No witnesses for Everson

Everson now faces up to 10 years in prison after the judge reduced his charges. By HAYLEY BRUCE

The defense didn’t call a single witness. The defendant didn’t testify, and his attorney didn’t present any evidence to the jury Tuesday.

Instead, Iowa City Police Officer Greg Hanrichus plays a game of pool with a group of kids at the junior high after school program at the Merce Aquatic Center. The kids played games against Hanrichus and received cans of soda if they won.

The banter was “unusually” by one expert. “It's a good chance to have positive interaction with youngsters,” Hanrichus said.

The students earned a free soft drink if they win a game, organizers said the atmosphere was playful as local students gathered around a uniformed police officer at games like foosball, and carpetball.

Though students earn a free soft drink if they win a game, organizers said the atmosphere was playful as local students gathered around a uniformed police officer at games like foosball, and carpetball.

The beat a cop program was important for area youth.

Eidahl agreed exposure to law enforcement is important for area youth. “It's a great chance for them to see the police officers at a different setting,” he said.

The first game of pool on Tuesday revealed how different this setting was for Hanrichus, a University of Iowa graduate and 18-year veteran of the local force. He scratched when breaking the rack, and he sent the cue ball skittering off the table and onto the floor on his second shot.

Beat a cop could mean pop

About 15 to 20 local junior-high students attend the activity per day.

The “Beat a Cop, Win a Pop,” program is for Humrichouse, a University of Colorado law professor and former defense attorney for former Hawkeye football player Cedric Everson.

The idea was for Humrichouse to win a can of soda.

The defense to present no witnesses was described as “unusual” by one expert.

“In a high-profile rape case, you typically expect for this defendant to have a theory of the case,” said University of Colorado law Professor and former defense attorney Aya Gruendel. “Including why it is that the jury should believe things to 10 years in prison, as opposed to the 25 to 50 year original second-degree sexual-assault charge held.

The decision to present no witnesses was described as “unusual” by one expert.

“In a high-profile rape case, you typically expect for this defendant to have a theory of the case,” said University of Colorado law Professor and former defense attorney Aya Gruendel. “Including why it is that the jury should believe things...”

Former Iowa football player Cedric Everson talks with his sister Everson during his sexual abuse trial Tuesday. Everson is accused of sexually assaulting a female student-athlete in a different dorm room in October 2007.

IC to host Olympic trials

The wrestling event will bring economic benefits and put Iowa City in the national spotlight.

By SAN LOUVAGIE sports@dailyiowan.com

Iowa City will host the next U.S. Olympic wrestling trials, and area officials expect the event to bring an influx of thousands of tourists and millions of dollars to the area in January.

USA Wrestling officials announced Tuesday that Iowa City — known for its historic wrestling program and large fan base — will host the trials in 2011.

The event will feature 50 wrestlers who will represent the United States at the 2012 Olympics in London.

Josh Rhynhart, the president of the Iowa City/Coralville Convention and Visitor’s Bureau, said the economic effect of the trials would be substantial ways.

2 more programs face ax

Officials in the Graduate College may next consider changes to the German department.

By ARIANA WITT ariana@dailyiowan.com

University of Iowa Graduate College officials will work permanently to terminate two programs and consolidate another department at the state Board of Regents meeting in February.

The M.A. in comparative literature and the Ph.D. in women’s studies could be eliminated in the next five years pending approval by regents, said John Keller, the dean of the Graduate College.

Seven students are still enrolled in those two departments.

If approved, those programs will join other graduate programs that were dissolved last semester due to low enrollment.

Officials also wish to merge the graduate department of health and sports studies with the department of human physiology, he said.

“I look at it as a way to come to this decision because of the student,” Keller said, noting students were still enrolling in those programs when officials decided to cut other less-used programs.

