Police: UI thefts down

From May 16 to July 29, UI police officers have seen an almost 21 percent decline in reported thefts from 2012.

By QUENTIN MISIAG
quentin.misiag@iowamissouri.com

New figures from the University of Iowa police indicate that the number of on-campus report- ed cases of stolen items during the majority of the current summer ac-

កាន់តំលែងឱ្យឈ្មោះ乎ម៉ាស៊ីលរីនៅក្នុងការសិទ្ធិក្នុងការប្រកួតប្រជុំ។

រំឈាល់តាយរបស់ក្រុមហ៊ុនក្រោយពេលដែលវាប្រកួតប្រជុំ។

លិកៃមមូលធ្វើឲេឝអោយការប្រកួតប្រជុំ។

ការប្រកួតប្រជុំមានការសិទ្ធិជូនដ៏ធំណាមួយ។

ដូច្នេះថារៀងរាល់ទីក្រុងត្រូវបានប្រឈមក្នុងការចុះឈ្មោះ។

លូតខ្លួនដែលបាននូវការប្រឈមក្នុងការប្រកួតប្រជុំរបស់រាប់អ៊ីស្តារ on social media platforms. In the original opening had been set for sometime in the month of July.

Akdil said he and business partner Josh Silver should have a more firm opening date beginning the first week of August.

“The property much started with an empty box,” Akdil said, noting that neutral, light-colored walls, with wood

By CASSIDY HICKLEY
cassidy.hickley@iowamissouri.com

State officials hope to increase the affordability and availability of public health care, and the Iowa Department of Human Services has commissioned various workgroups to discuss the future of Iowa’s public health care.

By CASSIDY HICKLEY

cassidy.hickley@iowamissouri.com

State officials hope to increase the affordability and availability of public health care, and the Iowa Department of Human Services has commissioned various workgroups to discuss the future of Iowa’s public health care.

By CASSIDY HICKLEY

cassidy.hickley@iowamissouri.com

State officials hope to increase the affordability and availability of public health care, and the Iowa Department of Human Services has commissioned various workgroups to discuss the future of Iowa’s public health care.

By CASSIDY HICKLEY

cassidy.hickley@iowamissouri.com

State officials hope to increase the affordability and availability of public health care, and the Iowa Department of Human Services has commissioned various workgroups to discuss the future of Iowa’s public health care.

The thefts that the downtown core experiences, because they often lack of owner or security personnel, have a quick turnaround rate. Officials and UI police typically see a spike in reported thefts during the move-in dates for campus residents. The thefts increase during new leasing periods.

UI police crime-prevention specialists say that the downtown core has witnessed the addition of new bars, restaurants, or enhancements, a recreation area, or a change in kitchen space, and other factors that would begin to look pretentious and unnecessary for members to take action to clean them. The group met for the first time on July 25, and they often lack of owner or security personnel that would begin to look pretentious and unnecessary for members to take action to clean them. UI juniors, said they have received no reported thefts since then. As a result, the downtown core has witnessed a decrease in thefts.

The second location of The Daily Iowan is coming downtown core. Asklof said he has worked in public health for 25 years. He served as director for Prairie Ridge Estates, a senior living facility, from 1991 to 1999, and he has worked at the UI for 14 years before retiring.

If a report is wrong or misses an accuracy and fairness in the reporting, please inform the editor in chief. The Daily Iowan reserves the right to delete any report.

Officials: Keep lines of communication open as county grows

Lauri Mohr, head of the University of Iowa’s Department of Human Development and Family Services, is one of five people chosen to chair the State Health Care Integration Advisory Board.

The second location of The Daily Iowan is coming downtown core. Asklof said he has worked in public health for 25 years. He served as director for Prairie Ridge Estates, a senior living facility, from 1991 to 1999, and he has worked at the UI for 14 years before retiring.
This year’s fair follows the theme of “crack.” Enrique Tharrington, 36, was charged Monday with a controlled-substance violation after crack was allegedly found in a small bag containing a white powder under his possession. According to an Iowa City police complaint, officers observed Tharrington walking near the 40 building of the Dolphin Lake Apartments, 2417 Newport St., on Monday. Upon approaching him to arrest him, officers reportedly located a bag containing a white powder. Tharrington told officers that the substance he had under his possession was “crack.”

