Police arrest athlete

UI gymnast charged with downloading child pornography

BY SEUNG MIN KIM
THE DAILY IOWAN

A Hawkeye gymnast who allegedly downloaded 20 images of an underage boy simulating sex acts last spring is not the only UI student to have downloaded "inappropriate material" in the past, a UI computer-technology officer said Sunday.

Paul F. Summers, 23, 302 S. Gilbert St., was arrested and charged April 16 with sexual exploitation of a minor after allegedly admitting to officers he had downloaded some child-pornography images while living at C226 Hillcrest in May 2003.

Police reports show officers allegedly found approximately 20 images. The Broken Arrow, Okla., native, who had allegedly downloaded pictures that showed a male minor either posing in the nude or simulating sex acts, was released on his own recognizance April 16 from the Johnson County Jail.

The 5-7, 147-pound senior was ranked nationally as a gymnast last year in floor exercises and is a three-time letter-winner at the UI. Telephoned at his home on Sunday, Summers declined to comment on the charge, as did his attorney, John Beasley. Calls to men's gymnastics coach Tom Dunn were not immediately returned.

While the university does not regularly monitor user activities, officials may "inspect files or monitor use for a limited time when there is probable cause to Marty Hathaway, a correctional officer at the Oakdale prison, holds a press conference on April 16 outside the facility to discuss the possibility that some of the officers may be laid off. The loss of any officers would be detrimental to the security of the center, he said. Since 2002, the prison has lost 23 employees.

Union: Prison layoffs dangerous

BY SARAH FRANKLIN
THE DAILY IOWAN

Layoffs at the Iowa Medical & Classification Center could endanger prison staff and lead to escapes, the president of the prison's largest labor union warned at a press conference April 16.

The conference was staged outside the facility in the wake of an April 14 letter sent to the American Federal, State, County, and Municipal Employees Local 2985, which said the prison may lay off employees in the next 90 days.

AFSCME represents 200 of the 320 employees at the prison — commonly known as Oakdale — including security, maintenance, and clerical staff. Since 2002, the prison has lost 23 employees. It now has seven vacancies and two employees serving in the military, said Marty Hathaway, the president of Local 2985.

"We can't lose one more person and maintain the high level of security we want to attain," he said.

As of April, Oakdale had 750 inmates in a facility built to accommodate 530.

"Overcrowding was a problem 10 years ago and still is today. We are doing more with less staff, and we cannot afford to lose any more," Hathaway said. "When staff numbers go down, the risk goes up. Nearly one year ago today, two inmates scaled the fence and escaped the facility. We don't want a repeat of that."

The two inmates, Omar Wilkins and Jeffrey Hersberger, scaled two security fences on April 12, 2003, and fled to Atlanta before they were captured.

Greg Ort, a deputy warden at the prison, said he did not know when a decision would be made.

"We gave a courtesy letter to the union that there might be layoffs," he said, adding that he had no information about how many could be laid off.

Sen. Bob Dvorsky, D-Coralville, said he spoke with Gary Maynard, the director of the Iowa Department of Corrections, who assured him that the department would work to avoid layoffs.

Maynard could not be reached for comment Sunday.

The Oakdale prison is located on Highway 965 between Coralville and North Liberty. In addition to housing a permanent prison population, Oakdale acts as a processing center for all of Iowa's inmates.

Iowa fans call out for free T-shirts from the cheerleaders at Kinnick Stadium on April 17 during the Hawkeyes' spring game. A crowd of 30,000 Hawkeye fans took advantage of the sunny 85-degree weather to watch the 2004 Iowa team in action and highlights of the 2003 season on Kinnick's jumbotrons. The Black squad beat the Gold team, 38-3, during a two-quarter scrimmage.

VEISHEA turns ugly, 1,000 riot

'Extensive' damage reported at ISU

ASSOCIATED PRESS

AMES — A yearly festival at Iowa State University got out of hand early Sunday, with a crowd of approximately 1,000 people smashing storefront windows, pulling down light poles, and flipping cars in the campus area, police said.

Officers broke up the crowd with tear gas and arrested around 30 people on charges ranging from disorderly conduct to assaulting a police officer.

Approximately 20 people were taken to a local hospital for treatment, mostly for eye and skin irritation, but no serious injuries were reported. No estimates of property damage were immediately available, but police said it was "extensive."

"This is the most damage and the most viciousness I've seen here," said Ames police Cmdr. Jim Robinson, who was on the force during several campus riots in the late '80s and early '90s.

Police officials said officers responded to a call around midnight that a party near campus was getting out of hand. They found a crowd of several hundred people overflowing into the street.

People from the crowd began throwing bottles and cans at the officers and yelling "riot, riot," according to a police press release.

Police said crowds scattered from the area around the party, gathering closer to the business-district area known as Campustown. Crowd members tore down street lights and road signs, set trash bins on fire, rolled parked cars, vandalized businesses, and attacked cars that were driving by, police said.

Robinson said rioters sent burning bins rolling down hills, where they crashed into parked cars.

There could have been "hundreds of more" arrests, he said, but police were understaffed. Officers from the Iowa State police, the Story County Sheriff's Office, and the Iowa State Patrol assisted.

Officers let off tear gas, but the crowd didn't fully disperse until around 5:30 a.m.

Robinson said alcohol played a major factor in the behavior of rioters. He said most, but probably not all, were ISU students.

Some at the scene said police behavior escalated the situation.

In memoriam — reading the names, never forgetting

Locals gather to honor lives lost on international Holocaust Remembrance Day

BY LAUREN KAMM
THE DAILY IOWAN

More than 50 UI students and professors and Iowa City residents gathered at the Hillel Foundation on Sunday night to participate in the "Reading of the Names" on international Holocaust Remembrance Day.

To honor those who lost their lives, 3 million victims' names will be read continuously until 7 p.m. today, commemorating the approximately 6 million Jews lost between 1933 and 1945. More than 50 readers have volunteered at the second event the Hillel has co-sponsored to remember those who lost their lives.

"This subject matter is so deep and so tragic," said Rep. Jim Leach, R-Iowa, before his keynote speech. "To prevent things of this nature from happening again, one has to remember them."

After pausing for a moment of silence to pray and reflect, Leach spoke the first victim's name — Daniel Caplan — initiating the reading of the list.

Victims are identified by all available information, including family name, date and place of birth, age, residence, and date and place of death. All information was collected by Yad Vashem, the Holocaust Memorial Museum in Israel, said UI senior Suzanne Musin, a co-chairwoman of the Jewish Film Series.

The opening ceremony progressed smoothly, with relatively little emotion from the audience.

"I am so desensitized to all this so it doesn't make me cry," said UI senior Brina Sachs, who said she is moved by the shock expressed by people unfamiliar with Holocaust history.

April 18 was a significant day for the ceremony, because, in Jewish culture, all words are assigned a number, with 18 representing the word for life, "chai," said Laurel Snyder, the Hillel Jewish student life coordinator. The remembrance day does not always fall on such a significant day, as the Jewish calendar does not match the common Western version.

Iowa City's event is part of an international recognition of the occasion.

Today at noon, a horn will be sounded throughout the streets of Israel, halting all activities until the alarm stops, said Avi Stramer, president of Hawkeyes for Israel.

Depending on weather conditions, the ceremony will continue today on the T. Anne Cleary Walkway.

On the frontlines of human rights

An ex-U.N. human-rights official stresses commitment in UI lecture

BY MARY BETH LARUE
THE DAILY IOWAN

A former U.N. High Commissioner on Human Rights on April 16 recalled images of children dying in the arms of parents at feeding centers, maimed war victims in Sierra Leone, and HIV-positive adolescent girls dealing with the aftermath of prostitution during a lecture in the IMU.

Mary Robinson, Ireland's first female president (1990-97) and the U.N. High Commissioner from 1997 to 2002, addressed issues of human rights and globalization in the UI College of Law's 11th Levitt Lecture before approximately 450 people.

"I was very close to where the conflict was in human rights," she said. "I didn't feel like I had a lot of power to change things, but I could join the victim's voices."

Prior to the lecture, Robinson said her position as president of Ireland helped further her interest in human rights and allowed her to visit such countries as Somalia and Rwanda during times of crisis.

"I wanted to show that a small country can play a role on behalf of developing countries, and I suppose Ireland had an experience that was very relevant to developing countries," she said, noting Ireland's 19th-century famine. "I saw the resilience of people in times of terrible poverty, and I saw the need for engagement for the people like us who are lucky enough to live in a richer world."

Robinson has made addressing human rights her life's work

Mary Robinson, the U.N. High Commissioner for Human Rights, speaks on April 16 at the UI College of Law.

— as a lawyer arguing landmark cases before the European Court of Human Rights, encouraging reform legislation to expand civil liberties as a senator in Ireland, and recently lobbying world leaders to regionally support human rights initiatives.

