Coaching legend Evy dies

Former Iowa football coach and former athletic director Forest Evashevski died over the weekend at the age of 91.

By BRENDAN STILES

Legendary Iowa head football coach Forest Evashevski, who led the Hawkeyes to their only two Rose Bowl victories, died Oct. 30 at his home in Michigan.

His death came about two weeks after officials revealed he had been battling liver cancer and his passing was confirmed by UI officials hours after the Hawkeyes’ 42-24 victory over Indiana over the weekend. “He was a great speaker and had a quick wit,” said Jim Evashevski, his second-oldest son. “I think that all went hand-in-hand with being a good coach.”

Evashevski came to Iowa after a two-year head-coach stint at Washington State. His football résumé included playing at Michigan, where he majored in both sociology and psychology, and coaching stints as an assistant at both Fresno State and Michigan State.

During his nine-year head-coach tenure in Iowa City, he won 52 games and guided the Hawkeyes to two Big Ten championship seasons in 1956 and 1958.

Football-game arrests no fun

Fans arrested at Kinnick undergo several steps on their way to jail.

By MITCHELL SCHMIDT

Fans arrested at Kinnick Stadium, near Gate B of Kinnick Stadium, is one room most fans have never heard of or wanted to enter: the holding cell.

The cell, used as many as 70 times a game, is the first stop for fans arrested during a football game for various offenses.

The most common offenses involve alcohol. And typically, arrests occur right before the game — when drunken spectators arrive at the gates — and taper off after halftime, said David Visin, an associate director of the UI police.

Authorities escort arrested Hawkeye fans out of the Kinnick Stadium holding cell to a van that will haul them to the Johnson County Jail on Oct. 31. The cell is windowless, but that doesn’t keep ejected fans from watching the game. A tiny television set hangs on the wall across from the cells, allowing fans to watch the game.

The smoky aroma of grilling goat meat soon seeped through the open door of the Church of the Nazarene in Iowa City on Oct. 31. Inside, 51 Christians prayed together. Since they received formal approval last fall to legally practice Christianity at their 1105 Wade St. address, membership has more than doubled.

The 51-member group can focus on service projects and spreading diversity in their church.

The two seasons ended with trips to the Rose Bowl — the season’s highlight in the program’s history. As his coaching career ended, he, because Iowa’s full-time athletics director, a post he held 10 years.

But there was more to Evashevski than what people saw on the football field. In the community, he was a loving father of seven and did everything he could to offer his children to lead normal lives outside of the spotlight. Evashevski and his wife, Patricia, lived in northern Canada. They had three sons.

Jim Evashevski recalled saying to his father, "I want to be the best football coach in the country at the end of my career." He added, "I want to be a legend in the game." He noted that his father was a very influential person in his life.

"He had an football coach," said Steve Van Huyk, Evashevski’s brother.

"Things can get uncom- fortably. Sometimes, we'll have 17 guys in that cell and one guy in this one," Van said, pointing toward the two small cells.

"The US police operate increased arrests during home games and their officers a game, Van said. "We really pay for your football games," Van said. "A farmer takes to the building cell, determines, and search, and have their information processed.

When the number of inmates get large enough — which happens about three or four times per game — they are taken to the Johnson County Jail. The van, which were arrested face a two-lead to a suspension.

Student Health held its first official clinic to administer the vaccine before the weekend. This shipment complements another small batch of influenza vaccines that have also become available to some students.

In addition to these two shipments, James said the first batch of the vaccine arrived at Student Health on Oct. 13 and was made available to the public. He said he was going to give the vaccine to patients who come to Student Health services.

"If you come to Student Health services," James said, "we’ll give you the vaccine and then you can give it to others."

UIHC solicitation raises eyebrows

UIHC to begin indirectly soliciting through the Philanthropy Contact Consent program.

Almost 6,000 miles apart, Angela Keyser and her husband — both UI students in history — celebrated the same thing this weekend: the Republican Day of Turkey.

Her husband, Brian Miller, watched the firework displays and national flags. They watched documentaries on the nation’s history and ate Turkish food. They watched the famous flags. They watched the parade. “I know a little bit about Kemal Atatürk,” UI law Professor Sheldon Kurtz said. “He transformed our nation,” he contended.

Coroner rules homicide in case of 6 found bodies

THOMAS J. SHEERAN

CLEVELAND — Six women whose badly decomposed bodies were found at the home of a convicted rapist were killed as a result of homicide, the coroner’s office said Tuesday.

At least five of the women apparently had been strangled, and Powell Caesar, a spokesman for the Cuyahoga County coroner, described the death as a “horrible crime” that required to check in regularly at the Sheriff’s Office, where the woman reported being raped there.

The coroner ruled homicide in the case of 6 found bodies.

County supervisor appeals to impressive, but special election still preferable

The recent appointment of Janelle Rettig to the Johnson County Board of Supervisors shouldn’t alarm citizens who would like to hold a special election. While we believe Rettig would be a fine fit for the position, our support for a special election is unwavering.

