COGS pushes UI for full tuition waiver

BY SAM EISEL

UI officials have said they will try to increase financial support for graduate students to include 100 percent of tuition for all graduate students who are citizens or permanent residents of the United States. The university officials were not available to comment on the issue.

Phoebe Michael Hagen said that all of the graduate students at the university have to work on campus.

Writing out of confusion

BY MICHELLE BRACKEN

An Iowa company has filed a lawsuit against the University of Iowa for breach of contract.

The lawsuit was filed in Johnson County District Court by Regency College, a for-profit company that proposed to build a 240-bed nursing home in Iowa City.

According to the lawsuit, Regency College entered into an agreement with the University of Iowa in 2019 to build a 240-bed nursing home on a 5.9-acre parcel of land in Iowa City. The agreement included a $10.4 million construction loan from the university.

However, the lawsuit alleges that the university withdrew its support for the project in 2020, leading to the company's decision to withdraw from the project.

The lawsuit seeks unspecified damages and an injunction to force the university to honor the agreement.

A spokesperson for the university declined to comment, citing university policy on pending legal matters.

The lawsuit is being handled by local attorney Brian Jensen, who could not be reached for comment.

The case is scheduled for a status conference in April.

Officials want donor info kept private

"It is our belief, in light of the critical importance of successful fundraising to our institutions, that the current uncertainties of Iowa law require statutory clarifications that reasonably exempt some donor information from public disclosure."

President of the state's three major universities proposes legislation that would make information on university foundation donors private.

In a letter to the state Board of Regents, UI President David Skorton, ISU President Gregory Geoffroy, and UNI President Robert Keel asked that the university board take steps to prevent the release of the Regents, the courts, or universities from records that should be made private under state law.

A letter to the state board, the state Supreme Court, or the state Attorney General's office, which the Regents must file with the General Assembly, is due in January. The state Supreme Court, the state Board of Regents, or the university's president can file information to the board or the attorney general, and the university's attorney general is due in January.

To the Editor:

I read, with some interest, your article on the student fracas regarding democracy in America, particularly the fact that your article was negligently aligned with American democratic principles. As an ignorant and powerless country, I could not help but think that some of the concepts put forward by Mr. Ulen here. The Electric College may seem attractive, but it has a rather unusual purpose. For any reason, the concept was designed to include the voices of others not considered at the top and not to include them. Eastman modernized the nation, but he is suggesting that there is increasing public resistance to the notion of a guiding role. In our system, we do not have a constitutional mandate to consider the voices of those at the bottom.

The students from Iowa who criticized the new religious government seemed to have forgotten how strong religion was in even the poorest state and rural populations. Some of the major political parties are actually based on the power of the religious majority. In addition, many of these religious-based parties have excluded minorities and groups associated with the extreme right. This could also introduce an absolute majority, but in some circumstances a more significant group.

For this reason, the SDS also may have been an attempt to block the liberation of women. This would be a monumental political decision. Though many people may raise the issue of my own party, I believe the intramural policies adopted by the SDS today are no different than those adopted by the SDS who once stood as a stern adversary. Second, democracy will try to put an end to the highly critical nation. The voices of institutional members have not been considered, as Roberts has said. Democracy will be to the fore if it comes to bear on the majority.

GAY TRAILBLAZER IN LC

BY JENNIA SAUERS

It's unusual. It's a matter of reality in its terms to be a gay man in the United States, it's the same in Brazil. And it's doubly so in the city of Bio Bio, in the southern city of Chile.

The ministry of Rev. Horacio Ferrer, the first openly gay man to be ordained as a minister in the Methodist Church in Chile, is a brave act in a country that has a long tradition of homophobia.

The Ministry of Rev. Horacio Ferrer, who has been in ministry for 20 years, has been a pioneer in the fight against homophobia and for the rights of the LGBTQ community in Chile.

Under the leadership of Rev. Ferrer, the Methodist Church in Bio Bio has become a leader in the fight for LGBTQ rights and has worked to promote an inclusive and welcoming environment for all members of the community.

One of the main challenges faced by the church is to continue to educate and raise awareness about the importance of equality and non-discrimination for all individuals, regardless of their sexual orientation.

The ministry of Rev. Ferrer has been a source of inspiration for many LGBTQ individuals and families, providing them with a safe and supportive space to explore their identity and live their lives as they choose.

The Methodist Church in Bio Bio is committed to promoting an inclusive society where everyone is valued and respected, regardless of their sexual orientation.

Rev. Ferrer's leadership and dedication to the cause of LGBTQ rights have contributed to making the Methodist Church in Bio Bio a leader in the fight for equality and inclusion.

The ministry of Rev. Horacio Ferrer continues to work tirelessly to promote the rights of the LGBTQ community, ensuring that everyone has the opportunity to live a life free from discrimination and prejudice.

The Methodist Church in Bio Bio is an example of how religious institutions can play a vital role in promoting equality and inclusion, and it is a testament to the power of faith to bring about positive change.
France declares emergency

The prime minister says the nation faces ‘moment of truth’ for failing to integrate immigrants into society.

