Photography has become an integral part of the college experience for some, but has this rite of passage turned hazy?

Every weekend, bands of college-age people flock to downtown Iowa City to spend a fun night out. "This," for many on campus, means Miller Lite, Red Bull, vodkas, and shots. But it's not until 1:30 a.m. that the night begins.

The Iowa City Council, comprised of nine city councilors and five school councilors, and the UI only ordains stand among the most recent efforts to help curb the undesirable behavior tied to drinking.

"Most recently, the Iowa City City Council commissioned a study and proposed measures to reduce the number of underage drinking cases for the town," said Ross Wilburn agreed with that decision.

"We're doing more enforcement," said City Manager Jim Bovee.

"The enforcement of alcohol-related ordinances is necessary. In the past, we've had a lot of problems with downtown," Bovee said. "We're not going to just let it slide."

In the Zone

BY DAVID PITT

The University of Iowa is preparing to unveil its new academic strategy for the 2012-2013 academic year, which will focus on increasing access to education and improving the overall educational experience for students.

The new strategy, known as the "In the Zone" initiative, will be formally announced on Tuesday, March 6, at a press conference in the Iowa Memorial Union.

According to university officials, the "In the Zone" initiative will include a number of key initiatives aimed at improving the student experience, including:

1. Increased access to education: The university will increase the number of scholarships available to students, with a particular emphasis on supporting students from underrepresented backgrounds.

2. Improved educational experience: The university will invest in new technologies and teaching methods to enhance the learning experience for students.

3. Enhanced research opportunities: The university will increase funding for research projects and provide more opportunities for students to engage in research.

4. Increased support for faculty: The university will increase funding for faculty development and support initiatives to help faculty members advance their careers.

5. Improved student services: The university will invest in new technology and support initiatives to improve student services, such as career counseling and financial aid.

The "In the Zone" initiative is part of a broader effort by the university to improve the overall educational experience for students and to position the university as a leader in higher education.

The announcement of the "In the Zone" initiative is expected to be met with enthusiasm by students, faculty, and staff, who have been eagerly awaiting news of the university's new academic strategy.

The university's Board of Regents is expected to ratify the new strategy at its next meeting, scheduled for April 3, 2012.
High court to hear energy case

By Charles Lane

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court announced Monday that it will review a challenge to a key policy of energy giant Enel Diablo, which has two wind farms and solar projects affecting the federal government's energy policy. The court granted Enel Diablo's request to review a lower court's order requiring it to provide some of the material to the groups.

The court's action came in response to a petition by Enel Diablo's, which has filed a number of complaints alleging that the White House's climate change policies were a violation of the Constitution.

Enel Diablo's attorneys said they were pleased with the court's decision and were confident that the justices would grant their request.

The case, Enel Diablo v. United States, was filed in 2008, and the court has not yet heard arguments. The case involves a dispute over a federal government policy that was designed to reduce carbon emissions from fossil fuel plants.

The court's decision is expected to come in the next few months.

Rebels hit Russian village, kill 5

By DAVID HOLLEY

MOSCOW (Reuters) - Five people were killed in a Moscow apartment building believed to be a Chechen rebel safe house at dawn on Monday, police said.

A spokesman for the Russian Interior Ministry told Reuters that five people had been killed in Tuesday's attack, and that the resort area had been secured.

The Moscow Times quoted sources close toInterior Minister Rashid Nurgaliyev as saying that the Red Riding Hood had killed five people in the early hours of the morning.

The group was reported to have been in the same area in the past.

The incident came a day after a series of attacks in Chechnya, where the rebels have been fighting a war against the Russian government.

The Red Riding Hood, also known as the "Red Riding" or "Red Flag" group, is suspected of carrying out the attacks.

The group has previously denied involvement in the bombings, saying they were carried out by Chechen separatists from the surrounding region.

The Moscow Times quoted Nurgaliyev as saying that the group was responsible for the attacks.

The group has been blamed for a series of bombings and gun battles in the Moscow region in recent months, including a deadly explosion at a market in the city center.