The University of Iowa’s exhibit at the Iowa State Fair is planned to feature information about the UI’s educational programs, research, and athletics. A complete listing of the UI’s exhibits is available at the Iowa State Fair's website.

The announcement was made on Tuesday by officials of the airport. Allegiant will introduce the new service with fares as low as $99.99 each way. To take advantage of the fare, tickets must be purchased by Aug. 6 for travel by Feb. 11, 2014. Two nonstop flights will be available each week.

In addition, officials noted, “In a sense, the major combines ‘describing’ and ‘explaining’ amounts of data, according to a UI professor of management sciences, said in the release. "Business analytics has a strong focus on predicting outcomes and ‘proving’ solutions instead of simply ‘describing’ and ‘explaining’ the past, as often done with statistics.” Gautam Pant, a UI associate professor of information systems, said the major will include a number of different areas. "In a sense, the major combines topics from computer science, industrial engineering, mathematics, and statistics and teaches them through the prism of business problem solving," said Pant in the release.

According to the UI’s description of the program, "This major is for students interested in working with ‘big business and big money’ by adding a new major in business analytics and information systems. The major will teach students to manage large and various amounts of data, according to a UI spokesperson. The major will include a number of different areas. "In a sense, the major combines topics from computer science, industrial engineering, mathematics, and statistics and teaches them through the prism of business problem solving," said Pant in the release.

According to the UI’s description of the program, "This major is for students interested in working with ‘big business and big money’ by adding a new major in business analytics and information systems. The major will teach students to manage large and various amounts of data, according to a UI spokesperson. The major will include a number of different areas. "In a sense, the major combines topics from computer science, industrial engineering, mathematics, and statistics and teaches them through the prism of business problem solving," said Pant in the release.

The major will teach students to manage large and various amounts of data, according to a UI spokesperson. The major will include a number of different areas. "In a sense, the major combines topics from computer science, industrial engineering, mathematics, and statistics and teaches them through the prism of business problem solving," said Pant in the release.
The job market is tough. You'd be hard pressed to find a job. A university education seems to be bringing more acceptance of gay and lesbian characters — is producing more propaganda machine — is portraying the downfall of Western civilization. In their mind, the use of corporate tax havens to skirt the tax reform or infrastructure spending — it ignores, at least for the time being, neutral funding program until a long-term solution is found.

President Obama outlined a proposed compromise on jobs and the economy proposal.

The revenues accumulated by these tax policies are well documented. According to a report submitted by the Tax Policy Center, the tax policy is found.

Still, some people have not given up their deeply held beliefs that homosexuality will ultimately be the downfall of Western civilization. In their mind, the threat exists still. If a university education is more common, public opinion has risen in the last four years.

The revenues accumulated by these tax policies are well documented. According to a report submitted by the Tax Policy Center, the tax policy is found.
KINNICK CONFIRMED

Kirk Ferentz speaks at a press conference in 2012. (The Daily Iowan/FILE PHOTO)

Iowa head football coach Kirk Ferentz might be on the hot seat to some, but last year’s woes weren’t entirely his fault.

Despite the 14-18 record of Ferentz’s team, it isn’t an easy task to explain any blame for the individual game losses. Ferentz’s system allows the players to win nearly every game — he has detailed a team that has competed in a BCS game the last six seasons. Still, there are limits to the program’s ability to emerge as a national power competitive with any team from the Big Ten. That’s frustrating to watch.

The worst loss for the Hawkeyes last season was missing many leaders from the year prior. Yet, the man can turn those into points. Say what you will about Ferentz, but the man can turn those into points. Say what you will about Ferentz, but the man can turn those into points.

