Man charged with record tampering
A 22-year-old North Liberty man was arrested for supplying officers with different Social Security numbers on separate, unrelated arrests.

Cruz Martin-Campos, 247 B Holiday Lodge Road, was charged Sept. 19 with tampering with identity, identity fraud and possession of identity information.

Martin-Campos was arrested after an Iowa City police officer ran the Social Security numbers on his Permanent Alien Resident card. He was also employed under a different Social Security number, the complaint said. After investigation, officers found that neither of the Social Security numbers belonged to the man.

Campos may face incarceration and possible deportation if he is found to be an illegal immigrant. Officials could not confirm if a Campos is an illegal immigrant.

— by Matt Starnes

Student faces harassment, assault charges
A University of Iowa Student Government senator was charged Sept. 20 with first-degree harassment and assault while displaying a dangerous weapon after he allegedly threatened a friend with a knife.

Rishabh Nath, 20, was reportedly having a good time with friends in his apartment in the early morning hours of Sept. 20 when he allegedly began using a knife as a sword.

According to a complaint by Iowa City police, one of Nath's friends felt unsafe because of the display and locked himself in a bathroom. Nath then allegedly stabbed and beat upon the door of the bathroom.

The complaint said the victim then heard noises while hitting the floor, and he exited the room. Nath then allegedly threatened the victim, putting the knife against his throat and pressing him up against the bathroom sink, verbally threatening him.

The complaint said the victim feared for his life. First-degree harassment and assault while displaying a dangerous weapon are both aggravated misdemeanors.

— by Matt Starnes

Perry stops in Tiffin
Johnson County was the first of Perry's four stops in Iowa over the weekend.

By MELISSA DAWKINS

GOPO cousins hope that Rick Perry has repeatedly called for deregulation of business in prior job creation and he invested those calls over the weekend in Johnson County.

But some experts said such deregulation of government may not create jobs.

"It's not as simple as saying if you deregulate, then jobs will be created," said University of Iowa economics Professor Helmut Ingram. "Sometimes creating more regulations would produce more jobs and vice versa."

But during a Johnson County campaign stop, the Texas governor told the crowd less taxation, regulation, and litigation would be the key to job creation.

By ERIC MOORE

The dysfunctional characters on the cult television show "Arrested Development" can teach people about philosophy.

This is the concept behind University of Iowa graduate student Kris Phillips' book, "Arrested Development and Philosophy: They’ve made a Huge Mistake" that was released this month as part of a series relating philosophy to pop culture.

Executive Producer Mitch Hurwitz announced earlier this month that a new season and movie adaptation of "Arrested Development" would begin next year.

Phillips said the publisher had planned to release the book before Sunday's announcement was made.

"It’s been done for quite sometime... It

Arresting philosophy

The dysfunctional characters on the cult television show "Arrested Develop-ment" can teach people about philosophy. This is the concept behind University of Iowa graduate student Kris Phillips' book, "Arrested Development and Philosophy: They’ve made a Huge Mistake," which is set to hit bookshelves this December as part of a series relating philosophy to pop culture.

Executive Producer Mitch Hurwitz announced earlier this month that a new season and movie adaptation of "Arrested Development" would begin next year.

Phillips said the publisher had planned to release the book before Sunday's announcement was made.

"It’s been done for quite sometime... It

INDEX

Weather:

DAILY IOWAN TV
To watch Daily Iowan TV go online to dailyiowan.com

Arresting philosophy

The dysfunctional characters on the cult television show "Arrested Develop-ment" can teach people about philosophy. This is the concept behind University of Iowa graduate student Kris Phillips' book, "Arrested Development and Philosophy: They’ve made a Huge Mistake," which is set to hit bookshelves this December as part of a series relating philosophy to pop culture.

Executive Producer Mitch Hurwitz announced earlier this month that a new season and movie adaptation of "Arrested Development" would begin next year.

Phillips said the publisher had planned to release the book before Sunday's announcement was made.

"It’s been done for quite sometime... It
Focus on: David Heusinkveld

David Heusinkveld started out as a high school student in Altoona, Iowa, but the high school years were not kind to him. He was suspended from school and ended up being arrested for marijuana possession. He was then sent to a juvenile detention facility, where he spent time learning about the dangers of drugs and the importance of education. Heusinkveld eventually graduated from high school and went on to attend college, where he received a degree in business administration. Heusinkveld is now a successful businessman and entrepreneur, and he uses his story to inspire others to stay away from drugs and make good choices. Heusinkveld is also an active member of his community, volunteering his time and resources to help those in need. Heusinkveld's story is a testament to the power of education, hard work, and determination.
Arrested Development continued from 1A

was just lucky timing on our part," Phillips said. "It's sort of serendipiditous that it worked out this way. We sent it to get rejected, we wrote it as if the book was going to be released at the same time as the movie, adding when the show "looked like it wasn't going to happen," they decided "they might as well just put it out and see what happens."

