No rain on these parades

Monday was a special day at the Johnson County Recorder’s Office.

Heather “Health” Davis glanced around a nearly empty Dubuque Street, a moon shape envelope in her hand becoming soggy from the rain. A tear ran down her cheek as she entered the Johnson County Administration Building on the other side.

More than 40 same-sex couples applied for marriage licenses three Monday Three weeks after the Iowa Supreme Court ruled a ban on same-sex unconstitutional, the Recorder’s Office accepted the first batch of applications.

Davis’ envelope held her marriage documents. In a flash, the compact woman scooted beneath one of the canopies and disappeared down the street. Seconds later, the train began to move.

The recorder’s office opened at 8 a.m., but the parking lot was the site of a merry gathering an hour earlier.

Some came to sign up with their partners, while others bought tickets to the wedding ceremony in 1987 in California. The two have been together for 30 years and had a Zen tea wedding ceremony in 1987 in California.

“I’ll probably be able to use this (postcard),” said Davis later as he pulled away from the establishment.

UI wraps up sex policy

UI officials said they have worked on the university’s new sexual-misconduct policy since last fall.

UI officials have made final revisions to the student sexual-misconduct policy — but they say they are prepared to amend the policy further.

In an e-mail to the UI community, Thomas Rocklin, the interim vice president, and Student Support Services, wrote that the judicial procedure for sexual-assault cases has officially changed. Except for the court’s amendment, the university’s policy will be in effect last December by the state Board of Regents.

All sexual-assault complaints — including sexual assault, sexual harassment, and sexual intimidation — will now be tried under the Judicial Procedures under the Judicial Procedure for Allegations of Sexual Misconduct guidelines and not resolved under the Judicial Procedure for Alleged Violations. Instead, the latter will be only used for non-sexual violence or harassment charges.

Police forced to split patrols

With police resources already stretched past their limit downtown, the increase in calls coming in from the Iowa City South Side is affecting the department’s ability to provide adequate numbers of officers to both areas.

“This is a mess,” said Iowa City Police Officer Brandon Faulkner late in the evening of Monday, April 27, pulling into the parking lot of an eatery near the building at 1201 Kennedy Blvd. As the car’s headlights illuminated the front of the bar, most of the crowd standing outside quickly moved indoors.

Inside the business, two officers with Iowa City Police Department’s Crime Action Team stood by a speaker, speaking very low as the officers danced to pounding hip-hop music while hundreds loitered outside the eatery.

“Why? We’re probably better off,” Faulkner said later as he pulled away from the establishment.

Madison Davis was stationed outside the building, simultaneously congratulating, handing out brochures, asking for photos, and passing out brochures about Connections. Several couples looked slightly bewildered at first, surprised by the whirlwind of hospitality.

Said one, “We’ve never had an event like this.”

Some of them shook out the back,” Malone trilled, “I was staggered — it’s made me feel like a lady I can’t believe it. It’s been really exciting for me. It’s been a lot of fun to be here.”

Monique DeCarlo, the UI's sexual-misconduct response coordinator, said the current policy is “adequately designed,” said the analyst. Two of the major modifications that the graduate student in health informatics said will be served with the help of the new policy are as follows:

In response to concerns about sexual misconduct, DeCarlo said the new policy lays out what consent is and what responsibilities on the part of the person who is initiating the activity.

The policy defines sexual misconduct as the behavior of a sexual nature that is committed without consent or by force, intimidation, coercion, or fraud.

Iowa City swine flu panic doesn't add up

I'm not, even today, a victim of swine flu. I'm not, even today, feeling much more than the usual dread.

I'm not swine flu. I'm not a victim of the panic that's sweeping through Iowa City. I'm not part of the herd that's trying to be afraid.

I'm not the victim of the media hype that's been creating a false sense of urgency.

I'm not part of the community that's been made to feel vulnerable.

I'm not the victim of the media's efforts to制造 a panic.

I'm not the victim of the government's efforts to control the situation.

I'm not the victim of the media's efforts to create a sense of fear.

I'm not the victim of the government's efforts to control the public's behavior.

I'm not the victim of the media's efforts to create a sense of threat.

I'm not the victim of the government's efforts to control the public's perception of the situation.

I'm not the victim of the media's efforts to create a sense of horror.

I'm not the victim of the government's efforts to control the public's response.

I'm not the victim of the media's efforts to create a sense of panic.

I'm not the victim of the government's efforts to control the public's reaction.

I'm not the victim of the media's efforts to create a sense of fearfulness.

