Locals stay in shape despite heat

The Rec Center has seen an increase of roughly 9,000 visitors over last May’s numbers.

By JOE HITCHON

With the summer run at its hottest, students and locals flocked to the Campus Recreation & Wellness Center to beat the heat. “I exercise year-round here at the Wellness Center,” said Shannon Sole, a recent University of Iowa graduate. “Even though it’s hot out, coming here to exercise is a nice break from studying, and it’s nice and cool inside. I just have to be sure to drink more water and stay hydrated throughout the day.”

Kim Jamriska, the facility coordinator at parking Center, said this facility sees between 2,000 to 3,000 people each day during the summer.

“Members like to come and work out when it’s hot outside,” she said. “We especially see a lot of families and even camp guests come to use the indoor facilities.”

Council approves Towncrest project

City Council approved construction of a $5 million medical office building in the Towncrest Urban Renewal Area.

By ALY BROWN

The Iowa City city councilors said they hope to spur expansion in the Towncrest Urban Renewal Area after they approved the first major development in the district.

The City Council approved construction of a one-story medical office building Tuesday on a 6-1 vote. MKD Development LLC proposed a $5,450-square-foot facility that will offer three spaces for medical, office, or retail use, along with 80 parking spaces. The 152 William St. ACT building and Sinclair Gas Station at 211 Main Ave. will be demolished to make way for the roughly $5.1 million development.

Kevin Diggman, the MKD manager, said the project will help advance the area’s redevelopment.

“This project would be a great start to the city’s overall plan for redevelopment of the Towncrest area,” he said. Councilor Connie Champion said the project will provide critical investment in the urban-renewal plan.

“It is a major development, and it Group files ethics complaint against regent

The Iowa Citizens for Community Improvement filed an ethics complaint against Regent Bruce Rastetter on Tuesday for allegedly abusing his role as a regent.

David Gruder, the Iowa City organization for the group, said members gathered Tuesday morning for a meeting with Wayne Tucker, executive director of the Iowa Ethics and Campaign Disclosure Board. They discussed their concerns and took a copy of the complaint to the state capitol building.

“Members are clear that this complaint is not a reflection of the regent’s work here or滥用, but an ethical complaint against... Rastetter because he abused his role as a regent and public servant to seek a partnership between his company, AgriSol, and the University of Iowa — a report’s initiative — for a project in Texas that could have netted him millions of dollars in profit while forcibly evicting thousands of refugees from their homes and land,” the complaint states.

The Iowa Citizens for Community Improvement filed the complaint to the Iowa Ethics and Campaign Disclosure Board, which reviewed the complaint and terminated it from the Board of Regents.

Rastetter is the president and CEO of Summit Group and AgriSol Energy. The group alleges that Rastetter used his influence to improperly subsidize the business practices of Summit Group and AgriSol through Iowa State, according to the complaint.

The group also alleges that Rastetter filed a fraudulent personal financial disclosure statement with the intent or in order to hide his internal business relationships between Summit Group and AgriSol, the complaint states.

New cinema on downtown horizon

City Council approved construction for an art house cinema on the Pedestrian Mall.

By ALY BROWN

Downtown Iowa City will soon have an independent cinema showing new releases and old favorites on the silver screen.

FilmScene, an independent nonprofit organization in Iowa City, will be temporarily located at 118 E. College St., previously Vita’s bar. The Iowa City Council unanimously approved the proposal Tuesday night.

FilmScene cofounder Andy Brodie said the organization has received a great deal of positive feedback from the public.

FilmScene is committed to building a new community-focused and older independent film.

Jack Elias is the third candidate for the position of the dean of the University of Iowa College of Medicine.

By ERIC LIGHTNER

Jack Elias says education, research, and patient care will provide for a better University of Iowa College of Medicine.

We cannot achieve excellence in one area without achieving excellence in the other areas," he said. "We must be committed to the UI search committee to the four finalists to replace current dean Paul Biddison. Each candidate has answered or will answer the question: "What is your Vision for the Future of the UI Department of Internal Medicine?" "The vision is to have three equally important components," said Dr. Eric Lite, the dean of University of Iowa College of Medicine.

Falling into commas strives for more news.