Phillips said the book comprises writings by different students and professors of philosophy from all over the world. UI philosophy graduate student Brett Coppenger, for example, submitted one of the chapters, which focuses on the concept of the "Gettier Problem." Coppenger related this concept to the show. For example, at one point in the series, a character named Buster Bluth believes his uncle to be his father even though he is not. The scene demonstrates that because the belief Buster held was true does not cause his belief to be considered "knowledge."

Phillips said the ideas of philosophy relating to the show have an everyday impact. "It's actually more of an issue of seeing how important and how relevant philosophy is to the things that you enjoy on a daily basis," he said. "There are philosophical issues everywhere, they're constantly around you."

For more news, visit dailyiowan.com
Hayek has experience

Hayek, a native of downtown Iowa City, is no stranger to the civic arena. He was the 2004-05 president of the Iowa City Community Foundation, and his public service and volunteerism have benefited numerous local initiatives, including Iowa City Public Library, Iowa City Community Foundation, and the Iowa City Downtown District. Hayek is a leader who has been a key figure in many important civic matters, including economic development, public education, and public safety initiatives. His work has been widely recognized and he has received numerous awards and honors for his contributions.

Hayek cares, has served

I have personally known Hayek for a number of years, and I can attest to his dedication to the Iowa City Community Council. He is a leader who has been a key figure in many important civic matters, including economic development, public education, and public safety initiatives. His work has been widely recognized and he has received numerous awards and honors for his contributions.

Hayek knows Iowa City

Iowa City is a place where I was raised, and I have a deep love and commitment to this city. I have been involved in various civic and community affairs throughout my life, and I am committed to making Iowa City a better place to live.

Support Matt in his re-election campaign

Matt is a dedicated leader who has been a key contributor to the success of the Iowa City Community Council. He is a leader who has been a key figure in many important civic matters, including economic development, public education, and public safety initiatives. Matt is a leader who has been a key figure in many important civic matters, including economic development, public education, and public safety initiatives. Matt is a leader who has been a key figure in many important civic matters, including economic development, public education, and public safety initiatives. Matt is a leader who has been a key figure in many important civic matters, including economic development, public education, and public safety initiatives.
Occupy remains in 4th day

Occupy Iowa City protesters say they plan to stay indefinitely in College Green Park.

BLOTER

By MATT STARNS

As the fourth day begins in the “Occupy Iowa City” protest, the assembled masses have taken to the lawn off the north side of the Old Capitol. And though the group has released a specific demands for change in the Iowa City, demonstrations and the entities with whom their presence sends is unclear.

“Our financial system is not sustainable, starting to see the results of that in places like Detroit, it’s time to fall apart around us,” said University of Iowa alumna Carolyn Thoma, a participant in the Oct. 7 protests.

Protesters convened on College Green Park on Oct. 6 with assault.

Occupy Iowa City has a system a preliminary statement of

“I don’t want to prop up a system that way it’s been running,” said University of Iowa B.S. Jon Folman.

The Occupy protest began at 5 p.m., with a general assembly, a collective meeting of the group — at 7 p.m. in Iowa City, many in attendance of the group said they will sit with community organizers and agenda and demand a vote on a preliminary statement of intent.

The occupation is still underway and organizers say they will be indefinitely — for free, they said, have seen a lot of community support for their efforts. Protesters have received donations of food and supplies from 20 individuals, most of whom choose to remain anonymous.

The assembly also established 7 in solidarity with the Occupy Wall Street protest.

“I think a lot of people feel like we don’t have any way to deal with this, that this is the only way, that we are changing the game. I think this is turning into something like-minded people coming together and raising the spirit that we don’t want to prop up a system the way it’s been running.”

Nathan Ackland, 23, Coralville, MD., was charged Oct. 7 with public intoxication.

Ryan Brosens, 23, Burlington, IA., was charged Oct. 7 with public intoxication.

Brian Brown, 20, Wapello, IA., was charged Oct. 7 with public intoxication.

Kenna Chom, 28, Black Rock, AN., was charged Oct. 7 with public intoxication.

Tysson Cornell, 29, 1928 Iowan, Court, was charged Oct. 8 with public intoxication.

