From Paris Hilton to masturbation

A local television show host breaks the barriers with nudity, obscenity and language

BY JIM BUTTS

The television campaign game is two naked dolls in a provocative position and the phrase "Paris Hilton says..." on top of the deck for "The Chuck Amore Show" — a low-road, season's nightmares that year every Wednesday from 8 to 10 on Public Access TV. Behind the piano sits Chuck Amore, a.k.a. Andy Small, a middle-aged man who dances and takes a shot of Jack Daniel's while a woman dances. Before they hit the stage, Amore, who's dressed like a robot, with two naked dolls set in a provocative position, said: "This is my five-minute routine."

Amore is the lead vocalist and co-owner of the show, which airs Wednesday at 6 p.m. on Public Access TV.

The show started last year and has been a hit with the local adult audience. Amore said he started the show as a way to "break the barriers with nudity, obscenity and language." He added that he wanted to "show people that there's no right or wrong in what we do."

Amore said he was inspired by the success of the French television show "Naked and Afraid," which features two strangers who are stranded in a remote location and are forced to live off the land with nothing but their clothes.

Amore said he plans to continue the show and hopes to attract a wider audience. He added that he is working on new routines and plans to incorporate more music and dance into the show.

At the end of the show, Amore said he was proud of what they had accomplished and hoped to continue to break the barriers with nudity, obscenity and language.

Utility activists question rate ads

BY WILLIAM MINKEL

A proposed bill to Iowa electricity rates at their current level until 2019, as advertised by MidAmerican Energy Co. in recent mailings, is drawing some criticism among municipal-power authorities who say such price differences could frustrate ratepayers.

The Oct. 17, 2013, ruling by the Iowa Utilities Board requires that electricity rate cannot be raised without the permission of the board in the other two zones in the state for the company to propose.

The annual residential electric rates for the state zones which include Iowa City and the Quad Cities, are the same highest of Iowa’s three zones for the average residential customer of the past year. While it is expected to increase rates to equalize the zones. MidAmerican officials say they will raise rates on Iowa’s rates. But recently, the Iowa Utilities Board, which oversees the company is running a discussion of a potential rate increase.

At best, it’s a combination of a rate increase or reduced-priced lunches. The university’s policy encourages students to participate in a discussion of a potential rate increase.

Mass. lawmakers deeply divided over gay marriage

BY JENNIFER PETERSON

BOSTON — An Associated Press survey of Massachusetts lawmakers shows a Legislature deeply divided over whether the state should allow gay marriage, even as a constitutional amendment that would ban same-sex weddings might still pass this year.

The contest, which has been closely watched across the country and played a role in the presidential campaign, is shaping up to be so heated that backers of gay rights say the issue could make the ballot in November 2004. But it is feared that the proposed amendment would fail.

Supporters and opponents are planning a flurry of events next week when the state's high court is scheduled to hear arguments on whether gay marriage is constitutional.

A Legislature survey shows a majority of lawmakers believe the amendment could pass, but a significant number of lawmakers, including some from both sides, say they believe the measure is unlikely to prevail.

The Associated Press surveyed lawmakers as the Senate was about to take up the volatile issue at a constitutional convention as early as Wednesday.

The AP asked lawmakers how they believed the Senate would vote on the constitutional amendment that would ban same-sex marriages, and 69 of the 141 senators contacted by telephone supported the amendment, with 21 opposed, according to the survey released Tuesday.

Korb berates Bush on terror

BY TIM CRIMMINS

A national defense expert castigated the Bush administration Monday in a speech to the Iowa City Foreign Relations Council.

Lawrence Korb, a senior adviser to the Center for Defense Information, offered an audience of approximately 200 a searing critique of the president's strategies of "waging preemptive war," "deterrent nuclear modernization," "a war on terrorism," "commercializing military technology" and "the nuclear weapons

"One school of thought in Washington stresses deterrence and containment as preventive measures," he said, adding that others advocate the promotion of democratic development and the management of international aid, rather than the military, to prevent the spread of terrorism.

At least one of those in attendance, UI Professor Stephen F. Cohen, was unimpressed by Korb's speech.

"I'm not ready to turn over the dog to the Bush administration," he said. "I'm hoping for a little more realism about the way things were going. He just said light on every problem."

On the other hand, UI junior Scott Korb, a member of the group, said Korb will speak his mind.

Aristide backers fight back in Haiti

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti — The government of President Jean-Bertrand Aristide appeared to regain ground Monday in its efforts to quell a rebellion in the capital, where security forces fought a battle lasting about an hour.

The opposition was led by a group that has rejected plans to hold new elections, and is supported by a combination of police troops and militiamen.