"Robinson offers us observations from the frontline of human rights," said law Dean N. William Hines. "She shows the law students what it means to take education and provide it as a vehicle for social movements and change."

The new grandmother is heading a new project, the Ethical Globalization Initiative, based at Columbia University and supported by a consortium of international organizations. The project seeks to bring human-rights standards and norms into economic globalization.

"To me, it's shocking that more than 6 million children die annually from hunger and lack of resources," she said. "These types of statistics are unacceptable in a world that can clothe and feed and house everyone as long as we give it priority."

Following the lecture, Emmy Bates, a South East Junior High School seventh-grader with a special interest in child labor, asked, "If you had to give one message to the whole world, what would it be?"

Robinson responded with a laugh. "Now, I'm feeling really important," she said, and summarized her overall message: "You must implement your commitment."

Nonprofit center receives $2.5 million

The UI Iowa Nonprofit Resource Center will bear the name of a prominent philanthropist and distinguished Iowa lawyer in recognition of a $2.5 million donation pledge — the largest it has ever received — made by his widow, the UI announced on April 16.

The name change will honor Larned Allen Waterman, a UI alum who served on the Iowa Law School Foundation Board of Directors and headed several companies and nonprofit organizations before his death in 1983.

The UI has already received $400,000 — the majority of the money remains in a charitable remainder trust fund. Money generated by the trust fund will be transferred to the university through his widow, Mary Hubbell Waterman, until she dies, at which time the UI will receive the remainder of the pledge, said law Dean N. William Hines.

Waterman, who earned his J.D. from the UI in 1947, died in 1983. He was inducted into the Iowa Business Hall of Fame in 1985 and the Quad City Business Hall of Fame in 2003. He also served as trustee of the UI Murray Trust Fund.

The Waterman gift is part of the UI Foundation's $850 million fundraising campaign, "Good. Better. Best. Iowa: The Campaign to Advance Our Great University."

Created in 2000, the nonprofit resource center channels information and resources to nonprofit organizations throughout Iowa and offers "Nonprofit Organizational Effectiveness," a two-semester course, addressing all aspects of operating nonprofit organizations.

Palestinians reach out to touch the body of the late Hamas leader Abdel Aziz Rantisi as he is carried through streets during his funeral in Gaza City early Sunday.

Israel kills Hamas leader; Palestinians fill streets

BY MOLLY MOORE AND JOHN WARD ANDERSON

WASHINGTON POST

GAZA CITY, Gaza Strip — Tens of thousands of Palestinians escorted the corpse of Hamas leader Abdel Aziz Rantisi through the streets of Gaza City on Sunday amid condemnation of Israel for his assassination and warnings that fracturing the militant group could fuel greater extremism.

Hundreds of hands reached out to stroke Rantisi's shrapnel-scarred face and touch the bloodstained shroud stretched over his body outside the city's main mosque, while thousands of mourners shook their fists at Israeli F-16 fighter jets roaring above the funeral procession.

Rantisi, 56, and two bodyguards were killed on April 17 when Israeli AH-64 Apache helicopters fired two missiles at his car near his Gaza City home, a month after he took over as the Gaza head of Hamas following Israel's assassination of the group's spiritual leader and founder, Sheik Ahmed Yassin. Hamas, formally known as the Islamic Resistance Movement, has claimed responsibility for dozens of suicide bombings and other attacks against Israelis.

"They said that they killed Rantisi to weaken Hamas," Ismail Haniya, a senior political leader of Hamas, told a frenzied mob through loudspeakers outside the Omari Mosque in the heart of Gaza City. "They are dreaming. Hamas might have a crisis at hand after losing its leaders, but it will not be defeated."

Rantisi's assassination occurred less than a week after President

Bush met with Israeli Prime Minister Ariel Sharon and announced a shift in U.S. Middle East policy, endorsing Israeli positions on some of the most contentious issues in the Israeli-Palestinian conflict. The timing cemented the views of many Palestinians that the United States and Israel had colluded in the killing, turning a potentially dangerous turning point for the United States, according to Palestinian leaders and analysts.

"Bush stands next to Sharon and after that they assassinate Rantisi," said Hani Reda, 25, as he stood near Hamas members assembling for the funeral procession in new camouflage uniforms and black masks. "We should carry our fight against the Americans as much as we are against Israel. Israel and America share the same face."

Alleged gunshots bring slew of charges

Iowa City police accused a local man of terrorism and other crimes this weekend after he allegedly fired half a dozen shots at an apartment building in the Broadway neighborhood.

Trumell "Skud" Roberts, 2650 Roberts Road Apt. 1B, was also charged with going armed with intent and possession of firearms as a felon after police confronted him just before 3:30 a.m. on April 17. The 22-year-old allegedly fired five or six shots at 2020 Broadway from 1958 Broadway Apt. 9C, police assert. No one was injured, said Iowa City police Lt. Sid Jackson.

Police allegedly saw Roberts throw a black Cobra pistol out the window as they tried to enter the building, according to reports. Officers recovered the weapon before arresting Roberts, the reports show.

Police have no information pertaining to Robert's motive, Jackson said, and the incident remains under investigation.

As of Sunday, Roberts remained in custody at the Johnson County Jail on a $35,000 cash-only bail.

Local man sues convenience store

An Iowa City man is suing a local convenience store for libel, slander, wrongful prosecution, and injury to personal and professional reputation three months after he was acquitted of committing theft, tampering with records, and other practices.

Jay Allen, 5286 American Legion Road S.E., filed a lawsuit in 6th District Court on April 15, suing Tom Alberhasky, the owner of T&M Mini Mart, 2601 Highway 6 E., as well as Kevin Andrew Alberhasky and David Hansen.

Police had charged Allen in March 2003 using information provided by the Alberhaskys and Hansen, court records show, but in January the charges were dismissed.

"Defendants acted without probable cause and with malice toward Jay D. Allen," the petition states. The statements made about Allen, the lawsuit alleges, "tended to injure him in his business."

Attempts to contact Tom Alberhasky were unsuccessful.

Allen, who claims he has suffered "pain and suffering, humiliation, embarrassment, emotional distress, injury to his personal and professional reputation, and a loss of income" because of the defendants' alleged actions, is asking for "full, punitive damages."

Lawmakers plan to finish work and adjourn

DES MOINES (AP) — Lawmakers have some heavy lifting this week as they attempt to complete work on a gambling bill, the state budget, and a spending measure that funds the environment, building, and maintenance projects.

The Senate is likely to reject a portion of the House-passed environment bill that borrows as much as $70 million to continue the Vision Iowa and Community Attraction and Tourism programs.

Senate Majority Leader Stewart Iverson, R-Dows, said he's against borrowing for the program.

"That doesn't seem like a very good concept to me at all," he said. "I want to see exactly what's in there, what are the effects, what's it going to do."

The bill, passed in the House Thursday, uses $15 million a year through 2019 from the Rebuild Iowa Infrastructure Fund to leverage the borrowing. The money could generate another $400 million for as many as 120 projects such as parks, riverfront developments, and recreation areas around the state.

U.S. to maintain heavy military presence in Iraq

BY LEE KEATH
ASSOCIATED PRESS

BAGHDAD — Iraqi security forces will not be ready to protect the country against insurgents by the June 30 handover of power, the top U.S. administrator said Sunday — an assessment aimed at defending the continued heavy presence of U.S. troops here even after an Iraqi government takes over.

The unusually blunt comments from L. Paul Bremer came amid a weekend of new fighting that pushed the death toll for U.S. troops in April to 99, already the record for a single-month in Iraq and approaching the number killed during the invasion that toppled Saddam Hussein last year.

The military had always planned to remain after June 30, when the U.S. is to handover sovereignty to Iraq. In recent months coalition officials acknowledged the transfer of security will be significantly slower than hoped because Iraqi forces were not prepared.

But Bremer said the fighting across the country this month exposed the depth of the problems inside the security forces.

"Events of the past two weeks show that Iraq still faces security threats and needs outside help to deal with them. Early this month, the foes of democracy overran Iraqi police stations and seized public buildings in several parts of the country," he said. "Iraqi forces were unable to stop them."

"It is clear that Iraqi forces will not be able, on their own, to deal with these threats by June 30 when an Iraqi government assumes sovereignty," Bremer said in a statement issued by the U.S. coalition.

With U.S.-led forces fighting on two fronts and insurgent violence flaring elsewhere, at least 99 U.S. troops have been killed in combat since April 1. In the latest violence, five Marines and five soldiers were killed April 17.

A total of 115 U.S. troops were killed in combat from the start of the U.S.-led invasion in March 2003 until May 1, when President Bush declared that major combat was over. Until now, the single-month record for U.S. troops killed was 82, in November. Around 700 U.S. servicemen have died in Iraq.

Over the weekend, at least 40 Iraqis were killed, bringing the Iraqi death toll in April to more than 1,050.

