NEWLY ELECTED UISG President Mark Kresowik celebrates with his supporters on Tuesday evening in the UIU Ruffy Ballroom. Kresowik and running mate Lauren McCarthy won the election with 48 percent of the record-setting 7,158 student votes.

In the largest UISG voter turnout since it began keeping track, Mark Kresowik takes 48 percent of the vote.

Mark Kresowik and Lauren McCarthy voted to victory in the UIS Student Government race Tuesday, claiming 48 percent of the vote in an election in which voter turnout nearly doubled that of last year.

Incumbent for opposite — the Bull Moose Party — McNabb, 30 with 28 percent — the "Noe for Free" ticket moved to start building the campaign framework as soon as the numbers were known.

The 7,000 total votes outstripped the nearly 3,500 percent student population, up from the 3.87

Moments after the Student Elections Board announced the results, McCarthy gave her victory speech.

"We did it, Mark," she said, her voice strained from weeks of campaigning.

Kresowik, whose inauguration is scheduled for April 3, pledged to draft a strategic plan outlining UISG’s goals as soon as he takes office.

The UIS selectee has also promised to set alternatives to a $115-per-semester increase in student fees, which is part of the fall tuition package.

Although McCarthy joked she now plans to run for student council president, he said, "I'm thrilled for the next phase."

"We had an incredible get-out-the-vote campaign," he said. "The totals show that the students actually care and we can take that to the state."

UI seeks dorm, parking increases

BY SEUNG MIN KIM

UI students and employees will shell out more to park, live, and sleep on university property under proposals unveiled Tuesday by UI officials, who praised mounting construction and resource costs as the culprit behind the rate hikes.

Beau and board rates for students in the dormitories will rise nearly 13 percent — from $5.50 to $6.30 per month — and the cost of parking for a bicycle near the residence halls and library will increase by $2.50 to $11.50 per month.

"We're happy that students at Residence Halls and Parking lots are either not eating, not sleeping or not parking, the minimum plan will ensure that they have access to all UISG-contracted and filling meals."

After 16 years as the head of Iowa City law enforcement, Police Chief R.J. Winkelhake submitted his resignation.

Iowa City officials will soon initiate a nationwide search to recruit a police chief to fill the position left by R.J. Winkelhake, who submitted his resignation, effective July 1, City Manager Steve Altschul announced Tuesday.

Winkelhake's 42-year and his 16-year term heading Iowa City law enforcement to pursue selection out of the administrative ranks, he said.

"Over the last two years, a lot of changes have happened from a personnel standpoint that have made me think about what I wanted to do with the rest of my life," Winkelhake said, citing the death of his brother a year ago and the death of a friend a year before that.

He said he will consider each option as teaching at a junior college or doing other tasks and from "to tax the results at the end of the day."

"I'm pleased with the current," said Library Director Allen Anderson. "It’s fabulous that he passed."

The tax increase will total approximately $133,500 or $134,000 of annualized property value in the first year, decreasing annually over 10 years. The remaining $8,000 will come from private and corporate dona-

Coralville library project wins in a landslide

BY EMILY DERRICO

Coralville residents overwhelmingly approved a $3 million bond referendum on Thursday that set the Coralville Public Library on the road to its expansion.

The referendum, generating 92 percent of the 2,150 votes, is $3 million the $2.3 million needed to add such features as a library staff, a 2,000-square-foot expansion, a children’s reading area, and an increased parking lot.

"I'm so excited to hear the results," said Library Director Allen Anderson, "I'm so happy that he passed."

The tax increase will total approximately $65,000 or $66,000 per year on property values over 10 years, decreasing annually over 10 years.

On Tuesday evening at the Coralville Recreation Center, Adams CIA cast her vote on whether to expand the Coralville Public Library.

FEE INCREASES

Other issues that will come to the state board of Regents:

• Arts and Cultural Diversity $70 million per semester for all College of Liberal Arts and Sciences programs.

• Background Check fee, $100 for all employees to the medical center.

• Faculty Senate Preselection: English program $100 for the preselection programs who wish to teach in teaching assistant positions.

• President’s Preselection fee $30 for new students whose first language is not English.

UI asks for regent OK on 3 projects

The University of Iowa has asked the regents to approve three campus capital projects at the next state board of regents meeting, scheduled for next week in Iowa City.