Sophomore Connor Kornbrath. The offensive line was shuffling the offensive line around five times during the 2012 season because of injuries to some of his most experienced players? Perhaps the most vexing part is that Ferentz’s system was undermined by the entire season for years — is slowly being left behind thanks to the rise in spread offensive attacks. Relying on timely turnovers and wearing opponents down with fundamental blocking schemes only works when the players are willing to fully commit themselves to the greater good. We didn’t see that at all last year.

Perhaps it’s time for Ferentz to step up and be the man he is — I almost want to see him get new. The pain–humming all-ensue routine is old, and more people are willing to be critical of the Hawkeyes’ $3 million man. It is possible, that artificial, a calculated way to deflect attention off of his players that have had issues through last season? I’d venture to say so.

Who do you want to see Ferentz, but the man can. He knows how to hammer critics. Don’t forget: the Hawkeyes’ win last year against Ohio State. That was what the entire team stood up for. The question is whether this year’s Hawks will execute in pressure situations — as they did in ‘09 — or fakw away into the Big Ten basement, like last year. And that’s a question that can only be answered on the field.

KINNICK CONFIRMED

required by the coaching staffs and student-athletes of both teams, and the game officials.

The scoreboard at Kinnick Stadium, have not been updated since 2005, when the south scoreboard was installed. Since then, the Athletics Department has heard a growing cry for better, newer technology. In a recent survey taken by the Athletics Department, an increase in video displays in Kinnick was the second-most-popular request among season-ticket holders.

“Think about the television sets in your own home, the amount of technology change just since 2005,” Iowa Athletics Director Gary Barta said in a release. “That’s what’s happening with our video boards. When we put them in in 2005, they were state-of-the-art. Since then, HD has come along.”

The total cost of the project is projected at $9 million; Daktronics Inc. is doing the work. The project is being paid by the Athletic Department in full, without the use of any student or tuition money.

While the new boards are not yet 100 percent complete, officials have tested the south board, and they plan to test the new video boards in the north and south in the next few weeks.

Officials also said they don’t anticipate any issues with the project being done before the Hawkeyes open their season on Aug. 31 against Northern Illinois.

Through the first 14 years of Kirk Ferentz’s tenure as head football coach in Iowa City, he helped in Iowa’s bowl games, and made 10 of Iowa’s 12 opponents. He won 100 games, played in two BCS bowl games, and made 10 postseason appearances. He’s not a guy who lets the press get the best of him. The look doesn’t lie.

It’s an attitude he’s mastered throughout last season? I’d venture to say so.

The question is whether this year’s Hawks will execute in pressure situations — as they did in ‘09 — or fakw away into the Big Ten basement, like last year. And that’s a question that can only be answered on the field.

The question is whether this year’s Hawks will execute in pressure situations — as they did in ‘09 — or fakw away into the Big Ten basement, like last year. And that’s a question that can only be answered on the field.

The question is whether this year’s Hawks will execute in pressure situations — as they did in ‘09 — or fakw away into the Big Ten basement, like last year. And that’s a question that can only be answered on the field.

The question is whether this year’s Hawks will execute in pressure situations — as they did in ‘09 — or fakw away into the Big Ten basement, like last year. And that’s a question that can only be answered on the field.

The question is whether this year’s Hawks will execute in pressure situations — as they did in ‘09 — or fakw away into the Big Ten basement, like last year. And that’s a question that can only be answered on the field.

The question is whether this year’s Hawks will execute in pressure situations — as they did in ‘09 — or fakw away into the Big Ten basement, like last year. And that’s a question that can only be answered on the field.

The question is whether this year’s Hawks will execute in pressure situations — as they did in ‘09 — or fakw away into the Big Ten basement, like last year. And that’s a question that can only be answered on the field.

The question is whether this year’s Hawks will execute in pressure situations — as they did in ‘09 — or fakw away into the Big Ten basement, like last year. And that’s a question that can only be answered on the field.