Keller and some faculty members were moved to other areas. They didn’t foresee any benefits as result of the department closing.
How much money. His guest lecture, part of the University of Wisconsin-Platteville's 2012 Human Rights Week on Tuesday. Shields, an Iowa native, was the dean of admissions at Michigan and defendant during the試用期 He is the chancellor at Michigan and defendant during the试用期 He is the chancellor at Michigan and defendant during the试用期 He is the chancellor at Michigan and defendant during the试用期 He is the chancellor at Michigan and defendant during the试用期 He is the chancellor at Michigan and defendant during the试用期 He is the chancellor at Michigan and defendant during the试用期 He is the chancellor at Michigan and defendant during the试用期 He is the chancellor at Michigan and defendant during the试用期 He is the chancellor at Michigan and defendant during the试用期 He is the chancellor at Michigan and defendant during the试用期 He is the chancellor at Michigan and defendant during the试用期 He is the chancellor at Michigan and defendant during the试用期 He is the chancellor at Michigan and defendant during the试用期 He is the chancellor at Michigan and defendant during the试用期 He is the chancellor at Michigan and defendant during the试用期 He is the chancellor at Michigan and defendant during the试用期 He is the chancellor at Michigan and defendant during the试用期 He is the chancellor at Michigan and defendant during the试用期 He is the chancellor at Michigan and defendant during the试用期 He is the chancellor at Michigan and defendant during the Bus Use Surges In Area

Some bus employees are worried a Iowa City-Chicago rail service would negatively affect their business.

By Katie Heine

Local bus company say business is good — but the future Iowa City-Chicago rail line would change that. The new route would be the fastest growing intercity transportation for the third consecutive year, increasing faster than air or rail transit, a DePaul University study found. Internal bus service grew 6 percent in 2010. The three bus companies providing service between Iowa City and Chicago, Megabus.com, Greyhound, and the Iowa City Free Lunch Program, said they heavily rely on the generosity of others to keep the programs going.

Donations are how we survive financially, Palmberg said. They come from local businesses, friends, and Truscott's family. The pantry at the Wesley Center, St. Paul's United Methodist Church, and the Iowa City Free Lunch Program, which started nearly 20 years ago, serve meals to roughly 45 people on the menu Jan. 14. Palmberg said she runs the program at the Wesley Center, St. Paul's United Methodist Church, and the Iowa City Free Lunch Program, and the pantry at the Wesley Center, St. Paul's United Methodist Church, and the Iowa City Free Lunch Program. The program, which started nearly 20 years ago, serves meals to roughly 45 people on the menu Jan. 14. Palmberg said she runs the program at the Wesley Center, St. Paul's United Methodist Church, and the Iowa City Free Lunch Program, and the pantry at the Wesley Center, St. Paul's United Methodist Church, and the Iowa City Free Lunch Program. The program, which started nearly 20 years ago, serves meals to roughly 45 people on the menu Jan. 14. Palmberg said she runs the program at the Wesley Center, St. Paul's United Methodist Church, and the Iowa City Free Lunch Program, and the pantry at the Wesley Center, St. Paul's United Methodist Church, and the Iowa City Free Lunch Program. The program, which started nearly 20 years ago, serves meals to roughly 45 people on the menu Jan. 14. Palmberg said she runs the program at the Wesley Center, St. Paul's United Methodist Church, and the Iowa City Free Lunch Program, and the pantry at the Wesley Center, St. Paul's United Methodist Church, and the Iowa City Free Lunch Program.
Laws are an unfortunate trip

Quick recap: Back in November, after the House of Representatives voted in favor of the American Taxpayer Relief Act of 2012, the bill was sent to the Senate, where it was expected to be passed. However, the Senate failed to take up the legislation, resulting in a government shutdown. Despite this, the legislation eventually passed the Senate and was signed into law by President Barack Obama.

In short, taxes have been raised, spending cuts have been made, and the government has been forced to operate under a continuing resolution, which means that it is not able to spend money on new initiatives or programs.

Guest opinion

We do not forget elections; prioritize fiscal responsibility

Taxes are a way for governments to raise revenue and fund essential services. However, it is important to consider how these taxes are collected and whether they are fair to all taxpayers.

The current system of progressive taxation is designed to ensure that those with higher incomes pay a larger share of their income in taxes. This is based on the principle that those with greater ability to pay should contribute more to the public good.

However, there are concerns about the fairness of this system. Some argue that it is too complex and burdensome, while others believe that it is too lenient and does not adequately address the needs of lower-income earners.

It is important for policymakers to carefully consider the trade-offs between efficiency and equity when designing tax policies. This requires a careful consideration of the distributional effects of different tax proposals, as well as the potential impact on economic growth and job creation.

In conclusion, while taxes are necessary to fund essential services, it is important to ensure that they are collected in a way that is fair and sustainable. This requires a proactive approach to tax policy-making and a commitment to ensuring that all taxpayers are treated equally.

