Iowa's Dean talks war, economy in CR

BY ANNE SHUPPY

CEDAR RAPIDS — Howard Dean has a knack for knowing how to frame an issue that is foreign to him. His message yesterday, about the economy, foreign policy, and the war in Iraq, was no different.

"We can do better than this," he began, "but the economic policies, our foreign policy, and the way we conduct the war in Iraq make our nation weaker, not stronger.

"I believe in America," he concluded, "but I also believe in doing the right thing for the country, and that means acting as if we were a country of peace and diplomacy, and not as if we were a country of war and violence.

"You can't win the war with the enemy. You can only win it by engaging them in a different way, by building relationships and by working together.

"And that's what I'm going to do, by working with my colleagues in Congress, by working with the American people, and by working with the leaders of other countries to build a world of peace and prosperity.

"I know that it's not going to be easy, but I believe that it's the only way to ensure that we have a strong and safe America for all of our citizens.

"Thank you."

Circumstance without pomp

In any college town, plenty of people understand that the field of specialty or interest of their majors may have absolutely nothing to do with their future careers or even their lives. Not so for Dave Persell. As the master's degree-pursuing frontman of the Persell Brothers, the Noah’s school-girl rescuing examples of English and his leather-jacket wearing is seen more as a small of well-worn elyngion dictionary.

Even when at the hub of all-thing-digital, the more they talk about the world’s Mollys, a frontman’s security and stance have always been more important than the war, opera, culture, or clever style. DAILY IOWAN'S TV GUIDE

FRIDAY, JULY 18, 2003

By Eugene Last

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Use your intuition today. You may be called upon to make a decision, especially regarding work or health-related matters. However, be patient as the day has its ups and downs, so whether you're single or already in a relationship, it's important to make plans. Your judgment may be clouded by outside information, which substance will be rewriting today.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Someone may try to add to your responsibilities today. You don't get taken for granted. Just as you may not work out according to plan.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Make some changes regarding your health and well-being. A few less on life will be the result of doing what's best for you. A healthy attitude should be your priority.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): There will be no changes in your personal life. You may try to add to your business. Misunderstandings or difficulties with a parent or children could change your course of direction today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You will probably find out something new today. Don't be surprised if someone else is busy as well. Your current attitude is healthy.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Stick to what you know best. You are not sure what you are doing. Take a risk even if someone tells you it's a sin. You may want to consider a change of pace.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Don't let your mind examine things you are only thinking about. Friendships can develop if you join a political or hard-earned cause. They will be more emotional and social than the霭 kinds of people.

Trainers keep athletes in the game

Bucks

 Owners have only recently attended the games, but a decision was made in mid-May to bring the games to the city for the next three days.

The trainer has the job of being an athlete trainer in the major leagues. The trainer is responsible for the athletes' physical and emotional well-being. The trainer must be able to anticipate the athletes' needs and be able to provide the necessary support.

"I think it's one of those things you have to be able to do," said Trainer. "You have to be able to read the athlete's body language and be able to anticipate what they might need."

"It's a tough job, but it's rewarding. I love helping athletes stay healthy and performing at their best."

ATHLETICS-TRAINING PROGRAM TEACHES NEW HELPERS

BY FRANK KUPCH

The most integral aspect of the new growing world of athletics may be the one that often goes unsaid. Arguably more important than coaches, trainer friends, cheerleaders, sponsors, photographers, announcers, commentators, transcripts, and front-office administrators is the person responsible for keeping the athlete's body working in the first place: the trainer.

The athletics-training program at least proves students employ a fundamental role in the world of sports and industry. "Absolutely it loves it," says Tony VanHart, a Chico State, future coaches, who is just beginning his second year in the three-year program.

Students run upon the athletics-training program, which is a part of the exercise-science department, a sophomore year. In the first year of the program, students complete an eight-week session with Dan Werth, who has been the curricular director since 1974.

Tony said the program, which graduates students with a bachelor of science in athletic training, is not geared toward specialization but a more flexible experience.

"We do like a lot of people's work," said Tony. "Our job is to evaluate the injury, describe to the athlete what is taking place, and then treat and prevent the injury."

Placed around all four of the universities training courses are plastic and rubber models showing the inner workings of shoulder, ankles, knees, and just about every muscle to explain the nature of an athlete's problem.

"Paige, who works out of the Carver-Hawkeye Arena and Orchard gym, described to us the most recent injury he's dealt with is . . ."

"We're like the quarterbacks of the athlete's health program," said Dye, who received his training from Western Illinois and South Dakota State. "We concentrate on the athlete and then decide what treatment is necessary or if it is — physical therapist, medical doctor — that the athlete needs to see next."

With a high turnover rate and no parent club, the Waterloo Bucks play in . . .

THE LIMBO LEAGUE

BY JERO LEUPOLD

Looking just between the realms of college baseball and the minor leagues is another baseball university — the Waterloo Bucks. Twenty independent leagues have been formed in the last two years, including leagues banding for their baseball skills for school or the majors, along with others who are wanting for larger signing bonuses after the draft. Even majors and umpires are looking to move up the ranks.

"Players are trying to find out how they can do it," said Waterloo Bucks assistant coach Rick Stellmacher. "If you have the talent, you can get your name out there."

"It's in this atmosphere that was looking to hone their hardball skills for school or the majors ," said Waterloo Bucks assistant coach Rick Stellmacher. "If you have the talent, you can get your name out there."