Iraq's Defense minister — Ali Allawi, a Shiite Muslim — appointed by U.S. officials two weeks ago, announced his two top generals, a Sunni and a Kurd, establishing representatives of the country's three main communities in the senior Defense positions.

The army's top general will be Gen. Babakir Zebari, who commanded Kurdish militiamen in the north for decades and fought alongside coalition troops during last year's invasion. The chief of staff will be Amer al-Hashimi, a Sunni and former general in the Iraqi infantry until he retired in 1997.

U.S. officials have been rebuilding the military from scratch, arranging the training of recruits and naming Allawi as its civilian head.

But the recent violence has shown the weaknesses and conflicted feelings of the armed forces. An army battalion refused to join the Marines in the siege of Fallujah, saying they did not intend to fight fellow Iraqis. During the Shiite militia uprising in the south, many police abandoned their stations, realizing they were badly outgunned or sympathizing with the militia's cause.

In Husaybah, near the Syrian border, insurgents ambushed a Marine patrol on April 17, sparking a battle throughout the day with up to 150 gunmen, Marine spokesman Lt. Eric Knapp said. Five Marines and up to 30 insurgents were killed, he said. Hospital officials said civilians were among the dead, as well as the town's police chief.

Spain pulls troops out of Iraq

BY DANIEL WOOLLS
ASSOCIATED PRESS

MADRID, Spain — Spain's prime minister on Sunday ordered Spanish troops pulled out of Iraq as soon as possible, fulfilling a campaign pledge to a nation recovering from terrorist bombings that Qaeda militants said were reprisal for Spain's support of the war.

Jose Luis Rodriguez Zapatero issued the abrupt recall just hours after his government was sworn in, saying there was no sign the United States would meet his demand for U.N. control of the postwar occupation — his ultimatum for keeping troops there.

Zapatero's Socialist Party won the March 14 general election amid allegations that outgoing Prime Minister Jose Maria Aznar, by backing the war in Iraq, had provoked commuter-train terrorist bombings that killed 191 people three days before the vote.

Though Zapatero had promised to remove Spanish troops, his immediate action was a bombshell and a setback for the United States as Spain's new Foreign minister prepared to travel to Washington to discuss the dispute.

The Bush administration has been eager to maintain an international veneer on the increasingly besieged coalition force in Iraq, which is dominated by its 130,000 American troops.

In a five-minute address at the Moncloa Palace, Zapatero said he had ordered Defense Minister Jose Bono to "do what is necessary for the Spanish troops stationed in Iraq to return home in the shortest time possible."

He cited his campaign pledge to bring the 1,300 troops in Iraq home by June 30, when their mandate expires, if the United Nations failed to take political and military control.

"With the information we have, and which we have gathered over the past few weeks, it is not foreseeable that the United Nations will adopt a resolution" that satisfies Spain's terms by its deadline, Zapatero said.

The latest polls show 72 percent of Spaniards want the troops withdrawn.

The government did not say when it would start removing its forces, but officials in Cairo said Egyptian Foreign Minister Ahmed Maher was told by his Spanish counterpart, Miguel Angel Moratinos, that Spain would pull out of Iraq in 15 days. The officials spoke on the condition of anonymity.

Egypt's Foreign Ministry later backtracked from that in a statement, however, saying the Spanish leader said "the date will be announced in Iraq and has not yet been fixed."

In Washington, U.S. officials said Zapatero's announcement was not a surprise.

"We knew from the recent Spanish election that it was the new prime minister's intention to withdraw Spanish troops from the coalition in Iraq," said a White House spokesman, Ken Lisaius. "We will work with our coalition partners in Iraq and the Spanish government and expect they will implement their decision in a coordinated, responsible, and orderly manner."

CERVICAL DYSPLASIA STUDY

Healthy, non-pregnant females age 18 to menopause with a mildly abnormal pap smear are invited to participate in a 2-3 month study. In this study we will be evaluating the safety of an intravaginal experimental gel in women with mild dysplasia. This study would require that participants come to the clinic a minimum of 8-10 times including some hospital stays. Participants must be currently using either Depo-Provera or an oral contraceptive pill.

- All study-related exams and hospital expenses will be provided.
- Compensation provided.

believe a user has violated this policy," according to the policy on acceptable use of Information Technology Services resources.

Steve Fleagle, the interim assistant vice president for ITS, said the instance was not isolated among the university's bandwidth users, but he added that he had no specific numbers of cases in the dorms. The university rarely finds instances of inappropriate downloading by itself; police usually instigate most of the investigations into illegal downloading, he said.

In one instance, which happens only "very rarely," an ITS employee walked by a dorm room, saw something questionable on the screen, and notified authorities, Fleagle said.

An additional policy also violated in this case was one that forbids users from breaking federal, state, or local laws using the ITS resources, Fleagle said.

"I think the policies in place are pretty good right now," he said. "We don't go around looking for this kind of stuff. We respect people's privacy."

Sexual exploitation of a minor in this instance is an aggravated misdemeanor punishable by a maximum of two years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

Punishments for the charge increase when the offender promotes or produces the child pornography.

Crew heads for space station

BY BAGILA BUKHARBAYEVA ASSOCIATED PRESS

BAIKONUR, Kazakhstan — A Russian rocket roared into space Monday carrying an American, a Russian, and a Dutch man to the international space station on the third manned mission since the halt of the U.S. shuttle program.

American Michael Fincke, Russian Gennady Padalka, and Andre Kuipers of the Netherlands, representing the European Space Agency, were to spend two days en route to the space station aboard the Soyuz TMA-4 spacecraft.

The Russian-built capsule is the only means to get to the orbital outpost since the suspension of U.S. space-shuttle flights following the February 2003 Columbia disaster.

"Our Russian partners are picking up the ball," Fincke, 37, said.

"It's very symbolic what we can do when people all over the world work together."

Just before boarding the spacecraft, the trio paused to wave farewell to relatives, space officials, and others who had traveled to the desolate Baikonur cosmodrome, on the steppes of Kazakhstan.

Padalka held up two fingers in a victory sign, Fincke gave a thumbs-up, and Kuipers brandished a clenched fist.

Padalka and Fincke, who were initially trained to fly on a U.S. shuttle, will spend 183 days on the space station. Kuipers will return after nine days with the station's current crew, U.S. astronaut Michael Foale and Russian cosmonaut Alexander Kaleri, who have been in orbit since October.

Ames festival gets out of hand

An Ames police officer uses pepper spray on an unidentified man early Sunday in Ames. VEISHEA got out of hand early Sunday, with around 1,000 people vandalizing businesses and cars in the campus area and police responding with tear gas.

with the crowd," said Andrea Seminara, a junior at the school.

The riot coincided with ISU's annual VEISHEA festival, a student-organized parade and celebration that dates to 1922. VEISHEA is an acronym for the five major colleges at ISU in 1922: "V" for veterinary medicine, "E" for engineering, "IS" for industrial science, "HE" for home economics, and "A" for agriculture.

The festival has seen disturbances in the past. ISU barred alcohol from being served at the event after a man was killed in the hours after the 1997 celebration. Neither the victim nor his two assailants were ISU students. There were several riots after festivals in the late '80s and early '90s.

The Iowa State Daily reported that some of the rioters were chanting "No dry VEISHEA" during the confrontation.

"I think all of us feel it's extremely unfortunate," said John McCarroll, an ISU spokesman. "It was beautiful weather, big crowds for many of the VEISHEA activities, a lot of people around campus — it's very disappointing and unfortunate that this has to happen."

University administrators met Sunday afternoon to talk about what happened and to decide how the school would respond. McCarroll said no decisions have been made about the future of the festival, and probably wouldn't be until next fall because most students are leaving for the summer in a few weeks.

Police search for robbery suspect

Authorities are looking for a man who allegedly robbed an East Side Iowa City pizzeria with a handgun Sunday night and fled with an undisclosed amount of cash.

Iowa City police responded to a call from Papa Murphy's Take 'N' Bake Pizza, 2300 Muscatine Ave., where employees said the business had been robbed at about 8:30 p.m.

When officers arrived, employees said a man entered the business, displayed a handgun, and demanded money before fleeing in an unknown direction.

He was described as a 5-8 black male weighing approximately 200 pounds. Employees said the man was wearing gray sweatpants and a hooded gray sweatshirt during the incident.

Anyone with information about the incident is asked to contact the Iowa City police at 356-5275.

State Senate vote shows GOP bigotry

Senate Republicans didn't even attempt to come up with another reason besides homophobia for rejecting a school board nominee. Instead, they turned his sexual identity into an "agenda."

In a letter published in the Des Moines Register on Sunday, Dows resident Sandra Vedane wrote, "I am ashamed to be an Iowa resident."

She was referring to the April 13 decision by the Iowa Senate to reject Jonathan Wilson, one of Gov. Tom Vilsack's nominees to the state school board. A few days before the vote, Senate Republicans came out and said they were planning on blocking the appointment of Wilson, mainly because he would "promote a gay agenda," according to Sen. Ken Veenstra.