U of Iowa and Iowa City have identified three projects that will receive funding from the regents. The projects are:

• $7.7 million to build a new academic building on the southeast corner of the main campus.
• $4.3 million to build a new science building on the northwest corner of the main campus.
• $2.5 million to build a new residence hall.

The regents will meet on Friday to discuss the projects.

Hundreds of thousands throng pro-Syria rally in Beirut

BERLIN: Lebanon's pro-Syria leaders were swarmed by throngs of thousands near midday for a demonstration in Beirut in support of Syrian President Hafez al-Assad.

The rally was a show of support for Syria, which is embattled by ongoing conflict with the Northwest rebellion.

Several thousand people, including many from the Muslim Brotherhood, gathered near the Syrian embassy in central Beirut during a rally organized by the Syrian embassy.

They chanted slogans and waved Syrian and Lebanese flags in the rally, which began at 1 p.m.

The rally was a response to the February 28 killing of a Syrian officer and a Lebanese policeman near the Syrian embassy in Beirut.

The Syrian and Lebanese governments have been at odds over the ongoing conflict in Lebanon.

The rally was also a show of support for the Syrian government, which has been reeling from the ongoing conflict.

Syria has been hit by a series of protests in recent days, including a demonstration by tens of thousands in Beirut.

The protests have been met with a heavy police presence, including the deployment of tanks.

Syria has been under pressure from the United Nations and Western governments to stop the violence.

Syria has also been subject to a series of sanctions imposed by the U.N., including an arms embargo.

Syria has denied any involvement in the conflict.

In recent times, higher education seems to lose less of a priority than it used to be, with more students opting out of traditional education in favor of online classes. However, this does not mean that the quality of education is decreasing. Universities are still providing excellent education, but the methods of delivery have changed. This shift has allowed more students to access higher education, including those who may not have been able to attend traditional universities.

One of the main concerns of online education is the lack of human interaction. However, many universities have addressed this issue by offering virtual laboratories and other interactive tools. These tools help students to engage with the material and with their peers, even if they are not physically present in the same location.

Another concern is the lack of accountability. Students who are enrolled in online courses may not be as motivated as those who are enrolled in traditional courses. However, many universities have implemented systems to monitor student progress and ensure that they are completing their work. This has helped to improve the quality of education and to ensure that students are learning.

In conclusion, higher education is still providing excellent education, but the methods of delivery have changed. Universities have addressed some of the concerns of online education, such as the lack of human interaction and accountability. As long as universities continue to provide high-quality education, students will continue to benefit from the opportunities that higher education offers.

Men's basketball team is giving away its dance card

BY JASON BRUMMOND

Two weeks ago, the games were just a mark in the loss column. In the big picture, games matter. What it means on the court for the basketball team, because the Hoosiers had just proven to themselves that they were good enough, smart enough, and tough enough to make it to the NCAA Tournament for the first time in four years.

The Hawkeyes had second-half leads against Northwestern, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Purdue, but gave away the games and probably their March Madness chances.

"You try not to look in the past, but you have a couple games to come, two more games," said assistant coach Adam Holubos said. "We wish you could take those games back, because they're so important, and if they're one point, they might have not seemed as important.

A pair of losses against Northwestern last season was a major reason Iowa went to the NIT for the third-straight year, but the Hawkeyes didn't want that to happen again.

"You try not to look in the past, but you have a couple games to come, two more games," said assistant coach Adam Holubos said. "We wish you could take those games back, because they're so important, and if they're one point, they might have not seemed as important.

"We're never thinking about the past," said Brummond on Tuesday. "Previous experiences before your last four games are a great. The main thing here is to be able to play new things correctly every day. That's recurrence. Where you can play every game in the major leagues for time management, their recovery. Now we're every day to be ready to play new things. Opening day is the first line, first day, and we have to prepare for that as much as we possibly can.

The Badgers are almost unbeatable in the Big Ten, but Iowa won in position to take a big victory. The Hawkeyes had a 50-50 lead and 2:24 left to play hot, 25-25, 60-60, when their shooting went cold.

"We're never thinking about the past," said Brummond on Tuesday. "Previous experiences before your last four games are a great. The main thing here is to be able to play new things correctly every day. That's recurrence. Where you can play every game in the major leagues for time management, their recovery. Now we're every day to be ready to play new things. Opening day is the first line, first day, and we have to prepare for that as much as we possibly can.