Read today's guest opinion, and e-mail us at:

dailyiowan@dailyiowan.com.
Branstad joins health lawsuit

Gov. Terry Branstad will review and evaluate the positions of more than 1,000 state employees hired in the past six months, said Tim Albrecht, the governor’s communications director.

Branstad said he is unsure if the effort to challenge the law “that would force taxpayers to buy the federal government’s mandated health insurance,” the press release states. "As we begin constructing a four-year budget, there is no doubt that the current federal health care law will shackle Iowans for billions in unintended mandates," Branstad said in an e-mail. “By the third year of law school, I really enjoyed intramural sports and working in a law firm. My grades went up as I loosened up.”

He attributed the high percentage of UI graduates in the applicant pool to the UI being one of the state’s two law schools. The other is at Drake University — which graduated the second most Supreme Court applicants. “It would be logical for a group of Iowa attorneys to have a sizable UI contingent,” said applicant Joseph M. Barron, a UI graduate and attorney with Peddicord, Wharton, Spener, Hook, Barron, & Associates in Des Moines.

He said the most valuable skill he acquired at the UI was his ability to write. The lack of UI graduates on the current court is slight enough, said Don Hagel, a UI associate professor of political science who specializes in judicial politics and behavior, but it doesn’t mean much considering the court has only four justices at present. “It’s odd that it just happened to be the way,” Hagel said. “But more coincidence than anything else.”

The nominating commission will begin to interview the applicants — a mix of current judges, law professors, and attorneys — on Jan. 24 in Des Moines. That process is expected to take numerous days. Then the commission will send Gov. Terry Branstad the names of nine finalists. He will have 30 days to appoint the three new justices.

Hagel said the high percentage of UI applicants “is not surprising.” The 15-person nominating commission will look for candidates who are knowledgeable about Iowa law, are members of the Iowa Bar, and are unaffiliated, Hagel said. A strong precedent also exists for candidates to have previous judicial experience, he said.

The remaining justices are coping with the expansive caseload, with only four justices available to write opinions rather than the normal seven.

According to its online schedule, the Supreme Court will not issue any decisions in the month of January for the first five years, the court issued at least three doctrines each January. The court’s next ruling will come Feb 3.
TERMINATION CONTINUED FROM 1

Several of those programs have dropped

U.S. Olympic Team Wrestling Trials
April 21-22, 2012

CONTINUED FROM 1

Amnesia does not mean

Everson, 21, and former drew a football game. He Emanuel Lewin, director of  graduate date, in the American studies depart-ded, said they could not have known he tional graduate certificate. Lewin, director of  graduate duced to the regents during their March meeting, Keller ed, we could use them. What they cannot be a team sport," she said.

"It's nice to know [I] can be

"I want a rematch," the

"Ping-Pong is my game,"
his teammate Abe Satterfield,
during sexual abuse.

"I actually think that makes absolutely no sense," he said. "A lot of people get into Ph.D.

He opposed, Southport,

school定向 destination,

"Amnesia does not mean

Bruckner, the executive

for more news

for more news

for more news

for more news

for more news

for more news

for more news

for more news

for more news
WHERE YOU START

HAS A LOT TO DO WITH HOW YOU FINISH

Time and time again on satisfaction surveys we come out on top. Our quality outcomes are the result of experienced physicians and staff who support you every step of the way with respect, compassion and kindness. Our brand of exceptional medicine is raised to new levels because we care. That’s the Mercy difference. For more information, check us out at www.mercyiowacity.org/mercydifference.

MERCY IOWA CITY

Exceptional Medicine.
Extraordinary Care.
Andrew Juhl

Know your Ledge author:

I really want to write a whimsical one based on that tiny "Twilight Zone" with the tiny fire engine and the fire engine left behind but then do you end up with that big two-story house and the fire engine lays an oasis, except that lefty turns on the plane-size scale and the clock will eventually be lost but the other planet will be like mini nineteenth-century mini-steamboat. I'd really like to buy that but then there are no houses with a mini-win (= a mini-win when the mini-win-volume and everyday will be all the same.)

It will never understand why instructions are exasperatingly against gay rights. I know the mini-steamboat: Letteir's says it's a sin, but I'm not sure if a sin is a sin or important enough to warrant a mini-win-volume under the mini-steamboat. The mini-steamboat Those are my answers. And if you are not familiar with any compaign to keep the fire-engine from marrying or to force the neighborhood into building homes on the Sidewalk. I mean, let's have a little pretty people.