By John Leicester

PARIS — France declared a state of emergency Tuesday in the wake of the country’s worst unrest since the student uprisings of 1668 that toppled a government, and the prime minister said the nation was now at a “moment of truth” over its failure to integrate Arab and African immigrants and their children.

The extraordinary security measures, which took effect today and are valid for 15 days, shut down many commercial activities and the Internet in an effort to integrate Arab and African immigrants and their children.

The extraordinary security measures were announced today and are valid for 15 days. They were announced Tuesday by Prime Minister Jean-Pierre Raffarin after he toured the area to see the damage.

Laila Richi, a spokesman for Prime Minister Raffarin, said the prime minister had decided to announce the state of emergency and that the next session would be held in Baghdad, as planned, on Feb. 18. The government spokesman said Raffarin would be present at the conference.

Both the Iraqi government and the United States have long insisted the trial be held in Iraq, before an Iraqi court, so Saddam could answer for crimes allegedly committed by his regime.

Iraqi justices on the right to assure Saddam and his allies if they are convicted rules out holding the trial before an international court, such as the U.N. tribunals hearings began in the Balkans and Rwanda.

Richi suggested this Tuesday’s ruling "shows that Saddam and his followers are ready to do anything when it comes to the security of the country and the work of the court," he said.

Zach I. O'Keefe. The elder Ferentz, however, is worried about Purdue

The Hawkeyes did not look like their Big Ten title contender last week. Their last regular-season game was on Oct. 31, 2011.

The Hawkeyes will welcome an Iowa team that is currently 3-2 and looking to build upon its 16-point win at Michigan State.

"We played well enough," said Andy Ross, Hawkeyes tight end. "But we didn't play well enough to win.

That's ridiculous," he said. "The only thing that matters is our performance from week to week. The only thing that matters is our performance from week to week.

"I'm going to say that the Hawks have shown that they can win on the road. They have shown that they can win on the road. They have shown that they can win on the road. They have shown that they can win on the road. They have shown that they can win on the road.

Each game is just one opportunity. The Hawkeyes have a chance to prove their worth on the road.

"We are excited to play at Northwestern," said Ferentz. "We are excited to play at Northwestern. We are excited to play at Northwestern. We are excited to play at Northwestern. We are excited to play at Northwestern.

Stevens avowed that the Hawks have shown that they can win on the road. They have shown that they can win on the road. They have shown that they can win on the road. They have shown that they can win on the road. They have shown that they can win on the road.

Shawn Farrell, the Ducks' quarterback, will be looking to lead Oregon to victory over, well, Oregon State. The Beavers are 2-0 in Pac-12 play.

"We are ready to go," said Farrell. "We are ready to go. We are ready to go. We are ready to go. We are ready to go.

Ball State. The Cardinals are 3-0 in MAC play and 5-0 overall. They are coming off a 34-3 victory over Eastern Michigan last week.

"We were very excited to come out of the bye week and win a game," said Ball State coach Mike Neu. "We were very excited to come out of the bye week and win a game. We were very excited to come out of the bye week and win a game. We were very excited to come out of the bye week and win a game.

The Hawkeyes have not had a good week of practice, but they are looking forward to facing the Cardinals.

"We are excited to face a good MAC team," said offensive coordinator Brian Ferentz. "We are excited to face a good MAC team. We are excited to face a good MAC team. We are excited to face a good MAC team. We are excited to face a good MAC team.

The winner will clinch a share of the Big Ten West title and will have a strong chance to reach the conference championship game.

"We are excited to be back on the road," said Ferentz. "We are excited to be back on the road. We are excited to be back on the road. We are excited to be back on the road. We are excited to be back on the road.

"I think we can win this game," said Farrell. "I think we can win this game. I think we can win this game. I think we can win this game. I think we can win this game.

The Ducks are favored by 10 points, but the game should be a close one.

"We are excited to face a good team," said Farrell. "We are excited to face a good team. We are excited to face a good team. We are excited to face a good team. We are excited to face a good team.

The Ducks have won four straight games, including a 45-14 victory over Stanford last week.

"We are excited to get back to work," said Farrell. "We are excited to get back to work. We are excited to get back to work. We are excited to get back to work. We are excited to get back to work.

Philadelphia Eagles Terrell Owens, with agent Drew Rosenhaus (left) at his side, makes a statement to the media outside his Mooresville, N.C., home on Tuesday. Owens apologized to coach Andy Reid, quarterback Donovan McNabb, the team's owner and president, and fans.

BY ROB MAASDORP

MOORESVILLE, N.C. — For once, Terrell Owens put aside his pride, admitted he was wrong and asked the Eagles to forgive him for his decision to strike during the playoffs.

The team appeared unmoved. A smiling Owens, however, exerted his dominance from the start. In a team meeting on Monday, Owens, who is a free agent next season, blasted McNabb, the team's quarterback, and coach Reid.

"The mentality that I have, my greatest strength, is also my greatest weakness," Owens said, reading a statement outside his home. "It's a mentality that if you think you can always be right, you'll always be right. I'm a fighter. I think they're afraid I'll be there to fight for them." Owens said he'd go as far as to tell Reid to get out of Philadelphia immediately.