Chase Carter, 23, Coralville, IA., was charged Oct. 8 with public intoxication.

James Durocher, 23, Cedar Rapids, IA., was charged Sunday with disorderly conduct.

Sean Donlevy, 21, 405 Linn Ave. S.E., was charged Oct. 8 with public intoxication.

Tyler Jaspering, 21, 100 N. Clinton Drive, was charged Oct. 8 with public intoxication.

Matthew Starns, 23, Coralville, IA., was charged Oct. 8 with public intoxication.

Jon Folman, 20, Wapello, IA., was charged Oct. 8 with public intoxication.

Sean Donlevy, 21, 405 Linn Ave. S.E., was charged Oct. 8 with public intoxication.

By MATT STARNS

PERRY

continued

created and bolstering the economy.

Nathan Ackland, a B.S. student who understands that prosperity will be brought back to Iowa when we bring back our greatest economic advantage — freedom,” he said. “The Iowa County Republican’s bar in Tiffin.

Sean Donlevy would not only create jobs for the entirety will be brought back.

One of the people I’ve been seeing a lot of community support for their efforts. Protesters have received donations of food and supplies from 20 individuals, most of whom choose to remain anonymous.

We want support, not handouts, but I think that this whole thing is about a return to democracy, 21st-century style,” he said.

Perry said more jobs would be created by lowering corporate and income taxes, and concluded his speech with a vow he’s making to several audiences during his campaign.

“I promise you one other thing,” he said. “I’ll get up every day to make government more accountable than in recent years in our life and I can make it.”

Perry's message was well-received by those in attendance last week in Tiffin.

“Don’t you think about it — the most friendly states for business — they are states that have fewer taxes, less regulation,” said University of Iowa alumnus Tom Hickey. “And mostly, the Republican-governor-run states.”

Perry said more jobs would be created by lowering corporate and income taxes, and concluded his speech with a vow he’s making to several audiences during his campaign.

“I promise you one other thing,” he said. “I’ll get up every day to make government more accountable than in recent years in our life and I can make it.”

Perry's message was well-received by those in attendance last week in Tiffin.

“Don’t you think about it — the most friendly states for business — they are states that have fewer taxes, less regulation,” said University of Iowa alumnus Tom Hickey. “And mostly, the Republican-governor-run states.”

Perry said more jobs would be created by lowering corporate and income taxes, and concluded his speech with a vow he’s making to several audiences during his campaign.

“I promise you one other thing,” he said. “I’ll get up every day to make government more accountable than in recent years in our life and I can make it.”

Perry's message was well-received by those in attendance last week in Tiffin.

“Don’t you think about it — the most friendly states for business — they are states that have fewer taxes, less regulation,” said University of Iowa alumnus Tom Hickey. “And mostly, the Republican-governor-run states.”

Perry said more jobs would be created by lowering corporate and income taxes, and concluded his speech with a vow he’s making to several audiences during his campaign.

“I promise you one other thing,” he said. “I’ll get up every day to make government more accountable than in recent years in our life and I can make it.”

Perry's message was well-received by those in attendance last week in Tiffin.

“Don’t you think about it — the most friendly states for business — they are states that have fewer taxes, less regulation,” said University of Iowa alumnus Tom Hickey. “And mostly, the Republican-governor-run states.”

Perry said more jobs would be created by lowering corporate and income taxes, and concluded his speech with a vow he’s making to several audiences during his campaign.

“I promise you one other thing,” he said. “I’ll get up every day to make government more accountable than in recent years in our life and I can make it.”

Perry's message was well-received by those in attendance last week in Tiffin.

“Don’t you think about it — the most friendly states for business — they are states that have fewer taxes, less regulation,” said University of Iowa alumnus Tom Hickey. “And mostly, the Republican-governor-run states.”

Perry said more jobs would be created by lowering corporate and income taxes, and concluded his speech with a vow he’s making to several audiences during his campaign.

“I promise you one other thing,” he said. “I’ll get up every day to make government more accountable than in recent years in our life and I can make it.”

Perry's message was well-received by those in attendance last week in Tiffin.

“Don’t you think about it — the most friendly states for business — they are states that have fewer taxes, less regulation,” said University of Iowa alumnus Tom Hickey. “And mostly, the Republican-governor-run states.”

Perry said more jobs would be created by lowering corporate and income taxes, and concluded his speech with a vow he’s making to several audiences during his campaign.

“I promise you one other thing,” he said. “I’ll get up every day to make government more accountable than in recent years in our life and I can make it.”

Perry's message was well-received by those in attendance last week in Tiffin.