The announcement caused an uproar, including Democrat Vilsack's denouncement of the Senate Republicans' actions, calling a "no" vote against Wilson a move of "bigotry." After an intense two-day debate, Wilson fell short of the two-thirds majority he needed in order to become a member of the board, 22-24.

A father of two, Wilson served on the Des Moines School Board for 12 years, prompting the Senate Democrats to call him "the most-qualified candidate" they had ever seen.

Wilson was defeated by a landslide in his re-election bid in 1995 after publicly disclosing his sexual orientation, an election Republicans say they cannot ignore, saying it demonstrated lack of public support. However, Wilson created a scholarship program for gay and lesbian students and is heavily involved with the First Friday Breakfast Club, a group for gays. The 1995 election was perhaps a better indicator of anti-gay sentiment at the time than it was of Wilson's ability to lead.

Somehow Senate Republicans managed to deem the scholarships and Breakfast Club negative, saying they go against what Iowans want in a legislator. Sen. Nancy Boettger, the Republican who heads the Senate Education Committee, cited Wilson's involvement in these pro-gay activities as reasons to vote against the Des Moines lawyer.

Demolish this

Is UNIVERSITY APARTMENTS getting the shaft because it's not sexy enough? Not profitable enough?

As part of the Kinnick Stadium renovations, the Klotz Tennis Center is moving west, into the Athletics Hall of Fame neighborhood. That move will require the demolition of the Housing Services Building, which serves as the University Apartments office, as well as a storage building. As an old power plant, the storage building might reasonably be demolished, but the Housing Services Building has not reached the end of its usable life span. And the cost for its temporary replacement is estimated at a cool half-million.

In his March 26 letter to the state Board of Regents, written in response to Jacob Wedemeyer's letter to the board on March 12, Dean Phillip Jones wrote that the temporary office will cost "less than the estimated $500,000," because that "figure was estimated as the cost of building a temporary facility that had amenities similar to the current structure. This type of temporary facility is not necessary, and we are looking at a less expensive temporary solution..." Wedemeyer, the president of the University Apartments Residents' Action Committee, proposed in his letter that the department should either "rent trailers or convert the bottom floor and basement of one of the Hawkeye Drive buildings into a temporary office."

Renting trailers may be a viable option; converting apartments is a bad idea — and Jones agrees, writing that "we have resisted using apartments for office space because of high demand for them, and [we] would prefer not to use livable apartments for storage but ... may need to reconsider that temporarily." What he doesn't make explicit is that if apartments are used as office space, less revenue is earned. Residence Services is a self-supporting department — rents and room rates fund it, not state allocations. So while it's not intended to make money, it does need to break even.

Which makes the proposed rent increase for next year, a minute 1 percent, seem fishy. Scott Seagren, the Residence Services business manager, said the small increase is being subsidized by last year's rent surplus, but if the department can incorporate an extra estimated expense of $500,000 into its annual budget of less than $4 million, without significantly raising rent, doesn't that mean rent has been exorbitantly high for longer than just one year?

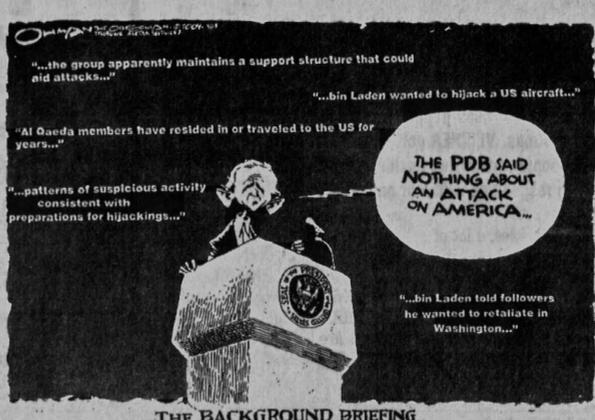

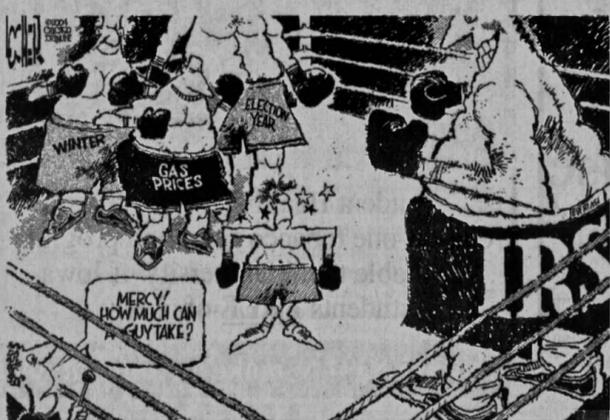

And why would the office-move money come from this department at all? As the move is a direct result of Kinnick renovations, shouldn't it be counted as part of the overall cost of that project and funded through the same sources — athletics and Recreational Services?

The office might permanently move, anyway, what with the plan for new apartments and all, but while that may eventually come to pass, this move is not intended as that permanent one. (Though "temporary" in university lingo does sometimes turn out to be about as ephemeral as King Tut — see the math grad students' "temporary" office space in Macbride, for example.)

And the new apartments are just barely on the drawing board, though it is known that the tentative plan halves the number of units, from around 600 to 300-350. Given the "high demand" for the apartments, that's wrong-headed. And the new ones are also supposed to be "affordable" and to last only 30 years, officially so that they can be updated/replaced in response to evolving tenant needs. In essence, though, this means cheap, hastily constructed buildings that have taken 40 years to pay off will be replaced with other cheap, hastily constructed buildings. Fun!

Even these plans, though, have lots of hoops in front of them, as consultants haven't even been hired. Jones wrote that, pending approval of the regents, he expects to "hire consultants in late summer or early fall." Which would, in and of itself, mean nothing — consultants were hired twice in the last six years, and what happened then? The apartments got older.

This time, though, it's not just the low-income backbone of your university, TAs, and RAs that have a stake in it. Nope, this time athletics is involved. Sexy, eh? ■

Poor sports

On April 5, the New York Times ran a front page article detailing Canada's baby-seal hunt. This year's commercial hunt of harp seals was endorsed by the Canadian government, which subsidizes the hunt; it set a quota allowing 350,000 baby seals to be bludgeoned to death for their fur. This quota means that one in three harp-seal pups will lose their lives so that humans may convert their skin to cloth.

Eighty percent of all seals killed off the coast of Canada are between 12 days and 12 weeks old. Calling this a hunt is a contradiction in terms. Ethical hunters believe that their prey should at least have a fighting chance.

Baby seals are targeted precisely because they cannot get away. Seals give birth to their young on ice floes because during the first months of their lives, they are not efficient swimmers. When the hunters come calling, the baby seals are no match for the hulking humans, armed with hakapiks (wooden clubs with large metal hooks at the end) who wildly club them to death. If the animals are lucky, the blows will kill them. If they are not, they will suffer the further agony of being skinned alive.

Americans have responded to news of the seal "hunt" with justifiable outrage and condemnation. I share their horror. In this day and age, no animal should lose its life to satisfy the vanity of humankind. Americans in general, and Iowans in particular, who decry this practice and point accusatory fingers of condemnation at the governments and markets that uphold these practices would do well to look at what is happening to fur-bearing animals within our own borders.

As consumers, we can choose whether to add to the world's misery or to widen the circle of compassion. What will you choose?

Taxing the middle-class

While the Bush campaign attempts to distort John Kerry's record, the facts show that Kerry has proposed nearly three times as much new tax relief for middle-class families as George W. Bush. Kerry has innovative proposals to help families pay for tuition so their children can get the education they deserve, to create a health-care plan to provide coverage to hard-working families and to lower the tax rate for companies, large and small, that create good, quality jobs in America.

The record shows that Bush has done very little to help the middle-class and working-poor families that this nation relies on and instead has given almost all the tax cuts to the top 2 percent of the income bracket. Bush has only hurt those in the bottom 98 percent of the income bracket. As the election draws nearer, I am confident that more voters will realize that Kerry is the right choice for them and for America.

Are we Goliath?

American soldiers clearly have overwhelming military might. So why are we losing?

The problem is less a military one than it is a moral and psychological one. Our leadership is too humble and too gentle.

Half our country, represented by the Democrats, feels that the United States has no right to assert itself militarily. Only the United Nations has this right, says candidate John Kerry. The other half of the country, represented by George W. Bush, feels that we do have a right to assert ourselves militarily but only if we sacrifice ourselves in the process — for example, by seeking to do the impossible, such as building a democratic republic in a place such as Iraq, riddled with years of dictatorship, religious fundamentalism and the resulting impoverishment of body and spirit.

We are all trained to think in gray areas, and only in gray areas, but we live in one of the most black-and-white periods of human history. The only hope for our civilization will be when more people, including our leaders, wake up to this fact.