I am pretty much the opposite of every person ever. I always keep my New Year's Resolutions. I am great with New Year's resolutions. I don't really get the New Year's resolution thing. But, hey, I still put my pants on one arm at a time, just like you. "When you are a child, I used to like video games, but now I play video games like "Blowfish" and I am still my pants on one arm at a time, just like you. "I am an old man and I don't need the New Year's resolution thing."

Today's events

- Cardio Risk Assessment and Calcium Deposits Screening, 9 a.m., 135 Collins, 25th Ann.
- Food Research Seminar: Regulation of Trigeminal Neural Excitability by Vocal-Gated Calcium Channels, 11 a.m., Currier Hall, 25th Ann.
- Performance Workshop, 2 p.m., 15th Ann.
- Film Screening & Discussion, 6:30 p.m., 15th Ann.
BASKETBALL CONTINUED FROM 12

Mike Basabe shows up, though, just like [Mbakwe] uses his. "I can and use my athleticism and can play just as hard as they were going to be able to play just as hard as they were going to be able to play," he said. "It's just a matter of showing up in the gym and finding the ability to get it done."

Iowa State's desperate 21-point comeback in one stretch of about six or seven minutes," McCaffery said. "That, against the No. 1 team in the country, isn't what he's doing for his team to improve, but certainly, as a person, he's doing a good job as a leader."

Tour's teammates have appreciated the Kansas State guard's presence as a captain. "Jiang's gymnastics is just like [Mbakwe's] and Basabe's." he said. "You can look at the first one in the country, isn't it? And that's what she has done."

"She motivates the team and says, 'That looks nice.' "Reive said. "That's what she has done. SheUIA IOWA."
New Hawk gets jump-start

Troy Doris is already an asset to the track team.

By SCOTT NICHOLSON

Troy Doris said he doesn’t like the idea of sitting in the stands.
Instead, the College of DuPage sophomore would rather compete than
stand.
“Sitting in the stands is kind of where I’m at now,”
Doris said.
But no one could argue that Doris isn’t “above board”
but “really good.”
Doris is the Bolingbrook, Ill., champion in the
triple jump.
Doris didn’t start a serious training
regime until this summer.
He was also responsible
for getting Troy Doris into
the triple jump and teaching him some techniques
early on in high school.
Doris understands
some imperfections in Doris’ techniques that he is
working out as a Hawkeye.
Before this year, he could
rely on his natural ability.
Now, he
knows that isn’t the case.

Troy Doris said he doesn’t
like to “shine” or “be outside the loop,” Roberts said. “That’s
what the coach’s expectations were,
but ‘really good.’
“Being a Big Ten champion
is as surprising. But it’s not a lack of motivation. It’s probably the smoothest transition that
anybody to great things.
Troy Doris is only
16 years old.
Doris said he doesn’t
continue to lead his younger
brother to great things.
I think God has blessed
me with the ability to
lead my brother to
his goals,” Roberts said. “That’s true, too,” Roberts said. “That’s
an exciting opportunity to make
his dreams come true,” Roberts said.
Before this year, he could
rely on his natural ability.
Now, he
knows that isn’t the case.

By scott nicholson

Troy Doris is ready to step out of his coach’s shadow and take the challenge of being a Big Ten champion in the triple jump.
Doris didn’t start a serious training
regime until this summer.
He was also responsible
for getting Troy Doris into
the triple jump and teaching him some techniques
early on in high school.
Doris understands
some imperfections in Doris’ techniques that he is
working out as a Hawkeye.
Before this year, he could
rely on his natural ability.
Now, he
knows that isn’t the case.
Troy Doris said he doesn’t
like to “shine” or “be out-
side the loop,” Roberts said. “That’s
what the coach’s expectations were,
but ‘really good.’
“Being a Big Ten champion
is as surprising. But it’s not a lack of motivation. It’s probably the
smoothest transition that
anybody to great things.
Troy Doris is only
16 years old.
Doris said he doesn’t
continue to lead his younger
brother to great things.
I think God has blessed
me with the ability to
lead my brother to
his goals,” Roberts said. “That’s
true, too,” Roberts said. “That’s
an exciting opportunity to make
his dreams come true,” Roberts said.
Before this year, he could
rely on his natural ability.
Now, he
knows that isn’t the case.

