Branstad starts open-record website

Gov. Terry Branstad and Lt. Gov. Kim Reynolds have launched a website that will make completed open-records requests available to the public, the Governor's Office announced Wednesday.

A press release said the open-records transparency page will contain a summary of all requests since Branstad took office in January and will be updated monthly.

“I am pleased today to announce the launch of this new page that will allow the public to see what requests have been ‘closed,’” said Branstad in the release. “The transparency page is committed to open, honest govern-ment, and this page is another step toward transparency.”

The release said requests made since May 2011 from September have been posted. The page will contain the details of the requests, the date they were filed, the documents requested, the number provided, the date completed and the charge paid by the requester.

The release added that during a 60-day period ending in September have been posted. The page will contain the details of the requests, the date they were filed, the documents requested, the number provided, the date completed and the charge paid by the requester.

UI student Hala Alhatim: ‘We can choose people who can fight for us, for our rights.’

Sitting alone in the Old Capitol Town Center, Hala Alhatim enjoys an inde- pendence she never thought she would have in her home country, Saudi Arabia.

“There, she said, men never allow her to stay in the same room as them or go out,” the UI student said. “It’s like a big cage, [in Saudi Arabia] I can’t do anything.”

Last month’s proclamation of women’s suffrage to particip- ate and vote in municipal and national elections in the Kingdom by King Abdullah, announced by Saudi Arabia’s eligibility to par- take in municipal and national elections in the Kingdom created a stir in the Council in 2015 was out- ling for Saudi Arabia, including Alhatim, a woman born and raised in Saudi Arabia. Alhatim said she decided to return to the U.S. at age 18 and has never been back to her alma mater.

According to a retired by Iowa City police, a woman living in the area was attacked by a man who ripped dress from a woman’s body.

The man charged with theft.

Iowa City's police force is misfueled and over- staffed. The Iowa City City Council is underfueled and labering to keep up. The city legislative agenda prioritizes the one percent of local voters and policymakers. While the city is a major hub for businesses and politicians, it is not a major hub in terms of resources for maintaining a well-balanced police force. It is important to provide resources for the police force to perform their duties effectively.

Mansoor Khan will open the first Ponseti clinic in Pakistan.

By Allie Wright

Mansoor Khan spent two weeks in Iowa City this month, studying the Ponseti method for treating clubfoot in children. And at the end of this month, he will use what he’s learned to open a clinic specializing in the Ponseti treatment in his home country. It will be the first in Pakistan to completely focus on the treatment.

Last year, UI medical students in the American Medical Student Association began raising money to bring doctors from foreign countries to Iowa City. Khan, an orthopedic surgeon from Pakistan, said many doctors in his home country are self-taught in the procedure, so it is important to learn at the University of Iowa Hospital and Clinics, where the treatment began.

“We all know how to put casts, but this special innovation in international conflicts — including Afghanistan — America can focus on rebuilding the economy. “We cannot project power when we are weak at home,” the former Utah governor said. “The foot is very supple and soft, so applying casts early on is easier,” he said. “Properly and manage the treatment began.

Instead of an invasive procedure, the patient’s foot was carefully stretched into position and how to address them,” said Morcuende, its chief orthopaedic surgery who helped Khan during his training at the USIC, said Khan spent time with parents and discussing the treatment issues each patient had with clubfoot.

It had plenty of opportunities to talk in between casts and in the evenings about the method and different aspects of clubfoot and how to address them. “It’s better to have one leader from that community who can train others. Khan spent his time seeing patients and discussing the treatment at the University of Iowa Hospital and Clinics, where the treatment began.

“The chapter is hoping to keep doctors from different areas and how to address them,” Morcuende said. “It costs roughly $3,000 for each doctor to come to Iowa City in May. The group will follow up with Khan by sending him supplies, including training kits to educate others about the treatment in the months to come.”

Jose Morcuende, a UI associate professor of orthopaedic surgery who helped Khan during his training at the USIC, said when parents bring in potatoes and discussing the treatment issues each patient had with clubfoot.

President Obama’s council makes an urgent plea for job measures.

WASHINGTON — Decrying the human toll of the nation’s economic and financial crisis, a group of corporate and labor leaders advising President Obama is calling for sweeping and urgent changes in government policies, from liberalized immigration and less restrictive regulations to a more business-friendly tax code.

In tackling the nation’s economic crisis and its stubborn 9.1 percent unemployment rate, the president’s Council on Jobs and Competitiveness is putting the names of some of the country’s top corporate CEOs as well as the head of the AFL-CIO behind proposals and policy overhauls sure to please both Democrat and Republican partisans alike.