No budget cuts for tennis and salaries

What kind of budget crisis is our university suffering? On page one of the April 16 Daily Iowan, I read two stories. One discusses the recommendation to trim $12 million via freezes on salary and benefits and reducing financial aid. Margaret Raymond is quoted as saying this might cause the university to lose prestige and make it difficult to compete in the national market for faculty hires. Another story reports that UI officials are submitting plans to the regents for $12 million to build new tennis courts and fields for field hockey and soccer practice, quoting Paul Wardlaw that the tennis courts would be "one of the better ones in the country ... to attract some of the top athletes ... It's going to be a huge benefit to the whole campus." Twelve million here, 12 million there — where are our priorities?

Pixies prove you can go home again

BY RICHARD SHIRK
THE DAILY IOWAN

MINNEAPOLIS — The reunited Pixies took the stage for the first time in more than 10 years on April 13, and the members smiled as they gazed into a capacity crowd awed at the simple fact that the four people that reshaped underground rock 'n' roll in the '80s (before notoriously imploding) could stand on the same raised platform.

For those in attendance at the intimate Fine Line Music Café, the band could have stood there all night without playing a note, and they still would have adored it. The group, dormant since its final show in Vancouver on April 25, 1992, was a band consisting of noticeably older college rock 'n' rollers playing iconic music that hadn't aged a day and probably never will.

An hour before show time, the small venue, usually reserved for mid-sized indie acts and local groups, burst with an over-capacity crowd. The early comers waited in nervous anticipation, finding it hard not to feel some uncertainty at the difficult task the Pixies was facing — only a handful of bands have found anything but ruined reputation or tarnishing mythology in re-forming, and for a band as important as the Pixies, the endeavor seemed all the riskier.

The five albums the Boston-based band recorded from 1987 to 1991 were — like Television or the Velvet Underground — a sound completely unlike anything that had come before. Jagged and loud, the Pixies fused surf-rock guitar, punk-rock volume, and an art-school aesthetic into an intoxicating and intelligent caterwaul. Led by the barking vocals of Black Francis (Charles Thompson) and the ethereal coo of bass player Kim Deal, such albums as Surfer Rosa and Doolittle were blueprints for the next decade of college radio.

As the opening lines of "Bone Machine" cascaded from the stage, it became obvious that this was not a band going through the reunion-tour motions for a quick dollar, despite all the evidence — the "Pixies Sell Out" T-shirts, the $5 button-and-sticker sets, and the $25 recording of the show pressed immediately following the last song.

The 27 songs played that night focused mostly on Come on Pilgrim, Surfer Rosa, and Doolittle. During such favorites as "Monkey Gone to Heaven," "Caribou," and "Isla de Encanta," as well as B-sides such as Neil Young's "Winterlong" and the U.K. surf version of "Wave of Mutilation," the Pixies turned with a confidence that played between a thousand-person karaoke outing and an explanation for why thousands of people are trampled to death at religious pilgrimages.

Any rift or residual hostility between Black and Kim Deal — the favored explanation for the band's demise — seemed to be left backstage. Perhaps tellingly, only "Velouria" and "U-Mass" came from the last two Pixies albums, in which Deal's role as a songwriter was reduced to being the occasional backing vocalist. Her performance on "Gigantic" sounded just as it did in 1988 (despite the flubbed bass line), and "Into the White" — a Deal/Black B-side from the "Here Comes Your Man" single — closed the night's encore.

With a 50-date tour (through North America and Europe) that would tax the relationships of even the most solid bands, the Pixies could very likely just burn up and break apart, leaving another crowd as the next placeholder in a rock 'n' roll myth.

When the lights came up, however, something went unspoken between the musicians on the stage and the throngs of fans in the crowd — that what has been broken for 12 years works again. And for now, the Pixies left the stage with a swagger, a smile, and, for Deal, another cigarette.

To the world, you may be one person.
But to one person, you may be the world.

The faculty and staff at University of Iowa Hospitals and Clinics are privileged to work with more than 1,300 men and women who dedicate their time and energy to helping others. They are Volunteers.

The many ways they support our patients, staff, and visitors are as varied as their backgrounds. But they all have one thing in common—a desire to make a difference.

From everyone at UI Hospitals and Clinics, thank you to our wonderful volunteers. You make a world of difference!

Cink sinks Purdy in playoff

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Stewart Cink came from nine strokes down to force a playoff, then beat Ted Purdy with a birdie on the fifth hole to win the MCI Heritage on Sunday.

Cink shot a 7-under par 65 to pull of the second big comeback and win his first PGA Tour title in four years.

Cink had six birdies, including an eagle to catch Purdy at 274. Purdy struggled to a 2-over par 71.

Ernie Els shot a 69 in a tie for third at 8-under par, the same score of a week ago but he lost by a stroke to Mickelson at the Masters.

After Purdy and Cink matched pars for the first time, Cink landed a wedge shot into a waste bunker about 6 feet from the hole while Purdy was off the green.

Purdy parred the hole to force a playoff.

However, after the playoff, Cink won on his ceremony. Cink won the PGA Tour tournament by beating Slugger White to reach the critical bunker shot on the 18th hole. Television viewers in to point out the removed loose stones in the area before he hit.

Hawks stunned Indiana in game

Earlier this season, the Hawkeyes suffered a disappointing defeat, first-year Iowa coach Jack Dahm's rebuilding squads often step forward with two steps.

On Sunday, Iowa staged a couple of steps backward. After claiming two of three games of their series in Indiana, the Hawkeyes left town woozy after beating. The host Hoosiers had a 20-mile advantage of a 20-mile blast seven homers to the win.

The Black and Gold falter in its April 17 twin game, losing a 5-4 first game but a season-high scoring of a 12-7 triumph.

The Hawkeyes storm town and made quick work of the Hoosiers in the series opener April 16, as ace Nathan Johnson fanned a career-high 14 batters in a 7-3 Iowa win.

Cink sinks Purdy's bid in playoff hole

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Stewart Cink came from nine strokes down to force a playoff, then beat Ted Purdy with a birdie on the fifth extra hole to win the MCI Heritage on Sunday.

Purdy Started day with 4-shot lead

Cink shot a 7-under 64 to pull of the second biggest PGA comeback and win his first title in four years.

Cink had six birdies and an eagle to catch Purdy at 10-under 274. Purdy started the round with a four shot lead, but struggled to a 2-over 73.

Ernie Els shot a 69 to finish in a tie for third at 8-under, his same score of a week ago when he lost by a stroke to Phil Mickelson at the Masters.

After Purdy and Cink matched pars for four holes, Cink landed a wedge from the waste bunker about 6 feet away while Purdy was off the back of the green.

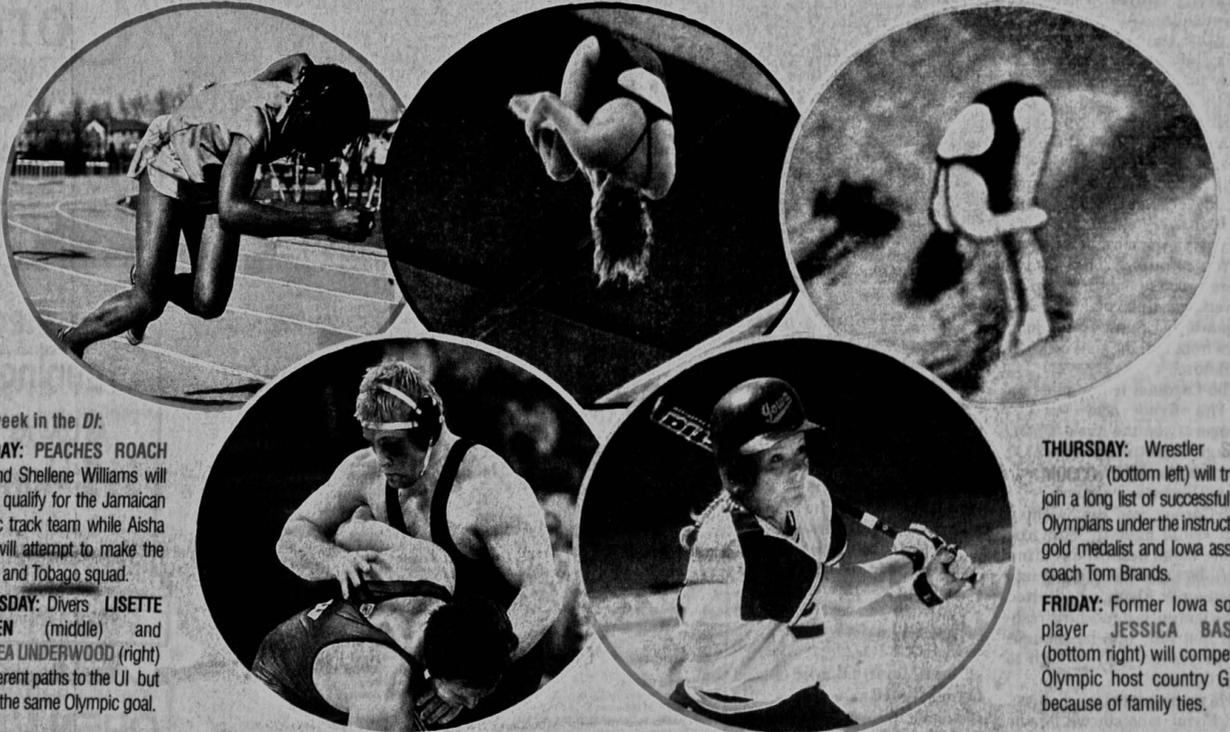

Purdy parred the hole, then Cink rolled in the winner.