“Don’t you think about it — the most friendly states for business — they are states that have fewer taxes, less regulation,” said University of Iowa alumnus Tom Hickey. “And mostly, the Republican-governor-run states.”

Perry said more jobs would be created by lowering corporate and income taxes, and concluded his speech with a vow he’s making to several audiences during his campaign.

“I promise you one other thing,” he said. “I’ll get up every day to make government more accountable than in recent years in our life and I can make it.”

Perry's message was well-received by those in attendance last week in Tiffin.

“Don’t you think about it — the most friendly states for business — they are states that have fewer taxes, less regulation,” said University of Iowa alumnus Tom Hickey. “And mostly, the Republican-governor-run states.”

Perry said more jobs would be created by lowering corporate and income taxes, and concluded his speech with a vow he’s making to several audiences during his campaign.

“I promise you one other thing,” he said. “I’ll get up every day to make government more accountable than in recent years in our life and I can make it.”

Perry's message was well-received by those in attendance last week in Tiffin.
Unions fight for jobs

COGS members have fought for improved benefits for UI graduate students.

By AUDREY ROEN

Members of the Campaign to Organize Graduate Students and local union members marched last week in support of better graduate student compensation.

COGS leaders say fair job opportunities and guaranteed benefits remain an important cause and a continued fight for students.

“Whether you’re a graduate employee who can join COGS, a nurse who can join the Service Employees International Union, an administrative assistant who can join AFSCME, or a public-school teacher that can join the Iowa State Education Association, the solidarity of Iowa’s public employees to protect our rights has never been more necessary,” said Kari Thompson, the COGS president, in a recent DI guest opinion.

Thompson and roughly 50 others from COGS and local union workers gathered wielding signs bearing the slogan “This is What Democracy Looks Like” and chanting on the Pedestrian Mall Oct. 7.

Local union members also participated in the march, encouraging Iowa legislators to pass job-creation programs.

“What we do is bargain collectively for all workers to have a better standard of living,” said Jana Smith Carr, the executive coordinator of the Communications Workers of America. “We are here to try to show the community that we absolutely have to have jobs.”

And with the actions of numerous unions, students, and other groups organizing across the country, the stakes are high, said Rep. Mary Mascher, D-Iowa City.

“The stakes are all or nothing now,” she said. “They have to keep moving toward a collective goal and realize that if changes aren’t made, they will lose the battle and lose their rights.”

Protesters continued their march to the Iowa Avenue railroad bridge.

The group was also prompted by similar protests taking place that day, including the local “Occupy Iowa” movement.

Though COGS didn’t “formally endorse” the movement, Thompson said, the two organizations have similar principles — including more accessible health care and equal job opportunities.

“We all have one vote, and we are all one,” Thompson said.

Last year, COGS pressed to improve contractual agreements for University of Iowa graduate students that included increased salaries for teaching and research assistants and 100 percent coverage for tuition.

Audrey Altman, a UI grad student and COGS member, said it was her first time participating in a group demonstration.

“I wanted to help send out a public message (and) encourage people to march,” Altman said.

Smith Carr said the Communications Workers is a national union with approximately 700,000 members across the country in all different industries.

“What we know is that all of us cannot work against each other, we have to all work together,” Smith Carr said. “It’s going to take 99 percent of us to effect any change in the system.”

DI reporter Rhia Abshah contributed to this story.

LUCKILY THE GM COLLEGE DISCOUNT DOESN’T.

In fact, it’s the best college discount from any car company1 and can save you hundreds — even thousands — on an eligible, new Chevrolet/ Buick or GMC. If you’re in college, a grad program or even a recent grad...take advantage today and get a great deal on a new ride to call your own!
Penn St. D'smoters Iowa

Field hockey wins 2
No. 7 Iowa defeated Ohio State, 2-1, on Sunday in Athens, Ohio.

The win pushed the Hawkeyes to 10-3 overall. The Black and Gold will come home to host Indiana for their Big Ten game since a 31-0 loss to Illinois on Oct. 14, 2000. That was Kirk Ferentz’s second season as Iowa head coach, and the Hawkeyes finished 3-8.

Iowa’s offense showed an explosiveness for one quarter against Pittsburgh and for four quarters against Louisiana-Monroe that hypertensified imagination. For just a while, many thought they had these guys figured out. The Hawkeyes were a squad with an uncharacteristically high-powered passing attack. A squad that didn’t need to run or take on the defense’s line corps from an inexperienced defense, but shrewd on timely strops when necessary.

