benefits and risks of the vaccines and make informed decisions about vaccination.

The study is available for free on the WHO and NIHR websites. Parents and caregivers are encouraged to read the study and talk to their healthcare providers about the safety and benefits of the vaccines.

Suicide bomber kills Israeli teen

By Joshua Jacobs

HERZLILJA, Israel — A Palestinian suicide bomber killed an 18-year-old Israeli teenager at a restaurant just north of Tel Aviv last night. The bomber, a Palestinian from the northern West Bank town of Salfit, entered the restaurant and blew himself up, killing at least 18 people and wounding dozens more.

The bomber was said to be a member of the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, a Palestinian militant group that has carried out suicide bombings in the past. The attack was the latest in a series of violent incidents that have hit Israel recently.

Israel has placed the blame on the Palestinian Authority and the Hamas movement, which control much of the West Bank. The Israeli government has been trying to negotiate with the Palestinian Authority to bring an end to the violence.

However, analysts say the root cause of the violence lies in the ongoing conflict between Israel and Palestine, which has been going on for decades. The Israeli government has been accused of violating Palestinian rights and of perpetrating human rights abuses.

The attack is likely to further escalate tensions between Israel and Palestine, and it is expected to lead to increased violence and unrest in the region.

Afghan council convenes to pick nation's new leader

By Kathy Gunnen

KARUL, Afghanistan — An extraordinary gathering of 1,600 Afghans rendezvoused Thursday after the former palace joined the exiling in having run out of the leadership race, paving the way for the selection of an American-backed interim leader Hamid Karzai.

Ahmed Zia Mohseni Shah, the former monarch who formally convened the grand council known as the lori jarga, urged the 1,600 delegates to "pick a leader, pick a leader." Zia Mohseni, who was the last monarch of Afghanistan, called an emergency session of the council to convene the exiling in having run out of the leadership race.

Iowa, UNI renew women's hoops rivalry

Iowa (6-5) — Iowa and Northern Iowa are renewing a women's basketball rivalry that had been dormant for 19 years.

The teams will meet Nov. 23 at Carver-Hawkeye Arena. It will be the first women's basketball game since Dec. 1, 1985, when Iowa beat Northern Iowa 85-46 in a game played in Iowa City.

The Hawkeyes, who are 1-1 this season, will face the second-ranked Hawkeyes in the second game of the season for Northern Iowa.

Northern Iowa is 2-0, with wins over Loyola-Chicago and St. James.

"It's exciting to think that after all these years we'll be playing them," said Northern Iowa coach Sue Ansari. "It's been a long time since we've played a game in Iowa City, so it will be a good test for our team."

White Sox outlast late Mets rally

By Nancy Armour

CHICAGO - Paul Konerko homered twice, Frank Thomas hit a three-run shot, and Todd Stottlemyre got his first victory in more than a month as the Chicago White Sox beat the New York Mets, 3-0, on Tuesday night. It was the second two-homer game of Konerko's career.

Thomas finished with four hits for the White Sox, who won for the fourth time in the last five games.

Magglio Ordonez also hit a solo home run. Three Parks matched his first-inning hit for the Mets. Mike Piazza drove in two runs using an RBI triple that sparked a three-run rally in the second.

But it wasn't enough to overcome Jeff Tannen's rough outing.

Hoffman (4-6) lasted only 2 2/3 innings, his shortest start since going three innings Sept. 29, 2001. He allowed seven runs and four hits, walking three while striking out one.

Ritchie (4-8) hadn't won since May 4, but he was sharp. He allowed six runs and 11 hits, and his offense and the bullpen bailed him out.

Thomas got the White Sox off to a flying start with a three-run home run for a 3-0 lead in the third. Konerko knocked the fourth with a three-run shot, and the White Sox piled on from there.

Hendry, who started the game hitting .304, went 3-for-4 with three RBIs to lead the Chicago Cubs to a 6-3 victory Tuesday night. Hendry hit a second-inning, three-run homer, and Jason Vanatin and Robin Ventura also homered.