The opposition's leader, Jean-Bertrand Aristide, said the fight was a response to the government's decision to hold a national referendum on presidential elections.

In a statement released late Monday, Aristide's party called on the international community to support the government's efforts to maintain stability.

Aristide's supporters, who include members of his political party and a coalition of armed groups, have been fighting against the government's efforts to implement a new constitution and hold elections.

The fight came following a week of violent clashes between security forces and opposition supporters in the capital.

The opposition has accused the government of using force to suppress protesters and of failing to address the underlying political and social issues.

Aristide's supporters on Monday vowed to continue their campaign against the government and called on the international community to support their efforts.

What's in a poll?

According to a recent CNN / USA Today poll, President Bush's approval rating has improved in relation to the results of the last such poll. Meanwhile, Democratic presidential hopeful John Kerry, the choice of the majority of registered voters, according to a poll

Whether such polls are a scientific barometer of the thoughts of the public or a ridiculously small pool of respondents is a matter of endless standing debate. Still, as President Bush might attest, neither Bush nor Kerry can walk away from their victory speeches quite yet.

Hawks take on streaking Purdue

BY FRANK KLPSCH

The Carver-Hawkeye Arena scoreboard was still buzzing from the final minutes of the previous game when the final minutes of the final game started. Jeff Horner's game-winning sparklifted the Hawks to a 69-62 dual-overtime victory over Iowa State on Feb. 7.

The springing ball of Johnson County's Davis Wright, 17 points and 11 rebounds. Wright is Iowa's top rebounder.

"We're finally starting to make solid contributions to the game," said Jeff Horner, the Hawks' second leading scorer. "I've been out there, but I've been out there with a purpose."}

Hawkeyes point guard Jeff Horner drives to the basket earlier this season against the Wake Forest Demon Deacons. Horner was named Big Ten Player of the Week on Monday.

IOWA HOSTS PURDUE

(6-13) had 10 in the game.

"I think Jeff will be somebody that continues to get better every season because I know he'll work hard on it," said Alford. "And he's going to break the press without turning the ball over or being instrumental to it.

The Boilermakers are a very, very strong team. Purdue is a team on fire tonight."

The Hawkeyes kept it close, but Purdue held on for the win.

"We're finally starting to make solid contributions to the game," said Jeff Horner, the Hawks' second leading scorer. "I've been out there, but I've been out there with a purpose."
All-Star games worth watching?

When Major League Baseball Canada (MLB) announced that the All-Star game meaning something to the 120 players on the field. The game was designed to be a showcase of baseball's best talent, highlighting the skill and accomplishments of its top performers.

The All-Star game is an opportunity for fans to witness some of the greatest players in action. For one reason or another, the game doesn't always live up to expectations. It's not always the most exciting or competitive game, and it can sometimes feel like a letdown for fans.

Still, despite its flaws, the All-Star game remains a beloved tradition in baseball. It provides a chance for players to show off their skills, compete against one another, and celebrate the game they love.

In the end, the All-Star game is about more than just the players on the field. It's about the legacy of the sport and the memories it creates. And for those reasons alone, it's worth watching.

ARIES
(Teaching Spring Internship Fair: Won't get your hands on the hot guy? You may be impossible to handle today. You may have to back away into your life. Don't let it cost you more than your life."

TAURUS
(June 21-July 22): Someone you love will be difficult to handle today. You may have to back away into your life. Don't let it cost you more than what you can afford.

GEMINI
(July 23-Aug. 22): Your ability to adapt will be to your advantage. Don't try to fold a Prozac in a purse. Get together with people who stimulate you.

CANCER
(Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You can make all sorts of changes if you are practical in your handling of business.

LION
(Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Realistically problems may surface if you aren't careful with how you handle someone you love. You may be explosive that brings you to your knees. You will probably be the one who starts it.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 23-Nov. 21): You can make a wish come true if you really want to bend metaphors in your game today. You must start to act in things you expect and open your mind to the people you like.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You may not want to be an accidental footsoldier in the war on your own. What you are doing is raising your own health. You may manage accordantly.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22-Jan. 19): The is the time to push a partnership to the first. Someone you are close to may be feeling suffocated right now, and if you are not attentive, you relationship could end up hurting.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 20-Feb. 18): If you setUp a date and corridor out by showing how your peers play you are digging yourself into a hole. The lesson is to save time for the special.

PISCES
( Feb. 19-March 20): Make plans in invisible. Your relationship may be the reason you are single.

Shoveling of the Heart

The US will feel the brunt of the terrorist threat due to the power of its armed forces and the Pentagon's ability to maintain a large military presence in the country.