Then Oct. 8, and solids 1-3 loss at Penn State.

Quarterback James Vandenberg never found a solid rhythm. His armce — the team’s most consistent group this season — couldn’t catch a pass when he needed it most. Vandenberg took on Pen n State’s pass protection without understanding Penn State’s defensive pros.

So just good — or bad — are these Hawkeyes?

Iowa's offense offered an interesting perspective after the Hawkeye's 13-3 loss to Penn State in Beaver Stadium on Oct. 8. The pick, with 3:42 left in the game, effectively ended Iowa's chances for a comeback. (The Daily Iowan/Rob Johnson)

Mystery of the Hawks continues
Iowa isn't as bad as it looked against Penn State. But the Hawkeyes aren't as good as they looked in the five quarters prior to the loss, either.
Men swimmers happy with times

Fresh foams in black and gold

Freshman Becky Stoughton sets three pool records in her college debut.

By TORK MASON

It was a record-setting weekend for the women's swimming and diving team, all by Black team freshman Becky Stoughton. Her efforts on Friday weren't enough for her to set a pool record, but she did so in dominating fashion on Saturday. The Peoria, Ill., native set records in the 1,000, 500 and 200 freestyle and did so in dominating fashion.

In the 1,000 freestyle, she finished nearly a full lap ahead of fellow freshman Hillary Weigland. Her time of 9:59.02 was the fastest in school history and was also good for fourth place in the nation. A record-breaking time in the heat. In swimming, the center lanes are where the faster water is, and the "slow track" is on the outside. The performance was an unexpected confidence-booster, Stoughton said, but she still has improvements to make with her breathing.

While Stoughton stole the spotlight, she wasn't the only one to provide excitement for those in attendance. In the 200 medley relay, Black's Danielle Klunk had a near-record in the water at the start of the freestyle leg and won the race by just 0.32 seconds. Long said he was pleased Black took the ninth-place finish.

"There was a lot of enthusiasm — youthful enthusiasm — and good upperclassmen leadership," he said. "It's a fun start. Especially having one of the freshmen breaking three pool records right off the bat and even some of the top performances in Iowa history is encouraging." Long said the team still must work on its technique while it prepares for the championship season in February and March, but the performances in the meet were "by far" the best in a Black and Gold meet since she's been on the team.

"It was absolutely amazing on the Badgers this weekend," Long said. "It was an incredible time — people were going faster than they went at this point in the season last year by far," he said. "I think, collectively, we did outstanding. We're really looking forward to our first meet against Wisconsin."
FOOTBALL
CONTINUED FROM 1B

It's just little things that we have to clean up," he said. "Missed throws, missed assignments, dropped passes, all that stuff. We just took too much credit yesterday, starting with my play."

In the team's first two drives, yards looked as though they would be much scarier to come by Iowa gained 113 yards on 23 plays, churning up 10:51 of clock. The Hawkeyes ran 41 more plays during the game, tallying only 134 yards. They crossed into Penn State territory only once in the second half.

While Vandenberg and Company noted their poor execution, they also made sure to shine out plenty of praise for the Nittany Lions' defensive showing. McNutt said they simply "brought the intensity and made plays when they needed to." Penn State defense is allowing 250.8 yards a game, the fourth-best mark in the Football Bowl Subdivision.

"Iowa's offense isn't nearly as inept as the Nittany Lions' defense seems to believe," Ferentz said. "They're aggressive, they're a tough unit and they really make you earn it."

The challenge of facing a seemingly impenetrable Nittany Lions defense — a staple of the 45-plus seasons Joe Paterno's first season as Penn State head coach in 1966.

"They've been playing good defense among at least the last five," Ferentz said. "They're aggressive, they're a tough group, and they really make you earn it. That's exactly what we experienced today, and we're not good enough to finish some drives."
Ya can't win

The Hawkeyes entered Happy Valley on a three-game winning streak against Penn State, and it had won eight of the last nine meetings. In a physical Nittany Lion pass defense, combined with a mediocre showing by the normally high-powered Iowa offense, slammed the brakes on the streak. Penn State only scored one touchdown, but that was more than enough to win, 13-3.

Iowa's only points came on a second-quarter field goal from 23 yards out. The Hawkeyes accumulated 119 yards in their first two possessions but managed only 134 the rest of the game. James Vandenberg was picked off twice and sacked five times. Iowa’s defense couldn't stop Silas Redd and the rest of the Penn State running game from racking up 231 yards on the ground. The Black and Gold’s most productive player was punter Eric Guthrie.