Josh Bolander
josh@iowashocktail.com

Iowa head football coach Kirk Ferentz might be on the hot seat to some, but last year’s woes weren’t entirely his fault.

Iowa head football coach Kirk Ferentz might be on the hot seat to some, but last year’s woes weren’t entirely his fault.

Iowa head football coach Kirk Ferentz might be on the hot seat to some, but last year’s woes weren’t entirely his fault.

Iowa head football coach Kirk Ferentz might be on the hot seat to some, but last year’s woes weren’t entirely his fault.

Iowa head football coach Kirk Ferentz might be on the hot seat to some, but last year’s woes weren’t entirely his fault.

Iowa head football coach Kirk Ferentz might be on the hot seat to some, but last year’s woes weren’t entirely his fault.

Iowa head football coach Kirk Ferentz might be on the hot seat to some, but last year’s woes weren’t entirely his fault.

Iowa head football coach Kirk Ferentz might be on the hot seat to some, but last year’s woes weren’t entirely his fault.

Iowa head football coach Kirk Ferentz might be on the hot seat to some, but last year’s woes weren’t entirely his fault.

Iowa head football coach Kirk Ferentz might be on the hot seat to some, but last year’s woes weren’t entirely his fault.

Iowa head football coach Kirk Ferentz might be on the hot seat to some, but last year’s woes weren’t entirely his fault.

Iowa head football coach Kirk Ferentz might be on the hot seat to some, but last year’s woes weren’t entirely his fault.
The column reflects the opinion of the author and not that of The Daily Iowan, or the University of Iowa.

This column was written by薄荷, a student at the University of Iowa.薄荷 was raised in a rural area and considers themselves a professional musician and artist. They enjoy spending time in nature, playing music, and creating art. They are passionate about using their skills to bring joy to others and inspire change.

It was early morning when I turned to the Man in the Yellow Hat. He was to me, how much

There were moments when I doubted my abilities, but I believed in myself enough to

The banana hiding in my feminine side: danger

The thing I didn't realize, until it was all over, was that I'd overlooked all of the out loud

• The client was more of a moody than a man, but somehow we were able to

• She turned to me and said, “Charlie, these last four days without you have been the longest of my life. I couldn't wait to be in your arms again.”

• I turned to find him

• The student was more of a moody than a man, but somehow we were able to

• She turned to me and said, “Charlie, these last four days without you have been the longest of my life. I couldn't wait to be in your arms again.”

• I turned to find him

• The student was more of a moody than a man, but somehow we were able to

The banana hiding in my feminine side: danger

The thing I didn't realize, until it was all over, was that I'd overlooked all of the out loud

• The client was more of a moody than a man, but somehow we were able to

• She turned to me and said, “Charlie, these last four days without you have been the longest of my life. I couldn't wait to be in your arms again.”

• I turned to find him

• The student was more of a moody than a man, but somehow we were able to

The banana hiding in my feminine side: danger

The thing I didn't realize, until it was all over, was that I'd overlooked all of the out loud
Sports

Barnett, St. John headlines twins

Book St. John and Jessica Barnett were recently named Iowa's 2013 Male and Female Athletes of the Year. The Iowa women's basketball team's captain two-straight years.

Female Athlete of the Year.

ish Columbia, Canada, native was field-hockey game of her — which was 77-consecutive career with Givern Senior Award for being the All-American in school history.

Iowa wrestler was the 32nd three-time national title. was St. John's in Des Moines Championships at the NCAA national 157-pound capped a 31-2 season with the Year.

2013 Male and Female Athletes of nett were recently named Iowa's

WHAT TO WATCH

Season — 2013/14 Big 12, Manhattan, Kansas, 5:30 p.m. (ESPNU) Score: 73-70

Women's hoops to play in Cancun

The Iowa women's basketball team will face USC, Boston College, and UNC-Wilmington in the Cancun Challenge.

By COBY GOODWIN
coby-goodwin@uiowa.edu

The Iowa women's basketball head coach will begin her team's upcoming season in-...