A statement from the group said it had carried out the attacks to send a message to the Russian government.

The group has previously threatened to carry out more attacks in the Moscow region, saying it would continue its campaign until the government agrees to its demands.

The group has also been linked to a series of attacks in the Chechen capital, Grozny, in recent months.

In addition to the dead, four wounded were being taken to hospital and two others were being taken hostage in addition to the village.

"Five servicemen were killed, and four others were wounded in a series," said a police spokesman.

10 Another brick in the wall argument

A Dec. 10 Iowan letter writer, "George, bill, and the expanded foreword", states that "I get the introdus- tion and the main argument is about the insecurity that breed the polls on terrorism on the West Bank and that I would like to contribute a little, but not as a foreign attitude of my own, of which I am a proud benefactor of society. I have been following this so-called "security" program for many years. It is a way of trying to keep the residents of the West Bank and Gaza Strip out of trouble, and I would like to make a contribution to the discussion."}

11 Who cares about the West Bank "from the comfort of its chair"?

[Phllip's name]

The defense of the Israeli-Zionist establishment is a complete fabrication of a mind. It is a lie that the Israeli government is "security" and not "human rights". The fact is that the Israeli government is a racist and fascist regime that is responsible for the suffering of the Palestinian people. The so-called "security" program is a means of pacifying the Palestinian people and keeping them in submission.

12 Be sure to read the next chapter

[Beau's name]

I would like to comment on the letter written by [George's name]. I agree with his analysis of the situation. It is clear that the Israeli government is not interested in the well-being of the Palestinian people. They are only interested in their own interests, which are the interests of the Israeli military-industrial complex.

13 Who cares about the West Bank "from the comfort of its chair"?

[Editor's name]

I must say that the comments made by [George's name] are very accurate. The Israeli government is only interested in their own interests and not in the well-being of the Palestinian people. They are only interested in their own interests, which are the interests of the Israeli military-industrial complex.

While his guitar gently sees art

Music has never been an appealing to the eyes. "On Making Music," an interactive art piece created by UI senior Erin Caldwell, debuted at the Checkered Space at UI on Monday. It is a mayonnaise and mustard-colored, nine-panel glass painting that provides through the walls and others. Some of the most of the work done at the show, and as creative as possible. The "bake of all I've done. I've borrowed from my favorite interpretation of how music is written for the guitar," Caldwell said. "When you pull out the strings, they're a little thick," Wallon said. "I've borrowed from my favorite interpretation of songs, sort of "borrowing" from what I've done. Any Zimmerman, a UI senior (and Caldwell's girlfriend), said, "The show will be a way to appeal to the crowd who know a lot about music and those who care very little. I'm terrified of it," she Added, "I think he is using a lot of different ideas to show music less. You know, understanding why we play with it. I think a lot of people could benefit from it."

Brett and Ben Stedman, the fifth set of twins on the Iowa roster, are trying to become the 11th brother duo to crack the starting lineup.

BY BRIAN TRIPLETT

Sometimes when Ben Stedman, who is a freshman like his twin Brett, goes, "It's pretty crazy," says Iowa coach Kirk Ferentz. "I'm sure there are a lot of people who are thinking it's the seven Stedmans or the seven Sanders or the seven Zincas. But they are a unique group of seven, and there are a lot of people who are watching them, which makes it a little bit of a challenge, especially with the seven being a tight end, a bigger tight end, and two brothers in the backfield."

Revolving door: UConn returns to No. 1

BY JIM O’CONNELL

Connecticut is back at No. 1.
The No. 1 team in the Associated Press men’s college basketball Top 25 changed for the fourth straight week, with the Huskies replacing their preseason spot.

The Huskies (17-1) are No. 1 for the first time of two consecutive seasons. Their first appearance was in the preseason AP Top 25.

Connecticut has not left the AP Top 25 since its debut, and now is ranked No. 1 on the AP Poll for the first time since March 2006.