I'm not the victim of the government's efforts to control the public's emotion.

I'm not the victim of the media's efforts to create a sense of dread.

I'm not the victim of the government's efforts to control the public's attitude.

I'm not the victim of the media's efforts to create a sense of anxiety.

I'm not the victim of the government's efforts to control the public's perception.

I'm not the victim of the media's efforts to create a sense of alarm.

I'm not the victim of the government's efforts to control the public's response.

I'm not the victim of the media's efforts to create a sense of terror.

I'm not the victim of the government's efforts to control the public's reaction.

Pujols back in hitting form

By R.B. FALSTROM

ST LOUIS — Stuck in a funk, Albert Pujols kept looking for a flaw. Videotape study detected the trouble. Last year’s NL MVP was too eager at the plate.

Pujols corrected the problem, as evidenced by his performance in Thursday’s 3-2, 9-inning loss to the New York Mets, and this season looks to be a healthy return to form. "I finally have my hitting stroke back," said Pujols, who was 9-for-20 with three homers and 11 RBIs on this last home stand.

"He’s the best player I’ll probably ever play with, and I haven’t even seen him use his bat," said the Nationals’ second baseman Ian Kins..."He just does so many things."""}

Fewest draft picks, big splash

By BARRY WILKIN

NEW YORK — Few teams have ever practiced the sports cliché of saving the most out the least the way the New York Jets did last weekend.

Over two days and 256 selections, the NFL draftee managed to do it to the front of the NFL draft draftstark skating a mere three picks. Maybe it’s a sign of how ingrained the franchise plans to be heading into the 41st season since it last won a Super Bowl.

Or maybe it was desperation. With three rendering defensive selections where both Thomas Jones threatening to stay away without a renegotiation after his junior year. "I know them do that," Pettigrew said. "I’m a competitive guy, and I’m going to keep doing it until I need to make another adjustment."

Not surprisingly, entering a season off a 21-10 record, Monday night at Atlanta, Pujols was 9-for-20 with three home runs (7) and RBIs (26) while batting .343. Crawford walked him three times and hit him four times on Sunday.

"He’s the best player I’ll probably ever play with, and I’m not even seeing him with a bat," said the Nationals’ second baseman Ian Kinsler.

Pettigrew was the first of 21 selections this weekend. Tenneessee wanted one so badly it traded a 2010 second-round pick to the Tennessee Titans.

I really don’t have a preference. I could see myself playing corner and being a dominant corner, and having a lot of success there, and also I can see myself doing the same thing at safety.

Not surprisingly, USC had the most choices, 11, including first-rounders Sanchez and line- backers Brian Cushing to Houston and Clay Matthews to Green Bay.

The Miami Hurricanes had gone 14-straight drafts with a first-round pick. This year, only one Canes was taken linebacker Spencer Adekeye went to Atlanta at No. 175.

Even Miami, Ohio, had as many players selected as the Canes.
Celtics hope for Game 5 magic

By HOWARD ULKAN

WALTHAM, Mass. — The Boston Celtics are back home, where they won three Game 3s in their way to the NBA championship last season.

They want to do it again tonight or risk being a stunning first-round playoff casualty two days later in the noisy building where they won three Game 5s of the Chicago Bulls.

Last season's Game 5 victory over the Bulls and the resulting first-round playoff win were key moments in the Celtics' championship run.

But now Boston faces a tough challenge in trying to repeat that success.

The Celtics beat Atlanta 110-93, Cleveland 105-103, in one overtime and Detroit, going on to win the NBA finals last season.

Last season's Celtics beat the Bulls 93-83, 110-93 and 105-103, in two overtimes and Game 4 in two overtimes on Sunday, May 21.

Boston's Kevin Garnett, a 12-time All-Star, and Ray Allen, a four-time All-Star, are both expected to play in Game 5.

The Celtics need to win Game 5 to avoid a first-round playoff upset and to have a chance of advancing to the second round of the playoffs.

The Bulls are one of the top teams in the Eastern Conference and have won 3 of the last 4 games against the Celtics.

A loss in Game 5 would likely end Boston's hopes for a championship and could spell trouble for the entire organization.

The key for Boston is to avoid turnovers and to keep playing as a team.

The Celtics have lost just one game this season and are considered by many to be the favorites to win the NBA championship.

Boston is led by Pierce, who is averaging 29.3 points per game and 7.6 rebounds per game.

But the Bulls are a tough opponent and have a balanced scoring attack with Luol Deng, Joakim Noah and Jimmy Butler.

The Celtics will need to contain those players if they want to have a chance of winning Game 5 and advancing in the playoffs.