However, after the champion's ceremony, Cink went with PGA Tour tournament director Slugger White to review his critical bunker shot on the final hole. Television viewers called in to point out that Cink removed loose stones from the area before he hit.

Blevins wins No. 1,000

BY DONOVAN BURBA
THE DAILY IOWAN

Gayle Blevins escaped getting doused after her 1,000th career win on April 16, but the Michigan Wolverines proved tougher to outmatch on Sunday. The Wolverines swept Iowa at Pearl Field to cap off an emotional weekend that saw Blevins become just the third coach ever to hit four digits in victories.

She got her historic win against Division III Coe College in a convincing 9-1 run-rule blowout spearheaded by home runs by Sami Baugh and Natalie Johnson. As Blevins made her way back to the dugout following the postgame handshake, her players tried to give her the traditional Gatorade bath three times, but the coach was too quick.

"They thought I was going to be able to just not get out of their way, but I told them their aim's not very good," laughed Blevins from the safety of the press box.

"They missed on two and a half, but I did get a little bit of the remnants of the last one there."

THE DAILY IOWAN

The new faces of the Iowa football team took center stage at the annual spring game as the Black squad beat the Gold team, 38-3, in front of an estimated crowd of 30,000 at Kinnick Stadium.

"Overall, I think spring ball went really well," said coach Kirk Ferentz. "We made some progress."

All three phases of the game saw new faces and spirited battles. The Hawkeyes' top two quarterbacks, sophomores Drew Tate and Jason Manson, both looked sharp. Tate was 6-9 for 81 yards, while Manson was a perfect 7-7 for 139 yards and two touchdowns, including a

Quarterback job still up for grabs at Iowa State

BY CHUCK SCHOFFNER
ASSOCIATED PRESS

AMES — The quarterback race is still on at Iowa State, at least in coach Dan McCarney's view.

One of the contestants, however, isn't so sure.

Bret Meyer and Austin Flynn both had good moments, and both made mistakes in Iowa State's spring football game on Saturday. Meyer, a redshirt freshman from Atlantic, entered the game as the No. 1 quarterback, but McCarney wasn't ready to say for sure if he still had the job.

"Honestly, what you saw today is really how it's been most of the spring," McCarney said. "When I say slight edge [for Meyer], that's really what it's been, very slight. It's been very, very even most of the way."

"You could see what I saw. There's good talent, there's good players, good playmakers there at quarterback. But we're a long ways from making that decision right now."

The Cardinal team, made up of the first- and fourth-stringers, won the game, 27-21, though it actually was 27-0 because the White team was given 21 points.

McCarney said the coaching staff would have to study the game tape before deciding who'll be listed No. 1 going into the summer. Flynn, who started seven games as a redshirt freshman last fall, said he thought Meyer played well enough to keep the job.

"He made a lot of good plays," said Flynn, who started for the White team. "They gave us 21 points. He had to come back through some pretty good adversity. He made some pretty good plays, he showcased his talent, he threw the ball pretty well. If anything, they had a pretty good, positive attitude about it."

Meyer completed nine of 21 passes for 84 yards and one interception. He also ran three times for 27 yards, including an 18-yard scramble to get his team out of a first-and-20 hole.

"There's definitely passes you'd like to have back, like the interception," Meyer said. "I just take it as experience, the first time you get out and play in front of people in a stadium."

Meyer was running the offense for only one of the Cardinal's four touchdowns — a 64-yard run by Stevie Hicks on the game's second play. On the interception, he threw into double coverage at the goal line trying to hit Todd Blythe, who finished with six catches for 73 yards, and safety Caleb Berg picked it off.

"Bret Meyer did a lot of good things," McCarney said. "He made some mistakes. Overall, he looked like a guy that was a first-year player."

Flynn was 4-for-8 for 50 yards with the White team and 2-for-3 for 47 yards with the Cardinal. He scored the Cardinal's second touchdown, a 2-yard run in the third quarter, and set up an 8-yard touchdown run by Hicks with a 34-yard completion to Todd Miller.

Quartet of QBs shows leadership

BY JASON BRUMMOND
THE DAILY IOWAN

Iowa coach Kirk Ferentz knows he is going to have a non-senior quarterback starting in the season opener for only the second time during his six-year tenure.

The one thing he doesn't know: which of his four underclassmen it is going to be.

All four of Iowa's young quarterbacks showcased their talents in the spring game on April 17, and the entire quartet drew praise from Ferentz after the game. However, he said, one of the benefits of having a senior signal-caller is that they tend to be more consistent and confident. But Ferentz pointed out that the Hawkeye quarterbacks are not backing down.

"With the quarterback, you have that title of the leader," sophomore Drew Tate said. "No matter if this is my first year starting or my third year starting. With that role, you have to accept that, and you have to take care of your guys."

Ferentz said Tate and sophomore Jason Manson have both elevated and improved their play over the weeks of spring practice. He added that the two put themselves on an upper tier in the quarterback race.

"We're going to let them compete and continue to compete," Ferentz said. "We haven't won a game with either one of those guys playing, so to say they have a firm grip on anything at this point that would really be premature."

Manson was unofficially 7-of-7 for 139 yards and two touchdowns during the 24-minute scrimmage. He hit junior Ed Hinkel on stride for a 60-yard score and later connected with

'Each one of us can have the job. It just comes down to working hard, and [we'll] see who wants it most, probably.'

— Drew Tate, QB hopeful

Iowa first team quarterback Drew Tate rolls out of the pocket during the spring game on April 17. Tate, a sophomore, will be only the second non-senior quarterback to play under coach Kirk Ferentz during his tenure at Iowa.

redshirt freshman Herb Grigsby on a 5-yard touchdown.

Tate, listed as the No. 1 quarterback on the spring depth chart, completed 6-of-9 for 83 yards on the afternoon in front of 30,000 fans at Kinnick Stadium. The 6-0, 185-pound Baytown, Texas native started out 1-of-4 but settled down and completed his next five passes. Redshirt freshman Eric McCollum was 2-of-4, including a 45-yarder to Grigsby, and sophomore Cy Phillips went 3-of-5.

"Each one of us can have the job," Tate said, noting that the play during the team's fall camp will likely determine the starter. "It just comes down to working hard, and [we'll] see

- 2000: Scott Mullen (senior)
- 2001: Kyle McCann (senior) who wants it most, probably."

Manson agreed, saying he knows that all the players can do is compete for the position. The decision on the starting quarterback will have to come from Ferentz and offensive coordinator Ken O'Keefe.

"It's up to the coaches, really," Mason said. "We just let them decide."

Both quarterbacks believe they need to work on reading coverages and defenses and knowing what to do when certain situations arise. Tate said he wants to improve on connecting on his deep passes and not overthrowing targets.

The 6-1, 195-pound Manson said when he throws a bad pass it is most likely because of poor foot placement. He has been working on squaring his feet for every throw, and he said he looks for improvement each practice.

"You look forward to everyday," the Bloomfield, Conn., native said. "Everyday there is another opportunity to go out there, and get better, and try to prove to the coaches and the rest of the team that you can really do the job."

Tate does not feel any pressure to hold the starting job, and Ferentz said he will not make a decision until August, when the team prepares for the 2004 opener against Kent State. Manson called the four-man race a "friendly rivalry," adding that every one of them needs to be ready at all times.

"It's open until the coach says it's closed," Manson said. "Even then, you still got to be ready because anything can happen out there."

Gable, others serve as mentors

Not only do Hawkeye Olympic hopefuls such as Steve Mocco have the expertise of Gable — currently involved in his 10th Summer Games, as an adviser — but a stable of other coaches who will guide them on their path to glory in Greece.

• Former Hawkeye softball standouts Jessica and Lindsey Bashor's games were molded by the third-winningest coach in NCAA history, Gayle Blevins.

• The Caribbean trio of Peaches Roach, Shellene Williams (both from Jamaica), and Aisha Hume (Trinidad and Tobago) will look to live out their Iowa coach James Grant's unfulfilled dream of claiming a medal in the summer games. The Kingston, Jamaica, native got hurt during his bid for a spot in the 1972 Games.