Following the game, Penn State linebacker Glenn Carson — who had made headlines by calling Iowa a “wrestling school” — said the win provided a sense of retribution for Iowa’s past domination of the series.

Everyone in the back of his mind was thinking, “We’ve got to beat Iowa for the past couple of years. They really rained on our seasons,” he said. “It was a big game, not only for this season but for what they’ve done the past seasons to us.”

Penn State running back Dustin Koehne breaks through the Iowa defense in Beaver Stadium on Oct. 8. Iowa moved to 5-0 in the Big Ten and 6-1 overall.

Iowa wide receiver Kevonte Martin-Manley walks off the field after Penn State beat Iowa, 13-3, on Oct. 8 in Beaver Stadium. (The Daily Iowan/Rob Johnson)

Iowa State's leading rusher, Glenn Carson — who had nine meetings. But a physical Nittany Lion pass defense, combined with a mediocre showing by the normally high-powered Iowa offense, slammed the brakes on the streak. Penn State only scored one touchdown, but that was more than enough to win, 13-3.

Iowa’s only points came on a second-quarter field goal from 23 yards out. The Hawkeyes accumulated 119 yards in their first two possessions but managed only 134 the rest of the game. James Vandenberg was picked off twice and sacked five times. Iowa’s defense couldn’t stop Silas Redd and the rest of the Penn State running game from racking up 231 yards on the ground. The Black and Gold’s most productive player was punter Eric Guthrie.

Following the game, Penn State linebacker Glenn Carson — who had made headlines by calling Iowa a “wrestling school” — said the win provided a sense of retribution for Iowa’s past domination of the series.

Everyone in the back of his mind was thinking, “We’ve got to beat Iowa for the past couple of years. They really rained on our seasons,” he said. “It was a big game, not only for this season but for what they’ve done the past seasons to us.”

Penn State running back Dustin Koehne breaks through the Iowa defense in Beaver Stadium on Oct. 8. Iowa moved to 5-0 in the Big Ten and 6-1 overall.

Iowa wide receiver Kevonte Martin-Manley walks off the field after Penn State beat Iowa, 13-3, on Oct. 8 in Beaver Stadium. (The Daily Iowan/Rob Johnson)

The Hawkeyes entered Happy Valley on a three-game winning streak against Penn State, and it had won eight of the last nine meetings. In a physical Nittany Lion pass defense, combined with a mediocre showing by the normally high-powered Iowa offense, slammed the brakes on the streak. Penn State only scored one touchdown, but that was more than enough to win, 13-3.

Iowa’s only points came on a second-quarter field goal from 23 yards out. The Hawkeyes accumulated 119 yards in their first two possessions but managed only 134 the rest of the game. James Vandenberg was picked off twice and sacked five times. Iowa’s defense couldn’t stop Silas Redd and the rest of the Penn State running game from racking up 231 yards on the ground. The Black and Gold’s most productive player was punter Eric Guthrie.

Following the game, Penn State linebacker Glenn Carson — who had made headlines by calling Iowa a “wrestling school” — said the win provided a sense of retribution for Iowa’s past domination of the series.

Everyone in the back of his mind was thinking, “We’ve got to beat Iowa for the past couple of years. They really rained on our seasons,” he said. “It was a big game, not only for this season but for what they’ve done the past seasons to us.”

Penn State running back Dustin Koehne breaks through the Iowa defense in Beaver Stadium on Oct. 8. Iowa moved to 5-0 in the Big Ten and 6-1 overall.

Iowa wide receiver Kevonte Martin-Manley walks off the field after Penn State beat Iowa, 13-3, on Oct. 8 in Beaver Stadium. (The Daily Iowan/Rob Johnson)
Coach Joe Paterno has toyed with the idea of using two quarterbacks all season long, but McGloin emerged as the clear favorite to earn the permanent spot with a 12-for-19 performance. While the rushing game carried the Nittany Lion attack, McGloin threw for the only touchdown of the game — and all three of fellow quarterback Rob Bolden’s completions came after the ball was tipped in some fashion.

Recap

Penn State game ball Matt McGloin

Matt McGloin on untwist andrew.

Coach Joe Paterno has toyed with the idea of using two quarterbacks all season long, but McGloin emerged as the clear favorite to earn the permanent spot with a 12-for-19 performance. While the rushing game carried the Nittany Lion attack, McGloin threw for the only touchdown of the game — and all three of fellow quarterback Rob Bolden’s completions came after the ball was tipped in some fashion.

THUMBS UP

Eric Guthrie. The Hawkeye punter was called upon four times and averaged 39.5 yards per punt. Two of his boots went for 49 yards, and two of them landed inside the 20-yard line. None of them went for touchbacks.