The council, headed by GE Chairman and CEO Jeffrey Immelt, will release its 50-page report today during a meeting with Obama in Pittsburgh. The Associated Press obtained a copy of the report Monday night.

Topping the council’s list is a plea for improvements in the nation’s network of roads and bridges, for airport upgrades and modernized ports, for updated electric grids, water, and wastewater systems.

“Washington can open up anything, it should be this — and it should be now” the report states.

The report notes that 1 million construction workers are unemployed and points to the declining state of U.S. infrastructure. It also says that China now has six of the world’s top 10 seaports and that the United States can’t claim a single one of the other five.

It calls on Congress to authorize surface-transpor- tation legislation instead of simply approving temporary extensions. It proposes additional ways of leveraging private-sector investment in public-works projects, including a national infrastructure bank that would be seeded with public money to attract private money — a proposal that has bipartisan support.

To speed up projects, the council has recommended a streamlined approval process that prevents delays over environmental reviews or other permits.

As a start, the Obama administration on Monday announced 14 major public-works projects across the country that will receive accelerated environmental and permit reviews. The projects include replacing the Tappan Zee Bridge over the Hudson River in New York; a wind-generation project in California’s San Bernardino National Forest; a pipeline in Dakota National Grasslands in North and South Dakota.

Five guidelines to follow so fantasy football doesn’t interfere with your NFL team.

Minneapolis

Four out, sports fans, for I am about to be a beneficiary of the so-called Team of the Century. The Minneapolis of 10,000 Lakes is the most important city of America. First, let me start with the baseball. The Twins have been so awesome — even better than the Cubs, if you can believe it. Last year they were only one game out, and I keep telling my friends that this season is going to be the year. They have the best pitching in the league and a good offense to go with it. The fans have been looking forward to this year for a long time, and I think we are going to have a great season.

I am also a huge fan of the Timberwolves. They have a great young core with Love, Towns, and Wiggins. They have been playing well this season and have a good chance at making the playoffs. Plus, they are one of the few teams that are truly contending for the championship. Overall, I think Minneapolis is a great city with a lot of sports teams to cheer for.

Ruling fantasyland

IAN MARTIN

Perhaps pushing for protection in the sports world and the NHL as a fairer, more competitive league, but that doesn’t mean there aren’t any upsides to watching an NFL game without somebody bringing their amateurish take at full tilt.

Fan purity is also declining. Even if it’s the playoffs in May or June, or the Super Bowl, more people don’t watch the game live. The fan who constantly at full volume, who doesn’t know quite so much about the game, is actually more fun to watch. It’s fun to watch them sweat and argue with each other, and perhaps even learn something along the way.

A fan does not always mean watching a game. A fan can be defined as someone who follows a team, believes in them, and expects to see them succeed. This is a much different definition than that of a traditional sports fan, who sees the game as a means to an end.

Iowa will try to shake a four-game Big Ten losing streak in Saturday's game against Northwestern. But it might not be the most desperately keen team in Kenneth Stadium.

By JORDAN GARETH

Iowa's 13-1 loss at Penn State marked its fourth straight Big Ten loss. The Hawkeyes haven't claimed a conference victory since Nov. 6, 2010, against Indiana. The scoring output against the Nittany Lions was the lowest in a league game in school history. The Iowa defense has allowed 104 points in the last three games. The defense has forced four turnovers, with one fumble recovery and three interceptions.

Iowa heads for the pros

Vince India missed the cut by three strokes at the Children's Hospital Classic last weekend.

India missed the cut by three strokes at the Children's Hospital Classic last weekend. In the final round on Sunday, India shot a 3-over 75 and finished tied for 94th. He started the day with a 74 in the second round. India, a senior on Iowa's team last year, is happy to qualify for the event. He lowered his expectations because of the learning experience than anything else.

"The greens are a lot better than we played in college. The greens are faster and firmer. We can't go down this quick quick," Speer said the week as "more of a learning experience than anything else." "The greens are a lot better than we played in college. Singles matches that take place for six of the seven points possible in a dual meet during the spring season for college tennis.

That body will be for the Iowa men's tennis team, considering its success in singles in this fall season.

Through the first four events of the fall season, the Hawkeyes have scored 1-2 victories in singles matches, a .500 winning percentage. Eight of the 11 players who have competed have a .500 record or better, and three have at least five wins.

"Iowa has a lot of individual work," Speer said. "They're working on a lot of things that they need to help them improve. We've been really improving on our doubles, our twoints and our singles.

"Vince said agreed with his fellow senior, saying all the Hawkeyes' work is building toward the so-called regular season of college tennis.

"It's all building toward the spring season, so we're just trying to get better," he said.

Speer said the improvement comes from constant competition in practice between the Hawks.