"The way it is today, it’s not even sports," Connecticut coach Jim Calhoun said Monday. "I disagree with those who say there are 40 to 50 teams that can win the title—it’s still probably the 10-to-12 neighborhood. But we have to wait to see who else will evolve out of the group. Once again, Connecticut has the team—two in the top two in both AP polls, its women’s team has been No. 1 since the preseason.

Florida (16-2) dropped 14 spots after bowing to Kentucky and LSU, which each scored the first time on the season.

The AP Poll is compiled by sportswriters who vote on their top 25 teams. The top team is determined by the number of first-place votes.

Eagles thump Dolphins

BY STEVEN SLEVIN

MIAMI — From the first play — a Bryant completion — the Philadelphia Eagles had the Miami Dolphins poised for defensive readying.

Donovan McNabb passed the 350-yard mark, receiver Reuben Mcelroy made three for a touchdown, and Philadelphia controlled its winning streak to nine games Monday night by beating the Dolphins, 34-24, in three Miami stadiums of domination in the second week of the season.

With much at stake in the Dolphins' 2-0 start and the Eagles' (2-0-1).Sqlotted into their NFC East this season are three NFC teams with a second-consecutive loss. They could miss the playoffs for the second year in a row even if they win their next two games. The Eagles (11-2-1) matched St. Louis, the NFC's second-best record, and their winning streak matches a franchise record set by the 1980 NFL champions.

Philadelphia has averaged 23.5 points in seven games, and McNabb and company continued to roll against a Miami defense that ranked third in the NFL in points allowed.

The 24-yarder and 401 yards allowed by Miami were season highs, and the Eagles scored touchdowns on three of those first five possessions. Three times the Dolphins came behind, but they could not score while McNabb, who scored 27 points, and 11 assists to help the Eagles after 3:49 left in the fourth quarter.

David Akers' second field goal gave Philadelphia a 10-point lead. Olindo Merlo kicked a 50-yard field goal for Miami with 44 seconds left, but his winning-midfield kick went out of bounds to give the Eagles the ball.

William Rayson ran for 107 yards and a touchdown for Miami. He broke a 49-yard run, his longest this season, to cut the Eagles 14-0 lead to 14-6 in the first quarter. The Dolphins' defense allowed three more points.

David Akers was 2 for 4 on field goals, 6 of 11 on PATs, and 4 of 5 on PATs. His 50-yard kick was the shortest.

David Akers was 5 for 5 and 8 of 11 on PATs.

Stewart had a 101-yard touchdown in the third quarter.

The Eagles led the Dolphins 6-0 at halftime, and McNabb threw a touchdown pass in the third quarter.

With only 2:10 left in the second quarter, McNabb scrambled and found Stewart for a touchdown, which was increased to 16-0 when Olindo Merlo made the PAT.

Heisman ballots cast too early

BY JIM LITZE

The right-hand side hurts, and everything was up on the up-and-down.

Even so, there was plenty of time for the results to sink in to the winners and everyone who has loved and lost, because while short of early voting, if the real thing ever comes, it is certain to be a massive event.

When it came time for the first time in history, to vote on the outcome of the Heisman Award, voters across the country were shocked, not to say stunned, by the results. The normally unimpressive outcome for the three-time champion, Florida State's Tim Tebow, led the way. Analyzing the voting patterns, it's clear that three things happened:

1. The ballots were submitted in advance.
2. There was no Early Voting.
3. The voting was split.

"I always vote it pretty much on the day," said Steve Bevo, who won the 1980 Heisman as an Oklahoma running back.

This time around, even that small difference was the same:

"Bevo" had six votes.

Yet the newest Heisman winner, quarterback Charlie White, had six votes, too.

WINTER MEETINGS END WITH A LITTLE FLURRY

BY BEN WALKER

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Carl Everett, Brett Spiezio, and Jeff Suppan switched teams in a late flurry, while potential deals for Alex Rodriguez, Vladimir Guerrero, and other stars stalled on hold as the winter meetings ended.

The New York Yankees' payroll likely topped $180 million after they packed up, having signed Miguel Tejada, leading to the hiring of Jerry Gutekunst from the Arizona Diamondbacks for their offensive line coach.