The Badgers led, 55-49, with under 10 seconds remaining, but Pullella tallied off consecutive points over four minutes. A loss against the second-seeded team in the Big Ten would be a severe disappointment. I think it's more of the things that come away from a loss, the result. We're off to a great start. We've got to gear up for the West Lafayette game.

Following a 30-point loss to Illinois, Iowa felt to the Gophers on Feb. 23, guaranteeing a losing Big Ten record for the fifth time in three years.

If Iowa had won a couple of those games, the Hawkeyes would have flipped their conference record from 7-9 to 9-7 and wouldn't be pressured to produce in the Big Ten Tournament, which starts Feb. 17 in Chicago's United Center.

"If we get two of them, we're at 22-12, and I think we're dead," Hook forward Greg Brunner said.

It's uncertain how many games Iowa needs in the conference tournament, but unless the Hawkeyes can win four in a row to win their second tournament title, they can't be considered Big Ten powers. A losing conference record in the regular season and the team's two Big Ten victories on the road this season were just not enough to make the tournament.

"We do our own thing right," Holubos said. "We have to go in there and put in a game of business. I think it's going to take them three or four wins to make the tournament next year."

Allirk thinks his team can deal with the pressure. The team has prepared to make a run in the conference tournament.

WE WORK ON INDIVIDUAL STUFF, BECAUSE

We have to prepare for that as much as we possibly can.

Iowa's Big Ten struggles are giving an insight into the team's four seniors: Greg Stenson on Feb. 6. Iowa is Madison. If the Hawkeyes had lost some of the four Big Ten games in which they led in the second half (including the Wisconsin game), their hopes of an NCAA Tournament invitation would seem so cautious.

Iowa State women sink Colorado

The Hawkeyes won their second straight Big Ten Softball Championship and face Michigan State in the Big Ten Tournament. Iowa State defeated Ohio State in the semi-finals and Michigan State in the finals. Iowa State finished the season with a 42-10 record, including 17-3 in Big Ten play. The Hawkeyes are now poised to make a run in the NCAA Championship tournament.

Two shotouts stand out: the first came in 2004, when Woods won the praemium in the final round of the Masters. The second was in 2006,

when Mickelson won the PGA

Championship at Medinah.

Their heads are likely to clash

at least once this year: the WGC

Match Play Championship in

Austin, Texas, and the Masters in Augusta, Georgia.

The match at WGC Match Play is scheduled for March 18, and Woods and Mickelson will face each other in the first round.

Niagara not falling just yet

BY TIM DALBERG

BUFFALO, N.Y. - The recent college basketball season has been a great one for Niagara head coach Larry Mihalich and his former Niagara players, including an NCAA tournament berth this year.

"We'll make them an offer they can't refuse," Mihalich said.

Mihalich was so excited that he decided to wear a new pair of shoes for the game.

"If I'm just numb," said Mihalich, recalling his feelings after Niagara clinched a spot in the NCAA tournament.

"That's right, we're going to the Final Four," said Mihalich, "and we're going to have a lot of fun!"

Mihalich's team has a chance to make history this year, just like the 1980 team that made it to the Final Four.

"We're going to show the world what we can do," said Mihalich, "and we're going to win the championship!"

BY JOHN WALKER

BUFFALO, N.Y. - Calvin Murphy got his first look at Niagara basketball last week when he attended the NCAA tournament.

It's been 35 years since the Hall of Famer led the Purple Eagles to their first NCAA tournament berth, and Murphy figures it's about time.

"It's about time," said Murphy, "and it's about time that we do it again!"

With that in mind, Murphy plans on being at Niagara for every game this year.

"I'm just numb," said Murphy, recalling his feelings after Niagara clinched a spot in the NCAA tournament.

"That's right, we're going to the Final Four," said Murphy, "and we're going to have a lot of fun!"

Mihalich's team has a chance to make history this year, just like the 1980 team that made it to the Final Four.

"We're going to show the world what we can do," said Mihalich, "and we're going to win the championship!"

The Hawkeyes did win three straight games when they needed to, including a win over the nation's No. 1 ranked team in each of the past three years. It's a significant reason to believe this team can make noise in another way.

"They've talked about not having pressure, but we've had pressure," he said. "If you don't win, you lose. But the team has a good attitude. They've dealt with that pressure."