THUMBS DOWN

The offense. James Vandenberg threw two interceptions, fumbled once, and was sacked five times — three of them coming in Iowa’s final drive of the game — to erase what would otherwise have been a nice day on the ground. Marcus Coker ran 18 times for 74 yards, about half as many as Penn State counterpart Silas Redd. Marvin McNutt was targeted seven times but only caught four passes.

Iowa will try to rectify its offensive issues by the time it takes the field against Northwestern on Saturday. The Wildcats have defeated the Hawkeyes in three-straight years, although they are 0-2 in Big Ten play this season. The Northwestern defense picked off Michigan quarterback Denard Robinson three times in the first half on Oct. 8 but didn’t show up after halftime and lost to the Wolverines, 42-24. The game was the second in a row that the Wildcats had coughed up large leads in the second half despite the best efforts of quarterback Dan Persa (42-for-58, 454 yards, four touchdowns in two conference starts this year).
V-ball notches Big Ten win

The Iowa volleyball team is pleased with its first Big Ten win and low number of hitting errors but disappointed in the number of service errors over the weekend.

BY MOLLY BILSE MILESTEAD

The Iowa volleyball team hit only 23 attack errors in eight weekend matches but committed 15 service errors.

"That's why we had a chance in the first and third set — we were low-error," assistant coach Jason Allen said. "We were making them play a lot of volleyball and got them on their heels a lot. I don't think they expected that, they were thinking we'd be a lot more high-error."

Sophomore outside hitter Rachel Bedell contributed heavily in Iowa's high-percentage太平洋. Bedell only played in the third set, but she dominated at the net with nine kills and one block.

"She became a go-to player when she came off the bench," setter Nikki Dailey said. "Lately, Rachel's been coming off the bench really strong, so I knew from the start she was prepared. Her first swing, she had high hand and scored, so I just knew I was going to her again and again until they stopped her."

Bedell said the team handled aggression being consistent at the net and lowering the number of hitting errors in each game.

"Our main point is if you just make a lot of low errors, it's harder for the team to come back," Bedell said. "We've been focusing on not giving away points to the other team. It's something we've been working on all season, as it was great to see it work on the court."

Although pleased with the few hitting errors and high-attack percentage, Dailey said she was disappointed with the number of service errors over the weekend. Iowa lost its final set to Purdue by 4 points but made nine errors while serving.

"In a set you lose by 4 and you error five times behind the service line on balls that you're really not going after that hard, that's pretty disappointing," said Allen, who works with the team on serving. "To be that class, we just couldn't build anything. We couldn't get any momentum because we couldn't keep the ball in play."

Dailey said the team needs to focus on its short game in order to make those improvements occur. "She said it's an area that will make a team consistent, even when the players are not hitting the ball well.

Junior Gigi DiGrazia and freshman Shelby Phillips have demonstrated the idea. Phillips ranks seventh nationally in average putts per round. DiGrazia is ranked 23rd in putting averages, 26th in up-and-downs, and 36th in three putts per green.

The Hawkeyes have third- and 12th-place finishes to their name at the midway point of the season, and DiGrazia said she and her teammates feel they have something to prove to their conference foes this season.

"We definitely want to compete in the Big Ten, and this is the pressure for what we'll see in the spring," DiGrazia said. "So we definitely want to go out and show the rest of the Big Ten what we're all about. It's a new team and a new year."

Junior Allison Straumann tries to save the ball in the third set against Purdue on Oct. 8. The Boilermakers won the match, 3-0. (The Daily Iowan/Toan Nguyen)
HELP WANTED

Thomas L. Cardella

MERCY IOWA CITY

ASSOCIATES

Bilingual Case Manager

Do you enjoy helping establish valued patients? Are you a customer service professional? Do you have the drive and commitment to help patients on a daily basis? If so, you may be a great candidate. We offer competitive benefits, great work environment, and an opportunity for advancement. This is a Full Time position. Applications can be submitted online at www.mercy.org. If you have questions contact Edith at (319) 335-5784.

HELP WANTED

Medical

Community Health Services is now hiring for a Full Time Medical Staff Assistant. Required: Customer service skills, typing, organized. Must have High School Diploma/GED or equivalent. This position requires multiple shifts and offers competitive pay. Apply online at www.mercy.org. Questions: contact Katie at 319-335-5784

HELP WANTED

Medical

Nurse Practitioner

We are adding a Nurse Practitioner to our sands team to provide patient care. Must be a graduate from an accredited program, have at least 1 year experience, and be fully licensed in the state of Iowa. For more information or to apply please call (319) 335-5784.