• Iowa divers Nancilea Underwood and Lisette Planken have benefited from the tutelage of Hawkeye coach Bob Rydzek, who has guided three prior Olympians in his tenure at Iowa City.

And, like Banach, who wrestled at Iowa from 1981-83 and won Gold alongside twin brother Lou, all of these Olympic hopefuls have unique stories of how they have approached the world's grandest stage.

Jessica Bashor took a class to study Greek, the language of her ancestors, during her freshman year at the UI. In four months, she might be delving much deeper into her family's roots — as a member of the Greek national team.

Banach manhandled opponents in the 1984 Los Angeles Summer Olympics, where he dominated competition in the 198-pound weight class. "The Horse," as he was tabbed by teammates, stamped through the Games with a 48-second fall and four decisions, averaging a score of 13 points.

The 44-year-old has had a lot of time to reflect on his past accomplishments. Every day, he walks by a display case in his Ames home that serves as a shrine to his '84 Gold medal. As a result, he has words of wisdom for UI Olympic hopefuls.

"Set goals, and monitor your progress towards those goals," he said. "Are you putting the necessary time in to develop the techniques? Are you putting in the time necessary to be physically and mentally conditioned? ... Do you have a good attitude? Are you prepared?"

The months ahead will tell. It's 116 days and counting till Athens.

IOWA SPORTS

Track teams complete big weekends

The Iowa men's and women's track teams both completed big weekends, with the men competing at the UNI Twilight on April 17 and the women competing at the Mt. SAC Relays in Walnut, Calif.

The men's team qualified eight members for the NCAA regional outdoor meet in College Station, Texas, won three events, set 16 personal bests, and set 28 season-best performances.

Rowers close in on ranked Wis. team

The Iowa rowing team squared off against Wisconsin and Indiana on April 17 and then faced Wisconsin and Ohio State in the afternoon on Lake Lemon in Bloomington, Ind.

The Varsity 8 took second place in the morning competition. They finished with a time of 6:37.36, only 2 seconds behind Wisconsin's Varsity 8, which is ranked 14th nationally.

Tennis loses again

The women's tennis team lost its third meet in a row after being shutout by No. 30 Indiana, 7-0, on April 17.

The loss to the Hoosiers leaves Iowa sitting on an 11-7 overall record, 4-4 in Big Ten play. The Hawkeyes are sixth in the conference and are riding their longest losing streak of the season while Indiana (15-6, 7-1 Big Ten) is tied for second with Northwestern.

"I think it's easy for us to feel like

Johnson hit scoreboard with 240-foot home run

The Hawkeyes plated five in the bottom of the sixth, and the mercy rule was invoked.

Ninth-ranked Michigan granted Iowa no quarter Sunday, though, scoring in the first inning of both games and keeping Iowa's bats quiet.

Back-to-back doubles by Jessica Merchant and Jennifer Olds put the visitors up 2-0 in the opener, and the Wolverines added a third run in the sixth.

Iowa threatened in the seventh, plating a run on hits by pitcher Lisa Birocci and Sara Thomson. Reliever Nicole Motycka, who came in with two outs in the frame, settled down and induced Ali Arnold to fly out to center to preserve a 3-1 win.

Afterward, Michigan coach Carol Hutchins credited her Iowa counterpart for indirectly helping make the decision to bring in Motycka for starter Jennie Ritter.

"Whenever I think of what should I do, I always think, 'What would Gayle do?'" Hutchins said.

Motycka stymied the Hawks in the second game, also, striking out 10 and upping her record to 14-3. Again Iowa threatened late, putting runners on first and second with one out in the seventh, trailing 3-1. But pinch-hitter Jenna Spratt struck out, and Emily Gerlick grounded out to second to end the game.

"It's tough when you're up against that kind of a defensive team and that kind of pitching to have to play from behind," Blevins said. "But some days are like that, and you just have to learn how to battle."

Iowa will take on Northern Iowa in a double-header Tuesday at Pearl Field. The first game will start at 4 p.m.

a lot of times when they become aware of things of that nature they try too hard."

The Kohawks tied the game, 1-1, with a squeeze bunt in the fourth, but Iowa immediately responded. Sarah Thomson missed a home run by a matter of inches, ending up with a double, and Baugh, the next batter, drove Amy Ernst's offering over the left-field fence.

"It felt real good off the bat," said Baugh about her homer, one of three hits for the catcher on the day. "I was praying that she'd throw me inside, because she did the last at-bat, and she did, so I just had at it."

Johnson led off the fifth with a monster shot that left a mark high atop the center-field scoreboard, an estimated 240 feet away. The round-tripper was the sophomore's fourth of the season and the longest of her career.

"I know I've never hit a home run that far," Johnson said. "Coach gets mad if you watch the ball after you hit, so I heard it hit [the scoreboard]."

The Hawkeyes plated five in the bottom of the sixth, and the mercy rule was invoked.

it was a solid end to spring practice for Tate, Manson, redshirt freshman Eric McCollum, and sophomore Cy Phillips.

"I'm happy right now the way it is," Tate said. "In the summer, we have workouts, and that's just some time to improve, and we get to fall camp, and jobs can still be won. I won my job there last fall. We still have a long way to go."

Nebraska transfer and Davports turned heads, rushing six times for 101 yards, including a 70-yard touchdown jaunt in the first quarter. Simmons saw the bulk of the carries behind the first-team offensive line because Iowa's top three backs — Jermelle Lewis, Albert Young, and Marcus Schnoor — were withheld from the scrimmage. Simmons had seen most of his carries behind the second- and third-team lines.

"It was nice to break that one," he said. "I still got my speed."

The game also marked the first start for junior left tackle

Lee Gray, who must replace the legendary Robert Gallery. Gray, a converted defensive lineman from Dallas, performed well, but his spot, like many on the offensive line, is not set.

"I wouldn't say anybody's locked in right now," Ferentz said. "Pete [McMahon] has been real solid. Mike Elgin really distinguished himself this spring."

With the duo of Chad Greenway and Abdul Hodge holding down two of the linebacker positions, the third spot saw a battle emerge between senior George Lewis and sophomore Ed Miles. Lewis holds the early edge on the spring depth chart, but Miles had a solid day, forcing a fumble and picking up a sack.

"We have an ongoing battle, George Lewis and Ed Miles, out there at the outside backer position," Ferentz said.

Kyle Schlicher, stuck with the unenviable role of replacing Nate Kaeding, performed well, nailing two field goals. He made a 38-yard attempt for the Black team and drilled a 46-yard attempt for the Gold team. He also made all five of his PATs.

"It's definitely different without Nate here, because he was kind of my coach the last two years," Schlicher said. "He's taught me quite a bit to get me real comfortable about it and just kick a field goal."

EXTRA POINTS: Marcus Paschal, who emerged as the heir at Bob Sanders' strong-safety position, was forced to miss the game to attend a funeral.

"He's not going to be Bob Sanders, but he really took that next step this spring," Ferentz said.

INJURIES: Chris Felder, a sophomore offensive lineman, was forced to miss the game with an injury to his clavicle sustained in the team's April 15 workout. Felder started the spring in the two-deeps but has missed most of spring practice with neck injuries. Ben Gates, who started the game at right guard, was helped off the field late in the second quarter with a lower leg injury. That brings the count to four offensive linemen who have sustained injuries this spring.

The line lost Brian Ferentz to complications from knee surgery, and David Walker is out with a knee injury.

"We have two starters on the shelf, so I guess that's not a real good prognosis there," Ferentz said.

CHICAGO — Sammy Sosa homered twice and passed Ernie Banks for the Chicago Cubs' career record. But Greg Maddux lost a chance to win when his bullpen couldn't hold the lead.

On another windy and wacky day at Wrigley Field, Adam Dunn hit two homers and Juan Castro's two-run triple in the 10th inning sent the Cincinnati Reds to an 11-10 victory Sunday.

With the wind gusting out at 30 mph, the teams combined for seven homers, and the blustery conditions made popups and fly balls an adventure.

Maddux gave up three homers over six innings in his third start of the year. He was denied his first Cubs victory since 1992 when Dunn hit his second homer of the game — a two-run shot off Kent Mercker in the seventh that put the Reds ahead, 9-8.

With the score tied at 9, Ryan Freel singled off Joe Borowski (1-1) in the 10th on a fly to right that Sosa lost in the sun. Freel stole second, Javier Valentin walked, and Castro tripled off the center-field wall.