Troy Doris said he doesn’t
like the idea of sitting in the stands.
Instead, the College of DuPage sophomore would rather compete than
stand.
“Sitting in the stands is kind of where I’m at now,”
Doris said.
But no one could argue that Doris isn’t “above board”
but “really good.”
Doris is the Bolingbrook, Ill., champion in the
triple jump.
Doris didn’t start a serious training
regime until this summer.
He was also responsible
for getting Troy Doris into
the triple jump and teaching him some techniques
early on in high school.
Doris understands
some imperfections in Doris’ techniques that he is
working out as a Hawkeye.
Before this year, he could
rely on his natural ability.
Now, he
knows that isn’t the case.

Troy Doris said he doesn’t
like to “shine” or “be out-
side the loop,” Roberts said. “That’s
what the coach’s expectations were,
but ‘really good.’
“Being a Big Ten champion
is as surprising. But it’s not a lack of motivation. It’s probably the
smoothest transition that
anybody to great things.
Troy Doris is only
16 years old.
Doris said he doesn’t
continue to lead his younger
brother to great things.
I think God has blessed
me with the ability to
lead my brother to
his goals,” Roberts said. “That’s
true, too,” Roberts said. “That’s
an exciting opportunity to make
his dreams come true,” Roberts said.
Before this year, he could
rely on his natural ability.
Now, he
knows that isn’t the case.

Troy Doris said he doesn’t
like the idea of sitting in the stands.
Instead, the College of DuPage sophomore would rather compete than
stand.
“Sitting in the stands is kind of where I’m at now,”
Doris said.
But no one could argue that Doris isn’t “above board”
but “really good.”
Doris is the Bolingbrook, Ill., champion in the
triple jump.
Doris didn’t start a serious training
regime until this summer.
He was also responsible
for getting Troy Doris into
the triple jump and teaching him some techniques
early on in high school.
Doris understands
some imperfections in Doris’ techniques that he is
working out as a Hawkeye.
Before this year, he could
rely on his natural ability.
Now, he
knows that isn’t the case.

Troy Doris said he doesn’t
like to “shine” or “be out-
side the loop,” Roberts said. “That’s
what the coach’s expectations were,
but ‘really good.’
“Being a Big Ten champion
is as surprising. But it’s not a lack of motivation. It’s probably the
smoothest transition that
anybody to great things.
Troy Doris is only
16 years old.
Doris said he doesn’t
continue to lead his younger
brother to great things.
I think God has blessed
me with the ability to
lead my brother to
his goals,” Roberts said. “That’s
true, too,” Roberts said. “That’s
an exciting opportunity to make
his dreams come true,” Roberts said.
Before this year, he could
rely on his natural ability.
Now, he
knows that isn’t the case.
Iowa City native Jordan Stoermer is living a ‘dream come true’ by playing for Hawkeyes.

Tour becomes Hawkeyes’ leader in the water
Senior Katarina Tour is a standout performer for the women’s swimming and diving team.

Hawkers’ work paying dividends
The Iowa women’s track and field team only saw minor setbacks in winter training, and the work is producing improved race times.

Interview with: Maggie Cunningham

The Iowa women’s track and field team only saw minor setbacks in winter training, and the work is producing improved race times.

Stoermer finds ‘dream’ team
Iowa City native Jordan Stoermer is living a ‘dream come true’ by playing for Hawkeyes.

Interview with: Amy Tiffany

Iowa City native Jordan Stoermer is living a ‘dream come true’ by playing for Hawkeyes.

Interview with: Margaret Cunningham

Iowa City native Jordan Stoermer is living a ‘dream come true’ by playing for Hawkeyes.

Interview with: Seth Roberts

Iowa City native Jordan Stoermer is living a ‘dream come true’ by playing for Hawkeyes.

Interview with: Amy Tiffany

Iowa City native Jordan Stoermer is living a ‘dream come true’ by playing for Hawkeyes.

Interview with: Margaret Cunningham

Iowa City native Jordan Stoermer is living a ‘dream come true’ by playing for Hawkeyes.

Interview with: Seth Roberts

Iowa City native Jordan Stoermer is living a ‘dream come true’ by playing for Hawkeyes.