Kendrick Perkins said the Celtics need to be more aggressive and to make sure they are getting to the free-throw line.

"We've got to play with a lot of intensity and energy," Perkins said.

"If we can get to the line, we'll have a chance.

"We're a young team, but we're learning and growing as a team.

Quality Road has won 3-of-4 starts, including the Fountain of Youth Stakes and the Florida Derby, where he beat another top Derby contender in Dankirk. Quality Road’s stretch bumper bumped in the Dance — the fifth-place finisher in the Blue Grass Stakes on April 11 — into the 20-horse Derby field and gave trainer Todd Pletcher another shot at reaching the infinitesimal winner’s circle at Churchill Downs.

Pletcher is 0-for-21 in the first point Quality Road to the first Derby starter but instead will Jerkens was looking to send out his son of Hall of Fame trainer Allen Jerkens became concerned after wraps while he recuperated. The shame because he’s so talented.”

“We can’t train him as we would’ve done so we couldn’t run him,” Jerkens said. “He just isn’t sound enough.”

While Jerkens doesn’t doubt the quarter crack could be manageable by Saturday afternoon, he didn’t want to force the issue and thought a two-week furlong from serious work would be wise. Question Road’s last breeze was April 17 before the injury was discovered.

“You’re just kidding yourself if you think you can go out there and run in the biggest race in the world and haven’t trained,” Jerkens said. “It’s a shame because he’s so talented.”

Quality Road developed a quarter crack on his right front foot last week, and Jerkens kept him under wraps while he recuperated. The horse was patched up over the weekend and galloped Sunday on Belmont’s training track. While Quality Road appeared to be fine, Jerkens became concerned after the right foot of blood on the newly patched crack.

On Monday morning, Jerkens noticed the colt’s foot was sore and that he was favoring it.

It was all Jerkens had to see. The son of Hall of Fame trainer Jerkens was looking to send out his top Derby contender in Dunkirk.

“He can win on any surface from the Roses and further muddying an Indy Derby winner Monday after the 3-

The horseman in Jerkens, how-

He’s an enthusiastic workhorse and it was good to see him settle and work well today,” Pletcher said. “He should be ready now.”

Even if Join in the Dance will be a bit of a long shot.

The same bet — if there are any are made in one of the most wide-open fields in recent memory — will likely be on Pletcher’s Nile and I Want Revenge.

Both of those horses, however, still have plenty of questions. Pondered the Nile has never run on dirt, and I Want Revenge looked outclassed in the Gotham earlier this year before finding his footing in New York while winning the Gotham Stakes and the Wood Memorial.

The horse is owned by IEAH Stable, owners of last year’s Derby and Preakness winner Big Brown.

Michael Lavarone, who purchased a share of I Want Revenge after he won the Gotham last month, hardly seems troubled about the prospect of saddling a Derby favorite for the second straight year.

While trainer and driver Darron Jr. opted to put Big Brown on the far outside post to give him a clean trip, Lavarone doesn’t think his newest star is going to need it.

“He can win on any surface from anywhere,” Lavarone said.

Quality Road’s fast problems aren’t lost on Lavarone. A quarter crack discovered before last year’s Belmont Stakes affected Big Brown’s training and may have led to his mystifying last-place finish.

“They can be very painful, and certainly it altered the way we trained him,” Lavarone said “Those things are part of the game but you want to be sure you do it right by your horse.”

Reasons I will never have children

I am an only child for the surface in my house to be not sticky. Not only not sticky, but not sticky enough to clean.

• The only people that I allow to yowl on me are my best friends and blind dates.

• If Géricault and Delacroix allow to vomit on me are not within 10 feet, I have an intense need for those for when mommy and dad get older.

• I'm not married, but if I were, and I had kids, I would have bought a Blue Babies any day of the week.

• If I am to be awakened at 4 a.m., the very last thing I will do is to dismantle your plans or take over your job. Double-check your work, and follow through with instructions and assignments. You can make reforms that will have a huge effect on the people in your life. A relationship will suffer a power struggle.

• I will have many children. I'll have a hundred or more. I'll have them right up to the minute when I die, and I'm saving up for them.

• If anyone—even an angel—asks for a baby, I'll give them one. I'm not married, but if I were, I would have been having babies ever since the first day I was married.

• If I have an intense need for babies, I'll have as many as I can possibly have. I love babies. I love being around them.

• If Géricault and Delacroix don't want wall space in my living room, I will have a hundred or more. You can't have it, and don't even try to think about it.