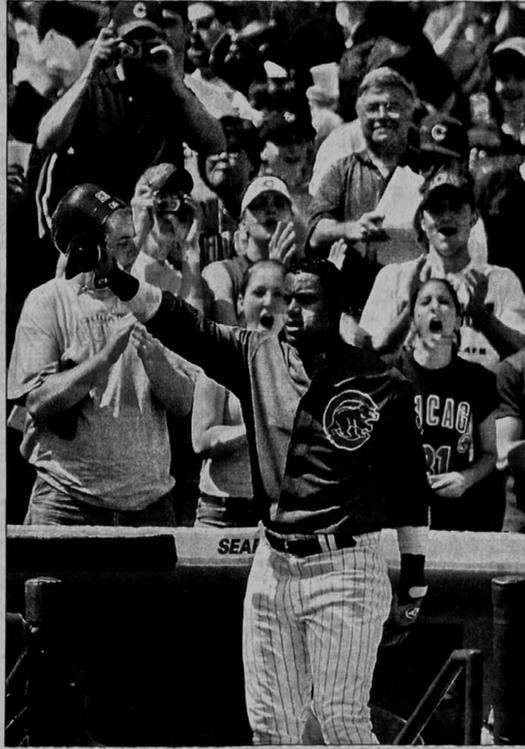

Todd Jones (1-0) pitched 2½ innings for the win, and Danny Graves earned his sixth save, giving up an unearned run in the 10th after Jason LaRue's passed ball on a third strike.

The Cubs tied it at 9 in the seventh on Corey Patterson's RBI double off Phil Norton.

Sosa's solo shot in the first pushed him past Banks as the Cubs' career leader with 513 homers. Moises Alou also connected for the Cubs and missed the cycle by a single.

Sosa homered again in the third. He has 543 career homers and 64 multihomer games.

Dunn hit a three-run shot in the first off Maddux, who also allowed homers to Freel and Austin Kearns. Maddux gave up eight hits and seven runs.

Cubs slugger Sammy Sosa tips his cap to a cheering crowd after hitting his 542nd of his career and the 513th as a Cub, giving him the all-time club record ahead of Ernie Banks.

Tracking balls to the outfield was difficult.

Ken Griffey Jr. misjudged Alou's wind-driven fly and it landed over his head for a triple. Aramis Ramirez drove another ball over Griffey's head for a double to give the Cubs an 8-7 lead in the sixth.

Chicago's Todd Walker got a two-run double in the fifth when his high fly to right fooled Wily Mo Pena and landed over his head.

Freel homered to left to give the Reds a 4-3 lead in the fourth. Pena's triple made it 5-3.

Alou homered leading off the fifth before two singles and a hit batsman loaded the bases. Chicago tied it again on Maddux's grounder. Pena then turned the wrong way and misplayed Walker's high fly as the Cubs went ahead, 7-5.

But Maddux hit LaRue with a pitch, and Kearns, who's been out of the lineup after being hit on the hand with a pitch last Thursday, delivered his first career pinch-hit homer to tie it at 7.

Cincinnati's Paul Wilson, bidding for a 3-0 start, gave up 11 hits — three of them homers — and seven runs in 4½ innings.

Notes: Dunn has seven homers. ... Alou has five homers in the last five games. ... Dunn's first five homers this season, including one off Maddux in Cincinnati, were solo shots. ... Cincinnati's Todd Van Poppel became the last major-league pitcher on an opening day roster to get into a game this season when he made his first appearance Sunday.

Pistons defense shuts down Bucks

BY LARRY LAGE
ASSOCIATED PRESS

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. — One of the best defenses in NBA history shut down the highest-scoring team in the Eastern Conference. Richard Hamilton scored 21 points, and the Detroit Pistons set a team playoff record with 14 steals in a 108-82 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks on Sunday in Game 1 of their first-round series.

Detroit gave up just 84.3 points a game this year, the third-lowest scoring average since the NBA began using a shot clock during the 1954-55 season. It set a league record by holding 11 opponents — including five straight — under 70 points and 36 in a row to less than 100.

The Bucks, who averaged 98 points a game, also ranked fourth in the league in scoring. They played four close regular-season games against Detroit, losing three of them.

But the Bucks didn't play Detroit after it acquitted Rasheed Wallace, who has made the Pistons' stingy defense suffocating since being acquired Feb. 19 in a three-team trade.

Detroit forced 25 turnovers and had eight blocks. The constant defensive pressure had the Bucks scrambling just to get their shots off.

When the Pistons led 68-51 midway through the third, they had more points off turnovers (10) than Milwaukee had points (eight) in the quarter.

Game 2 in the best-of-seven series will be Wednesday in Detroit.

Desmond Mason led the Bucks with 16 points. Their leading scorer, Michael Redd, scored just 11 points — nearly 12 below his average — and went more than 18 minutes without scoring in the second and third quarters.

Detroit didn't excel on defense alone.

Rasheed Wallace had 17 points and 10 rebounds, Ben Wallace had 17 points, 14 rebounds, and three blocks, and Tayshaun Prince added 14 points, 11 rebounds, and four blocks. Chauncey Billups had 12 points, and reserve Corliss Williamson added 12.

The game was such a blowout that "We want Darko" chants were heard early in the fourth quarter. Darko Milicic, the second pick overall in the draft, played just 34 games this season. He scored one point in three minutes.

The Bucks missed their standout rookie point guard T.J. Ford, who is out with a bruised spinal cord.

Ford's backups, Damon Jones and Brevin Knight, played well late in the regular season but got in foul trouble trying to defend Detroit's guards and running the offense.

Detroit's in-your-face, full-court press — led by reserve guards Mike James and Lindsey Hunter — gave the Bucks problems early in the second quarter. The Pistons forced two turnovers in 18 seconds, leading to two baskets, including Ben Wallace's alley-oop dunk that gave them a 35-25 lead.

Kings 116, Mavs 105

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — After finishing the regular season with an ugly collapse, the Sacramento Kings got back to what they do best — scoring. Peja Stojakovic scored 28 points, and Chris Webber added 26 points and 12 rebounds Sunday, propelling the Kings to a victory over the Dallas Mavericks in Game 1 of the best-of-seven playoff series.

The Kings made a franchise-record 11 of their 21 3-pointers, including five by Stojakovic to tie Sacramento's individual playoff best. Not even Dirk Nowitzki could keep Dallas close in the fourth quarter of a fitting opener for the NBA's two highest-scoring teams.

Nowitzki had 32 points and 13 rebounds but battled foul trouble for the Mavericks, who have never won a playoff series opener on the road. These Mavs struggled away from Dallas all season, going 16-25.

quote of the day

This administration intends to be candid about its errors. For as a wise man once said, "An error does not become a mistake until you refuse to correct it." ... Without debate, without criticism, no administration and no country can succeed — and no republic can survive.

— President John F. Kennedy, after the Bay of Pigs debacle.

horoscopes

Monday, April 19, 2004 by Eugenia Last

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You are a born leader, and you will only have yourself to blame if you don't take control and move forward. You can spark enthusiasm in anyone who talks to you about an idea or concept.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Think about what you have to get done, and plan your actions carefully. Prepare to face opposition from peers, authority figures, or institutions you may have to deal with today.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your fight for whatever cause you are into this week will lead to some wonderful new connections. However, don't expect it to be an easy sell. Money matters should be regulated cautiously.
CANCER (June 21-July 22): Don't expect anything from anyone, and you won't be disappointed. Arguing will be a waste of time. Make a point to spend time working on something you enjoy.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Getting involved in something that excites and challenges you mentally will lead to good fortune in many areas of your life. Be honest with yourself about your personal life. Someone with experience will interest you.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Slow down and focus. This is not the day to overdo it in any regard. Concentrate on your practical and detailed way of doing things.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Don't believe everything you hear today. Promises will be broken, so rely on yourself and your talent. If someone is holding you back, consider moving on alone.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Something important appears to be in the works where your job or your peers are concerned. Take advantage of an opportunity to form a partnership. A minor medical problem may surface.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You need competition to get yourself motivated. Socializing or meeting people while traveling or attending something that interests you may lead to a romantic association.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Problems with partners as well as with your residence can be expected. Act quickly to nip any negative action before it can fully develop.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Someone you meet will challenge you both mentally and physically, which will lead to an exciting turn of events that could reshape your future. Communication and travel should be on your agenda.
PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Financial losses can occur today if you fritter your money away. Avoid malls, TV infomercials, and Internet shopping. Focus your energy on physical activity.

REASONS ISU STUDENTS RIOTED AT VEISHEA

by Josh Bald

- Larry Eustachy showed up and drank all the Natty Light by 9:30.
- After somehow losing the spring game to itself, the ISU football team is already eliminated from bowl game contention.
- Protesting preposterous Pizza Pit prices.
- Wanted to show the folks at our Stepping Up Project that alcohol-free events can actually be fun.
- First tractor caravan just got back from New York City and informed the populace that the basketball team lost in the NIT.
- The 10 people not familiar with "Chappelle's Show" finally had enough of big, dumb white guys repeatedly yelling, "I'm Rick James ..."
- Wait, VEISHEA was going on at the time?
- Student No. 1: Dude, that lamp post just said something about your mom.
 Student No. 2: Let's get him!