HELP WANTED

Medical

Physician Assistant

We are looking for a Physician Assistant to join our sands team. This is a Full Time position. Additional opportunities may be available in the future. Must be a graduate from an accredited program and be fully licensed in the state of Iowa. For more information or to apply please call (319) 335-5784.

HELP WANTED

Medical

OR Technician

Do you want a great opportunity to work in a fast-paced medical environment? The Operating Room (OR) is looking for an OR Technician to support our surgical team. This position requires a high level of patient care and technical skills. Must be a graduate of an accredited program and be fully licensed in the state of Iowa. For more information or to apply please call (319) 335-5784.

HELP WANTED

Medical

Pharmacy Technician

As a Pharmacy Technician, you will be a key member of the Pharmacy team in supporting the pharmacy department's medi- cal need. Must be a graduate of an accredited program and be fully licensed in the state of Iowa. For more information or to apply please call (319) 335-5784.

HELP WANTED

Medical

Phlebotomist

We are looking for an experienced Phlebotomist to join our team. Must be a graduate of an accredited program and be fully licensed in the state of Iowa. For more information or to apply please call (319) 335-5784.

HELP WANTED

Medical

Respiratory Therapist

Be part of a dynamic team serving patients. This is a Full Time position. Must be a graduate from an accredited program and be fully licensed in the state of Iowa. For more information or to apply please call (319) 335-5784.

HELP WANTED

Medical

Specialty RN

The Clinical Specialty RN coordinates patient care between the medical provider, nursing staff and patient. We are looking for a RN with a minimum of one year experience in a specialty area. Must be a graduate of an accredited program and be fully licensed in the state of Iowa. For more information or to apply please call (319) 335-5784.

HELP WANTED

Housekeeping & Dietary

Housekeeping

We are hiring a Full Time Housekeeping Assistant to work in a fast-paced environment. Must be able to work in a team setting and be responsible. Must be able to lift up to 50 lbs occasionally. Apply online at www.mercy.org. Questions: contact Denise at (319) 335-5784.

HELP WANTED

Housekeeping & Dietary

Dietary

We are hiring Full Time Dietary Aides to work in a fast-paced environment. Must be able to work in a team setting and be responsible. Must be able to lift up to 50 lbs occasionally. Apply online at www.mercy.org. Questions: contact Denise at (319) 335-5784.
Horoscopes Monday Oct. 10

Aries has a unique opportunity at work to fulfill a really good result. You may want to avoid any high public profile as you may want to be careful about being yourself to compromise your career. You need to work both sides of the equation. Now is the time to make a move.

Taurus is so the power through your control of your career. Avoid a falling out because the League has the ability to be a real weapon. A deal can be made.

Gemini feels that the part is in your nature to be a communicator that helps you to guide. Accept your own personal growth and learn something from your time spent. Someone you expect to hear from should. Cancer is not the time to put skills or information or anything that will help you in the future. Don't lose sight of what needs to be done. Avoid being to readily available to help even if it's a really good offer

Leo can consider that you may be looking for a new creative dream. Put together proposals, and present them to the right people.

Virgo has the opportunity to be creative to meet the demands of your job. Someone is looking for a more secure situation that can lead to worry. You need to pursue your own projects. Avoid impulse purchases or hasty decisions that can lead to a bigger picture.

Libra has another opportunity to see how might do you as you have to consider others. Someone you impress will make you an offer. Take a leap of faith.

Scorpio can consider that you may be looking for a new creative dream. Put together proposals, and present them to the right people.

Sagittarius has the opportunity to make some important decisions to really move forward. Someone you impress will make you an offer. Take a leap of faith.

Taurus has another opportunity at work to fulfilling a really good result. You may want to avoid any high public profile as you may want to be careful about being yourself to compromise your career. You need to work both sides of the equation. Now is the time to make a move.

Aquarius has the opportunity at work to fulfilling a really good result. You may want to avoid any high public profile as you may want to be careful about being yourself to compromise your career. You need to work both sides of the equation. Now is the time to make a move.

PISCES has another opportunity at work to fulfilling a really good result. You may want to avoid any high public profile as you may want to be careful about being yourself to compromise your career. You need to work both sides of the equation. Now is the time to make a move.

Sunday in the Park with Fights

by Scott Adams

THE NEW YORK TIMES CROSSWORD

From the Times, edited by Will Shortz

Submit an event to get there. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool. I don’t know if you are cool.