"I think about joint ventures," said Dr. Eric Lite, the dean of University of Iowa College of Medicine. He spoke at the Iowa City Post Office under the Act of Congress of March 2, 1879.

in July 2011. Officials said they expect those numbers to continue to climb as more venues come online.

For UI teaching assistant Ben Morton, the weather has not had much of an effect on his exercise activities.

“I think it is a fantastic opportunity to jump-start development that we have been talking about for years,” he said.

The total estimated assessed value of the property will increase from roughly $886,000 to approximately $1.2 million, according to city documents.

In W.Hightshoe, the city’s community development planner, said the area is composed mostly of buildings built in the 1900s and 1910s. “It is developed, but they are mostly older buildings,” she said. “There has been a lack of reinvestment in the area.”

The theater will serve as the Iowa City Council approved Tuesday allowing FilmScene to temporarily occupy 118 E. College St. Tuesday allowing FilmScene to temporarily occupy 118 E. College St.

The last major development in the area was Walgreens drug store, Hightshoe said.

Planners are hoping to develop the area with a mix of facilities, including medical, commercial, retail, residential, and senior citizen housing.

“We are hoping it spurs more investment in the area,” Hightshoe said.

The proposal was approved on a 6-1 vote, with Councilor Tracy Hightshoe.

There are few existing movie theaters that would suit FilmScene’s long-term vision. “This interim space would likely operate for a few years and allow us to pursue the construction of a dedicated two-screen cinema,” he wrote in an email. The University of Iowa’s Bijou is the only art-house cinema in the city. The FilmScene columnists noted they are exploring collaborations with the cinema: “We hope to work with them and continue that tradition. We will broaden programming options and improve the movie-going experience,” Sherburne said.

Many residents, the city planners are hoping to offer space to a cinema because of the city’s interest. “Movie theaters appeal to everyone,” he said in an email. “All ages. All backgrounds.”

Iowa City residents said a movie theater was on the top of their list for downtown development, according to a 2007 market niche analysis of downtown.

An art-house movie theater was a specific response mentioned as a best opportunity for downtown. The theater will serve patrons food and drink, including alcoholic beverages and alcoholic beverages will not detract from the purpose of the cinema.

“Nobody is coming to FilmScene for the purpose of the bar,” Moore said. “People are attracted to an art-house theater, not a rowdy crowd.”

Alcohol will be served in a dedicated two-screen cinema. “It’s a great space,” he said. “It’s perfect.”

“I prefer exercising outdoors on hot days, he does completely discourage his patients from exercising outdoors on hot days, but he does emphasize the need for hydration.

“If you only exercise outdoors, it’s best to treat a hot, but dry kind of like a snow day and just stay in and ride it out,” he said.

Bradley said exercising in a climate-controlled environment will allow one to exercise longer and burn more calories.

“Exercising in extreme heat and humidity is just going to dehydrate you earlier,” he said.

Doug Beardsley, the director of the Johnson County Public Health Department, reiterated that mental health dangers can be avoided if people stay hydrated.

IUI student Thomas Bird, who relies on a bicycle to get around, said the only effect of the heat has been on him when he rides a little more slowly.

“I bike everywhere anyway, but I come here to lift weights,” he said. “The only change I’m in I’m not taking nearly as fast.”

College of Liberal Arts & Sciences, a great story to tell

As the dean of the College of Dentistry at the University of Iowa, I value

what professional schools

teach and I value the way they do it. We know that as a profession, we must remain relevant and we need to be able to attract students from a variety of backgrounds.

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences at the University of Iowa was founded in 1855 and has been a major force in the lives of students and faculty for over 150 years. Today, the College is home to nearly 20,000

students and 2,000 faculty members, and we are proud of the contributions that our students and faculty members

make to the Iowa community and beyond.

One of the key things about

the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences is that we offer a wide variety of programs that prepare students for a range of careers. Whether you are interested in pursuing a career in the arts, sciences,

or humanities, we have programs that will help you achieve your goals.

In addition, the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences

provides opportunities for students to engage in research and creative work, which is important for developing critical thinking skills and preparing students for future success. We are committed to providing students with a well-rounded education that prepares them for the challenges of the 21st century.

Let me know if you would like to learn more about the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences or if you have questions about our programs.

Thank you for your time and consideration.