The Johnson County committee, made up of Auditor Tom Stirock, Recorder Kim Painter, and Treasurer Tom Krecheski, did not support former Supervisor Rob Masters, whose death September 14 opened up a special election seat.

Both Stirock and Painter voted in favor of Re-election, and the third vote was cast by Michael Lehman. Lehman served on the board for eight years and will remain a 2010 andSigma Myers, whose decision died open up a special election seat.

Situation

This committee’s move could be seen as a closed decision to not support the UI’s international students. For example, when the UI’s international students can’t afford the cost of textbooks, they will have to drop out of college that many international students and their families were already facing. This move could mean a loss of funding and an impact on the UI’s international programs.

We hope that the UI administration will reconsider its decision and support the UI’s international students. The UI’s international students are an important part of the university community and contribute greatly to the diversity and richness of our campus.

Shelby just another two-faced politician?

I’m getting tired of the two-faced politicians. I think that when they back out of a decision, they should do it openly, so that we know what is happening.

I am writing in support of the University of Iowa’s international students. The recent decision to cut international graduate student support is a serious concern for the international students who are facing financial difficulties. These students have paid tuition and fees, and they need to complete their studies. The cuts will force many students to leave the university.

We urge the administration to reconsider its decision and support the UI’s international students. The UI’s international students are an important part of the university community and contribute greatly to the diversity and richness of our campus.

The concert Tuesday will feature bands influenced by Naked Lunch along with covers performed by Glass and UI communications associate professor Remm McLeod.

"Instead of using traditional instruments, however, we'll play music using iPhone applications that simulate real instruments," he said. "Our idea was to rope together pieces of other instruments, however, as successful as its predecessor, it was a failure. Now, the ensemble's growth, success on steroids," he said. "But it's sort of like, amplifies and puts your success on steroids," he said.

The concert is sponsored by SCOPE, and director of operations T.C. Lockhart emphasizes the UI's support of bringing "big-name bands" to the Iowa City area.

"It shows that the UI is committed to live music and new artists," MacLeod said. "It's our job to keep up with the trendsetter.

How the UI can compensate for the many recent budget cuts:

- Small UI Athletics Director Gary Barta to Yugoslav and have him make sure sports fans cover the cost of the basketball team to «enhance» the morale.
- Get an on-site building full of laboratory equipment and expert chemists. Find布尔开始重组，将自己从赞助中拉出来。
- Have the creative writing center start working on and selling new material for the humanities and a virtually human-affiliated arrangement. Imagine the Google Library Project.

Iowa Hawkeyes celebrate following a 66-yard touchdown catch by Iowa wide receiver Derrell Johnson-Koulianos during the fourth quarter in Kinnick Stadium on Oct. 31. The Hawkeyes scored 28 points in the fourth quarter to beat Indiana, 42-24.

The Hawkeyes found another unpredictable way of winning, overcoming a rough third quarter and scoring 28 points in the game’s final 15 minutes to remain undefeated this season with three games to go.

By BRENDAN STILES

The Iowa Hawkeyes’ second-half success has been well-documented throughout the 2009 season. And in last week’s 42-24 victory over Indiana, the second half had fans talking on Halloween as they left Kinnick Stadium.

The third quarter provided plenty of moans, groans, and probably some “WTF” thoughts in the Hawkeye sidelines. Iowa junior quarterback Ricky Stanzi had a quarter to forget, throwing four of his five interceptions in the period.

Yet the Hawkeyes managed to outscore Indiana in the third, 7-3, thanks in part to a ridiculous 86-yard interception return by Tyler Sash that saw the ball rocket off four different players before landing in his hands.

Iowa head coach Kirk Ferentz called it “a huge play” that re-energized both the home crowd and the Hawkeyes defense.

“Certainly, they’re knocking on the door going in, and next thing you know, we’ve got seven points on the board,” Ferentz said. “We’re having a hard time getting points of any form or fashion at that stage, and we have a hard time moving the ball, just hanging onto the ball. So that was a huge thing.”

There are one of the most unusual three-quarters ever inside Kinnick Stadium.

“I thought we lost the ball play from scrimmage in the period, so we’re on their own 8-yard line. Stanzi ran a play-action pass and found expletive on ice like the Maple Leaf. That’s a he ckey team, but isn’t on no hockey team. But I’m a champion. Where’s the [expletive] Hockey Theme?” — a lyric reference normally shy away from. So if anyone was going to give a shout-out to Iowa, it should be Wayne.

Rienow 7 snaps dorm title

By MATT SMITH

It was a West Side battle on Saturday afternoon—flag-football dorm championship.

On an extremely wet and muddy field, the first flag-football champion was crowned with Rienow 7 Raptormen over the Dub Setters, 21-12, at the Hawkeye Recreation Fields.

The victory improved Rienow 7’s record to a perfect 7-0, and the low-scoring game was a crucial role in the positive atmosphere of Rienow 7 being named the University championship, which is made up of the championship of the University residence hall, and two teams from the Men’s Open “A” League. The event will be held Thursday through Tuesday in the Bubble, and the Dub Setters ran optimum defense that was not enough muddy field conditions and the Dub Setters’ squad a berth in the All-U.

Rienow 7 Raptor freshman Kyle Odneal finished with the only two touchdowns and a lack turnovers played a crucial role in the outcome for Rienow 7. Those same things were the downfall for the Dub Setters.

Ninjas, DCD take last 2 spots

By MATT SCHOMMER

The Ninjas and DCD also took a spot in the championship of games at the Hawkeye Recreation Fields. Both teams defeated Boss Hoggin’ on Friday, 94-0.

Both teams came out with a win, taking over highly competitive, and challenging teams.

“We’ve just tried and tried,” Boss Hoggin’ sophomore Mike Kazanci said. “We’ve spent all that summer and a few other times around the field and the air, and they are getting better every week.”

“They are a good team, they are a good team,” Ninjas’ senior quarterback Kyle Odneal said. “They are a different atmosphere.”

But the road was not easy.

The Ninjas had to first beat the Boss Hoggin’ team, 9-0, and then play Boss Hoggin’ on Friday, 94-0. The Ninjas were confident in their matchup with Boss Hoggin’.

“We knew they were good, we knew they were good,” Ninjas’ senior quarterback and defensive back Kyle Odneal said.

Soccer splits

The bad luck continued for the Iowa soccer team, which lost to Michigan State, 3-2, in overtime on Sunday.

Iowa redshirt senior Jackie Kaeding attempts to head-butt the ball away from Michigan State forward Hollie Funk on Oct. 30 at the Iowa Soccer Complex. The Hawkeyes defeated the Wolverines, 2-1.

It feels great, especially on senior night. These seniors have worked so hard to prepare our team in practice and push us in games. It was great to come out and get a win for them.

— Morgan Shawhuler, sophomore

I baited him as much as I could and I knew, knowing I’d be that open, I wasn’t going to get tackled by him. Then after that, I just tried to run my fastest.

— Ricky Stanzi, quarterback

I was standing out in the corner then began to clamp to Tony [Moeaki], and the DBs kind of felt a little breathing room, and I didn’t see anybody, so I looked up the field not knowing I’d be that open.

— Vin McNutt, receiver

For Iowa, 0-3 in overtime matches this season, it seemed like a broken record. The balls didn’t bounce our way, but the loss was hard to take after exerting so much effort.

We didn’t try to run our fastest. I used to reach the end zone and then began to husky the ball on its own 34-yard line.

Iowa running back Brandon Wegher celebrates as he runs into the end zone for his third touchdown of the day during Iowa’s game against Indiana in Kinnick Stadium on Oct. 31. Wegher had 25 carries for 155 yards and three touchdowns. His final two touchdowns came in the fourth quarter.

"We’re not going to get any style points for beating people in the fourth quarter. Purdue isn’t going to think we’re sexy. The people around the nation aren’t going to think we’re a high-flying, smoke-and-throw-the-ball-around-downs on the ground. Men's national-championship contention was still there for Fishel Nolteh and co-captain Gabe Campagna. The Hawkeyes were hoping to bring back the team's first-ever NCAA tournament appearance. This past season, a trio of seniors—Nolteh, Campagna, and junior Ben Reilly—helped the team take third at the Big Ten. "The locker room felt and looked a bit different," Campagna said. "It was a lot more competitive, with other teams around us being rated high. We knew that we needed to be ready to play at every game, and our tournament results were promising, but we didn't get the job done this time around at the NCAA tournament."

"We have a lot of motivation going into the tournament," Reilly said. "That's the most fun you have playing hockey. There's a lot of excitement about the opportunity to compete against the top programs and win a championship."

"The experience at the NCAA tournament was amazing," Campagna said. "We were close, but we weren't able to quite do it this time. The best part was being able to experience the tournament, and the Networking is key, and doing this with people that you know and getting a chance to have fun and improve your skills is key.

In the second round of play, Iowa faced Colgate. The Hawkeyes came out on top, winning the game 7-3. "It was a good win for us," Campagna said. "We were able to put together a good performance, and we were able to play with confidence. We had a great start, and it continued throughout the game."

In the third round, Iowa faced North Dakota. The Hawkeyes won the game 4-0, and advanced to the national semifinals. "It was a great win for us," Campagna said. "We were able to play a great game, and we were able to put together a great performance. We had a great start, and it continued throughout the game."

In the national semifinals, Iowa faced Wisconsin. The Hawkeyes won the game 4-1, and advanced to the national championship. "It was a great win for us," Campagna said. "We were able to play a great game, and we were able to put together a great performance. We had a great start, and it continued throughout the game."

In the national championship, Iowa faced Notre Dame. The Hawkeyes won the game 2-1, and brought home the national championship. "It was a great win for us," Campagna said. "We were able to play a great game, and we were able to put together a great performance. We had a great start, and it continued throughout the game."
